Stormy Panama Demonstration Leaves Several People Injured

Loaded Ship Overturns; Hunt Crew

Houston-Based Craft Holding Ammunition

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—A ship loaded with obsolete but still dangerous military ammunition, overturned in the Gulf of Mexico, and searchers looked in vain Saturday for the 11 en aboard.

A plane found the hulk of the National Pride late Friday, but not until Saturday was it identified as the Houston-based craft.

Planes and ships which hurried to the area found debris scattered over a two-mile area.

But searchers found no sign of the two 30-man life rafts carried by the 135-foot motor ship.

Robert L. Lober, Houston representative of the National Boat Corp. of Houston which operated the ship, said Coast Guardsmen had found no evidence of an explosion.

IDENTIFY

He identified those aboard the ship as: Capt. Raymond S. Nowell, 50, Houston; Chief Mate J .A. Falch, Houston; Second Mate P. H. Brown, New Orleans; Chief Engineer J. J. Ocraman, Orange, Tex.; and crewmen T. F. Burnett, Galveston, Tex.; Walter Zane, Texas City, Tex.; H. C. Moon, Houston; W. E. Massenburg, 32, Houston; J. M. Gonzales, Galeston; Ray Coward, Corpus Christi, Tex.; and an Army private first class who acted as government inspector. His name was withheld by Lober.

Ages of some of those aboard were not available.

The ship became overdue Thursday and Lober asked for a Coast Guard search.

The ship had been used since September under Army contract to dump obsolete ammunition into the gulf. It carried 460 tons of 755 and 155-millimeter shells on its disastrous trip.

The ammunition came from San Jacinto Ordnance Depot here which the Army is deactivating to make way for industrial expansion along the 50-mile-long Houston Ship Channel.

Weather Bureau spokesmen in Houston joined the Coast Guard in saying high waves, strong winds, and an unbalanced cargo could cause such a ship as the National Pride to overturn.

Winds ranging from 30 to 37 miles an hour swept the gulf area Thursday night.

A Coast Guard spokesman said that "there was no evidence of an explosion."

Navy Tops Army; Bowl List Soars

By DON WEISS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Navy hammered favored Army 43-12 in a record scoring binge and Mississippi, Georgia, Georgia Tech and Clemson nailed major bowl berths Saturday in the last big college football program of the year.

Mississippi accented a Jan. 1 Sugar Bowl invitation for a rematch with Southeastern Conference Louisiana State after routing Mississippi State 42-0. Georgia and Georgia Tech each wound up in bowls after Georgia won their annual season-ending game, 21-14.

Georgia, the SEC champ ignored by the Sugar Bowl, will play Missouri of the Big Eight in the Orange Bowl at Miami, Jan. 1. Georgia Tech (6-4 after the loss) still got the nod opposite Arkansas co-champ of the Southwest Conference, in the Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla., Jan. 2.

The rapid-fire acceptances left only one major bowl berth open—the spot against Penn State in the new Liberty Bowl at Philadelphia Stadium Dec. 19. The Associated Press learned that Navy, despite a mediocre 5-4-1 record, had been invited after its spectacular performance against Army, a touchdown favorite.

Haley Advances Rocket Proposal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower was urged to issue immediate orders to prepare at least three or four more Atlas-Able rockets for launching toward the moon early next year.

The proposal was advanced by Andrew G. Haley Jr., general counsel for the Society. He said the alternative would be a year's delay in any new U. S. moon shot which would be "fatal to America's prestige."

Haley's statement came as a high official described as "naive" and "real stupid" America's previous efforts to compete with Russia in lunar exploration.

This official, who asked that his name not be used, said the 1,500-mile Thor and Jupiter missiles used in the first five U. S. moon shots did not have sufficient power for the project.

Traffic Toll Climbing At Steady Pace

Other Mishaps Also Add To Holiday Count

By ASSOCIATED PRESS
By Associated Press

Normal weekend traffic, plagued by scattered snow and ice from the Midwest to New England, pushed the Thanksgiving holiday death toll upward at a steady clip Saturday.

The toll mounted at the rate of four deaths an hour, maintaining a pace which started late Friday.

Traffic deaths were recorded at 295, with 34 dying in fires and 77 in miscellaneous mishaps, for a total of 406.

Bad driving weather — snow, sleet and patches of freezing drizzle — put travel on slippery footing from the Upper Mississippi Valley into northern New England.

Violent deaths were not limited to the highways, however. Three children burned to death near the western Kentucky town of Bardwell when flames destroyed their home. A home fire at Joliet, Ill., killed two small children, both under 2 years of age.

Algerian Rebels Gather Speed In Fighting French

ALGIERS (UPI) — Algerian rebels were reported Saturday to have stepped up the pace of fighting against the French in an apparent prelude to the imminent United Nations debate on Algeria.

French army sources said that 233 Algerian rebels had been killed or captured in the past 48 hours in a sharp increase of military activity.

The sources said 47 rebels were killed in a single battle waged along the border with Tunisia, which provides sanctuary for the nationalists in their five-year-old struggle for independence from France.

ACTIVITY

Observers here said the suddenly increased rebel activity was connected with the forthcoming debate on Algeria in the political committee of the U.N. General Assembly. They said it was designed to add emphasis to a rebel U.N. drive to push through a resolution backing Algerian independence.

The rebels also were believed stepping up their military pressure in an attempt to force President Charles De Gaulle to make some move toward political negotiations with insurgent leaders on Algeria's future.

De Gaulle has long held out a standing offer of safe-conduct for the rebel leaders to travel to Paris to discuss terms of a military ceasefire.

But the French president has refused firmly to negotiate on the political aspects of the eventual self - determination refererndum which he has promised Algeria in his peace plan.

The body of Katie Cohan was found by a son, John 38, who lived with her. She had been punched in the face, kicked and choked with a belt.

Police said Jasper King, 17, who formerly lived across the hall from the woman, told them he visited her early Saturday.

They quoted him as saying: "I had an impulse to punch her."

Many Asking Assist From Goodfellows

"I have four brothers and one sister. Two of my brothers are crippled. We aren't going to get anything for Christmas," writes a little boy to the Goodfellows Drive.

Contributions are vitally needed for the drive, if needy youngsters are to receive anything for Christmas.

Officials announced that contributions to the drive yesterday had moved up to $125. They pointed out that only the surface had been scratched in fulfilling the needs of many deserving people in the Twin Cities area.

WILL HELP

All money sent to Goodfellows, care of the News-Star—World, will go to help unfortunate people. The drive is being conducted on a "send-in contributions" basis only, and drive workers are working voluntarily, without salary.

Thousands of dollars are needed. "Please help us," the little boy asks for his brothers and sister.

He adds that his mother "just has enough to pay for our living expense."

A woman caring for her own seven youngsters and the orphan son of her deceased sister, asks, "please give the children something for Christmas, please."

"My husband doesn't get to work very much, just to get us something to eat," writes the mother of five small children.

Accidental Death Toll Soars To 8

The area's violent accidental death toll for the long Thanksgiving holiday weekend, yesterday had moved to tragic proportions, with eight persons listed as fatalities.

The latest two fatalities involved a Dubach youth, Larry Clark Rowland, 11, who was accidentally shot to death about 5:15 p.m. Friday, and an Oak Grove man, Warren Hardy Avey, 33, who was burned to death shortly before midnight Friday when his house was destroyed by fire.

Earlier, six persons had met death in area traffic accidents throughout the area. Two Goodpine, La., Negroes were killed Thursday about 6 p.m. when their car went out of control and smashed into a tree near Summerville. Dead were Lee Odis Washington, 19, and Howard Jackson, 22, who was driving.

FOUR DEATHS

Four white persons were killed in a head-on collision near Winnfield about 3:15 p.m. Friday. Dead were Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Phillips of Simsboro and two Winnfield brothers, Wayne and Tommy Masesey.

STATE PRIMARY PREDICTION

Casting Of Ballots To Smash Records

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Louisiana will cast more than 853,000 ballots in the Dec. 5 Democratic primary for governor, smashing all records, Secretary of State Wade Martin predicted Saturday.

The turnout of an estimated 77 per cent of the record 1,108,611 vote registration is based on past trends.

"My estimate," the state's chief election officer said in an interview, "is based on the percentage of votes cast out of the total registration in the last five gubernatorial races."

There seems to be a tendency toward wider interest in gubernatorial elections, Martin said, and consequently, wider voter participation.

The previous gubernatorial balloting mark was in 1956, with 819,709 first primary ballots, compared with 761,734 four years earlier and 643,905 in 1948.

Last minute events, such as the harvest of some crops, or uncertain weather, could limit the size of the vote. But based on past years, Martin said, "this seems unlikely."

Martin's prediction, with 11 candidates now entering the stretch drive for governor, struck a blow at any thought of public apathy.

"This year, because there is again interest in improvements in state government," Martin said, "and because there are a greater number of local candidates than ever before, I believe the vote will be at least 77 per cent of the

BOY, 13, WORKS CALMLY

Infant Girl Saved By Smart Brother

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (AP) — Kathy Russ is only eight months old. When she is older her family will tell her about Thanksgiving Day, 1959, the day she almost died. The resourcefulness of her brother, Matt, 13, saved her.

Kathy's father, Matt Russ Sr., told the story.

"It began with a cold," he said. "She wasn't feeling too well.

"Then she started twitching. I knew that was a symptom of convulsions coming on, so I called the doctor."

The convulsions began.

Mrs. Russ told her husband "She's gone. I think she's dead."

Russ took the infant.

"She was limp," he related. "Her skin was cold—like that of a corpse. She was turning blue. I couldn't find a pulse.

"I put her on the floor and started to give artificial respiration. I was using the old sytsem I knew, pumping air into the lungs by pressing on her body."

Matt Jr. came into the room.

"Let me do it, daddy," he said.

"Matt turned Kathy over and started breathing into her mouth," Russ said. "About the fifth time he did, Kathy started to breathe a little. He kept it up five minutes."

Kathy is recovering nicely.

Why did Matt Jr. take over?

"I just saw dad was using an old-fashioned method," he said, explaining he had read about mouth-to-mouth resuscitation in a Boy Scout magazine.

Tear Gas Fired Upon Rioting Mob

The Panamanian Guardsmen in many instances were backed up all the way into Canal Zone property under pressure from demonstrators. They fired tar gas and used their rifle butts in an attempt to restore order.

At least one Panamanian was sent to the hospital after being struck by a rifle, and two others were felled by tear gas.

Several of the U.S. Infantrymen mingling in the National Guard lines suffered slight injuries from rocks and derbis thrown by the mob.

Some demonstrators, mostly youths, managed to slip past the Guard lines to Roam up and down the wide street which marks the division between Panamanian and U.S. property. However the hasty construction of barbed wire barricades cut off the advance of a majority of the mob.

The barricades and the determination of the National Guardsmen appeared to deter th demonstrators from attempting any major assault on the Canal, such as in the anti-American riots of several weeks ago.

In view of the mounting trouble, the U.S. Army had taken over former control of the Canal Zone from civilian police at 5:45 p.m. However, American troops were being used only as an emergency reserve should the National Guardsmen fail to cope with the situation.

President Ernesto De La Guardia and other government leaders appealed for order as Panamanians streamed to demonstrations celebrating the 138th anniversary of freedom from Spanish rule in 1821.

It was the celebration of the 56th

Jury Convicts Third Man In Ark. Bombings

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—An all-white Circuit Court jury Saturday convicted E. A. Lauderdale Sr., of complicity in the dynamiting of the Little Rock School Board headquarters and recommended three years imprisonment.

In addition to the penitentiary sentence, the jury proposed a $500 fine for Lauderdale. Maximum punishment would have been five years in prison and the fine.

Lauderdale was the third man convicted in Little Rock's three integration-linked bombings on the night of Sept. 7. Explosives also

The body of Katie Cohan was found by a son, John 38, who lived with her. She had been punched in the face, kicked and choked with a belt.

Police said Jasper King, 17, who formerly lived across the hall from the woman, told them he visited her early Saturday.

They quoted him as saying: "I had an impulse to punch her."

Many Asking Assist From Goodfellows

"I have four brothers and one sister. Two of my brothers are crippled. We aren't going to get anything for Christmas," writes a little boy to the Goodfellows Drive.

Contributions are vitally needed for the drive, if needy youngsters are to receive anything for Christmas.

Officials announced that contributions to the drive yesterday had moved up to $125. They pointed out that only the surface had been scratched in fulfilling the needs of many deserving people in the Twin Cities area.

WILL HELP

All money sent to Goodfellows, care of the News-Star—World, will go to help unfortunate people. The drive is being conducted on a "send-in contributions" basis only, and drive workers are working voluntarily, without salary.

Thousands of dollars are needed. "Please help us," the little boy asks for his brothers and sister.

He adds ttat his mother "just has enough to pay for our living expense."

A woman caring for her own seven youngsters and the orphan son of her deceased sister, asks, "please give the children something for Christmas, please."

"My husband doesn't get to work very much, just to get us something to eat," writes the mother of five small children.

DURING HOLIDAY IN AREA

Accidental Death Toll Soars To 8

The area's violent accidental death toll for the long Thanksgiving holiday weekend, yesterday had moved to tragic proportions, with eight persons listed as fatalities.

The latest two fatalities involved a Dubach youth, Larry Clark Rowland, 11, who was accidentally shot to death about 5:15 p.m. Friday, and an Oak Grove man, Warren Hardy Ivey, 33, who was burned to death shortly before midnight Friday when his house was destroyed by fire.

Earlier, six persons had met death in area traffic accidents throughout the area. Two Goodpine, La., Negroes were killed Thursday about 6 p.m. when their car went out of control and smashed into a tree near Summerville. Dead were Lee Odis Washington, 19, and Howard Jackson, 22, who was driving.

FOUR DEATHS

Four white persons were killed in a head-on collision near Winnfield about 3:15 p.m. Friday. Dead were Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Phillips of Simsboro and two Winnfield brothers, Wayne and Tommy Masesey.

The Dubach youth, Larry Rowland, was hunting birds with an older brother Friday afternoon near their home when he was shot. Reports indicated that the brother's gun accidentally went off, hitting young Rowland and killing him instantly. Authorities said the case was termed accidental and no investigation was made. The boys were hunting

Solon Suggests Calling Romulo Home For Study

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Phil Weaver (R-Neb) suggested Saturday that the Philippines government call Ambassador Carlos P. Romulo home for a study of conditions in the island republic.

Weaver said that should be the first step by Philippine officials to "re-examine their entire relationship with our government and our American citizens."

Romulo retorted: "I was in the Philippines recently and I do not have to be told by fly-by-night visitors the conditions in my homeland."

Earlier this week, Weaver charged that members of the American armed forces in the Philippines have been victims of looting, extortion and assault.

INTERVIEW

Romulo in an interview Friday said U.S. representatives in the Philippines are responsible for a whispering campaign against the Philippine government.

Weaver declined to disclose the identity of the persons who gave

BOY, 13, WORKS CALMLY

Infant Girl Saved By Smart Brother

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (AP) — Kathy Russ is only eight months old. When she is older her family will tell her about Thanksgiving Day, 1959, the day she almost died. The resourcefulness of her brother, Matt, 13, saved her.

Kathy's father, Matt Russ Sr., told the story.

"It began with a cold," he said. "She wasn't feeling too well.

"Then she started twitching. I knew that was a symptom of convulsions coming on, so I called the doctor."

The convulsions began.

Russ took the in'ant.

"She was limp," he related. "Her skin was cold—like that of a corpse. She was turning blue. I couldn't find a pulse.

"I put her on the floor and started to give artificial respiration. I was using the old sytsem I knew, pumping air into the lungs by pressing on her body."

Matt Jr. came into the room.

"Let me do it, daddy," he said.

"Matt turned Kathy over and started breathing into her mouth," Russ said. "About the fifth time he did, Kathy started to breathe a little. He kept it up five minutes."

Kathy is recovering nicely.

Why did Matt Jr. take over?

"I just saw dad was using an old-fashioned method," he said, explaining he had read about mouth-to-mouth resuscitation in a Boy Scout magazine.

Tear Gas Fired Upon Rioting Mob

The Panamanian Guardsmen in many instances were backed up all the way into Canal Zone property under pressure from demonstrators. They fired tar gas and used their rifle butts in an attempt to restore order.

At least one Panamanian was sent to the hospital after being struck by a rifle, and two others were felled by tear gas.

Some demonstrators, mostly youths, managed to slip past the Guard lines to Roam up and down the wide street which marks the division between Panamanian and U.S. property. However the hasty construction of barbed wire barricades cut off the advance of a majority of the mob.

The barricades and the determination of the National Guardsmen appeared to deter th demonstrators from attempting any major assault on the Canal, such as in the anti-American riots of several weeks ago.

In view of the mounting trouble, the U.S. Army had taken over former control of the Canal Zone from civilian police at 5:45 p.m. However, American troops were being used only as an emergency reserve should the National Guardsmen fail to cope with the situation.

President Ernesto De La Guardia and other government leaders appealed for order as Panamanians streamed to demonstrations celebrating the 138th anniversary of freedom from Spanish rule in 1821.

It was the celebration of the 56th

Jury Convicts Third Man In Ark. Bombings

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—An all-white Circuit Court jury Saturday convicted E. A. Lauderdale Sr., of complicity in the dynamiting of the Little Rock School Board headquarters and recommended three years imprisonment.

Counsel for the 48-year-old segregationist leader, described by prosecution witnesses as the mastermind of an anti-integration plot, vowed to appeal.

The week-long trial ended after the jury of nine men and three women had deliberated an hour and a half. A verdict was brought in shortly after midnight.

THIRD

In addition to the penitentiary sentence, the jury proposed a $500 fine for Lauderdale. Maximum punishment would have been five years in prison and the fine.

Lauderdale was the third man convicted in Little Rock's three integration-linked bombings on the night of Sept. 7. Explosives also

Balloonists Drift Over Nebraska

RAPID CITY, S.D. (AP)—Two balloonists, aloft to study the planet Venus, drifted over Nebraska at nearly 80,000 feet late Saturday sealed in a goldola attached to a huge plastic balloon.

Veteran Navy balloon pilot Cmdr. Malcolm Ross and Charles B. Moore, Cambridge, Mass., scientist carried with them on the scheduled 24-hour flight a powerful telescope to view and photograph the planet's atmosphere from about 81,000 feet.

Navy tracking crews following the balloon said the trajectory apparently would carry the big plastic bag to the St. Louis, Mo. area. Earlier it was thought the balloon would land near LaFayette, Ind., but northerly winds altered the course.

Ross and Moore hoped for a clear look at Venus after sunrise Sunday when the "Morning Star" will be at its brightest.

Ross reported by radio that the 16-inch telescope mounted atop the ball-shaped gondola was not affected by condensation as the balloon rose through a layer of clouds. It had been feared that vapor might fog the instrument.

The balloon took off from the Strato Bowl launching site near here at 10:16 a.m. after ground crews worked three hours getting the bugs out of the gondolar's electrical system. Technicians had to cure some radio trouble and replace a blower in the oxygen system which had burned out. The flight, originally scheduled for Oct. 15, was delayed several times by bad weather.

The balloon rose out of the deep natural bowl in a very slight breeze. As it rose, stronger winds pushed it southward at nearly 70 m.p.h.

After five hours after the takeoff the balloon was reported 25 miles south of Chadron, Neb.

Explorers Find Ancient Grave Site

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Archaeologists from the University of Pennsylvania have found the 28-century-old grave of a Persian noblewoman and evidence of Persian agricultural life 6,000 years ago, it was announced Saturday.

The University museum director Dr. Forelich Rainey, said the findings were unearthed at the Iron Age city of Hasanlu, in what is now Iran. The university team was headed by Robert H. Dyson Jr., assistant curator of the Near East section of the museum.

Excavations at the site where Hasanlu golden bowl was found last year brought to light more than 30 graves from the ninth century before the birth of Christ. Hasanlu was destroyed by invaders sometime after 813 B.C., Dyson said. The graves were those of warriors, women and children. Each grave contained a pottery jar with a long spout, a storage jar and various personal ornaments.

The noblewoman was buried wearing fine bronze jewelry, including rings, pins, necklaces and earrings.

The city of Hasanlu was on the frontiers of three major powers of the time, Assyria, Media and Urtaru. The fortress-town, with walls over nine feet thick, is the first excavated site of the little-known kingdom of Mannai.

Armed Services Face Reductions

WASHINGTON (UPI) — When June 30, 1960, rolls around, the U.S. armed services probably will be smaller by about 13,000 men.

The Air Force already has begun a reduction expected to total about 8,009 by the end of this fiscal year. The Navy could lose about 5,000.

The cuts follow a pattern of steady cutbacks in military personnel since the Korean War ended. There are strong indications the trend will continue well into the future—barring some armed emergency.

The reductions will become necessary under the administration's new military budget, which has just been hammered into final form.

Although Congress won't get a look at these latest proposals until some time in January, the Air Force is going ahead with its reduction under the theory: "Since duction under the theory: "Since we have to do it, let's get it over with."

The whole military budget is subject to congressional approval. The Air Force already is operating somewhat below its authorized maximum strength, however, and the administration's recommended figure shouldn't run into any trouble.

The Army and the Marines apparently will not be affected by this latest round of cuts. But the administration is expected to recommend an Army reduction.

So far in his two terms, President Eisenhower has reduced the services by more than a million men. The big bite came after the Korean War ended. But technological advances and other factors also have figured in it.

When he resigned in September, former Assistant Defense Secretary Wilfred J. McNeil told reporters the military could lose 100,000 or more men within the next two to three years.

In a speech this month, Air Force Chief of Staff Gen. Thomas D. White predicted that adjustment of units and improvement of weapons could bring manpower reductions "up to a point." He foresaw extensive shifts in future military planning to adapt to new techniques,

There has been much crystal gazing in defense circles, now that the missile and the atomic weapon have come into their own.

The Army argues that manpower should be cut as little as possible—both from the standpoint of general readiness and the possibility of some day having to fight a limited war.

The President and most Air Force officials think more in terms of fewer units, more widely dispersed and equipped with latest weapons.

The current authorized strength of the armed services is 2,520,000 men—5,000 fewer than provided in the previus budget. The Army is slightly over its maximum, but the Air Force, Navy and Marines are under their ceilings, giving a total strength of 2,497,834 men.

The pay and allowances of these men comes to $11,600,000,000 — a big part of the $41,000,000,000 defense budget. Moreover, personnel costs are rising steadily.

The 100,000-man cut predicted by McNeil would amount to only 5 per cent of the current auhorized strength, but it would save a substantial amount of money.

At present, the Air Force is authorized to have 845,000 men, making it the largest of the services. It actually has in the neighborhood of 833,000, so that its recommended new quota of 825,000 will mean an actual loss of about 8,000.

The Navy hopes to avoid any cut, but it appears there will de about 5,800 fewer sailors by the time the full effect of the new budget are felt.

While this budget was under study, a Pentagon official came up with a statistic that demonstrates the size of figures with which these people have to wrestle:

"If we decided to spend five cents more a day for the meals of service men," he said, "it would cost us 45 million dollars."

Boys Suffocate In Alexandria Gravel Pit

ALEXANDRIA, La. (AP)—Two 15-year-old boys suffocated Saturday when a cave they were digging into at a gravel pit near here collapsed and covered them with stone and sand.

Two young girls who went with them to the pit were standing outside when the hole crumbled. They ran for aid.

Deputies attempted resuscitation, but were unable to save Ronald Monk, son of Clarence Monk of nearby Woodworth, and Murphy Roberts Jr., also of Woodworth.

Young Monk was pinned under a rock slab. The other boy was buried in the debris.

The cave was about 25-foot deep into the side of a gravel pit. It was wide enough to stand in the first six feet.

OF MARINE KIDNAPING

Embassy Gives Formal Protest

NEW DELHI (UPI)—The U. S. embassy Saturday night formally protested the kidnaping of a U. S. Marine in Bombay and told how he was dragged from a taxicab on the street by six Chinese Communists, tied by the neck and hands and beaten.

The protest to India against the "highhanded violation" of an American citizen's rights on the soil of a friendly nation coincided with reports that two Chinese thugs tried to steal coded American diplomatic telegrams from an Indian messenger for the Bombay U.S. Consulate. The attempt failed.

Friday morning as he was riding in a taxicab toward the Chinese consulate with a Chinese who changed his mind about defecting to the United States, "at least six" Chinese Communists surrounded the cab in front of the consulate and dragged Armstrong from it.

They pushed and pulled him toward the consulate compound gates, punching him in the ribs.

He was dragged into the compound garage and lashed by the hands and neck to a pillar. There, for several hours he was interrogate. One Chinese stood next to him with a club.

He was told if he screamed for help "you will get this" The club was waved in his face.

His person was searched twice. Later he was taken to an open area and photographed.

Police, alerted by an Indian postman delivering mail to the consulate, arrived 25 minutes after the sergeant was dragged in. But despite police demands for his release, the Chinese refused saying "They must complete their investigation."

Police could not force their way in since technically the consulate was Chinese Communist soil. Finally, after six hours of captivity, Armstrong was released to the police.

He suffered rope burns on the neck and back, but a hospital examination showed only superficial injuries.

The United States formally protested to India against the treatment of the American. There could be no direct protest to Red China since the United States does not recognize the Peiping regime.

A few hours after the protest was handed to Indian officials, reliable sources in Bombay said the Chinese Communists tried to seize diplomatic coded telegrams addressed to the American consulate in Bombay, which were being delivered by an Indian employe of the U. S. government.

The sources said the messenger, Anadan Andrew, was attacked by two husky Chinese thugs as he left the Bombay telegraph office. They seized him and demanded the telegrams.

Andrew broke away and fled. He leaped aboard a passing bus and escaped.

A spokesman at the Chinese consulate said the Armstrong incident had been referred to Peiping.

U.S. OFFICIALS DECLARE

Red China Seen As Great Menace

American sea, air and land power is still deployed to help guard Japan in the north from Soviet attack.

But Adm. Harry D. Felt, chief of the unified ground-sea-air command in the vast area, is keeping a sharp eye on Mao Tze-tung's Red armies, Soviet-made jet warplanes and a navy that includes more than a score of submarines.

The menace is to the whole group of nations along the Asian mailand, reaching from the Republic of Korea in the north deep down into Southeast Asia—to the neutral countries as well as those formally allied with the American defense effort.

Felt, in talking to newsmen at his Pearl Harbor headquarters, recently emphasized that the Red China threat takes many forms, political and economic as well as military.

This, as the world learned less than a decade ago in Korea, can be the land of the "little war." But it also could be the place where a little war flamed into global proportions. The Communist Chinese pressure on India's northern border and the previous seizure of Tibet are new samples of Mao's unrelenting probes.

"In Southeast Asia," says Felt, "the people now are thoroughly aware of the threat. They have their eyes open. They have seen what happened in Tibet."

What about Laos, the tiny nation neighboring Communist North Viet Nam and China?

"Laos is the key to the security of that (the Southeast Asia) area today," says the admiral.

The Communist activity in Laos has simmered down during a United Nations inquiry into Red interference, Felt thinks but "it could break out any minute." Laos asked for the U.N. inquiry after charging there was active participation by Communist North Viet Nam military personnel in Laos' rebel activities.

The investigation showed the rebels had received arms and supplies from North Viet Nam but there the U.N. probers said they found no evidence that Communist troops had invaded Laos.

Laos is not a member of any alliance with the United States. The United States has no formal military advisory mission, like those in several neighboring countries, in Laos. But it does have about 100 military and civilian personnel in a "program evaluation office" interested in the utilization of American economic and military aid money and equipment.

BERLIN (AP)—East Germans, suffering a severe butter shortage, were told by Communist leader Walter Ulbricht today that eating too much butter can harden their arteries.

"Even in countries which hardly use half as much butter as we do," Ulbricht wrote in the Communist party newspaper. "More and more doctors are saying that excessive use of butter is leading to arteriosclerosis (hardening of the arteries) and to serious circulatory diseases. Boys Admit Murder Of Elderly Man

HIGH POINT, N. C. (UPI) — Sheriff's deputies said today they will charge two teen-age orphans with first degree murder in the sniper shooting of a 77-year-old farmer.

Roger Dell Wilson, 15, and Billy L. Brown, 16, confessed shooting M. J. Hoover at his rural home near here Wednesday night and taking his wallet containing $350 deputies said.

Hoover, a farmer, died from a .22 caliber slug which struck him behind the left ear as he sat reading in an easy chair. Deputies said the youths admitted using an over-under .410-.22 rifle combination, and that Wilson propped the gun up on a tree limb and fired through a window.

Deputy Sheriff Herman Burrows said Brown broke down under questioning Friday after officers had found portions of a burned billfold near his home. Wilson later admitted his part in the murder, Burrows said, and led deputies to where $300 of the money was buried in a fruit jar in his backyard.

Burrows quoted the youths as saying they had been hunting with the shotgun-rifle combination and shot a boxer dog in the neighborhood before going to Hoover's house. The elderly farmer had a reputation for carrying substantial sums of money.

The deputy said Wilson went into the house after the money following the shooting because Brown "became sick" when he saw the body.

Officers at first believed the shooting was accidental and that Hoover was the victim of a stray bullet fired by a hunter.

However, relatives said Hoover always carried his wallet in the bib pocket of his overalls. The pocket was open and the wallet missing when a son discovered the body about 7 p.m. Wednesday.

Jr. Red Cross Cookie Project Completed Here

FROM BRUSH WITH DEATH

Cake And Candles On The Road Back

A surprise birthday party in a hospital room here Friday evening provided a happy ending to a story that had a very gloomy start about a month ago.

The party was held to honor a West Monroe man Parker Johnson, on his 41st birthday. Although he wasn't able to jump into all the festivities, Johnson still enjoyed the party from the hospital bed where his injuries kept him.

A month ago, he lay on the same bed, barely able to enjoy a thing so simple and gracious as breathing.

PINNED

On October 26, his truck crashed into a roadside embankment south of Monroe, pinning under its warped and twisted cab for about an hour and a half before emergency workers finally were able to free him.

The interior of the truck had to be pried apart so ambulance attendants could free Johnson and rush him to the hospital. He was pinned to the steering column, which was jammed into his side, chest and chin. The gearshift lever was bent and jammed back into the rear of the seat of the cab, and the engine was at a 35 degree angle from the rest of the truck cab.

At St. Francis hospital where he was taken for emergency treatment, attendants said Johnson was in critical condition, and indications gave him very little chance of survival.

AMAZED

Then, when improvement finally began to win out, it spread like wildfire, and hospital authorities were slightly amazed at Johnson's rapid recovery.

Within the next couple of weeks, he had completely hurdled all danger zones and was well on the road to complete recovery.

"He seemed to have his sights on at least one more birthday," commented his sister-in-law, Laverne Johnson.

Actually, the idea of a birthday was far from Johnson's mind. That is, until Friday morning when the hospital staff sent him a fat little round birthday cake, along with their best wishes.

"He wasn't able to show too much enthusiasm about it," his mother said, "but we could tell he enjoyed it." Everyone seemed to enjoy the occasion, including various nurses on the third floor, who dropped in to add to the festivities.

Johnson, though, seemed to enjoy the occasion more than anyone. After all, from deathbed to birthday party in one month is a trip of which anyone could be proud.

Youth's Body Found In Field

SOUTH ROXANA, Ill. (AP)— The body of 11-year-old Paul Dean White, missing since July 31, was found Saturday in a cornfield by three rabbit hunters. His skull was crushed and the body badly decomposed. Identification was made by clothing and shoes on the body.

The boy had been missing since his bicycle was found in a park where he had gone seeking work in setting up stands for a Dads Club carnival.

He was the object of a widespread search and the Roxana Dads Club put up a $1,000 award for information about his mysterious disappearance.

The body was found about 200 yards east of state Rt. 111 near a viaduct and about 1½ miles south of South Roxana. It was clad in faded blue dungarees, brown shoes with red soles and white socks. Paul Dean White was wearing the same clothes when he disappeared.

The boy was known as an industrious lad who, worked at many odd jobs but never stayed out at night alone.

The hunters who found the body were Harry Nelson, his son Robert, and Gene Woosley, all of nearby Wood River, Ill.

State investigators were called into the case to examine the body and the scene. The boy was the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. White.

FROM BRUSH WITH DEATH

Cake And Candles On The Road Back

A surprise birthday party in a hospital room here Friday evening provided a happy ending to a story that had a very gloomy start about a month ago.

The party was held to honor a West Monroe man Parker Johnson, on his 41st birthday. Although he wasn't able to jump into all the festivities, Johnson still enjoyed the party from the hospital bed where his injuries kept him.

A month ago, he lay on the same bed, barely able to enjoy a thing so simple and gracious as breathing.

PINNED

On October 26, his truck crashed into a roadside embankment south of Monroe, pinning under its warped and twisted cab for about an hour and a half before emergency workers finally were able to free him.

The interior of the truck had to be pried apart so ambulance attendants could free Johnson and rush him to the hospital. He was pinned to the steering column, which was jammed into his side, chest and chin. The gearshift lever was bent and jammed back into the rear of the seat of the cab, and the engine was at a 35 degree angle from the rest of the truck cab.

At St. Francis hospital where he was taken for emergency treatment, attendants said Johnson was in critical condition, and indications gave him very little chance of survival.

AMAZED

Then, when improvement finally began to win out, it spread like wildfire, and hospital authorities were slightly amazed at Johnson's rapid recovery.

Within the next couple of weeks, he had completely hurdled all danger zones and was well on the road to complete recovery.

"He seemed to have his sights on at least one more birthday," commented his sister-in-law, Laverne Johnson.

Actually, the idea of a birthday was far from Johnson's mind. That is, until Friday morning when the hospital staff sent him a fat little round birthday cake, along with their best wishes.

"He wasn't able to show too much enthusiasm about it," his mother said, "but we could tell he enjoyed it." Everyone seemed to enjoy the occasion, including various nurses on the third floor, who dropped in to add to the festivities.

Johnson, though, seemed to enjoy the occasion more than anyone. After all, from deathbed to birthday party in one month is a trip of which anyone could be proud.

Youth's Body Found In Field

SOUTH ROXANA, Ill. (AP)— The body of 11-year-old Paul Dean White, missing since July 31, was found Saturday in a cornfield by three rabbit hunters. His skull was crushed and the body badly decomposed. Identification was made by clothing and shoes on the body.

The boy had been missing since his bicycle was found in a park where he had gone seeking work in setting up stands for a Dads Club carnival.

He was the object of a widespread search and the Roxana Dads Club put up a $1,000 award for information about his mysterious disappearance.

The body was found about 200 yards east of state Rt. 111 near a viaduct and about 1½ miles south of South Roxana. It was clad in faded blue dungarees, brown shoes with red soles and white socks. Paul Dean White was wearing the same clothes when he disappeared.

The boy was known as an industrious lad who, worked at many odd jobs but never stayed out at night alone.

The hunters who found the body were Harry Nelson, his son Robert, and Gene Woosley, all of nearby Wood River, Ill.

State investigators were called into the case to examine the body and the scene. The boy was the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. White.

Bridal standards of white gladioli and chrysanthemums used with greenery and clematis formed the background for the marriage of Miss Camille Clark and Kenneth Earl Newsom Friday evening. Dr. H. R. Herrington officiated at the double ring ceremony in the First Baptist Church in Rayville.

Mrs. Albert Carlton Clark, Jr., of Rayville, is the mother of the bride, and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Gussie Newsom, also of Rayville.

The tapered cathedral candles were lighted by Howard McMahon and Gary Smith during the prenuptial concert by Miss Mary Jo Ellington, organist. Miss Betty Miller sang "Because", "The Sweetest Story Ever Told", and "The Lord's Prayer," at the conclusion of the service.

Serving as maid of honor was Miss Mary Ann Jarmon of Bossier City. Her dress was styled with a turquoise velveteen bodice and matching taffeta skirt made princess style with a Watteau back effect. Her headdress was of turquoise tulle over matching bands of velveteen. She carried a sheaf of golden wheat tied with gold lame ribbons.

Mrs. Don C. Francis of Knoxville, Tennessee, cousin of the bride, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Max Livingston, Miss Harriette Haley and Miss Jan McCarthy of Rayville; Mrs. Gary Smith of Baton Rouge, Miss Harriet Smith of Monroe, and Mrs. Gary Bonner of Ft. Worth, Texas. All were dressed identically to the maid of honor.

Junior bridesmaids, who were dressed as the other attendants, were Miss Susan Clark, sister of the bride, and Miss Elizabeth Ann McConnell.

Billy Newsom served his brother as best man. Groomsmen were David McCarty, Howard McMahon, Marion Ratcliff, and Max Livingston of Rayville, Erwin Maxwell of Winnsboro, Gary Smith and A. M. McConnell. Jr., of Baton Rouge.

The bride entered on the arm of her cousin, Massey Keener McConnell, who gave her in marriage. Her gown, fashioned of peau de soie by her mother and Mrs. Homer Norris, featured a lace-silhouetted shoulder line, moulded bodice, and waterfall panniers sweeping into a cathedral train. The skirt was paneled with pearl dewed appliqued sprays of Alencon re-embroidered lace. Her finger-tip veil of illusion cascaded from a headpiece of the same fabric as the dress with matching pearl-encrusted lace. Her bouquet was a crescent of miniature French Fuji mums entwined with ivy and ropes of pearls.

RECEPTION

The church parlor was the scene of the reception immediately following the ceremony. White gladioli, white chrysanthemums, and fern were used to decorate the room. A memory candle and a white Bible were placed on the table where Mrs. E. L. Landrum presided at the bride's book.

The bride's table was overlaid with a white linen cut-work cloth and centered with a bride figurine surrounded with white mums and smilax. The tiered wedding cake, ornamented with lilies of the valley and a miniature rose arrangement, was served by Mrs. Homer Norris. Mrs. W. L. Haley and Mrs. William Gaines alternated at the silver punch bowl at the other end of the table.

When the young couple left on their wedding trip to South Louisiana, the bride was wearing a fur-trimmed loden green wool suit with a feather hat and brown lizard shoes and bag. She wore the corsage from her wedding bouquet. Mr. and Mrs. Newsom will make their home in Rayville.

ON GOOD-WILL TOUR

Eisenhower Will Make 30 Addresses In Public

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower will speak in public about 30 times, including several major speeches in India, during his trail-blazing goodwill tour beginning this week across Western Europe, the Middle East, South Asia, and North Africa.

Eisenhower's appearance in India at the far point of his journey is expected by diplomats here to constitute a new demonstration of American moral, political and economic support for Indian democracy in its conflict with Chinese Communism. Many diplomats believe this may be the most important single achievement of Eisenhower's 11-country mission.

Some new details of the President's travel plans were announced by the White House Saturday, along with the report that he will make about 30 statements during the journey. Many of these will be arrival and departure statements or brief formal comments in connection with official ceremonies.

Major addresses on U.S. foreign policy as it applies to new nations struggling to establish themselves in freedom and to raise their living standards are expected when the President opens the U.S. exhibit at the World Agricultural Fair in New Delhi Dec. 11 and when he appears before the Indian Parliament. Aides said he is also expected to speak at a civic reception and upon receiving a university degree.

U.S. ambassadors in the countries Eisenhower will visit have been instructed to explain to their host governments that the President considers his journey strictly a good-will mission and does not plan to initiate discussion of any specific problems. However, with retiring Undersecretary of State Robert B. Murphy as his chief political adviser, he will be prepared to discuss any issues raised by his hosts.

Eisenhower will spend five days in and around New Delhi, Dec. 9-14, and the schedule calls for several private talks with Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru.

Nehru told a news conference recently that he expects India's border dispute with Red China to come up along with many other problems. Just recently the reported manhandling of a U.S. Marine sergeant by Chinese Communists in Bombay has put an added strain on relations between India and Red China.

The U.S. position on the border dispute has been one of strong moral support for India in its resistance to the use of force by Communist China.

At the same time, Eisenhower is said to have deep respect for Nehru's desire to stick to his neutrality policy as between the Western and Communist power blocs and to handle by himself the threat to India's security posed by the Red Chinese border pressures.

Nevertheless, it is understood that if the Chinese pressures force India into new military expenditures which endanger its five-year economic development plan, the United States will seriously consider increasing its aid to India. During the past decade the United States has granted or lent India a total of about two billion dollars. This is now the largest single-country program in the foreign aid operation.

The White House announced that the President, traveling by jet plane, will leave on his 22,370-mile trip at 8 p. m. EST next Thursday. This is 2½ hours earlier than previously planned.

After a refueling stop at Goose Bay, Labrador, the chief executive will land at Rome for his first visit about 1 p. m., Dec. 4. The precise times were announced Saturday. The itinerary had previously been released.

The trip will be the longest single journey ever undertaken by an American President. It will be the first time a U. S. president has visited Greece, Turkey, Pakistan, Afghanistan, India and Spain.

Eisenhower will fly from New Delhi to Tehran, Iran, thence to Athens on his way to Paris and the Western summit meeting Dec. 19-21. Between Greece and France he will travel aboard the cruiser Des Moines. In the course of the sea voyage he will land at Tunis Dec. 17 for a conference with President Habib Bourguiba of Tunisia, considered a staunch friend of the West among the leaders of Africa. The earlier program had called for the two men to meet on the cruiser.

Another possible change is that on his scheduled stop in Morocco to see King Mohammed V he may land at Casablanca instead of Rabat.

One of the aspects of the trip which has impressed diplomats here is that Eisenhower will spend about as much time with leaders of countries which are not U. S. allies as with leaders of countries which are allied. This is certain to be considered as a shift in emphasis of U. S. policy, contrasting sharply with the days when the late Secretary of State John Foster Dulles denounced neutrality between communism and Western democracy as immoral.

Eisenhower's first stop at Rome will be for a conference with Allied leaders and so will his second in Ankara, Turkey. In Karachi, Pakistan, he will talk with men who are virtual allies in the Middle East anti-Communist alliance with which the United States is closely associated.

But at Kabul, Afghanistan, and in New Delhi, as well as in Tunisia and Morocco, the President will confer with men who, like Nehru, have identified themselves for years with an opposition to hard military alignments, however much their political dedication may lie with Western forms and institutions.

Detective Says Poison Try Planned

SEATTLE, Wash (UPI)—Chief Detective Vic Kramer said today that arsenic found mixed in coffee in an employes' lunchroom at the county-city building here was a "cold-blooded attempt at mass poisoning."

The arsenic was found after eight staff members of the City Planning Commission became ill last Monday. The results of police laboratory tests disclosed Friday that they had drunk coffee laced with the poison.

A search of the lunchroom on the eighth floor of the building disclosed arsenic in a two-pound tin of drip-grind coffee and more arsenic in a jar of instant coffee.

"This was no accident," Kramer said. "It was deliberate."

The room is used by employes for coffee breaks and during the noon hour for those who pack lunches. Planning Commission and Engineering Department staff members are the chief users, but other employes also have access to the room.

John D. Spaeth, city planning director, said eight of his staff members became sick after the morning coffee break Monday. Three days earlier, several of his employes noticed a different can of coffee next to the one they ordinarily used. They put a note on it saying it did not belong to the Planning Commission.

When the coffee break came Monday, the regular can was gone and the other was in its place in a drawer. The eight used the strange can. They immediately noticed the metallic bitterness in its taste and a few minutes later were seized with cramps, nausea and headaches.

Duke Snider led the Los Angeles Dodgers in hitting during the National League season with .308. Wally Moon was next with .302.

Presbytery Condemns Gambling

RENO, Nev. (AP)—The Presbytery of Nevada Saturday condemned Nevada's legalized gambling, and said that was its answer to a qualified endorsement from Bishop Robert Dwyer, head of the Reno diocese of Roman Catholics.

The Presbytery, composed of clergy and laity elders of 18 churches throughout Nevada and nearby California communities, opposed gambling for the first time officially.

Its resolution denounced gambling as the worship of a false goddess, Lady Luck, and a means of replenishing the coffers of operators who are engaged in immoral activities.

"We felt we should state our position on gambling in view of Bishop Dwyer's statement," one clergyman said. "We would like it known that not all Christians in Nevada agree."

An Associated Press story from New Orleans last month quoted the bishop as telling an interviewer gambling can be as legitimate a recreation as horse racing.

"It's not gambling but what seems to follow that's sinful," said the head of Nevada's Catholics.

He criticized what he called a hidden element of unfavorable side effects.

But the Presbytery, in a resolution passed at a regular quarterly meeting, declared that gambling itself is sinful.

Its resolution cited gambling as a denial of man's stewardship of property, "a trust from God which may be morally acquired only by gift.

"Breaking of the Tenth Commandment 'thou shalt not covet' by attempting to acquire property without paying the price.

"Worship of the false goddess, Lady Luck, resulting in the exploitation of the many for the benefit of a few.

"Temptation to addiction, the disease of trying to get something for nothing.

"Replenishing the coffers of operators who are engaged in immoral and antisocial activities in Nevada and throughout the nation."

Russ Getting View Of Vote In Magazine

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Russian voters, who have no choice but to vote for the Communist Party, are reading today that the American voter is king and is wooed and sought after by a wide range of candidates.

The latest issue of the Russian-language monthly magazine, "America," has a series of features on the U. S. election system—how candidates are chosen, how campaigns are conducted, and how the public votes.

The articles are an obvious attempt to let Russian citizens contrast their own elections with those in the United States as preparations are made here for the campaigns and elections in 1960.

The magazine, a publication of the U. S. Information Agency, has a circulation of 50,000 in 80 different Soviet cities. Non-government sources estimated up to 50 persons read each copy—a total of 2,500,000.

Heavy emphasis in the main article is placed on the part the American political party plays in the election system. Author Richard M. Scammon, of the Governmental Affairs Institute, writes:

"Most of the confusion of overseas observers comes from an effort to identify American parties with political parties in their own countries, and this cannot be done.

"For the American party system is a product of American federalism, the primary system of party nominations and the prevalance of personalism in political life."

The Russians are told that the major task of the party is organizing the campaign rather than the statement of party doctrine. In the campaign, it is said, the party and candidate must "persuade the voter of the rightness of the candidate's policies and the value of supporting him at the polls."

The article also points up the U.S. voter's habit of splitting the ticket. "Many Americans find no difficulty in voting for a Republican for President, a Democrat for senator from their state, another Republican for representative, and a Democrat for mayor of their home town. If the voter doesn't like any of the regular candidates, he can 'write-in' anyone else he fancies."

Other points emphasized in the articles are the secrecy of the balloting, freedom to vote or not to vote, and the freedom to vote for any of a number of candidates.

Under the free election system, the magazine says, "no man or group can remain in office against the desires of the voters. As President Eisenhower has said, 'the right to vote, to make a secret and independent political decision, is the ultimate guarantee of liberty.'"

The magazine also includes several charts showing the composition by parties of Congress since 1924, the popular vote for president since 1924 and a sample ballot.

Set 'Walkyrie' Staging For Shreveporters

Margaret Harshaw, leading Wagnerian opera soprano, will sing the role of Bruennhilde in the tomorrow's presentation of "Die Walkuere" in Shreveport, it was announced today.

The production will be a joint effort of the Shreveport Civic Opera Association and the Houston Grand Opera Association. Peter Paul Fuchs, head of the LSU opero workshop, is staging the work. Jerome Hines, Philadelphia - born star of the Metropolitan Opera Co. will also star in the Shreveport performance.

The opera — one of the four works comprising Wagner's "Ring of the Nibelungs" — has already had two performnces in Houston. The ticket office is now open in the Shreveport Municipal auditorium.

The entire cast, settings and costume wardrobe will be brought to Shreveport as well as the 90-piece Houston Symphony Orchestra under the baton of Walter Herbert.

Besides the two leading roles named above, the cast will include Howard Vandenburg, Miklos Bencze, Frances Yeend, Barbara Schwalbe and Shreveport's Dorothy Jean Scales in the role of Schwerteleite.

Bill Skowron, Yankee first baseman who suffered a broken wrist in mid-season, will be an instructor next winter at the Kissimmee, Fla., baseball school.

ON GOOD-WILL TOUR

Eisenhower Will Make 30 Addresses In Public

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower will speak in public about 30 times, including several major speeches in India, during his trail-blazing goodwill tour beginning this week across Western Europe, the Middle East, South Asia, and North Africa.

Eisenhower's appearance in India at the far point of his journey is expected by diplomats here to constitute a new demonstration of American moral, political and economic support for Indian democracy in its conflict with Chinese Communism. Many diplomats believe this may be the most important single achievement of Eisenhower's 11-country mission.

Some new details of the President's travel plans were announced by the White House Saturday, along with the report that he will make about 30 statements during the journey. Many of these will be arrival and departure statements or brief formal comments in connection with official ceremonies.

Major addresses on U.S. foreign policy as it applies to new nations struggling to establish themselves in freedom and to raise their living standards are expected when the President opens the U.S. exhibit at the World Agricultural Fair in New Delhi Dec. 11 and when he appears before the Indian Parliament. Aides said he is also expected to speak at a civic reception and upon receiving a university degree.

U.S. ambassadors in the countries Eisenhower will visit have been instructed to explain to their host governments that the President considers his journey strictly a good-will mission and does not plan to initiate discussion of any specific problems. However, with retiring Undersecretary of State Robert B. Murphy as his chief political adviser, he will be prepared to discuss any issues raised by his hosts.

Eisenhower will spend five days in and around New Delhi, Dec. 9-14, and the schedule calls for several private talks with Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru.

Nehru told a news conference recently that he expects India's border dispute with Red China to come up along with many other problems. Just recently the reported manhandling of a U.S. Marine sergeant by Chinese Communists in Bombay has put an added strain on relations between India and Red China.

The U.S. position on the border dispute has been one of strong moral support for India in its resistance to the use of force by Communist China.

At the same time, Eisenhower is said to have deep respect for Nehru's desire to stick to his neutrality policy as between the Western and Communist power blocs and to handle by himself the threat to India's security posed by the Red Chinese border pressures.

Nevertheless, it is understood that if the Chinese pressures force India into new military expenditures which endanger its five-year economic development plan, the United States will seriously consider increasing its aid to India. During the past decade the United States has granted or lent India a total of about two billion dollars. This is now the largest single-country program in the foreign aid operation.

The White House announced that the President, traveling by jet plane, will leave on his 22,370-mile trip at 8 p. m. EST next Thursday. This is 2½ hours earlier than previously planned.

After a refueling stop at Goose Bay, Labrador, the chief executive will land at Rome for his first visit about 1 p. m., Dec. 4. The precise times were announced Saturday. The itinerary had previously been released.

The trip will be the longest single journey ever undertaken by an American President. It will be the first time a U. S. president has visited Greece, Turkey, Pakistan, Afghanistan, India and Spain.

Eisenhower will fly from New Delhi to Tehran, Iran, thence to Athens on his way to Paris and the Western summit meeting Dec. 19-21. Between Greece and France he will travel aboard the cruiser Des Moines. In the course of the sea voyage he will land at Tunis Dec. 17 for a conference with President Habib Bourguiba of Tunisia, considered a staunch friend of the West among the leaders of Africa. The earlier program had called for the two men to meet on the cruiser.

Another possible change is that on his scheduled stop in Morocco to see King Mohammed V he may land at Casablanca instead of Rabat.

One of the aspects of the trip which has impressed diplomats here is that Eisenhower will spend about as much time with leaders of countries which are not U. S. allies as with leaders of countries which are allied. This is certain to be considered as a shift in emphasis of U. S. policy, contrasting sharply with the days when the late Secretary of State John Foster Dulles denounced neutrality between communism and Western democracy as immoral.

Eisenhower's first stop at Rome will be for a conference with Allied leaders and so will his second in Ankara, Turkey. In Karachi, Pakistan, he will talk with men who are virtual allies in the Middle East anti-Communist alliance with which the United States is closely associated.

But at Kabul, Afghanistan, and in New Delhi, as well as in Tunisia and Morocco, the President will confer with men who, like Nehru, have identified themselves for years with an opposition to hard military alignments, however much their political dedication may lie with Western forms and institutions.

Detective Says Poison Try Planned

SEATTLE, Wash (UPI)—Chief Detective Vic Kramer said today that arsenic found mixed in coffee in an employes' lunchroom at the county-city building here was a "cold-blooded attempt at mass poisoning."

The arsenic was found after eight staff members of the City Planning Commission became ill last Monday. The results of police laboratory tests disclosed Friday that they had drunk coffee laced with the poison.

A search of the lunchroom on the eighth floor of the building disclosed arsenic in a two-pound tin of drip-grind coffee and more arsenic in a jar of instant coffee.

"This was no accident," Kramer said. "It was deliberate."

The room is used by employes for coffee breaks and during the noon hour for those who pack lunches. Planning Commission and Engineering Department staff members are the chief users, but other employes also have access to the room.

John D. Spaeth, city planning director, said eight of his staff members became sick after the morning coffee break Monday. Three days earlier, several of his employes noticed a different can of coffee next to the one they ordinarily used. They put a note on it saying it did not belong to the Planning Commission.

When the coffee break came Monday, the regular can was gone and the other was in its place in a drawer. The eight used the strange can. They immediately noticed the metallic bitterness in its taste and a few minutes later were seized with cramps, nausea and headaches.

The regular can of coffee was later found hidden behind some supplies.

Duke Snider led the Los Angeles Dodgers in hitting during the National League season with .308. Wally Moon was next with .302.

Soviet Union Reported As Killing Ban

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Soviet Union was reported Saturday to have dropped its last-minute demand for an inflexible ban on nuclear exposions in Antarctica, thus clearing the way for a precedent-making treaty for the southernmost continent.

The treaty would: 1. permit free scientific use of Antarctica, 2. freeze existing territorial claims there, and 3. set up an inspection system to see that its provisions are not violated.

The agreement may be viewed as another hopeful sign in the cold war thaw, since it could establish a pattern of cooperation between East and West.

The new Soviet position, well-informed circles said here, was given at a meeting of heads of delegations of the 12 nations which have spent more than six weeks in drafting the carefully detailed treaty.

The U.S.S.R. indicated it would accept, subject to certain minor modificatons, the text of an article on nuclear explosions supported by the other 11 delegations.

This provides for a temporary ban on nuclear explosions or disposal of atomic wastes in Antarctica, pending the drafting of an international treaty to which all 12 nations would have to agree. If there is a dissenter among the 12, the temporary ban would continue indefinitely.

At one time the Soviet Union had approved this proposal, but earlier this week they shifted their position and requested an outright ban. The other 11 nations held firm, and the Russians apparently dropped the demand.

Present plans now call for the full conference to meet Monday afternoon, with a closing plenary session and signing of the draft treaty to come Tuesday, the sources said.

The various governments still would have to give final approval to the treaty. A further meeting will be held in Canberra, Australia.

Nations which have participated in the six weeks of talks here are Argentina, Australia, Belgium, Chile, France, Japan, New Zealand, Norway, South Africa, the Soviet Union, the United Kingdom and the United States.

The call for the conference was made by President Eisenhower on May 3, 1958. He noted that the United States "is dedicated to the principle that the vast uninhabited wastes of Antarctica shall be only for peaceful purposes."

"We propose," he said, "That Antarctica shall be open to all nations to conduct scientific or other peaceful activities there."

Flood Warnings Are Issued In New England

BOSTON (AP)—Flood warnings for many of New England's smaller streams and brooks were given Saturday as 24-hour drenching rains saturated the six-state area.

Clearing and cooler weather forecast was expected to ease the flood situation. Unseasonably warm air brought record high temperatures in some places the past two days.

The storm dumped from 1 to 3 inches of rain over the northern sections.

"Since the ground is saturated from heavy rains that fell earlier in the week, there will be large amounts of runoff," the Weather Bureau said.

Western Massachusetts, Vermont, and northern and central parts of New Hampshire and Maine are expected to bear the brunt of the flooding.

The Plymouth area in central New Hampshire, hard hit by floods a month ago, again was the center of the flood threat. Plymouth is located at the junction of the Pemigewasset and Baker Rivers —both expected to overflow their banks.

Several highways, including one in the scenic Crawford Notch area, were closed by high water.

Springfield, Mass., last led the Eastern League in baseball attendance for the last three years.

This provides for a temporary ban on nuclear explosions or disposal of atomic wastes in Antarctica, pending the drafting of an international treaty to which all 12 nations would have to agree. If there is a dissenter among the 12, the temporary ban would continue indefinitely.

At one time the Soviet Union had approved this proposal, but earlier this week they shifted their position and requested an outright ban. The other 11 nations held firm, and the Russians apparently dropped the demand.

Present plans now call for the full conference to meet Monday afternoon, with a closing plenary session and signing of the draft treaty to come Tuesday, the sources said.

The various governments still would have to give final approval to the treaty. A further meeting will be held in Canberra, Australia.

Nations which have participated in the six weeks of talks here are Argentina, Australia, Belgium, Chile, France, Japan, New Zealand, Norway, South Africa, the Soviet Union, the United Kingdom and the United States.

The call for the conference was made by President Eisenhower on May 3, 1958. He noted that the United States "is dedicated to the principle that the vast uninhabited wastes of Antarctica shall be only for peaceful purposes."

"We propose," he said, "That Antarctica shall be open to all nations to conduct scientific or other peaceful activities there."

Flood Warnings Are Issued In New England

BOSTON (AP)—Flood warnings for many of New England's smaller streams and brooks were given Saturday as 24-hour drenching rains saturated the six-state area.

Clearing and cooler weather forecast was expected to ease the flood situation. Unseasonably warm air brought record high temperatures in some places the past two days.

The storm dumped from 1 to 3 inches of rain over the northern sections.

"Since the ground is saturated from heavy rains that fell earlier in the week, there will be large amounts of runoff," the Weather Bureau said.

Western Massachusetts, Vermont, and northern and central parts of New Hampshire and Maine are expected to bear the brunt of the flooding.

The Plymouth area in central New Hampshire, hard hit by floods a month ago, again was the center of the flood threat. Plymouth is located at the junction of the Pemigewasset and Baker Rivers —both expected to overflow their banks.

Several highways, including one in the scenic Crawford Notch area, were closed by high water.

Springfield, Mass., last led the Eastern League in baseball attendance for the last three years.

MRS. CHARLES GILBERT MORGAN

Home Wedding Unites Miss Ethridge, Mr. Morgan

Miss Kay Ethridge and Charles Gilbert Morgan were married at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Ethridge, Jr., on Thursday afternoon. Dr. W. H. McFadden officiated at the ceremony performed before an improvised altar decorated with candles and yellow chrysanthemums.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was gowned in blue lace, ballerina length, with cap sleeves. She wore a blue flower hat and a pearl necklace. Her corsage was one yellow orchid. For something old, she carried her great-grandmother's lace handkerchief.

A reception for families of the bride and groom and a few close friends was held immediately following the marriage ceremony in the home of the bride's parents. Yellow chrysanthemums and candles were used on the table which held the tiered bride's cake.

Miss Deane Stout presided over the coffee service, while Mrs. Leroy Womack served punch. Mrs. Ray Baird was in charge of the guest book. All those assisting wore yellow mum corsages.

Mrs. Morgan is a graduate of Neville High school. The groom is a graduate of Ouachita Parish high school, and is now attending Northeast State college. The young couple will be at home at 606 Victoria street.

DICKENS ACCUSED — A new book published in Britain yesterday charged that Charles Dickens, above, moralist author of the Victorian era, lived in sin with actress Ellen Ternan and flouted the law to hide the birth of an illegitimate child. Roosevelt Kidnap Plot Is Revealed

NEW YORK (AP) — Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr. says some wealthy Americans plotted to make a captive of Franklin D. Roosevelt at the time of his third-term election.

In an autobiography to be published Monday, Vanderbilt says that rich industrialists and others, who met around fashionable dinner tables in New York, Newport and Washington conspired to get "that man" out of the White House by force.

"I use the word conspiracy," Vanderbilt writes. "I am really talking of a plot—a serious long-discussed plan to—SHALL I say—capture the President."

A precipitating motive, Vanderbilt says, was to prevent Roosevelt from interfering with chances for large profits in the developing war crisis.

Vanderbilt, a writer, an associate of Roosevelt, and himself a member of a wealthy society family, says he was privy to discussions among the anti-FDR financial group that "really meant business."

"I heard here and there, and bit by bit, pieces that fitted together," he says, and finally concluded "a real conspiracy" was afoot. He said some of the group once met at his mother's home.

But he says they never went through with the scheme, after he was allowed to tip them off that Roosevelt and the FBI knew about it.

The FBI had no comment to make when informed of the story in Vanderbilt's book.

But U.E. Baughman, chief of the Secret Service which guards presidents said he had never heard of such a plot.

The Secret Service Chief at the time Vanderbilt says the plot was hatched, Frank J. Wilson, now retired, also said he had no recollection of such a scheme.

One of Roosevelt's former confidential secretaries, Grace Tully, said that she had never heard of the plot mentioned in the book.

Recounting the alleged plot in "Man of the World: my life on five continents," Vanderbilt writes:

"The idea was to impose a firm restraint, for the good of the country; to hold this dictator, this madman — well cared for, of course; well treated, but well guarded—while sane persons set up emergency controls and saved America."

Vanderbilt relates that he reported the plans to federal agencies, and then was allowed to tip off "those involved in the cabal" through a friend and an Army man.

At one point in the conspiracy, he writes, the site of a Roosevelt-Churchill conference was switched from Palm Beach to a ship at sea to protect Roosevelt.

He says the plot developed after Roosevelt's 1940 election to a third term, and his foes, who had long considered him a traitor to his own wealthy class and to old-line capitalism, "were ready to talk revolution."

"Of the industrialists and the social leaders who conspired or went along, some have died, some have lost power and influence. Others live in Monaco. We can afford to forget them all," he added.

Vanderbilt, great-great grandson of Commodore Cornelius Vanderbilt, founder of the family fortune, is the son of the late Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt. Vanderbilt has become known more as a writer, lecturer and traveler than as a society figure.

Although he hit second in the batting order most of the season, rookie Bob Allison of the Washington Senators drove home 85 runs.

John Bateman, now in his third season as an assistant football coach under Steve Sebo at Penn, worked 10 years under Lou Little at Columbia.

The stable of William G. Helis Jr. led the thoroughbred horse owners in winnings at the 1959 Monmouth Park meeting in Oceanport, N.J., with 101,142.

Recounting the alleged plot in "Man of the World: my life on five continents," Vanderbilt writes:

"The idea was to impose a firm restraint, for the good of the country; to hold this dictator, this madman — well cared for, of course; well treated, but well guarded—while sane persons set up emergency controls and saved America."

Vanderbilt relates that he reported the plans to federal agencies, and then was allowed to tip off "those involved in the cabal" through a friend and an Army man.

At one point in the conspiracy, he writes, the site of a Roosevelt-Churchill conference was switched from Palm Beach to a ship at sea to protect Roosevelt.

He says the plot developed after Roosevelt's 1940 election to a third term, and his foes, who had long considered him a traitor to his own wealthy class and to old-line capitalism, "were ready to talk revolution."

"Of the industrialists and the social leaders who conspired or went along, some have died, some have lost power and influence. Others live in Monaco. We can afford to forget them all," he added.

Vanderbilt, great-great grandson of Commodore Cornelius Vanderbilt, founder of the family fortune, is the son of the late Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt. Vanderbilt has become known more as a writer, lecturer and traveler than as a society figure.

Although he hit second in the batting order most of the season, rookie Bob Allison of the Washington Senators drove home 85 runs.

Carter will give the principle address.

Appointed by President Eisenhower to his present position in 1957, the general is the holder of the Distinguished Service Medal, the Legion of Merit and the Bronze Star.

During World War II, his principal assignments were Corps Engineers of the II U.S. Corps in North Africa and Sicily and engineer of the 1st U.S. Army at the landings on Omaha Beach in France.

He went through France, Belguim and Germany and was with the 1st Army when it went to the Philippine Islands shortly before the end of the war.

Since the end of the war, he has been the Executive Officer at the Engineer Research and Development Laboratories at Ft. Belvoir, Army Engineer of the 3rd Army at Atlanta.

In addition, he has served in the Pentagon as Director of Installations in the Logistic Division and in Japan and the Far East as Engineer and Assistant Chief of Staff.

A native of Corsicana, Texas., Carter entered West Point after going three years at Mississippi State and graduated from the U.S. Military Academy in the class of 1930.

He later attended the University of California where he got a B.S. degree in civil engineering in 1933.

More Snow Hits Parts Of Country

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Warnings of freezing weather were issued for northern Florida.

Snow piled up to 5 to 8 inches in northwestern Pennsylvania and 2 to 3 inches in the southwestern part of the state. A championship high school football game was postponed in Pittsburgh.

A 3-inch fall in Rochester, N.Y., increased the total there to 6 inches.

Strong winds carried rain into Atlantic Coastal areas. Gusts of close to 50 m.p.h. were recorded in White Plains, N.Y.

Warnings of minor flooding were issued in New England after 1 to 3 inches of rain overloaded small streams and brooks.

The flood threat centered on the Plymouth area in central New Hampshire. Rt. 302 at Crawford, further north, was closed by high water. Several other northern routes also were closed temporarily.

Sleet, freezing rain and snow peppered the northern sections of New England.

A cold front, moving into northern Florida, dropped temperatures to 49 in Tallahassee and Pensacola. It was 80 in Miami at the same time.

The Weather Bureau forecast freezing temperatures for extreme northern Florida and said the freeze may extend westward along the Gulf coast into Texas.

Cold weather covered most of the nation. Midday temperatures were around the freezing levels across the north from the Rockies to the Appalachians.

Brookmeade Stable's Sword Dancer will be pointed for the $100,000 Widener at Hialeah in Miami, Fla., next February.

Florida crushed Miami's bowl hopes 23-14 and Notre Dame spilled Southern California 16-6 to salvage a 5-5 season in other key games.

Boston College toppled Holy Cross 14-0, Vanderbilt drubbed Tennessee 14-0, Wake Forest whipped South Carolina 43-20, Oklahoma rallied to down Oklahoma State 17-7, Baylor edged Rice 23-21, and Colorado stopped Air Force 15-7.

There still remains one big one—top-ranked and unbeaten Syracuse against UCLA at Los Angeles next Saturday. UCLA warmed up for that one with a 21-6 victory over Utah.

Speedy Joe Bellino, a junior halfback hampered by injuries most of the season, scored a record-tying three touchdowns on runs of 1, 15 and 47 yards in Navy's shocking rout of Army before 100,000 at Philadelphia Stadium. Quarterback Joe Tranchini scored twice and directed the Middie attack brilliantly to far overshadow Army's touted Joe Caldwell, whose passing was erratic at best.

Only two others ever scored as many as three touchdowns in an Army-Navy game and both were Cadets—Doc Blanchard in 1945 and Pat Uebel in 1953. The 43 points by Navy was the most ever scored by a team in the 60-game series.

Mississippi's rout of State and Sugar Bowl acceptance assured a rematch of the year's great game in the South—the 7-3 LSU victory on All-America Billy Cannon's 89-yard punt return with 10 minutes left. Both teams wound up with 9-1 records and rate No. 2 and 3 nationally.

Georgia struck for three first half touchdowns behind Francis Tarkenton's passing and Fred Brown's running for a 21-0 halftime lead, then just did withstand Tech's second half rally. It gave Georgia a 9-1 record and seven straight victories since it lost its only game, 30-14 to South Carolina on Oct. 3.

Sophomore fullback Gerry Gray scored 14 points—two touchdowns and a tackle causing a safety—for awakened Notre Dame against Southern Cal, which dropped its last two after winning eight in a row.

Florida's star was Dick Allen, who ran for one touchdown, passed for two, and kicked a 20-yard field goal. The Florida defense intercepted five of Miami's Fran Curci's passes.

Vin Hogan scored both Boston College touchdowns on a three-yard run and a 38-yard pass from Johnny Amabile.

Mrs Tillman who was a former railroad clerk, is survived by her husband, Charles W. Tillman, 618 South Third Street, Monroe, two sisters, Mrs. H. C. Clanton, Pine Bluff, Ark.; Mrs. S. L. Offutt, Memphis, Tenn.; one brother, J. A. Morris, Jr., Dermott, Ark., and a number of nieces and nephews.

She was a member of the Temple Baptist Church and of the Order of the Eastern Star. She was a native of Iola, Kansas and had lived in Monroe for the past 20 years.

Pallbearers will be Deacons of the Temple Baptist Church.

Tear Gas Fired Upon Rioting Mob

anniversary of Panama's independence from Colombia that touched off the anti-American riots.

Special student squads were organized to prevent Saturday's demonstrations from getting out of hand.

Officials feared that professional agitators and Communists would try to stir up trouble nevertheless.

Canal Zone Governor William E. Potter said residents of the Canal Zone, which the United States holds in perpetuity under treaty, could come and go as they pleased as long as there was no violence.

But the 4,000 American residents of Panama City proper were told by the U.S. embassy to avoid congested areas. No Americans could be seen on the streets as busloads of Panamanians began pouring into the city with shouts of "Yankee Go Home."

On Nov. 3, nationalists tried to force their way into the Canal Zone to hang the Panamanian flag. The U.S. embassy flag was torn down and desecrated.

The nationalists have demanded the removal of Governor Potter as well as an end to American "occupation" in the canal area. The United States has refused to turn over control of the canal to Panama although since 1903, the United States has voluntarily surrendered some zone territory and has increased payments to Panama for use of the Canal Zone.

LaSalle Area Man Charged With Murder

JENA (Special) — Sheriff department officials here last night charged a 29-year old Negro with murder following the fatal stabbing of a Negro woman near Trout, La.

Arvenus Bennett, also of Trout community, was being held in the LaSalle Parish jail last night in Jena, Sheriff D. Floyd said, on charges of murder.

According to Deputy A. M. Taylor, the incident developed over an argument between Bennett and the Negro woman, Cleola Nelson, 22, about a grocery bill. The pair were not married, he said, but were living together.

REPORT

At the height of the argument, deputies said Bennett grabbed a butcher knife and stabbed the victim through the heart. The incident happened about 4 p.m. yesterday.

He fled the scene before officers from the sheriff's department and state police arrived.

A manhunt ensued, with officers scouring the countryside for Bennett. He was discovered about 6 p.m. hiding under a nearby church, officers said, about three miles from the death scene.

In addition to Sheriff Floyd and Deputy Taylor, other officers assisting in the apprehension included deputies Herschel Floyd, Cliff Barton, Grady McClendon, Constable W. S. Williams, and troopers Larry Roberson and Dickey Nugent of the State Police.

Board To Meet

The Executive Board of the Women of Covenant Presbyterian Church will meet Tuesday, December 1, at 9:30 a.m. at the church. All officer — new and old — were asked to be present.

F. G. "RED" Studdard And Ward 1 Progress!

TO THE PEOPLE of WARD 1, QUACHITA PARISH:

Some dissatisfaction has been expressed to me as to the possibility of additional delay in the completion of sewerage facilities which are to be constructed in the Sterlington area by the Commissioners of Sewerage District No. 1; and in a recent newspaper article a member of the Ouachita Parish School Board was quoted as stating that a sewerage system for Sterlington is unlikely for the next three or four years.

I am squarely behind every project that will help the people living in any area of the Ward; and as a consequence I have consulted with the attorney and the engineer who have been employed on this project in order to learn from them the true facts as to the progress of this work. A facsimile copy of their letter addressed to the School Board under date of November 23, 1959 is published herewith and this shows that the charges of undue delay in finishing this sewerage system are entirely without foundation.

Even though this sewerage district will not be complete for the opening of the Sterlington High School in September, I am advised that if the School Board desires to become a part of the sewerage district a temporary system can be installed in time for the opening of school and converted to a permanent character when the system is complete—thus eliminating the expense of an independent disposal system which is now being contemplated for the school.

In further evidence of my interest in the welfare of Ward 1, I should like to call your attention to the fact that I sponsored the proceedings by which the Ouachita Parish Police Jury created Fire Protection District No. 1, comprising the entire ward; and I am exerting every effort to have these facilities constructed as rapidly as possible. The first meeting of the governing body of this fire protection district has been called for December 9, 1959, pursuant to a resolution which I introduced. A reproduction of the published proceedings of the Police Jury showing my introduction of this resolution is also published herewith for your information.

During my period of service as Ward 1's representative on the Police Jury several miles of drainage facilities have been completed in the Ward and many miles of gravel road have been blacktopped—all of which will be evident to any person who has resided in the Ward during recent years.

I believe that I have justified the confidence which you have repeatedly placed in me as your representative on the Police Jury for the past sixteen years and I solicit your continued support for the future.

Re: Sewerage District No. 1, Sterlington, Louisiana

Dear Mr. Wall:

The undersigned have been acting as attorneys and engineers, respectively, for the Sterlington Sewerage District and we have observed the newspaper article relative to the securing of a sewerage facility for the new Sterlington High School which appeared in the Monroe Morning World of Wednesday, November 18, 1959, wherein Mr. Charles G. Drennan, School Board member from Ward 1, was quoted as stating that a sewerage system for Sterlington was unlikely for the next three or four years.

We do not know where Mr. Drennan secured his information, but in fairness to the Board of Commissioners of the Sterlington sewerage District, as well as ourselves, we must take issue with this statement and go on record as stating that while we do not believe that the Sterlington Sewerage District will be completed in sufficient time for the new Sterlington High School, we do believe that the Sterlington sewerage system will be in operation within a year's time.

Thanking you, we are

Very truly yours,

Florida crushed Miami's bowl hopes 23-14 and Notre Dame spilled Southern California 16-6 to salvage a 5-5 season in other key games.

Boston College toppled Holy Cross 14-0, Vanderbilt drubbed Tennessee 14-0, Wake Forest whipped South Carolina 43-20, Oklahoma rallied to down Oklahoma State 17-7, Baylor edged Rice 23-21, and Colorado stopped Air Force 15-7.

There still remains one big one—top-ranked and unbeaten Syracuse against UCLA at Los Angeles next Saturday. UCLA warmed up for that one with a 21-6 victory over Utah.

Speedy Joe Bellino, a junior halfback hampered by injuries most of the season, scored a record-tying three touchdowns on runs of 1, 15 and 47 yards in Navy's shocking rout of Army before 100,000 at Philadelphia Stadium. Quarterback Joe Tranchini scored twice and directed the Middie attack brilliantly to far overshadow Army's touted Joe Caldwell, whose passing was erratic at best.

Only two others ever scored as many as three touchdowns in an Army-Navy game and both were Cadets—Doc Blanchard in 1945 and Pat Uebel in 1953. The 43 points by Navy was the most ever scored by a team in the 60-game series.

Mississippi's rout of State and Sugar Bowl acceptance assured a rematch of the year's great game in the South—the 7-3 LSU victory on All-America Billy Cannon's 89-yard punt return with 10 minutes left. Both teams wound up with 9-1 records and rate No. 2 and 3 nationally.

Georgia struck for three first half touchdowns behind Francis Tarkenton's passing and Fred Brown's running for a 21-0 halftime lead, then just did withstand Tech's second half rally. It gave Georgia a 9-1 record and seven straight victories since it lost its only game, 30-14 to South Carolina on Oct. 3.

Sophomore fullback Gerry Gray scored 14 points—two touchdowns and a tackle causing a safety—for awakened Notre Dame against Southern Cal, which dropped its last two after winning eight in a row.

Florida's star was Dick Allen, who ran for one touchdown, passed for two, and kicked a 20-yard field goal. The Florida defense intercepted five of Miami's Fran Curci's passes.

Vin Hogan scored both Boston College touchdowns on a three-yard run and a 38-yard pass from Johnny Amabile.

anniversary of Panama's independence from Colombia that touched off the anti-American riots.

Special student squads were organized to prevent Saturday's demonstrations from getting out of hand.

Officials feared that professional agitators and Communists would try to stir up trouble nevertheless.

Canal Zone Governor William E. Potter said residents of the Canal Zone, which the United States holds in perpetuity under treaty, could come and go as they pleased as long as there was no violence.

But the 4,000 American residents of Panama City proper were told by the U.S. embassy to avoid congested areas. No Americans could be seen on the streets as busloads of Panamanians began pouring into the city with shouts of "Yankee Go Home."

On Nov. 3, nationalists tried to force their way into the Canal Zone to hang the Panamanian flag. The U.S. embassy flag was torn down and desecrated.

The nationalists have demanded the removal of Governor Potter as well as an end to American "occupation" in the canal area. The United States has refused to turn over control of the canal to Panama although since 1903, the United States has voluntarily surrendered some zone territory and has increased payments to Panama for use of the Canal Zone.

LaSalle Area Man Charged With Murder

JENA (Special) — Sheriff department officials here last night charged a 29-year old Negro with murder following the fatal stabbing of a Negro woman near Trout, La.

Arvenus Bennett, also of Trout community, was being held in the LaSalle Parish jail last night in Jena, Sheriff D. Floyd said, on charges of murder.

According to Deputy A. M. Taylor, the incident developed over an argument between Bennett and the Negro woman, Cleola Nelson, 22, about a grocery bill. The pair were not married, he said, but were living together.

REPORT

At the height of the argument, deputies said Bennett grabbed a butcher knife and stabbed the victim through the heart. The incident happened about 4 p.m. yesterday.

He fled the scene before officers from the sheriff's department and state police arrived.

A manhunt ensued, with officers scouring the countryside for Bennett. He was discovered about 6 p.m. hiding under a nearby church, officers said, about three miles from the death scene.

In addition to Sheriff Floyd and Deputy Taylor, other officers assisting in the apprehension included deputies Herschel Floyd, Cliff Barton, Grady McClendon, Constable W. S. Williams, and troopers Larry Roberson and Dickey Nugent of the State Police.

Board To Meet

The Executive Board of the Women of Covenant Presbyterian Church will meet Tuesday, December 1, at 9:30 a.m. at the church. All officer — new and old — were asked to be present.

F. G. "RED" Studdard And Ward 1 Progress!

TO THE PEOPLE of WARD 1, QUACHITA PARISH:

Some dissatisfaction has been expressed to me as to the possibility of additional delay in the completion of sewerage facilities which are to be constructed in the Sterlington area by the Commissioners of Sewerage District No. 1; and in a recent newspaper article a member of the Ouachita Parish School Board was quoted as stating that a sewerage system for Sterlington is unlikely for the next three or four years.

I am squarely behind every project that will help the people living in any area of the Ward; and as a consequence I have consulted with the attorney and the engineer who have been employed on this project in order to learn from them the true facts as to the progress of this work. A facsimile copy of their letter addressed to the School Board under date of November 23, 1959 is published herewith and this shows that the charges of undue delay in finishing this sewerage system are entirely without foundation.

Even though this sewerage district will not be complete for the opening of the Sterlington High School in September, I am advised that if the School Board desires to become a part of the sewerage district a temporary system can be installed in time for the opening of school and converted to a permanent character when the system is complete—thus eliminating the expense of an independent disposal system which is now being contemplated for the school.

In further evidence of my interest in the welfare of Ward 1, I should like to call your attention to the fact that I sponsored the proceedings by which the Ouachita Parish Police Jury created Fire Protection District No. 1, comprising the entire ward; and I am exerting every effort to have these facilities constructed as rapidly as possible. The first meeting of the governing body of this fire protection district has been called for December 9, 1959, pursuant to a resolution which I introduced. A reproduction of the published proceedings of the Police Jury showing my introduction of this resolution is also published herewith for your information.

During my period of service as Ward 1's representative on the Police Jury several miles of drainage facilities have been completed in the Ward and many miles of gravel road have been blacktopped—all of which will be evident to any person who has resided in the Ward during recent years.

I believe that I have justified the confidence which you have repeatedly placed in me as your representative on the Police Jury for the past sixteen years and I solicit your continued support for the future.

Re: Sewerage District No. 1, Sterlington, Louisiana

Dear Mr. Wall:

The undersigned have been acting as attorneys and engineers, respectively, for the Sterlington Sewerage District and we have observed the newspaper article relative to the securing of a sewerage facility for the new Sterlington High School which appeared in the Monroe Morning World of Wednesday, November 18, 1959, wherein Mr. Charles G. Drennan, School Board member from Ward 1, was quoted as stating that a sewerage system for Sterlington was unlikely for the next three or four years.

We do not know where Mr. Drennan secured his information, but in fairness to the Board of Commissioners of the Sterlington sewerage District, as well as ourselves, we must take issue with this statement and go on record as stating that while we do not believe that the Sterlington Sewerage District will be completed in sufficient time for the new Sterlington High School, we do believe that the Sterlington sewerage system will be in operation within a year's time.

Thanking you, we are

The others convicted, John Taylor Coggins, 39-year-old auto salesman, and Jesse Raymond Perry, 24, a truck driver, drew three-year prison sentences. Another man, J. D. Sims, 35-year-old truck driver, pleaded guilty to the school board dynamiting and got five years. A fifth man, Samuel Graydon Beavers, 49, a carpenter, will be tried Dec. 29.

One of Lauderdale's attorneys, W. B. Howard of Jonesboro, Ark., said an appeal would be made to the Arkansas Supreme Court. He said the defense probably would take a full 30 days allowed by Judge William J. Kirby in which to seek a new trial.

Lauderdale remained free on $50,000 bond.

Gordon Sullivan, attorney for Coggins and Perry, said he had received an extension until Jan. 11 to file for a new trial for his clients. Coggins and Perry also are on bond.

present registration, possibly more."

High interest in local contests traditionally have been a major cause of large voter participation in the race for governor.

The upcoming primary will have candidates for all top state offices, the Legislature, the Democratic and Republican state central committee, sheriff, clerk of court, assessor, coroner, police juror, peace justice and constable.

In 1940, during the reform movement that put Sam Jones into the mansion, the registered vote was only 703,810 but 549,840 persons voted for a 77 per cent ratio.

Voter participation sagged to 65.9 per cent in 1944, but that was wartime when many Louisianians were in service.

In 1948, participation climbed again to 70.8 per cent, with Earl Long winning his second term.

Four years later, the voter effort increased to 75.4 per cent, and in 1956, it reached the present percentage mark of 77.5 per cent.

While Martin predicted 77 per cent for the coming primary, he also said the rate might be even higher.

Since Louisiana's million-or-better registration level was reached in 1952, voting effort has been high percentagewise.

Romulo noted Friday that Weaver had suggested Congress get testimony from U.S. field commanders. The Filipino diplomat said this revealed the source of what he called Weaver's misinformation.

Weaver said Romulo's "attitude of do-nothing, say-nothing and propose-nothing is typical of the negative program which brought on the present situation."

used for a mission requiring the highest accuracy.

The official also described as "real stupid" the fact that only one rocket was ordered for the unsuccessful Thanksgiving Day launching featuring the 5,000 mile Atlas intercontinental ballistic missile.

"If the Lunar job is worth doing, as I believe it is," he said, "The Thanksgiving day firing should have been part of a comprehensive program involving at least five or six rockets."

Haley agreed with the criticism. He said Russia plans space projects on a multi-rocket basis and usually has an alternate rocket standing by at the time of the firing.

Unless Eisenhower orders a new moon shot program with overriding priorities, a year or more will pass before America makes another attempt to send a rocket to the moon because all the Atlas rockets to be produced in that period are earmarked for other projects.

Haley said this would be "fatal to America's prestige. "It is vital that we make another attempt to orbit the moon, certainly within three months."

Although missiles could be diverted from other projects to meet Haley's timetable, this could affect tests scheduled in "Project Mercury," to put a man in orbit in 1961, or "Project Midas," to develop an early-warning military satellite.

Spokesmen for the National Aeronautics & Space Administration (NASA) and the Air Force said an order for additional lunar shots would require a careful examination to determine what could be sacrificed or postponed.

Billy D. Mayberry, 33, of Marshall, Texas, was arrested by Monroe police yesterday on charges of disturbing the peace by being drunk and disorderly and simple battery. He was placed under bond of $65, officers said.

Willie Williams Jr., 26, was charged on a warrant for driving without a valid state driver's license. He was placed under bond of $35, officers reported.

The upcoming primary will have candidates for all top state offices, the Legislature, the Democratic and Republican state central committee, sheriff, clerk of court, assessor, coroner, police juror, peace justice and constable.

In 1940, during the reform movement that put Sam Jones into the mansion, the registered vote was only 703,810 but 549,840 persons voted for a 77 per cent ratio.

Voter participation sagged to 65.9 per cent in 1944, but that was wartime when many Louisianians were in service.

In 1948, participation climbed again to 70.8 per cent, with Earl Long winning his second term.

Four years later, the voter effort increased to 75.4 per cent, and in 1956, it reached the present percentage mark of 77.5 per cent.

While Martin predicted 77 per cent for the coming primary, he also said the rate might be even higher.

Since Louisiana's million-or-better registration level was reached in 1952, voting effort has been high percentagewise.

him information on which his charges were based. But he said they would be called to testify before a House Defense subcommittee on appropriations of which he is a member.

Romulo noted Friday that Weaver had suggested Congress get testimony from U.S. field commanders. The Filipino diplomat said this revealed the source of what he called Weaver's misinformation.

Weaver said Romulo's "attitude of do-nothing, say-nothing and propose-nothing is typical of the negative program which brought on the present situation."

Haley Advances Rocket Proposal

used for a mission requiring the highest accuracy.

The official also described as "real stupid" the fact that only one rocket was ordered for the unsuccessful Thanksgiving Day launching featuring the 5,000 mile Atlas intercontinental ballistic missile.

"If the Lunar job is worth doing, as I believe it is," he said, "The Thanksgiving day firing should have been part of a comprehensive program involving at least five or six rockets."

Haley agreed with the criticism. He said Russia plans space projects on a multi-rocket basis and usually has an alternate rocket standing by at the time of the firing.

Unless Eisenhower orders a new moon shot program with overriding priorities, a year or more will pass before America makes another attempt to send a rocket to the moon because all the Atlas rockets to be produced in that period are earmarked for other projects.

Haley said this would be "fatal to America's prestige. "It is vital that we make another attempt to orbit the moon, certainly within three months."

Although missiles could be diverted from other projects to meet Haley's timetable, this could affect tests scheduled in "Project Mercury," to put a man in orbit in 1961, or "Project Midas," to develop an early-warning military satellite.

Spokesmen for the National Aeronautics & Space Administration (NASA) and the Air Force said an order for additional lunar shots would require a careful examination to determine what could be sacrificed or postponed.

Willie Williams Jr., 26, was charged on a warrant for driving without a valid state driver's license. He was placed under bond of $35, officers reported.

The others convicted, John Taylor Coggins, 39-year-old auto salesman, and Jesse Raymond Perry, 24, a truck driver, drew three-year prison sentences. Another man, J. D. One of Lauderdale's attorneys, W. B. Howard of Jonesboro, Ark., said an appeal would be made to the Arkansas Supreme Court. He said the defense probably would take a full 30 days allowed by Judge William J. Kirby in which to seek a new trial.

Lauderdale remained free on $50,000 bond.

Gordon Sullivan, attorney for Coggins and Perry, said he had received an extension until Jan. 11 to file for a new trial for his clients. Coggins and Perry also are on bond.

FOREIGN POLICIES

Conference May Preface Split

WASHINGTON (AP)—A conference of congressional leaders with President Eisenhower Monday may preface a Democratic split over support of administration foreign policies.

Eisenhower obviously hopes to win from House Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex), Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex) and other congressional Democrats advance approval of the goodwill crusade he is expected to pursue on his forthcoming trip to 11 non-Communist countries.

If this can be accomplished, it would be likely to counter to some extent the sharp condemnation of the administration's international policies almost certain to come from the Democratic Advisory Council at a New York meeting this week shortly after Eisenhower's departure.

The council presumably will reflect the views of five members mentioned as potential party presidential nominees. These include Adlai E. Stevensn, Sens. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, Stuart Symington of Missouri and Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota, and Gov. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown of California.

While the council hardly can afford to deprecate Eisenhower's efforts to solidify the free world on his extensive trip, it already has demonstrated its willingness to attack vigorously his handling of international affairs.

Rayburn and Johnson, who have pointedly ignored council recommendations in the past, have been considerably less critical of the President on this score.

Johnson, who is expected to blossom into far more than a mere Texas favorite son candidate for next year's nomination, has taken the position there is little to be gained politically from broadside criticism of the chief executive. Rayburn, who is booming Johnson as a presidential prospect, goes along generally with this idea.

Because the two leaders have demonstrated in the past their willingness to cooperate when they are consulted in advance, the White House apparently hopes to answer with Monday's conference an old complaint about the handling of bipartisan foreign policy.

As this was voiced by the late Sen. Arthur Vandenberg (R-Mich) years ago during a Democratic administration, the opposition party wants "to be in on the take-offs as well as the crash landings."

While Eisenhower can expect no blanket endorsement of his policies from either Rayburn or Johnson, he is giving them a hand in the take-off by disclosing to them in advance his plans for his unprecedented mission.

The administration reasoning seems to be that by this action it will have taken steps toward tying the congressional leaders to its policies in the face of a prospective attack from the self-styled liberal wing of the Democratic party.

This doesn't mean, of course, that congressional Democrats will forego criticism of policies with which they don't agree. Rayburn and Johnson can be outspoken when they want to be. So can Chairman J. William Fulbright (D-Ark) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and Thomas E. Morgan (D-Pa) of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, who are among those invited to the White House.

Chile Drive Against Arms May Spread

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Chilean drive to reduce armament expenditures may spread to all Latin America, diplomatic sources said Friday.

Chilean President Jorge Alessandri warned this week that Latin America's economy would be seriously weakened if armament competition was allowed to continue.

His statement caused some concern in the defense services of the hemisphere. But it also encouraged some civilians who, in current trade difficulties, are thinking more in terms of balanced budgets than modern weapons.

Important public figures in Argentina, Brazil, Ecuador and Peru were known to be rallying in support of the disarmament plea.

Responsible sources told United Press International that Alessandri may press for a moratorium on military purchases. The idea would be presented to the eleventh Pan American Conference scheduled for Quito next February.

U. S. officials were deliberately staying on the side-lines as they believed that any initiative of this nature should come from the Latin American countries themselves.

It is no secret, however, that the Eisenhower administration firmly favors a shift of emphasis from military to economic aid for needy nations.

Officials here recalled with regret how in 1957 the council of the Organization of American States (OAS) scrapped a progressive disarmament proposal offered by former Costa Rican Ambassador Gonzalo Facio. It had received vigorous endorsement from U.S. delegate John C. Dreier.

The plan was decisively defeated after a Mexican representative charged it would leave the defense of the hemisphere entirely in U.S. hands and that such a thing was "incompatible with my country's dignity."

Diplomatic officials feel that the climate in favor of disarmament has grown considerably in the past two years. This belief is particularly strong in countries recently liberated from dictatorships, with the exception of Cuba.

RACE TRACKS

Labor Board Gives Problem To States

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The National Labor Relations Board (NLRB), exercising its discretionary authority for the first time under the new labor reform law, refused Saturday to assume jurisdiction over labor disputes at horse race tracks.

The board unanimously declined to authorize collective bargaining elections for unions at the Hialeah Race Course, Hialeah, Fla., and Jefferson Downs, Inc., Jefferson Parish, La.

The board based its refusal in part on a provision in the new law that gives state agencies the right to assume jurisdiction over cases rejected by the NLB.

It was the first time the board had used the power granted to it by a section of the new law specifically granting it the right to exclude cases having a minor affect on interstate commerce, providing it was a type of dispute rejected by the board before the new law went into effect.

The board noted that even under its old regulations, it has consistently refused since 1950 to assume jurisdiction over race tracks.

Its decision noted that Hialeah had a total income of $6,277,023 in 1959. Jefferson Downs had an income of $600,000 from bets and $60,100 from admissions.

In the Hialeah case, the board turned down the plea of the Carpenters' District Council of Miami for an election involving 16 employes of the race track.

The board ruled that "the effect on commerce of such labor disputes (at race tracks) is not sufficiently substantial to warrant the exercise of the board's jurisdiction." It said race track operations were essentially local in character.

It said it assumes that "the states involved will be quick to assert their authority" to step into race track labor disputes.

In the Jefferson Downs case, it held that although the operation may technically be within the board's jurisdiction, it did not think it would be carrying out the purposes of the new law if it took the case.

At Jefferson Downs, the Independent Mutual Clerks Guild of Louisiana had asked for a collective bargaining election affecting 10 employes.

Authorities Say Dane Obsessed

Bang-Jensen,50, was found dead of a gunshot wound Thanksgiving. Police say he killed himself.

His body was cremated Saturday and arrangements were made to fly his ashes to his native city, Copenhagen, Denmark.

Bang-Jensen had been depressed since his discharge as a senior political affairs officer at the United Nations last year. His removal followed his refusal to release to his U.N. superiors the names of 81 Hungarian refugees who had testified before a U.N. committee probing the 1956 Hungarian revolt. He said he feared that Communists might get access to the list and take reprisals.

Police quoted Dr. John H. Cornelsen as saying he had treated Bang-Jensen at the latter's home and at the psychiatrist's office in New York City. He said Bang-Jensen had contemplated suicide.

Dr. Cornhelsen said he recommended that Bang-Jensen see another psychiatrist, Dr. F. S. Friedenberg of Brooklyn. The latter also told police Bang-Jensen seemed obsessed with suicide.

A third psychiatrist, Dr. Lawrence Strauss, of Great Neck, N.Y. said Bang-Jensen had been taking sedatives and tranquilizers.

The Bang-Jensens apparently had no financial worries. Police said a joint bank account showed a balance of $17,000.

Mrs. Bang-Jensen, the former Helen Nolan of Port Jervis, N.Y., plans to fly to Denmark for her husband's funeral service on Thursday.

The Bang-Jensens have five children ranging from 4 to 16 years.

Elvis Shook By Booming Ballads And Dying Roock

FRANKFURT, Germany (UPI) —Cpl. Elvis Presley shook his head in disbelief Saturday when told that Rock 'N' Roll was on the wane in the United States.

But he quickly said that if some other type of music is replacing the old Rock beat, he would sing it.

Presley has made his fortune singing Rock 'N' Roll songs on radio, television and records and in movies. When he finishes his Army service next year, he hopes to go back to his same old stand.

When told of reports from cities across the United States that Rock 'N' Roll was fading away, he said

"You've got no idea of how many times I've heard that. I can't say whether it is or isn't. I wish I did, but I've been away from it for about 20 months now.

When told that ballads appeared to be replacing his special kind of music, Presley said he would go along with the trend.

"If it is true," he said, "I'd be a fool not to pay some attention to it. If people have actually changed their minds about what they like, naturally I'd probably try to do more along that line."

Prominent Educator Says Rainach Is The Man Who Will Protect Our Children's Future!

F. C. Haley, superintendent of Claiborne Parish schools has mailed the following letter to the presidents of the school boards and to fellow superintendents in all of Louisiana's 67 school districts:

IT IS AFTER much thoughtful consideration that I write you this letter soliciting your assistance on behalf of the candidacy of Sen. Willie Rainach for the governorship of Louisiana. As you know, Sen. Rainach has represented Claiborne Parish as either its representative or senator for the past 20 years. During these years I have known Willie as a neighbor and a friend. I have had his confidence during his moments of success as well as those of sorrow. Rarely have the legislative halls of Baton Rouge witnessed such wise and courageous leadership as that displayed by this gallant warrior from the hills of North Louisiana.

Sen. Rainach does not play politics according to ear, but weighs every issue according to its merits and then moves with great resolution toward what he thinks is the just and proper solution. Had Sen. Rainach been playing for the plaudits of the multitude, you can rest assured that he would not have accepted the chairmanship of the Joint Legislative Committee on Segregation. Neither would he have sponsored the Right to Work Law under conditions in which he at times feared for the welfare of his loved ones. Sen. Rainach is not just an average individual, but he is the type of man that any state is fortunate to have during its tumultuous and troublesome times.

IN SEN RAINACH, education has a tried and true friend. During his 20 years as a lawmaker Willie has supported and championed many of the laws that mean so much to the teachers and children of Louisiana. As you know, most of the teacher welfare laws were enacted during his era and were supported and pushed by Rainach. This talented man is a product of the Claiborne Parish schools. It was at the request of the educators of Claiborne Parish that Sen. Rainach first entered politics. Foremost among those people that encouraged Sen. Rainach to run for representative the first time were his former high school principals and teachers. Wherever you find one of them today, you will find a staunch Rainach supporter.

As you know, during the hectic days of the 1958 session, Rep. Garrett and Sen. Rainach were against the gas gathering tax until they were convinced that, if this tax did not pass, the school session would be abbreviated or the teachers would suffer a salary cut. These men then changed their position and the tax passed with exactly enough votes in the House. These men have suffered great abuse for befriending education.

IN MY LIFE as a school man you educators have honored me by electing me to many of the highest positions in our proffessional organizations. I have been an officer in the coaches' organization. I have served as president of the principals' association. I have been president of the superintendents' association. At various times I have been a delegate to both state and national conventions. For several years I served on the United School Committee. At the present time I am a member of the Teachers' Retirement Board. I think you know me as a quiet and conservative individual. I try not to impose my opinions and views on any person. I also prize and respect the opinions and views of my friends. I would do nothing to betray the trust you have had in me.

It was only after much thoughful consideration that I decided to write this letter. May I also assure you that Sen. Rainach knows nothing of these intentions and has never requested such a favor. It is only because the vital issues facing us in the immediate future are so many and so frightening that I, as a citizen of Louisiana, would feel derelict of my duties if I did not divulge to you my knowledge about Sen. Rainach. Willie is not a radical nor is he an extremist on any issue as his enemies would have you believe. He is a moderate, considerate man with great humility. It was with Sen. Rainach's assistance that the Claiborne Parish School Board was able to consolidate 64 Negro schools into five schools. It was with Sen. Rainach's assistance that every child in Claiborne Parish, regardless of color or creed, is now afforded a high school education. I believe any good Christian in Claiborne Parish will affirm these statements.

NOT SINCE the reconstruction days has Louisiana needed a man of such strong resolution and devotion in the governor's chair. We must not surrender to the liberals, the left-wings, the extremist elements in the Democratic and Republican parties. Many of these national party leaders are nothing but political alley cats without principle, home, or destination. We must not allow our state political leaders to sell us down the river for political pottage. I was proud when Sen Rainach refused to stampede to New Orleans and bow to U.S. Sen. John Kennedy, who had already spit in the South's face. I feel that, if the state of Louisiana and the South in general does not demand self - respect during the next national election, the South shall sink into political turpitude. Sen. Rainach is not a machine man, and, if elected governor, he will not let any machine or any faction dictate the affairs of state. The strong fiber of this nation is made up of rugged individualism. Destroy this fiber and our nation will crumble like a house of sand. In late years too many of our leaders have failed us, and there has been a great erosion of public respect and confidence in our leaders. Too many of our leaders have been advocating oneness in all phases of our life. This is not the American way, and to impose it on our citizenship is only to fall victim of the great Communist conspiracy, whose leaders would make slaves of us all.

THIS LETTER is not meant as a reflection on any of the other candidates for governor. Several of these men are personal friends of mine, but many of them are also political opportunists. How many of them will stand up to the Northern left-wing politicans, to the radical elements of both parties? How many of them will throw road blocks in front of federal edicts that threaten to grind our Southern heritage into the sand? Sen. Rainach is the only candidate that I know of that has offered, if elected, to place the governor's chair between the radical decisions of the federal courts and our school children.

Let us not kid ourselves nor cover our heads with sand. If the high executives of our state do not come to our rescue, the edicts that are now being handed down by our high federal courts are going to catch the children, teachers, principals, superintendents, and school board members of our state like sitting ducks on a pond of water. The citizens of our communities will be expecting a stronger leadership than we can afford without the support of the governor's office. All hell will break loose in our local communities. Some of these communities will make Little Rock look like a peace party. It will take time to turn this tide of liberalism and radicalism, but turn it we must or your children and grandchildren will not enjoy the liberties and privileges that you and I have enjoyed.

ALREADY THE WINDS from the South are blowing hot. The Orleans Parish School Board must produce a plan to integrate immediately. Suits have been rekindled in East Baton Rouge and St. Helena Parishes. A promient member of the NAACP has stated that Caddo Parish is close in line. Where is your parish on this list?

The fathers and mothers of our children must shoulder the responsibility of the outcome of this election and not leave it in the hands of the political bosses and ward heelers that are trying to reap material and political remuneration. The word integration is a terribly misused word. Some of our judges do not seem to understand its meaning. Many of us in our every day life associate with people of all shades of color. What we object to is being told with whom we must live, eat, and sleep. We do not even care to do this with some people of our own color. Forced integration will not immediately affect those people of wealth. It is the working people and poor people of all races who will suffer most.

Willie is an American statesman all of the way. He is not a half-breed between Americanism and some foreign ism. He takes pride in being a Southerner and a native of Louisiana.

SEN. RAINACH has not promised any pie in the sky. He has not promised a chicken in every pot nor two cars in every garage. But he has promised to fully implement the proposed teachers' salary schedule. I know Sen. Rainach to be sympathetic toward school problems. Mr. Rainach is a family man, having a wife and three children. His wife is a former school teacher.

Sen. Rainach is a Christian gentelman with high morals and is embodied with a high sense of justice. His life's story from an orphan's home to a leading citizen and a great statesman is a Cinderella story within itself. In closing I sincerely solicit your support for this great man for governor.

Sincerely yours,
F. C. HALEY,
Superintendent,
Claiborne Parish Schools.

His statement caused some concern in the defense services of the hemisphere. But it also encouraged some civilians who, in current trade difficulties, are thinking more in terms of balanced budgets than modern weapons.

Important public figures in Argentina, Brazil, Ecuador and Peru were known to be rallying in support of the disarmament plea.

Responsible sources told United Press International that Alessandri may press for a moratorium on military purchases. The idea would be presented to the eleventh Pan American Conference scheduled for Quito next February.

U. S. officials were deliberately staying on the side-lines as they believed that any initiative of this nature should come from the Latin American countries themselves.

It is no secret, however, that the Eisenhower administration firmly favors a shift of emphasis from military to economic aid for needy nations.

Officials here recalled with regret how in 1957 the council of the Organization of American States (OAS) scrapped a progressive disarmament proposal offered by former Costa Rican Ambassador Gonzalo Facio. It had received vigorous endorsement from U.S. delegate John C. Dreier.

The plan was decisively defeated after a Mexican representative charged it would leave the defense of the hemisphere entirely in U.S. hands and that such a thing was "incompatible with my country's dignity."

Diplomatic officials feel that the climate in favor of disarmament has grown considerably in the past two years. This belief is particularly strong in countries recently liberated from dictatorships, with the exception of Cuba.

Labor Board Gives Problem To States

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The National Labor Relations Board (NLRB), exercising its discretionary authority for the first time under the new labor reform law, refused Saturday to assume jurisdiction over labor disputes at horse race tracks.

The board unanimously declined to authorize collective bargaining elections for unions at the Hialeah Race Course, Hialeah, Fla., and Jefferson Downs, Inc., Jefferson Parish, La.

The board based its refusal in part on a provision in the new law that gives state agencies the right to assume jurisdiction over cases rejected by the NLB.

It was the first time the board had used the power granted to it by a section of the new law specifically granting it the right to exclude cases having a minor affect on interstate commerce, providing it was a type of dispute rejected by the board before the new law went into effect.

The board noted that even under its old regulations, it has consistently refused since 1950 to assume jurisdiction over race tracks.

Its decision noted that Hialeah had a total income of $6,277,023 in 1959. Jefferson Downs had an income of $600,000 from bets and $60,100 from admissions.

In the Hialeah case, the board turned down the plea of the Carpenters' District Council of Miami for an election involving 16 employes of the race track.

The board ruled that "the effect on commerce of such labor disputes (at race tracks) is not sufficiently substantial to warrant the exercise of the board's jurisdiction." It said race track operations were essentially local in character.

It said it assumes that "the states involved will be quick to assert their authority" to step into race track labor disputes.

In the Jefferson Downs case, it held that although the operation may technically be within the board's jurisdiction, it did not think it would be carrying out the purposes of the new law if it took the case.

At Jefferson Downs, the Independent Mutual Clerks Guild of Louisiana had asked for a collective bargaining election affecting 10 employes.

Authorities Say Dane Obsessed

Bang-Jensen,50, was found dead of a gunshot wound Thanksgiving. Police say he killed himself.

His body was cremated Saturday and arrangements were made to fly his ashes to his native city, Copenhagen, Denmark.

Bang-Jensen had been depressed since his discharge as a senior political affairs officer at the United Nations last year. His removal followed his refusal to release to his U.N. superiors the names of 81 Hungarian refugees who had testified before a U.N. committee probing the 1956 Hungarian revolt. He said he feared that Communists might get access to the list and take reprisals.

Police quoted Dr. John H. Cornelsen as saying he had treated Bang-Jensen at the latter's home and at the psychiatrist's office in New York City. He said Bang-Jensen had contemplated suicide.

Dr. Cornhelsen said he recommended that Bang-Jensen see another psychiatrist, Dr. F. S. Friedenberg of Brooklyn. The latter also told police Bang-Jensen seemed obsessed with suicide.

A third psychiatrist, Dr. Lawrence Strauss, of Great Neck, N.Y. said Bang-Jensen had been taking sedatives and tranquilizers.

The Bang-Jensens apparently had no financial worries. Police said a joint bank account showed a balance of $17,000.

Mrs. Bang-Jensen, the former Helen Nolan of Port Jervis, N.Y., plans to fly to Denmark for her husband's funeral service on Thursday.

The Bang-Jensens have five children ranging from 4 to 16 years.

Elvis Shook By Booming Ballads And Dying Roock

FRANKFURT, Germany (UPI) —Cpl. Elvis Presley shook his head in disbelief Saturday when told that Rock 'N' Roll was on the wane in the United States.

But he quickly said that if some other type of music is replacing the old Rock beat, he would sing it.

Presley has made his fortune singing Rock 'N' Roll songs on radio, television and records and in movies. When he finishes his Army service next year, he hopes to go back to his same old stand.

When told of reports from cities across the United States that Rock 'N' Roll was fading away, he said

"You've got no idea of how many times I've heard that. I can't say whether it is or isn't. I wish I did, but I've been away from it for about 20 months now.

When told that ballads appeared to be replacing his special kind of music, Presley said he would go along with the trend.

"If it is true," he said, "I'd be a fool not to pay some attention to it. If people have actually changed their minds about what they like, naturally I'd probably try to do more along that line."

Prominent Educator Says Rainach Is The Man Who Will Protect Our Children's Future!

F. C. Haley, superintendent of Claiborne Parish schools has mailed the following letter to the presidents of the school boards and to fellow superintendents in all of Louisiana's 67 school districts:

IT IS AFTER much thoughtful consideration that I write you this letter soliciting your assistance on behalf of the candidacy of Sen. Willie Rainach for the governorship of Louisiana. As you know, Sen. Rainach has represented Claiborne Parish as either its representative or senator for the past 20 years. During these years I have known Willie as a neighbor and a friend. I have had his confidence during his moments of success as well as those of sorrow. Rarely have the legislative halls of Baton Rouge witnessed such wise and courageous leadership as that displayed by this gallant warrior from the hills of North Louisiana.

Sen. Rainach does not play politics according to ear, but weighs every issue according to its merits and then moves with great resolution toward what he thinks is the just and proper solution. Had Sen. Rainach been playing for the plaudits of the multitude, you can rest assured that he would not have accepted the chairmanship of the Joint Legislative Committee on Segregation. Neither would he have sponsored the Right to Work Law under conditions in which he at times feared for the welfare of his loved ones. Sen. Rainach is not just an average individual, but he is the type of man that any state is fortunate to have during its tumultuous and troublesome times.

IN SEN RAINACH, education has a tried and true friend. During his 20 years as a lawmaker Willie has supported and championed many of the laws that mean so much to the teachers and children of Louisiana. As you know, most of the teacher welfare laws were enacted during his era and were supported and pushed by Rainach. This talented man is a product of the Claiborne Parish schools. It was at the request of the educators of Claiborne Parish that Sen. Rainach first entered politics. Foremost among those people that encouraged Sen. Rainach to run for representative the first time were his former high school principals and teachers. Wherever you find one of them today, you will find a staunch Rainach supporter.

As you know, during the hectic days of the 1958 session, Rep. Garrett and Sen. Rainach were against the gas gathering tax until they were convinced that, if this tax did not pass, the school session would be abbreviated or the teachers would suffer a salary cut. These men then changed their position and the tax passed with exactly enough votes in the House. These men have suffered great abuse for befriending education.

IN MY LIFE as a school man you educators have honored me by electing me to many of the highest positions in our proffessional organizations. I have been an officer in the coaches' organization. I have served as president of the principals' association. I have been president of the superintendents' association. At various times I have been a delegate to both state and national conventions. For several years I served on the United School Committee. At the present time I am a member of the Teachers' Retirement Board. I think you know me as a quiet and conservative individual. I try not to impose my opinions and views on any person. I also prize and respect the opinions and views of my friends. I would do nothing to betray the trust you have had in me.

It was only after much thoughful consideration that I decided to write this letter. May I also assure you that Sen. Rainach knows nothing of these intentions and has never requested such a favor. It is only because the vital issues facing us in the immediate future are so many and so frightening that I, as a citizen of Louisiana, would feel derelict of my duties if I did not divulge to you my knowledge about Sen. Rainach. Willie is not a radical nor is he an extremist on any issue as his enemies would have you believe. He is a moderate, considerate man with great humility. It was with Sen. Rainach's assistance that the Claiborne Parish School Board was able to consolidate 64 Negro schools into five schools. It was with Sen. Rainach's assistance that every child in Claiborne Parish, regardless of color or creed, is now afforded a high school education. I believe any good Christian in Claiborne Parish will affirm these statements.

NOT SINCE the reconstruction days has Louisiana needed a man of such strong resolution and devotion in the governor's chair. We must not surrender to the liberals, the left-wings, the extremist elements in the Democratic and Republican parties. Many of these national party leaders are nothing but political alley cats without principle, home, or destination. We must not allow our state political leaders to sell us down the river for political pottage. I was proud when Sen Rainach refused to stampede to New Orleans and bow to U.S. Sen. John Kennedy, who had already spit in the South's face. I feel that, if the state of Louisiana and the South in general does not demand self - respect during the next national election, the South shall sink into political turpitude. Sen. Rainach is not a machine man, and, if elected governor, he will not let any machine or any faction dictate the affairs of state. The strong fiber of this nation is made up of rugged individualism. Destroy this fiber and our nation will crumble like a house of sand. In late years too many of our leaders have failed us, and there has been a great erosion of public respect and confidence in our leaders. Too many of our leaders have been advocating oneness in all phases of our life. This is not the American way, and to impose it on our citizenship is only to fall victim of the great Communist conspiracy, whose leaders would make slaves of us all.

THIS LETTER is not meant as a reflection on any of the other candidates for governor. Several of these men are personal friends of mine, but many of them are also political opportunists. How many of them will stand up to the Northern left-wing politicans, to the radical elements of both parties? How many of them will throw road blocks in front of federal edicts that threaten to grind our Southern heritage into the sand? Sen. Rainach is the only candidate that I know of that has offered, if elected, to place the governor's chair between the radical decisions of the federal courts and our school children.

Let us not kid ourselves nor cover our heads with sand. If the high executives of our state do not come to our rescue, the edicts that are now being handed down by our high federal courts are going to catch the children, teachers, principals, superintendents, and school board members of our state like sitting ducks on a pond of water. The citizens of our communities will be expecting a stronger leadership than we can afford without the support of the governor's office. All hell will break loose in our local communities. Some of these communities will make Little Rock look like a peace party. It will take time to turn this tide of liberalism and radicalism, but turn it we must or your children and grandchildren will not enjoy the liberties and privileges that you and I have enjoyed.

ALREADY THE WINDS from the South are blowing hot. The Orleans Parish School Board must produce a plan to integrate immediately. Suits have been rekindled in East Baton Rouge and St. Helena Parishes. A promiment member of the NAACP has stated that Caddo Parish is close in line. Where is your parish on this list?

The fathers and mothers of our children must shoulder the responsibility of the outcome of this election and not leave it in the hands of the political bosses and ward heelers that are trying to reap material and political remuneration. The word integration is a terribly misused word. Some of our judges do not seem to understand its meaning. Many of us in our every day life associate with people of all shades of color. What we object to is being told with whom we must live, eat, and sleep. We do not even care to do this with some people of our own color. Forced integration will not immediately affect those people of wealth. It is the working people and poor people of all races who will suffer most.

Willie is an American statesman all of the way. He is not a half-breed between Americanism and some foreign ism. He takes pride in being a Southerner and a native of Louisiana.

SEN. RAINACH has not promised any pie in the sky. He has not promised a chicken in every pot nor two cars in every garage. But he has promised to fully implement the proposed teachers' salary schedule. I know Sen. Rainach to be sympathetic toward school problems. Mr. Rainach is a family man, having a wife and three children. His wife is a former school teacher.

Sen. Rainach is a Christian gentelman with high morals and is embodied with a high sense of justice. His life's story from an orphan's home to a leading citizen and a great statesman is a Cinderella story within itself. In closing I sincerely solicit your support for this great man for governor.

Sincerely yours,
F. C. HALEY,
Superintendent,
Claiborne Parish Schools.

N.J. Court Won't Delay Enforcement

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — The New Jersey Supreme Court refused Saturday to delay enforcement of a new Sunday sales law pending a ruling on its constitutionality.

In a unanimous decision, the seven justices ruled the law can go into effect immediately in the 12 of New Jersey's 21 counties which approved it at referenda Nov. 3.

Chief Justice Joseph Weintraub said the court felt it had no reason to stop police and county prosecutors from enforcing the law in an orderly way.

As approved in 12 counties, the law bans the sale of wearing apparel, building materials, furniture and appliances on Sunday. Three counties rejected such a law Nov. 3. Six others held no referenda on it.

The present case was started by two firms which maintain highway discount stores in the state—the Channel Lumber Co. and Two Guys from Harrison.

They claimed the Legislature unlawfully delegated law making powers to the people in authorizing the referendum, and that the classification between articles allowed and banned from sale was arbitrary and capricious.

Chancellor Grover C. Richman Jr. tossed out these contentions Friday and ruled the new law constitutional. He stayed enforcement until 4 p.m. Saturday however, so the State Supreme Court could hold its extraordinary Saturday session and decide whether to stay the law further.

Meanwhile, the plaintiffs filed appeal with the State Supreme Court, and the court set Dec. 22 as the date it will hear arguments on the constitutionality question itself.

Eligible Bachelor Interviewed

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—One of the world's most eligible bachelors—wealthy, handsome 22-year-old Prince Karim Aga Khan IV—talked long and enthusiastically Saturday in precise Harvard English about the problems of his 20 million Ismailis followers.

Put he dismissed with a blush in seconds any talk about personal romance.

"Is there any truth," one newsman asked him at a news conference in the Conquistador room of the Hotel Mark Hopkins, "to a recent report that you proposed to Sylvia Casablanca (19-year-old Mexican beauty)?"

Aga Khan blushed. His eyebrows lifted in an air of disbelief.

"The day I decide to get married I'll tell the press," he said. "But up to then it's a personal question."

The leader of Ismailis scattered over Asia, Africa and the Middle East is in San Francisco on a United States tour to help raise $2,500,000 for the African Research Foundation to extend medical treatment and research in East Africa.

But he made it clear that's merely one of many projects which have so occupied him that he's travelled nearly 300,000 miles since succeeding the late Aga Khan III.

His bulky grandfather once hoisted his 215-pounds on a scale while followers balanced the weight in gifts — one time gold, once platinum, once diamonds. The gift money went for welfare.

Would the young Aga Khan revive that practice?

Golden Rule May Start Next War

Editor's Note Three years ago a topflight Soviet military theorist published his views on warfare. In essence, they constitute a Soviet concept of World War III. These opinions are now available to the general public in English translation.

By BEM PRICE

WASHINGTON (AP) — If the Russians ever do unto others what they say they expect others to do unto them, World War III would really wreck this globe.

In the opinion of Maj. Gen. G. I. Pokrovsky, topflight Soviet scientist and military theorist, the Soviet Union should be prepared to defend herself against:

1. A surprise attack with long-range missiles.

2. An assault using every weapon of mass destruction in man's arsenal — thermonuclear bombs, chemicals and bacteria.

Pokrovsky's three - year - old views have been translated into English and published as a book, "Science and Technology in Contemporary War" by Frederick A. Praeger, Inc.

Pokrovsky, a nuclear expert, is a member of the Interdepartmental Commission for Interplanetary Communications, the outfit which launched the Soviet Sputniks and Luniks.

One thing Pokrovsky makes clear: He believes in the balanced force concept of defense; that is, all services and branches are of equal importance. He doesn't believe in the doctrine of massive deterrence.

"Strategic weapons systems can lead to the unexpected in military affairs. Strategic armament can completely change the whole character of warfare, converting the entire territory of even very large countries into arenas of combat," he writes.

"But strategic weapons, by their very nature, cannot be considered as independent and self-sufficient. All forms of weapons must be employed in warfare in a close and well - organized combined operation."

The 58-year-old Soviet general also notes: "A mass attack by long-range rockets, dealt by surprise, could be especially powerful. All this bespeaks the fact that the long-range rocket increases the role of surprise in contemporary warfare."

Pokrovsky makes it clear that the next war would require thousands of highly qualified technicians, but adds, "Contemporary warfare also requires mass field armies."

The Soviet general expresses the belief that long-range missiles are good only if you know the location of your target—enemy missile sites and industrial complexes.

They are no good, he contends, against highly mobile armies in the field, the people who will do the fighting after the strategic missiles have been launched.

N.J. Court Won't Delay Enforcement

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — The New Jersey Supreme Court refused Saturday to delay enforcement of a new Sunday sales law pending a ruling on its constitutionality.

In a unanimous decision, the seven justices ruled the law can go into effect immediately in the 12 of New Jersey's 21 counties which approved it at referenda Nov. 3.

Chief Justice Joseph Weintraub said the court felt it had no reason to stop police and county prosecutors from enforcing the law in an orderly way.

As approved in 12 counties, the law bans the sale of wearing apparel, building materials, furniture and appliances on Sunday. Three counties rejected such a law Nov. 3. Six others held no referenda on it.

The present case was started by two firms which maintain highway discount stores in the state—the Channel Lumber Co. and Two Guys from Harrison.

They claimed the Legislature unlawfully delegated law making powers to the people in authorizing the referendum, and that the classification between articles allowed and banned from sale was arbitrary and capricious.

Ark tossed out these contentions Friday and ruled the new law constitutional. He stayed enforcement until 4 p.m. Saturday however, so the State Supreme Court could hold its extraordinary Saturday session and decide whether to stay the law further.

Meanwhile, the plaintiffs filed appeal with the State Supreme Court, and the court set Dec. 22 as the date it will hear arguments on the constitutionality question itself.

Pete, Boxing Parakeet, Lifts 'Weights' To Keep In Trim.

(Staff photos by Richard Greene)

ANTI-CAT STRATEGY

Boxing Parakeet

By MARY ANNE CORPIN
Staff Writer

P. B. Scott, 425 Wilmuth St., watched as Pete, a multi-colored parakeet, zoomed to the window and attacked a Venetian blind cord.

Tobe, a large, 10-week-old tomcat, also looked on cooly. The boxing lessons are for Tobe's benefit, if he ever decides on parakeet platter.

"Get him, kick him, butt him, bite him, anything's fair," urged Scott. Pete butted the cord viciously.

'JUST JOKE'

In the traditional enmity between cat and bird, Pete has an edge — his flight wings and an ability to scream for help.

"One day, I heard the bird yelling, 'Kitty, kitty, kitty, succaat I got to the kitchen just in time to grab Tobe when he jumped at Pete." Scott mentioned.

Pete has been a member of the Scott household most of his eight months. Tobe arrived two months ago, to both Scott's and Pete's discomfort.

"My wife always wanted a cat, but never had one before. I hate them — except for this one," he said as Tobe climbed up into his lap.

FAVORS BIRD

But Scott favors the bird, an devised the fighting game, to keep Pete in trim.

Pete does everything a potential fighter should do. He spars with the blind cord, lifts his "weights" (the plastic tassel on the end of the cord), and on Scott's command becomes a "punch-drunk fighter."

"You're punch - drunk," chuckles Scott, bobbing up and down, and Pete imitates it perfectly.

Pete showed a fighting instinct one day when he pecked Scott on the arm. "I warned him not to do that, so he hopped to my other arm, and pecked that, too. I tapped him with a pencil, then, and he flew up to the ceiling and circled around and around the house, yelling, "Mama."

Pete, who has an extensive vocabularly, likes to listen in on phone calls.

QUESTION

"He perched on my wife's shoulder one day when she was talking to a friend of ours, named Marty. When she hung up, Pete looked at her and said, "Is Marty coming here" said Scott.

A card kibitzer Pete also watches when Scott plays solitaire then flies down and starts moving the cards off the deck to suit himself.

"Since we got the cat, we have to put Pete in his cage part of the time. He lived in the house before," Scott added.

Tobe has the run of the house, sleeps on the bed and apparently understands English.

"Tobe meows in my ear to wake me up in the morning. I got tired of that, so my wife told Tobe, 'Don't wake him up tomorrow morning.' The cat didn't bother me for the next two days— but he awoke my wife up both of those mornings. She didn't like that, so she told him to wake me up the next day and believe it or not, he did," said the amazed man.

KNOWS BEST

The soft, gray cat apparently knows what's good for him. When he arrived at the Scott household, he was accompanied by his brother, a blue - gray kitten. The two - week - old blue cat whipped a bulldog, and stood his ground to fight when any dog came near. Tobe ran.

The blue cat went down fighting outnumbered one afternoon; Tobe's "strategic retreat" saved his own life. Now, he "lives to ambush people," Scott quipped.

Tobe lies in wait, then jumps three feet in the air to startle anyone walking through the house.

But he will have to jump higher than that to come close to Pete — that's Pete's unspoken opinion, anyway, as he glares down from the lofty heights of the curtain rod, at the gray enemy.

Crash Programs To Train Scientists Considered Flop

EDITOR'S NOTE—Schools were made a kind of national whipping boy two years ago for America's lag in the missile race. With much fanfare, ambitious programs were announced for better science education. Here is a sobering look at just how much has actually been accomplished.

By G. K. HODENFIELD
AP Education Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—For two years this country has been talking about crash programs to train more scientists. We're still talking, but the programs apparently have flopped.

When the Soviets sent Sputnik I into orbit in the fall of 1957 there was a great outcry:

"We are lagging behind the Russians," it went. "Our schools are to blame."

SCAPEGOAT

The school was a handy scapegoat. Today's students are tomorrow's scientists, and any national program to train more scientists has to start in the classroom.

In some communities there has been remarkable improvement. But at best this is spotty progress. Nationwide, so-called crash programs seem to be wrapped in apathy and tied with red tape.

Dr. Ellsworth Obourne of the U. S. Office of Education says this country is now spending between 50 and 60 million dollars a year to improve science teaching. That includes expenditures by the government as well as foundations and private industry.

"This money is being poured in at the top of a funnel," says Dr. Obourne. "Very little is getting through to the local level where it is needed. It's like pouring money down a rathole."

In comparison to that 50-60 million dollars, the government this year is spending 68 million dollars on our fish and wildlife program. It is spending 82½ million to develop the recreational uses of our parks and public lands. It is spending more than 100 million for an atomic submarine.

AGREE

Scientists and educators agree there are five essentials to a good school program in science.

There must be a broad, comprehensive course of studies, from elementary grades through high school. There should be one well-trained guidance officer for each 200-300 high school students. And three must be good teachers good textbooks, good equipment and facilities.

Dr. James B. Conant, noted educator and former president of Harvard University, recently completed a two-year study of the American high school.

He found 75 per cent of them too small to offer a diversified program except at exorbitant expense. They can't afford advanced science courses for only a few students, they can't afford special teachers for those classes, they can't afford guidance officers, up-to-date textbooks, or laboratory equipment.

These too-small high schools enroll about one-third of the nation's high school students. The larger schools are doing better, but they, too, are strapped for money.

This is the situation, point-by-point, based on the latest studies and on a series of interviews with scientist and educators:

1. Curriculum: With a few notable exceptions, science study in the public schools hasn't changed much since the turn of the century.

A new physics course has been worked out by experts at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Similar work in biology is under way at the University of Colorado at Boulder. It may will be years, however, before these new programs are in general use throughout the country.

According to one expert, "There is a lag of at least 10 to 15 years between what goes on in science and what is taught in our schools."

EXCEPTIONS

There are heartening exceptions however, such as in San Angelo, Tex., where there is a coordinated science program from the first grade through the 12th. The junior high and high school courses have to be beefed up each year as better prepared pupils come into those grades. A somewhat similar program got under way in Georgia just this year. Baltimore County, Md., have overhauled its teaching of chemistry and biology. Denver, Colo., is reorganizing its entire science program.

2. Guidance Officers: By a conservative estimate there is a shortage of 15,000 guidance officers in this country. And, according to John T. Stewart of the Illinois State Office of Public Instruction, at least two - thirds of the counselors now employed do not meet minimum requirements.

Another source says less than nine per cent of the guidance officers have any background in science. Literally thousands of potential scientists are being lost to the field through poor counseling or none at all.

PROGRAMS

Several government programs designed to ease the shortage of high school counselors won't begin to fill the need for years to come.

Figures compiled by the National education Assn. show a shortage of 135,000 qualified teachers. The need in high school science is especially severe because many good potential science teachers are lured into private industry by better pay.

Many schools just can't offer the courses they would like to, for lack of a teacher. Many teachers with little or no science background are given science classes to teach, in the forlorn hope they'll at least be able to keep ahead of their students.

But it's more than just a shortage of teachers.

Says one scientist: "Many of our science teachers graduated from college 15-20 years ago. They have been following the same old course for years, and they're quite content with it.

Until we can bring these teachers up to date, we'll be teaching space age science with horse and buggy teachers."

SAME COURSE

The national Science Foundation, a government agency, is spending millions of dollars on summer institutes to bring science teachers up to date. Last summer there were 350 such institutes, each lasting from 6 to 10 weeks. Private industry has similar, but smaller, programs. Even so, these institutes can reach only a fraction of the teachers who need their help.

4. Textbooks: Sputnik I started whizzing around the earth more than two years ago. It will be at least another year or two before textbooks dealing with earth satellites are in general use around the country. In some schools, the students won't see those books for another four or five years.

SURVEY

According to a survey by the American Textbook Publishers Institute of New York—and the institute may be a bit prejudiced— the nation's high schools needed to buy 353 million dollars worth of textbooks last year to replace those which were worn out or obsolete. Actual purchases were 67 million dollars.

There is no national program for the purchase of textbooks. Even the National Defense Education Act of 1958, which provides for the build - up of science libraries, specifically bans the purchase of textbooks with NDEA funds.

Title Three of the NDEA provides for 16 million dollars in federal grants to the states to buy equipment for science, mathematics and foreign language teaching, and to employ state supervisors of instruction in those three fields.

But as of now, NDEA officials have no evidence that any of the federal funds have been spent on science equipment.

"When you only read about science, instead of actually experiencing it in the laboratory, it is very dull, dry and uninteresting," says Dr. Obourne of the Office of Education. The students dislike it, and they stay away from it."

Dr. Obourne sees only one hope for the future of science teaching in this country.

"We have to spark a flame at the local level," he says. "The teachers, the parents, the superintendents, the school board members - all those people must really want to do something about it. If we can stir up the fire in the individual schools and neighborhoods—that is our one big hope."

Gubernatorial Race

It has been conducted with dignity by some candidates, but with exactly the opposite by other candidates.

Three circulars offering no foundation of truth in factor inference have been distributed anonymously, statewide, against at least two candidates. This is one of the vilest forms of campaigning — a type of attack that never can be adequately answered, and which usually is best not answered at all.

There has been the not unusual presence of hatchetmen. The hatchetman usually is a candidate who attacks another candidate without regard to rules of decency or laws of slander, doing so not for his own benefit but to assist a third candidate — in hope of some kind of reward for the hatchetman if the third candidate is elected.

> All of this has tended to draw attention away from the highly important contests for the Legislature, which always have far too little attention.

The Legislature is a vital cog in government. It is impossible to have good government without a Legislature of capable and intellectual members, free of subservience to the Governor but supporting him in all steps beneficial to the state as a whole. A good Legislature can control a bad Governor. When both are on the undesirable side, the result can be governmental catastrophe.

The people of Louisiana have seen the importance of the Legislature clearly demonstrated during the present Earl K. Long administration.

It was only the fact that under the previous administration the people had established a constitutional provision against new taxation except through a two-thirds majority of the Legisiature that Governor Long was prevented from leading the state with new taxes. No one can know how far he would have gone in this direction had he been able to put over a major portion of his original pledge-breaking program.

It was only by a margin of one member of the House that, at times, a one-third majority against the morally corrupt Long schemes was maintained. And a switch of one vote, which opened the door for a switch of others, eventually enabled the Governor to pass the one major tax bill that did get through out of the many he proposed.

A strong and independent Legislature could have prevented much of the turmoil within the state government during the present Long administration.

It could have made it impossible for Governor Long even to get some of his bills to the floor for action.

It could have cracked down on him in many ways at many times.

It could not have made a good Governor out of him but it could have prevented much of the trouble that resulted from his normally dishonest scheming.

It could have prevented Louisiana from becoming a target for nationwide ridicule.

> Instead, the Legislature contained many members either of the same type as Governor Long or too much on the weakling side to resist him. The result was almost a two-thirds legislative majority for what may go down as the worst administration in Louisiana's history.

No matter who is elected Governor this time, it is vital that the Legislature be independent, that it should possess both collective and individual strength in its members, and that all of them should be persons who are determined to rescue Louisiana from the shambles into which Earl Longism has put it.

The Monroe Morning World and News-Star urge the people to study the legislative races closely, and to vote for candidates who are known for their honesty, their political integrity, and their capabilities in their home areas. The government of Louisiana is a $600,000,000 a year operation. Only the best should be on the "Board of Directors" — the Legislature— in guiding its affairs as representatives of the "Stockholders"— the people.

Labor Rebuffs Castro

The Cuban labor confederation early this week rejected Premier Fidel Castro's personal request for a Communist-supported "unity" program and elected an executive committee including no Reds.

The organization — two million strong — in its 10th labor congress voiced the first forthright opposition to Castro on an item of major importance. Following a four-day battle within its ranks, the labor federation finally swung behind the election of a 27-member executive board with no Communist representation. The vote marked a failure of Castro to swing the voting members behind his plan for a "united forces" labor plan.

Out of the more than 3,000 delegates assembled to form an executive committee for the congress, only 16 votes were cast for the plan to include Communists in the organization's governing body.

The action of the majority in itself was commendable. But coming as it did following Castro's open plea — actually a demand — for a coalition committee to head the organization, the results were almost unbelievable.

The revolutionary premier made an unexpected appearance before the delegates and launched into an act which would have put Hitler and Mussolini to shame. He spoke for four hours and kept the group in session past midnight. He charged the delegates were turning the conference into something on the order of a "lunatic asylum," and bitterly denounced members for their disputes prior to the final vote.

Receiving less attention was the move by the same Cuban labor congress to separate itself from the American Regional Labor Organization (ORIT.) Separation from this organization — an affiliate of the AFL-CIO — as well as the voting out of the Communist members of the executive board, is a strong indication Cuban labor wants to place itself on a more nationalistic footing.

Castro and his bearded rebels in taking over Cuba's government last January made rash promises concerning all-out land reform and a greater share of the island's wealth for the working classes.

Owners of land all over Cuba — both native and foreign title holders — have complained of seizure of lands and equipment without any process of law.

Now it appears the powerful labor Congress has also turned against the dictates of Castro in refusing to vote as he demanded regarding a "unity" or coalition executive committee including Communists.

Some observers have given Castro a maximum of six months to carry out his promised improvements or step down one way or another. Apparently, there is already dissention in the very areas where Castro figured he was strongest — labor and agriculture.

Federal Aviation Battle

Far Reaching Proposal Would Put Some 30,000 Employes Of Department Into Uniforms

WASHINGTON — A far-reaching proposal under which some 30,000 Federal Aviation Agency employes would be ordered into uniform and made part of a military - type organization is being readied for congressional consideration.

This highly unusual proposal, certain to draw congressional fire, is in draft form but a copy has been "leaked" to the writer.

In general it would affect all the agency's air traffic controllers, electronic maintenance technicians and flight inspectors.

The proposed legislation, in its present form, would force these employes to give six months notice before quitting their jobs.

By failing to live up to an "employment agreement" they could be "blackballed" from other government jobs, lost all credit for past gvernment service and forfeit all contributions to the government retirement fund.

In time of national emergency they could be given a penitentiary sentence for desertion if they resigned their jobs.

The proposal also would permit FAA to assign personnel anywhere inside or outside the continental United States.

The document in question was prepared by the FAA's office of plans and requirements. Under terms of the act creating the agency in 1958 FAA must present to congress by Jan. 1 a plan which would guarantee ground air control services to both civilian and military aviation in time of peace and war.

Under the proposal described here FAA would create a "blue-ribbon" military service to be called the Federal Aviation Service. In exchange for the restrictions and penalties involved FAS personnel would be given certain remunerations and fringe benefits workers.

Service in FAS would exempt members from compulsory military service and they would be given preference for federal civilian jobs under the Veterans Preferenct Act.

They would be allowed to retire on full annuities at any age after 30 years of service. Pre-employment and other required medical costs would be paid by FAA.

Anyone transferred to new posts would be paid special alowances to help them pay relocation costs for themselves and their families.

The proposal not only will generate congressional criticism from among those lawmakers who are opposed to any kind of civilian militarization in peace time but already has evoked bitter comment from FAA employes who would be affected.

Joseph J. Reno, president of the 8,000 - member Air Traffic Controllers Association, called the plan "stupid," "asinine" and "absolutely unnecessary."

Even FAA officials are reported to be sharply divided over the extent to which the majority of the agency's 34,000 employes should be militarized. Some agree, however, there should be some form of job restrictions in time of emergency.

FAA Administrator E. R. Quesada, a retired Air Force general, has not indicated how much, if any, of the plan he approves.

The staff report outlining the proposal said that FAA, operating as a traditional civil agency, cannot at this time guarantee its ability to serve the military defense of the nation if any extensive loss of trained personnel should occur. (Air traffic control duties at military bases in the United States and overseas will be taken over by FAA civilian employes.)

"This is a serious current problem, the dimensions of which are tremendously magnified when one considers the probability that the Continental United States may be an active theater of operations in any full - scale nuclear war," the report states.

Since FAA has to train most of its personnel because of the very nature of their work, the report pointed out, the agency should be permitted to retain them "for extended periods of time, if only to amortize its investment."

Noting that special benefits would have to be offered as an employment incentive in exchange for the military - type restrictions involved, the report explained:

"In short, the FAA personnel system will have to be made as attractive and remunerative as possible so that employes will be willing to accept the military requirements and restraints."

Strike Against Privately-Owned New York Bus Lines Planned

In New York City, a discussion is now taking place which is so characteristic of what is going on all over this country that it merits thought everywhere although it is a strictly local problem.

Michael Quill runs a transport workers union which is his private empire. Although the members of this union are mostly religious men and anti-Communist, in the early days, it was regarded as a Communist union, some of its controlling officers being of that persuasion. Quill is reputed no longer to have any associations with such persons.

One reason that Quill does enjoy a popularity among the members of his union is that he has increased their wages and improved their working conditions. But the New York City subway system is bankrupt and in a disgraceful condition. Its losses have become a drain upon the city.

Now Quill plans a strike on transportation about the time of the Christmas season. The strike is to be against the remaining privately-owned bus lines. It is estimated that it will cost $20,000,000 a year to fulfil Quill's demands. The operating company is caught in a pincers: it cannot absorb the increase by raising rates unless permitted to do so by the state authorities; it cannot decrease its taxes unless permitted to do so by the city; it can permit its plant and equipment to deteriorate until it will be unsafe to use busses or it can go into bankruptcy and thus politically force the city to take over the bus lines which the richest city in America cannot afford to do.

Compare this situation with some of the economic theories of Representative Charles O. Porter of Oregon who, in a letter to a businessman I know, wrote:

". . . 'each time our taxes are raised, we have to get the extra money out of the customer by increasing prices' is an utterly falacious conclusion, as any freshman student of economics could tell you. Raising prices to the consumer is in fact sometimes not even a feasible alternative . . . Taxes are like any other cost which may go up. Sometimes a business finds it prudent to pass the increased cost on to the consumer, sometimes it is utterly impossible. Alternatives must be constantly examined, such as cutting other costs, increasing productivity, changing the product mix of the company, reducing dividends and cutting executivxe salaries . . ."

Representative Porter studied at Harvard where he achieved a cum laude. From his statements concerning economics, it would appear that he must have studied at the feet of some Keynesian economists who infested that and other American universities during the 1930's and 1940's.

The economic system is never as flexible as the Keynesian economists say. Were it so, no business would ever go broke. For instance, in his letter on the subject, Representative Porter writes of the possibility of cutting other costs. What costs? The two principal costs that any industry faces are wages and taxes. Neither can be cut. Wages are usually fixed by an agreement with a union.

The only ways to cut wages are to lay off unnecessary workers, to limit or lessen featherbedding or to increase automatic processes. The steel strike is taking place precisely because industry demands a revision of work rules, rejects featherbedding and therefore would reduce manpower if wages are increased.

Taxes, of course, cannot be cut because taxes are a first lien on earnings and are determined not by negotiations but by legislation.

Porter also suggests reducing dividends and cutting executive salaries as alternatives to increasing prices. If dividends are not adequate to attract capital, how does a business expand? The dividend is not only a compensation for money borrowed, (it is euphemistically called invested) to run a business, but it is a stabilizer of the credit standing of a company. An investor—that is one who at a risk lends his savings to a company—prefers not to put it into blue chips for safety but rather into new and currently expanding enterprises for a reward for his courage. The dividend is what he looks for as an index. Porter's ideas would make it impossible to start small businesses or to expand them on borrowed (often called "public") money.

As for cutting salaries, industry has a tough enough time finding suitable men. Brain-power, experience, knowledge, imagina- law of supply and demand.

Dream Of Okinawa

Priceless Piece Of Island Real Estate Means Long Runways

KADENA, OKINAWA — You tell me your dream — any military man will tell you his. It's Okinawa.

To the Air Force this priceless piece of island real estate means long runways and short missions. To the Army, an ideal staging area that was bought 14 years ago in Army blood. To the Navy, a harbor big enough to accommodate most of the Seventh Fleet and a permanent base for the supporting Third Marine Division.

For all the American Armed Services, Okinawa represents — a place of their own. The Ryukyu Islands (Okinawa, about 70 miles long, is the largest) is governed by the Defense Department. The Army is executive agent and provides the High Commissioner. He governs 50,000 Americans, 600,000 Okinawans and 200,000 Rsukyuans on the smaller islands. The Air Force is the only service which is here in strength. The overall military reason for being here is best told bluntly — to strike the enemy anywhere on the Asia mainland.

In specifics, the American military likes and needs Okinawa because it is dissimilar to other Far Pacific bases. The docile Ryukyuans don't want independence, or "Yankee Go Home", although their leftists agitate very unconvincingly for a reversion to Japanese ownership. The Leftists here are free to demonstrate, but they cannot, as the Japanese Socialists have done at Tachikawa Air Force Base, go to court and prevent the Americans from extending the runways to take heavier, faster planes. Unlike the Filipinos, the Ryukyuans are not feeling the green oats of commendable if adolescent nationalism. Despite exaggerated news stories out of Japan, the R's make little trouble for our military commanders. Unlike the Nationalist Chinese, the R's are not encumbered with a fugitive government of dubious duration.

On Okinawa our military planners can do what they like, or what they must, in our national interest. This has not, as yet, included any suppression of speech, press or assembly. Although the High Commissioner appoints the Islands' chief executive, the R's elect their own legislature, 3/4 of the 29 members are Leftists and mayors. But the total military authority here includes, without explanation or apology, the storing of all suitable explosives, including nuclears.

If anyone finds a ring of Jingo in these propositions, he should lodge his complaint where it belongs. There were meddling statesmen, 1940-50, who turned the United States into an intervening military power. It shouldn't have happened, but it did. The same interventionist school is now producing pupils who want us to disarm and withdraw. The only common level between intervention, 1940-50, ane withdrawal, 1953-59, seems to be the Share America Movement. But to disarm and withdraw from the Far East now, having become so unhappily engulfed in this yellow tide, would be to engineer a mammoth disaster. It could be the end of us.

The three services on Okinawa are no farther from enemy bases than the enemy bases are from here. Hence the mission includes defense as well as offense. The 313th Air Division, under Major General Dale Smith, has two jet fighter wings. One (F-100's) is a mobile striking force. With deployment and refueling, this atomic-capable unit can hit almost anywhere in the Far East.

The other wing on Okinawa (F-86's and F102's) is for air defense of the area. Attached to the defenders is a reconnaissance squadron (F-101's and a combat cargo squadron (C130's) to airlift ground equipment without which the jets cannot fly.

On the bluff called Suicide Cliff, where the Japanese High Command committed hari-kari after losing the battle, stand the Nike-Hercules missiles. The Army here is chiefly quartermaster for the back-up of the front in Korea. The Navy is the Seventh Fleet which patrols the Western Pacific, supported by the Third Marine Division which is here to assault alien beachheads, as required.

The Armed Services are equipped to handle the enemy in front. But the enemy in the rear is the one which could cut us down, as in the past. The poor fools, it seems, are always with us. During my time here, the Senate Foreign Relations committe released a privatelycontracted report with recommendations for the Far East.

From the military viewpoint, this report has only two characteristics. It was prepared by a "professor" with familiar theories of withdrawal and disarmament. It contains recommendations which are indistinguishable from the stated objectives of Sino-Russian Communists. This "association" of ideas does not necessarily imply any "guilt". But if we follow the recommendations of this report, by weakening our allies in Korea and Taiwan, by accommodating Red Chinese, the Japanese Socialists and the Ryukyuan Leftists, it all means that we must find an entirely new Far Eastern policy. And the question is — such as?

RECEIVES HOG CHECK
Bastrop, La.

To the Editor:

I received the check for my market barrows yesterday. I want to thank you for your interest and generosity in our 4-H club work. Thanks so much for supporting our club and buying my pigs.

I am 11 years old and belong to the Pine Grove 4-H club. One of my barrows was grand champion at the Morehouse fair but when I got to Shreveport one was sold to a packing company and two got into the show but didn't win any ribbons. I plan to work hard toward a winner at Shreveport next year.

I borrowed money from the Bank of Morehouse to buy and feed my pigs. I had begun to wonder how I was going to pay my note but with your generosity I can pay my note and have a good start on my next 4-H project (swine).

Thanks again for everything. I would like very much to thank you personally and maybe I will have that opportunity sometime.

P. S. How about getting personal? Do you know a good boy named Bob Bryan. He is my cousin and so is Bill Bryan. I miss him too.

UNEFORCED LAWS
Wisner, La.

To The Editor:

I am intensely interested in your editorial of November 20th concerning obsolete or unenforceable laws.

You had a similar article on your editorial page on December 18, 1957, entitled "Unenforced Laws." At that time I wrote you thanking you for your stand on this problem and your effort to educate the public and arouse public opinion against the contempt with which too many public officials treat many of our laws.

The particular unenforced law which results in hundreds of deaths each year and with which I am all too familiar, is the one called the Louisiana Stop Law at all railroad crossings. Since my letter to you concerning this problem (which you published), I have saved many clippings from your paper recording the tragic deaths of many people because this law is not enforced or removed from our statutes. The latest one was a man, his wife, and four or five children just this past week. I feel that my efforts in this matter are all but futile, but it gives me hope when you too keep pecking away at it. Meantime, the rural crossings continue to be deadly hazards that all of us have to cross every day.

Man Almost Buried Alive

LIMA, Peru (AP)—Vincente Tupalaya was a very sick man Saturday. But it was better than what might have been. He missed being buried for dead by just a few minutes two days ago.

The strange story of the near-burial came from the hamlet of Huamancaca Grande, an Inca Indian settlement 10,500 feet high in the Andes.

Tupalaya, 43, suffered a heart attack which left him unconscious. Hid disconsolate family believed him dead and he was thus recorded in the village records.

On the last of a three-day wake, Jose Sanmaniego, a barber and relative was surprised at the good condition of the "corpse," and called a physician. The latter said Tupalaya was unconscious but that his heart was beating.

The sick man was removed to a hospital at Huancayo Friday and his family put aside the crude coffin for use in the indefinite future.

The embalming process is not customary in South America and the dead usually are buried within 24 hours. In the remote Indian villages of the Andes this period frequently is extended to days since decomposition is slowed by constant low temperatures.

Gubernatorial Race

It has been conducted with dignity by some candidates, but with exactly the opposite by other candidates.

Three circulars offering no foundation of truth in factor inference have been distributed anonymously, statewide, against at least two candidates. This is one of the vilest forms of campaigning — a type of attack that never can be adequately answered, and which usually is best not answered at all.

There has been the not unusual presence of hatchetmen. The hatchetman usually is a candidate who attacks another candidate without regard to rules of decency or laws of slander, doing so not for his own benefit but to assist a third candidate — in hope of some kind of reward for the hatchetman if the third candidate is elected.

> All of this has tended to draw attention away from the highly important contests for the Legislature, which always have far too little attention.

The Legislature is a vital cog in government. It is impossible to have good government without a Legislature of capable and intellectual members, free of subservience to the Governor but supporting him in all steps beneficial to the state as a whole. A good Legislature can control a bad Governor. When both are on the undesirable side, the result can be governmental catastrophe.

The people of Louisiana have seen the importance of the Legislature clearly demonstrated during the present Earl K. Long administration.

It was only the fact that under the previous administration the people had established a constitutional provision against new taxation except through a two-thirds majority of the Legislature that Governor Long was prevented from leading the state with new taxes. No one can know how far he would have gone in this direction had he been able to put over a major portion of his original pledge-breaking program.

It was only by a margin of one member of the House that, at times, a one-third majority against the morally corrupt Long schemes was maintained. And a switch of one vote, which opened the door for a switch of others, eventually enabled the Governor to pass the one major tax bill that did get through out of the many he proposed.

A strong and independent Legislature could have prevented much of the turmoil within the state government during the present Long administration.

It could have made it impossible for Governor Long even to get some of his bills to the floor for action.

It could have cracked down on him in many ways at many times.

It could not have made a good Governor out of him but it could have prevented much of the trouble that resulted from his normally dishonest scheming.

It could have prevented Louisiana from becoming a target for nationwide ridicule.

> Instead, the Legislature contained many members either of the same type as Governor Long or too much on the weakling side to resist him. The result was almost a two-thirds legislative majority for what may go down as the worst administration in Louisiana's history.

No matter who is elected Governor this time, it is vital that the Legislature be independent, that it should possess both collective and individual strength in its members, and that all of them should be persons who are determined to rescue Louisiana from the shambles into which Earl Longism has put it.

The Monroe Morning World and News-Star urge the people to study the legislative races closely, and to vote for candidates who are known for their honesty, their political integrity, and their capabilities in their home areas. The government of Louisiana is a $600,000,000 a year operation. Only the best should be on the "Board of Directors" — the Legislature— in guiding its affairs as representatives of the "Stockholders"— the people.

Labor Rebuffs Castro

The Cuban labor confederation early this week rejected Premier Fidel Castro's personal request for a Communist-supported "unity" program and elected an executive committee including no Reds.

The organization — two million strong — in its 10th labor congress voiced the first forthright opposition to Castro on an item of major importance. Following a four-day battle within its ranks, the labor federation finally swung behind the election of a 27-member executive board with no Communist representation. The vote marked a failure of Castro to swing the voting members behind his plan for a "united forces" labor plan.

Out of the more than 3,000 delegates assembled to form an executive committee for the congress, only 16 votes were cast for the plan to include Communists in the organization's governing body.

The action of the majority in itself was commendable. But coming as it did following Castro's open plea — actually a demand — for a coalition committee to head the organization, the results were almost unbelievable.

The revolutionary premier made an unexpected appearance before the delegates and launched into an act which would have put Hitler and Mussolini to shame. He spoke for four hours and kept the group in session past midnight. He charged the delegates were turning the conference into something on the order of a "lunatic asylum," and bitterly denounced members for their disputes prior to the final vote.

Receiving less attention was the move by the same Cuban labor congress to separate itself from the American Regional Labor Organization (ORIT.) Separation from this organization — an affiliate of the AFL-CIO — as well as the voting out of the Communist members of the executive board, is a strong indication Cuban labor wants to place itself on a more nationalistic footing.

Now it appears the powerful labor Congress has also turned against the dictates of Castro in refusing to vote as he demanded regarding a "unity" or coalition executive committee including Communists.

Some observers have given Castro a maximum of six months to carry out his promised improvements or step down one way or another. Apparently, there is already dissention in the very areas where Castro figured he was strongest — labor and agriculture.

To the Navy, a harbor big enough to accommodate most of the Seventh Fleet and a permanent base for the supporting Third Marine Division.

For all the American Armed Services, Okinawa represents — a place of their own. The Ryukyu Islands (Okinawa, about 70 miles long, is the largest) is governed by the Defense Department. The Army is executive agent and provides the High Commissioner. He governs 50,000 Americans, 600,000 Okinawans and 200,000 Rsukyuans on the smaller islands. The Air Force is the only service which is here in strength. The overall military reason for being here is best told bluntly — to strike the enemy anywhere on the Asia mainland.

In specifics, the American military likes and needs Okinawa because it is dissimilar to other Far Pacific bases. The docile Ryukyuans don't want independence, or "Yankee Go Home", although their leftists agitate very unconvincingly for a reversion to Japanese ownership. The Leftists here are free to demonstrate, but they cannot, as the Japanese Socialists have done at Tachikawa Air Force Base, go to court and prevent the Americans from extending the runways to take heavier, faster planes. Unlike the Filipinos, the Ryukyuans are not feeling the green oats of commendable if adolescent nationalism. Despite exaggerated news stories out of Japan, the R's make little trouble for our military commanders. Unlike the Nationalist Chinese, the R's are not encumbered with a fugitive government of dubious duration.

On Okinawa our military planners can do what they like, or what they must, in our national interest. This has not, as yet, included any suppression of speech, press or assembly. Although the High Commissioner appoints the Islands' chief executive, the R's elect their own legislature, 3/4 of the 29 members are Leftists and mayors. But the total military authority here includes, without explanation or apology, the storing of all suitable explosives, including nuclears.

If anyone finds a ring of Jingo in these propositions, he should lodge his complaint where it belongs. There were meddling statesmen, 1940-50, who turned the United States into an intervening military power. It shouldn't have happened, but it did. The same interventionist school is now producing pupils who want us to disarm and withdraw. The only common level between intervention, 1940-50, ane withdrawal, 1953-59, seems to be the Share America Movement. But to disarm and withdraw from the Far East now, having become so unhappily engulfed in this yellow tide, would be to engineer a mammoth disaster. It could be the end of us.

The three services on Okinawa are no farther from enemy bases than the enemy bases are from here. Hence the mission includes defense as well as offense. The 313th Air Division, under Major General Dale Smith, has two jet fighter wings. One (F-100's) is a mobile striking force. With deployment and refueling, this atomic-capable unit can hit almost anywhere in the Far East.

The other wing on Okinawa (F-86's and F102's) is for air defense of the area. Attached to the defenders is a reconnaissance squadron (F-101's and a combat cargo squadron (C130's) to airlift ground equipment without which the jets cannot fly.

On the bluff called Suicide Cliff, where the Japanese High Command committed hari-kari after losing the battle, stand the Nike-Hercules missiles. The Army here is chiefly quartermaster for the back-up of the front in Korea. The Navy is the Seventh Fleet which patrols the Western Pacific, supported by the Third Marine Division which is here to assault alien beachheads, as required.

The Armed Services are equipped to handle the enemy in front. But the enemy in the rear is the one which could cut us down, as in the past. The poor fools, it seems, are always with us. During my time here, the Senate Foreign Relations committe released a privatelycontracted report with recommendations for the Far East.

From the military viewpoint, this report has only two characteristics. It was prepared by a "professor" with familiar theories of withdrawal and disarmament. It contains recommendations which are indistinguishable from the stated objectives of Sino-Russian Communists. This "association" of ideas does not necessarily imply any "guilt". But if we follow the recommendations of this report, by weakening our allies in Korea and Taiwan, by accommodating Red Chinese, the Japanese Socialists and the Ryukyuan Leftists, it all means that we must find an entirely new Far Eastern policy. And the question is — such as?

RECEIVES HOG CHECK
Bastrop, La.

To the Editor:

I received the check for my market barrows yesterday. I want to thank you for your interest and generosity in our 4-H club work. Thanks so much for supporting our club and buying my pigs.

I am 11 years old and belong to the Pine Grove 4-H club. One of my barrows was grand champion at the Morehouse fair but when I got to Shreveport one was sold to a packing company and two got into the show but didn't win any ribbons. I plan to work hard toward a winner at Shreveport next year.

I borrowed money from the Bank of Morehouse to buy and feed my pigs. I had begun to wonder how I was going to pay my note but with your generosity I can pay my note and have a good start on my next 4-H project (swine).

Thanks again for everything. I would like very much to thank you personally and maybe I will have that opportunity sometime.

P. S. How about getting personal? Do you know a good boy named Bob Bryan. He is my cousin and so is Bill Bryan. I miss him too.

UNEFORCED LAWS
Wisner, La.

To The Editor:

I am intensely interested in your editorial of November 20th concerning obsolete or unenforceable laws.

You had a similar article on your editorial page on December 18, 1957, entitled "Unenforced Laws." At that time I wrote you thanking you for your stand on this problem and your effort to educate the public and arouse public opinion against the contempt with which too many public officials treat many of our laws.

The particular unenforced law which results in hundreds of deaths each year and with which I am all too familiar, is the one called the Louisiana Stop Law at all railroad crossings. Since my letter to you concerning this problem (which you published), I have saved many clippings from your paper recording the tragic deaths of many people because this law is not enforced or removed from our statutes. The latest one was a man, his wife, and four or five children just this past week. I feel that my efforts in this matter are all but futile, but it gives me hope when you too keep pecking away at it. Meantime, the rural crossings continue to be deadly hazards that all of us have to cross every day.

Man Almost Buried Alive

LIMA, Peru (AP)—Vincente Tupalaya was a very sick man Saturday. But it was better than what might have been. He missed being buried for dead by just a few minutes two days ago.

The strange story of the near-burial came from the hamlet of Huamancaca Grande, an Inca Indian settlement 10,500 feet high in the Andes.

Tupalaya, 43, suffered a heart attack which left him unconscious. Hid disconsolate family believed him dead and he was thus recorded in the village records.

On the last of a three-day wake, Jose Sanmaniego, a barber and relative was surprised at the good condition of the "corpse," and called a physician. The latter said Tupalaya was unconscious but that his heart was beating.

The sick man was removed to a hospital at Huancayo Friday and his family put aside the crude coffin for use in the indefinite future.

The embalming process is not customary in South America and the dead usually are buried within 24 hours. In the remote Indian villages of the Andes this period frequently is extended to days since decomposition is slowed by constant low temperatures.

Man's Greatest Dream

English Tunnel

By COLIN FROST

Here in the Victorian golden age men started digging to link England with France, to spread prosperity and foster peace.

They drove a shaft 700 feet deep into the chalk. The wooden hut conceals its entrance. From the bottom of the shaft they tunnelled nearly a mile beneath the Channel.

The tunnel is still there, dank and abandoned, a useless monument to man's suspicion of his neighbor.

Now hope is rising again for the Channel tunnel, a project first thought of in the 18th century. Powerful British, French and American interests will decide next year if it can be built.

The unlikely father of this hope is President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic.

In 1956 he nationalized the Suez Canal. The well-heeled Anglo-French Canal Co., deprived of its prize asset, looked around for other interests. A Channel tunnel seemed the obvious choice.

Today the canal company, 44 per cent owned by the British government, is equal partner in a study group which over the past two years has spent $670,000 investigating the tunnel's chances of success.

Its other partners are Technical Studies, Inc., a group of American financiers, and the British and French Channel Tunnel Cos., which started the digging back in 1881 and were forced to abandon it two years later.

By early next year the study group expects to answer these questions:

Can a tunnel be built, and for what price?

Can it attract enough traffic to pay its way?

Right now the signs look hopeful.

The surveyors found three layers of chalk and below that, clay. The bottom layer of chalk, they say, might have been designed by nature itself as the perfect medium for tunneling.

Economists look to Europe's ever increasing road traffic to give the tunnel healthy revenue. Nonetheless, it would not be a road tunnel.

Cars and trucks, they say, can be handled more speedily, safely and cheaply by running them on to railroad flatcars.

The best informed estimate of cost at the moment is 364 million dollars for a double rail tunnel of 36 miles, 22 of them under the sea.

Experts estimate the tunnel could quickly attract one million cars a year, six million passengers and 500,000 tons of fast freight to give an annual income of $30,800,000.

After deducting operating costs they believe the project could yield 7¾ per cent annually on capital—enough to attract investment from all over the world.

However attractive financially, the project faces tough opposition. British diehards have long looked on the Channel as their surest defense against a continental assault on their homes in war and their morals in peace.

Old soldiers still talk the same way and none louder than Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery.

"This Channel tunnel is a wildcat scheme and I am wholeheartedly opposed to it," he says. "It would strike severe blow at British strategy, which has always been based on the inviolability of our island."

The stock answer to the military men is that if war comes the tunnel can be flooded or blown up. The soldiers reply that decisions of this kind always are taken too late.

This time, however, the soldiers may not have the last word.

A powerful pro-tunnel lobby exists inside the British Parliament. In France, the most foreceful tunnel advocate is Louis Armand, 54-year-old organizing genius who made the French state railroads the most modern in Europe. He sees the tunnel as a certain booster of railroad revenue.

In the end, however, the main obstacle facing the tunnelers may be Europe's increasing division into two trade blocs.

In 1957, when the study group started work, it confidently was expected that Britain would join with France in the six-nation European Common Market, and cross-Channel trade would soar.

The British, however, stayed out. And so once more British insularity, this time mercantile and not military, may prove the end of a fascinating dream.

YOUNGEST EVER ADMITTED TO VIENNA

Short Of Stature, Long On Talent

By PETER HOFFER

VIENNA (AP)—The youngest student ever admitted to the famed Vienna Academy of Music is a 9-year-old American girl with blonde curls, a ready smile, and remarkable mastery of the keyboard.

Giorgiana Bender, daughter of a retired United States Air Force officer, has been the "Wunderkind" (child wonder) of the academy since she was accepted for the six-year course of piano studies in the spring of 1958.

Georgy, as she is called by her parents, was born at Wright - Patterson Air Force Base in Ohio when her father, Lt. Col. George F. Bender, was stationed there. The family moved to Riederau in upper Bavaria when Bender retired from the Air Force.

"Georgy loved to play the piano from the very start," says the child's mother. "She would pick out little tunes on the keyboard and finally I decided to give her lessons, when she was only four." The mother is an amateur pianist.

Says Georgy, showing her talented hands:

"I always liked to play the piano, ever since I can remember. When other girls were outside, I liked to practice. In the beginning, when I could not read notes, I played from memory, but now I can play nearly any classic piece of music if it is within the reach of my hands."

If life is touch for a "Wunderkind," Giorgiana does not show it. She looks happy. After lessons and four to five hours of daily practicing, she has little time for play. But she loves her dolls and teddy bears of which she has a large family, all lovingly cared for.

Among the first to recognize her astonishing musical talent was German composer and professor Richard Trunk. He advised the Benders to let little Giorgiana have regular instruction from a music teacher and at the age of 5 she entered her first public piano competition at Munich, emerging first in her age group.

Georgy, only 4-ft.-2, cannot reach the piano pedals and has a special pedal attachment so that she can play.

Before moving to Vienna Georgy won recognition in West Germany as a "Wunderkind," giving a 1½ hour recital from memory playing Beethoven, Schubert, Mozart and Bach, plus a series of pieces "for small hands" specially written for her by composer Trunk.

The Benders live near the academy and daily, accompanied by her mother, Georgy walks to the grey - walled building where the next youngest student is aged 16 and students are generally admitted at 16.

Georgy takes piano lessons, studies music theory, harmony and instrumentation in addition to the German language. In all subjects she has excellent grades.

"Georgy," says her mother, "finds it hard to associate with girls of her age and even older girls. She is so very different, even though she does not actually feel it. Her life is dedicated to the piano and she loves every minute of it.

"Each time when we go home after a concert I ask my little girl 'do you still want to become a pianist? You heard how hard it is.' 'Of course I do,' Giorgiana always replies," Mrs. Bender says.

For Thousands In U.S.

Curfew Tonight

By FRANCIS STILLEY
Associated Press Staff Writer

Curfew rings tonight and every night for thousands of young people all over America.

In Watkins Glen, N.Y., the custodian on duty at the Village Hall takes hold of a bel rope at 10 p.m. and tugs away. The clanging of the bell is a reminder to youths under 17 to be off the streets — at home. The Village Board recently okayed funds for a new bell rope.

Some towns sound church bells, some toot whistles and others blow fire sirens. Still others do none of these but maintain a curfew just the same; it is the law and everyone knows it. The hours vary.

YOUNG FOLKS

The curfew for young folk is a practice of long standing and wide use in the United States.

In some communities when juveniles are found meandering around streets late at night, they are merely picked up by officers and their parents notified.

Sometimes there is drastic punishment, parents included.

In other cases curfew regulations are strictly enforced only when and if it seems necessary.

Curfews were widely employed during World War II, but after the war many plans were either dropped outright or just forgotten.

However, in recent years they were revived or new legislation put them into effect to cope with growing juvenile delinquency troubles.

Generally, rules don't apply to children accompanied by parents or authorized persons, or in travel to and from legitimate events.

An Associated Press survey shows that about half the states use curfew laws of varying degrees of strictness. Primarily it is a matter of steps taken by individual communities rather than by state legislatures.

Another fourth have a mixed situation. The rest either have no curfew laws or never use them even though they are on the books.

Of the 50 per cent which do use curfew regulations, responsible officials in nearly all believe the restrictions are worthwhile—although there are some strong opposing arguments.

OBJECTIONS.

Main objections are that it is almost impossible to achieve 100 per cent compliance, that there are too many authorized functions which now keep children out late and that it is pointless to penalize the well-behaved majority for the failure of the few.

Numerous authorities say, also, that other ordinances such as anti-loitering laws enable officers to handle the situation better than a curfew rule.

On the other hand, the curfew comes in for high praise too.

Wheeling, W. Va., adopted the plan a little less than a year ago and now 30 sirens scattered around the city are touched off nightly at 10 o'clock. After that, youngsters under 16 have about 15 or 20 minutes to get off the streets. On football game nights the leeway is a little greater.

Police Chief Harry Wolf estimates that the curfew has reduced offenses by juveniles under 16 by 95 per cent.

He says enforcement has been no problem.

Wheeling has a population of 59,000 and the curfew was given a lot of advance publicity before it became official. Then police bore down hard a few days to let everyone know they meant business.

"We'd almost have to double the size of the police force in trying to enforce a night curfew. If we were to put one in, it would mean that to be worthwhile, neighboring cities and villages would have to do the same. Otherwise, ours would be a waste."

Pointing up the marked contrast in attitudes is the case of Chicago, where more than a million youngsters are affected by curfew regulations. All under 17 must be off the streets by 10:30 p.m. Sunday through Thursday, and by 11 p.m. on Friday and Saturday.

Polict Lt. Michael Delaney, head of the Youth Bureau says the law is publicly accepted and that it has been beneficial in holding down youth crime. The law has the support of all agencies dealing with youth problems.

In the United States, a Col. Alexander Hogeland of Nebraska, is credited as the "father of the curfew law."

INTRODUCED

Hogeland was said to have introduced the first ordinance in Omaha in 1880 to keep youngsters from hanging around steamboat landings, rail stations and low variety shows.

Varying rules date back more than 50 years in Cleveland, Ohio; Hot Springs, Ark., Grand Island, Neb., and Salt Lake City, Utah. Numerous other communities have long-standing statues.

Authorities point out that modern day youth problems are much more difficult because now "the kids are on wheels." They go tearing about the countryside in cars—sometimes stolen ones.

The reference was to the young gangs of New York City, where 11 youthful slayings have occured on the streets since the first of the year. New York has no curfew. There has been some talk of establishing one but the ruling fathers appear to favor tighter police surveillance of the streets instead.

Another new type of problem has been the congregation of youngsters around drive-in theaters and restaurants and resulting altercations. In Orlando, Fla., certain restaurants recently started hiring off-duty police to preserve order.

Hours and ages covered by curfews vary widely around the nation. But in general the hours of 9 and 10 p. m. are the most popular deadlines and the top age limit seldom exceeds 18.

However, Flomaton, Ala., a town of about 4,000, imposed a rigid curfew in August after an outbreak of gang deviltry. Youngsters under 21 must be off the streets between 11 p.m. and 6 a.m. Jail terms up to six months and fines reaching $100 can be imposed on both youths and their parents. Police say everything is quiet now.

In Oregon, all children under 18 are covered by a 1953 state law prescribing a midnight to 4 a.m. curfew period.

A Cleveland ordinance in effect since 1943 bans children under 12 from city streets between dark and dawn, and those under 16 from 11 p.m. to 6 a.m. The law is invoked only when special situations arise.

Penalties for curfew violations over the nation range from a bawling out for youngsters to severe measures affecting both child and parents.

Probably the stiffest is in Sacramento, Calif. Parents are subject to $50 fines and 10 days in jail for first offenses of their offspring, and as much as $500 and 90 days for third violations.

However, authorities can't recall the last prosecution, they are so rare. The law applies to unescorted children uner 18 on the streets after 10 p.m. unless they have a good reason.

A typical favorable comment on the curfew comes from polict Lt. Ernest Sauer, head of the department's juvenile division at Phoenix, Ariz., where parents of chronic offenders have been jailed.

"We think it's a real good weapon against delinquents," he says. "Generally we have real fine cooperation. It gives parents a hammer over the kids' heads without making them out as old fogies."

Nashville, Tenn., adopted an 11 p.m. curfew for all under 18 two years ago at the suggestion of Police Chief D.E. Hoose. At the time there were four or five complaints nightly about young hoodlums.

"Now," according to the chief, "we sometimes go a week without a single complaint."

Baltimore has what is called the Battaglia Plan, originated by Police Capt. Frank J. Battaglia. Around 10 p.m., police begin stopping young motorists to check their drivers' licenses and car registration.

But Greenwich, Conn., has no curfew and doesn't plan one. Police Chief David W. Robbins says:

"I think they are ineffective and difficult to enforce. Persons who would observe a curfew are not the ones you would have trouble with.

"Those with criminal intent and who reject authority would not observe them at any rate. A curfew works a hardship and is an unfair restriction on the majority of our youth, who are law abiding."

The New Jersey Youth Commission also opposes curfews and said in a 1957 report:

"Curfews do not touch the roots of the delinquency problem and are usually unenforceable. Such restriction are likely to produce further disrespect for laws as well as constitute an intrusion into the rights of all youth."

Many officials share the opinion of Probate Court Judge W.E. Smith in Boise, Idaho.

"You can't legislate good behavior among youngsters. If you want to see an end to juvenile deliquency you have to return to the fundamental values of society.

"Good morality begins at home," the judge says.

TWILIGHT OF THE TYRANTS. By Tad Szulc. Holt. $4.50.

Latin America remains terra incognita to many North Americans. Here is a perceptive new book by a distinguished New York Times correspondent which offers a readable short course in modern South America, the trends shaping its future and the dictator - marred years of the recent past.

Szulc probes the final hours of what he describes as "the long age of dictators in Latin America . . . finally in its twilight." He takes the reader into the regimes of Juan Peron of Argentina, Marcos Perez Jimenez of Venezuela, Gustavo Rojas Pinilla of Colombia, Manuel Odria of Peru and Getulio Vargas of Brazil.

Latin America remains in ferment. But political maturity has come far and is coming farther fast. The military has stood behind democratic civilian regimes after helping them oust dictatorships.

Popular reaction showed that the dictators — who varied widely both as men and in techniques of rule — erred basically in their conviction that given prosperity there need not be individual freedom.

The population and political importance of Latin America is growing with tremendous rapidity. This book will be both instructive and interesting for the North American who wishes to be informed on an area of increasing significance.

Guide To Good Reading

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

Although this is the busy season of the year for many people, everyone has some time to read, if he will only take advantage of his opportunities. The Ouachita Parish Public Library is adding new books weekly and there are many available for all types of readers.

"Krishna Fluting" by John Berry is the book which won the MacMillan fiction contest. The story is an exotic one, with many conflict in the characters. It will not appeal to all readers, but it is not a book to overlook. "Radius of Action" by De Witt Copp is a masculine adventure story which will appeal to many readers. Of interest to many readers will be "Only in New England" by Theodore Roscoe. One of the most popular books of recent years was "Tammy Out of Time" by Cid Ricketts Sumner. Now the author has given us a sequal to this book called "Tammy Tell Me True." It is certain to be as popular as the first one and the author has lost nothing in her second presentation. A new historical novel is "The French Dragoon" by Roger Rudigoz. It has it's setting in Napoleonic France and is extremely well-done. "Citadel of God" by Louis de Wohl is a novel based on the life of St. Benedict. It is another in de Wohl's series of fictionalized biographies of the saints. Many people are interested in this series and will welcome another title. An absurd and beguiling fantasy is "The Rescuers" by Margery Sharp. It is the story in which a trio of mice rescue a Norwegian poet from the dungeon of an impregnable prison. This will not appeal to everyone, but some readers will like it very much.

Mystery stories are popular with many of our readers and we have recently added a number of stories in this category. "Black is the Fashion for Dying" was written by Latimer. "Come Here and Die" is a new title by York. "Die Like a Dog" is the title of Bret Halliday's latest book. Alfred Hitchcock has a collection called "My Favorites in Suspense" and Rex Stout's latest book is "Plot It Yourself". "Murder is Suggested" is the latest offering of the Lockeridge's and "Walking Shadow" was written by Lenore G. Offord.

"From Galaxies to Man" by John Pfeiffer is a very interesting account of our solar system. "Life in the Crystal Palace" by Alan Harrington gives an interesting interpretation of life in the selling field. "Oil on the Stream" is a history of the interstate pipe line company from 1907-1957. It was written by John L. Loos and was recently published by the L. S. U. Press. A lovely book is "The Golden Age of American History" edited by Frank Freidel. Biographies are always popular and we have new ones dealing with the life of Custer, Edison and Savonarola. Those who are interested in the life of the cowboy will want to read "The Cowboy Reader" edited by Lon Tinkle. It is a very good collection of stories dealing with cowboy life. In the field of heredity, an interesting new title is "Human Heredity" by Ashley Montague.

Deserving special mention is "Sonewall Jackson", a 2-volume biography written by Lenoir Chambers and dealing with the life of this great Confederate soldier. It will probably be considered the definitive biography of this great southerner. If you are interested in the stock market, you will want to see "Let's Take Stock" by Don G. Campbell, which the author styles an inside look at Wall Street.

Fascinating reading is found in "The Golden Age of Quackery" by Stewart H. Holbrook. Did you ever hear of Peruna or Lydia Pinkham's Vegetable Compound or Dr. Kilmer's Swamp Root or Duffy's pure malt? Those were the patent medicines of the turn of the century. This is the story of how Samuel Hopkins Adams, crusaded against their claims and was successful in getting the Pure Food and Drug Act passed? "From Pagan to Christian" by Lin Yutang is a thoughtful analysis of a philosopher's pasasge from Christianity to the Eastern heritage of Confucianism, Taoism and Buddhism and back to Christianity again. It is a beautifully written book and one which will appeal to the serious reader.

RUNNING THE SCALES

With JOHN CALE

A faculty recital at Northeast, a symphony orchestra at Louisiana Tech and the opera "Aida" at New Orleans — coupled with the current run of "My Fair Lady" in Shreveport — will keep culture on the map during the coming week of political climax in the state.

Davis B. Bingham has set his recital for tomorrow night in the Fine Arts Recital Hall at the local college at 8:15. The brass-baritone soloist is choral director at Northeast and director of the choir at the First Presbyterian Church. In addition, the Tennessee - born musician is putting a community chorus through rehearsals for Handel's "Messiah" which will have a mid-December performance here.

ORCHESTRA

Membership holders in the Louisiana Tech Concert Association will hear the Dallas Symphony Thursday at Howard Auditorium. The big ensemble from the oil company is under the direction of Paul Kletski and will play two concerts, one at 3:05 and the other at 8:00 p.m.

It was just about 10 years ago that the Dallas orchestra under the direction of Walter Hendel played here in Neville Auditorium on the old Civic Music series. One of the more outspoken music teachers and symphony fans pushed his point and got the program changed to include one of the Brahms symphonies instead of the too - often - heard Beethoven "Fifth." To some this may have meant merely moving from one of the "Three B's" to another, but to others it was the chance of a decade to hear a Brahms symphony. Several symphonies have come to town since, but not with Brahms on the program.

"ANTIGONE"

The Greek tragedy "Antigone" which played two nights at Northeast last week brought out the amazing skill possessed by the antique writers. The element of conflict which serves to keep a play alive and which is often too scarce in modern plays was woven into the plot. There were at least four conflicting situations which led to the inevitable tragedy.

Antigone could not reconcile herself to the king's edict of not allowing her revolutionist brother a funeral; neither could her sister — a lover of the lighter side of life — convince Antigone that the serious issue was not for her to decide. Then rumblings of discontent from the subjects reached the king's ears coupled with Antigone's direct treatment of her sentiments for a "decent burial" in the face of the military guards.

The use of the chorus was a skill unique to the Greek playwrights. Out of the idiom of the Greek plays — where the actors seem to deliver orations rather than carry on "natural" conversations — groups on the stage seem either to border on the figurative "ham" of a musical comedy chorus line or sometimes they just get in the way of the lead actors.

POPULAR

"DINAH, YES INDEED!" Dinah Shore, with orchestra conducted by Nelson Riddle. Capital T1247, $3.98. Out of the multitude of songs that Dinah Shore has sung — on radio and records, in personal appearances and films, and on her sparkling, top-rated television show — she has gathered for this, her first Capital album, those which are especially popular with her fans. Nelson Riddle ingeniously focuses the attention on Dinah, yet allows room for some outstanding instrumental solos as well. Some of the selections are "It All Depends On You," "Fall In Love With Love," "I'm Old Fashioned," and "Taking A Chance on Love."

'SEMPRINI'S PIANO". England's finest pop pianist and the Abbey Orchestra. Capital T10218, $3.98. Semprini's piano and 60 musicians. That's the ornate setting for the magnificent sound so apparent on the twelve tracks presented by Capital in this, the second album to be recorded by the remarkable English musician. "Semprini's Piano" is music — delightful music — for listening, for dining, for every occasion. The program ranges from Styne through Liszt and it all makes easy listenin'.

CLASSICAL

"ALSO SPRACH ZARATHUSTRA (Op. 30)". Richand Strauss. Herbert Van Karajan conducting The Vienna Philharmonic Orchestra, solo violin: Willi Baskovsky. London CS6129, $4.98. Strauss composed "Also Sprach Zarathustra" during the year 1896. It is based directly on Nietzsche's famous book by the same name. Criticism has often been leveled at Strauss for "having attempted to write philosophical music." But Strauss himself gave this explanation of the work: I did not intend to write philosophical music or to portray in music Nietzsche's great work. I meant to convey by means of music an idea of the development of the human race from its origin, through the various phases of its development. The stereo feeling, in this London emphasized by a low-pitched bell which begins one of the movements.

"JUPITER" and "HAFFNER" SYMPHONIES. Mozart. Josef Krips conducting The Israel Philharmonic Orchestra. London CS6081, $4.98. In the summer of 1788 Mozart composed, the three symphonies in E flat, G minor and C major which are his last and most splendid essays in this form. The Symphony in C major acquired at an early stage in its career the nickname of "Jupiter." It has no relevance to the content of the music. The "Haffner" Symphony was composed in 1782 to celebrate the raising of his friend Sigmund Haffner to the nobility. This album would be a prized item in one's Mozart collection. The orchestration and stereo effect are magnificent.

THE UNITED STATES TO 1865, by Michael Kraus; THE UNITED STATES SINCE 1865, by Foster Dulles. This two - volume set is the latest to be published in the University of Michigan series, "History of the Modern World." Easily read for pleasure or reference.

THE AMERICAN HERITAGE BOOK OF THE PIONEER SPIRIT, by the editors of American Heritage magazine (Simon & Schuster): Stories of the "pushy" people — Jefferson, Franklin, Lewis and Clark and the host of others who gave their country its peculiar surging character. The story is told in text, colored pictures, photographs and document reproductions. A handsome and useful work.

PROSPECTS OF A GOLDEN AGE, by John Dos Passos (Prentice - Hall): A famous novelist looks back to the giants of America's colonial and Revolutionary past. His portraits of Washington, Jefferson, Hamilton, Paine, etc. have the authority of penetrating research as well as fine writing.

Pages Aplenty, But Something Vital Missing

SHORT TERM. By Jay Richard Kennedy. World. $5.75

While Paris, Grenoble and New York, Florida, Maine and California are the general setting for this novel, the two points where Kennedy most often and most purposefully shows us his characters are the Stock Exchange and the bedroom — unless it's a phone booth, a car, the beach or the woods.

The author, who tackled the motion picture industry in his widely read first novel, "Prince Bart," now tackles Wall Street. His hero, Ken Preston, is the son of a financier who lost money there and took his own life. Ken wants to stage a come-back, and is engaged in engineering it as this 540-page novel opens.

But he has had an active life, at least in his hazardous work with the French underground in the war, and then also there comes a woman, Laurie Dugan. Resisting a lot of blandishments from other females, he needs only a few days to decide Laurie must be his — he 42 and she half that. He comes from an old family, and must keep pulling out a silver-box heirloom to remind us of it. She's a social newcomer, so to speak, though she shares with him a business acumen of sorts: Like her mother, she has learned that men will pay for what they want.

This is a novel put together professionally, with all the essential ingredients but one. It has conflict, suspense, worldiness, sex, all manipulated skillfully. But it has no meaning in humanistic terms, it contains hardly a page that seems to me interesting, it leaves me indifferent.

NEW APPROACH

NEW YORK (AP) — A favorite Broadway promotion, the big advertisement with glowing quotes from favorable reviews, was amended by Dore Schary, author, director and co-producer of "The Highest Tree."

Instead of ignoring adverse comments, the play's post-opening display frankly acknowledged that some critics has panned the show.

Schary, a production aide said, insisted on the statement as "the only way of being fair with the public."

Reflections On Life In General

SONIA JE T'ADORE, by Pierre Daninos (Knopf): A collection of wryly amusing reflections on life in general and particularly on "that state of armed peace which is the solid bedrock on which true domestic felicity is built." The book appears to be M. Daninos' apology for some of the rather unkind remarks his essays contain concerning his Russian-born wife. The author's reflections, arranging from airplanes to cover a variety of subjects XYZ. Along the way he has a good deal to say about the problems at home and abroad which confront the cheerful bumbler he claims to be.

Man's Greatest Dream

English Tunnel

By COLIN FROST

Here in the Victorian golden age men started digging to link England with France, to spread prosperity and foster peace.

They drove a shaft 700 feet deep into the chalk. The wooden hut conceals its entrance. From the bottom of the shaft they tunnelled nearly a mile beneath the Channel.

The tunnel is still there, dank and abandoned, a useless monument to man's suspicion of his neighbor.

Now hope is rising again for the Channel tunnel, a project first thought of in the 18th century. Powerful British, French and American interests will decide next year if it can be built.

The unlikely father of this hope is President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic.

In 1956 he nationalized the Suez Canal. The well-heeled Anglo-French Canal Co., deprived of its prize asset, looked around for other interests. A Channel tunnel seemed the obvious choice.

Today the canal company, 44 per cent owned by the British government, is equal partner in a study group which over the past two years has spent $670,000 investigating the tunnel's chances of success.

Its other partners are Technical Studies, Inc., a group of American financiers, and the British and French Channel Tunnel Cos., which started the digging back in 1881 and were forced to abandon it two years later.

By early next year the study group expects to answer these questions:

Can a tunnel be built, and for what price?

Can it attract enough traffic to pay its way?

Right now the signs look hopeful.

The surveyors found three layers of chalk and below that, clay. The bottom layer of chalk, they say, might have been designed by nature itself as the perfect medium for tunneling.

Economists look to Europe's ever increasing road traffic to give the tunnel healthy revenue. Nonetheless, it would not be a road tunnel.

Cars and trucks, they say, can be handled more speedily, safely and cheaply by running them on to railroad flatcars.

The best informed estimate of cost at the moment is 364 million dollars for a double rail tunnel of 36 miles, 22 of them under the sea.

Experts estimate the tunnel could quickly attract one million cars a year, six million passengers and 500,000 tons of fast freight to give an annual income of $30,800,000.

After deducting operating costs they believe the project could yield 7¾ per cent annually on capital—enough to attract investment from all over the world.

However attractive financially, the project faces tough opposition. British diehards have long looked on the Channel as their surest defense against a continental assault on their homes in war and their morals in peace.

Old soldiers still talk the same way and none louder than Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery.

"This Channel tunnel is a wildcat scheme and I am wholeheartedly opposed to it," he says. "It would strike severe blow at British strategy, which has always been based on the inviolability of our island."

The stock answer to the military men is that if war comes the tunnel can be flooded or blown up. The soldiers reply that decisions of this kind always are taken too late.

This time, however, the soldiers may not have the last word.

A powerful pro-tunnel lobby exists inside the British Parliament. In France, the most forceful tunnel advocate is Louis Armand, 54-year-old organizing genius who made the French state railroads the most modern in Europe. He sees the tunnel as a certain booster of railroad revenue.

In the end, however, the main obstacle facing the tunnelers may be Europe's increasing division into two trade blocs.

In 1957, when the study group started work, it confidently was expected that Britain would join with France in the six-nation European Common Market, and cross-Channel trade would soar.

The British, however, stayed out. And so once more British insularity, this time mercantile and not military, may prove the end of a fascinating dream.

For Thousands In U.S.

Curfew Tonight

By FRANCIS STILLEY
Associated Press Staff Writer

Curfew rings tonight and every night for thousands of young people all over America.

In Watkins Glen, N.Y., the custodian on duty at the Village Hall takes hold of a bel rope at 10 p.m. and tugs away. The clanging of the bell is a reminder to youths under 17 to be off the streets — at home. The Village Board recently okayed funds for a new bell rope.

Some towns sound church bells, some toot whistles and others blow fire sirens. Still others do none of these but maintain a curfew just the same; it is the law and everyone knows it. The hours vary.

YOUNG FOLKS

The curfew for young folk is a practice of long standing and wide use in the United States.

In some communities when juveniles are found meandering around streets late at night, they are merely picked up by officers and their parents notified.

Sometimes there is drastic punishment, parents included.

In other cases curfew regulations are strictly enforced only when and if it seems necessary.

Curfews were widely employed during World War II, but after the war many plans were either dropped outright or just forgotten.

However, in recent years they were revived or new legislation put them into effect to cope with growing juvenile delinquency troubles.

Generally, rules don't apply to children accompanied by parents or authorized persons, or in travel to and from legitimate events.

An Associated Press survey shows that about half the states use curfew laws of varying degrees of strictness. Primarily it is a matter of steps taken by individual communities rather than by state legislatures.

Another fourth have a mixed situation. The rest either have no curfew laws or never use them even though they are on the books.

Of the 50 per cent which do use curfew regulations, responsible officials in nearly all believe the restrictions are worthwhile—although there are some strong opposing arguments.

OBJECTIONS.

Main objections are that it is almost impossible to achieve 100 per cent compliance, that there are too many authorized functions which now keep children out late and that it is pointless to penalize the well-behaved majority for the failure of the few.

Numerous authorities say, also, that other ordinances such as anti-loitering laws enable officers to handle the situation better than a curfew rule.

On the other hand, the curfew comes in for high praise too.

Wheeling, W. Va., adopted the plan a little less than a year ago and now 30 sirens scattered around the city are touched off nightly at 10 o'clock. After that, youngsters under 16 have about 15 or 20 minutes to get off the streets. On football game nights the leeway is a little greater.

Police Chief Harry Wolf estimates that the curfew has reduced offenses by juveniles under 16 by 95 per cent.

He says enforcement has been no problem.

Wheeling has a population of 59,000 and the curfew was given a lot of advance publicity before it became official. Then police bore down hard a few days to let everyone know they meant business.

"We'd almost have to double the size of the police force in trying to enforce a night curfew. If we were to put one in, it would mean that to be worthwhile, neighboring cities and villages would have to do the same. Otherwise, ours would be a waste."

Pointing up the marked contrast in attitudes is the case of Chicago, where more than a million youngsters are affected by curfew regulations. All under 17 must be off the streets by 10:30 p.m. Sunday through Thursday, and by 11 p.m. on Friday and Saturday.

Polict Lt. Michael Delaney, head of the Youth Bureau says the law is publicly accepted and that it has been beneficial in holding down youth crime. The law has the support of all agencies dealing with youth problems.

In the United States, a Col. Alexander Hogeland of Nebraska, is credited as the "father of the curfew law."

INTRODUCED

Hogeland was said to have introduced the first ordinance in Omaha in 1880 to keep youngsters from hanging around steamboat landings, rail stations and low variety shows.

Varying rules date back more than 50 years in Cleveland, Ohio; Hot Springs, Ark., Grand Island, Neb., and Salt Lake City, Utah. Numerous other communities have long-standing statues.

Authorities point out that modern day youth problems are much more difficult because now "the kids are on wheels." They go tearing about the countryside in cars—sometimes stolen ones.

The reference was to the young gangs of New York City, where 11 youthful slayings have occured on the streets since the first of the year. New York has no curfew. There has been some talk of establishing one but the ruling fathers appear to favor tighter police surveillance of the streets instead.

Another new type of problem has been the congregation of youngsters around drive-in theaters and restaurants and resulting altercations. In Orlando, Fla., certain restaurants recently started hiring off-duty police to preserve order.

Hours and ages covered by curfews vary widely around the nation. But in general the hours of 9 and 10 p. m. are the most popular deadlines and the top age limit seldom exceeds 18.

However, Flomaton, Ala., a town of about 4,000, imposed a rigid curfew in August after an outbreak of gang deviltry. Youngsters under 21 must be off the streets between 11 p.m. and 6 a.m. Jail terms up to six months and fines reaching $100 can be imposed on both youths and their parents. Police say everything is quiet now.

In Oregon, all children under 18 are covered by a 1953 state law prescribing a midnight to 4 a.m. curfew period.

A Cleveland ordinance in effect since 1943 bans children under 12 from city streets between dark and dawn, and those under 16 from 11 p.m. to 6 a.m. The law is invoked only when special situations arise.

Penalties for curfew violations over the nation range from a bawling out for youngsters to severe measures affecting both child and parents.

Probably the stiffest is in Sacramento, Calif. Parents are subject to $50 fines and 10 days in jail for first offenses of their offspring, and as much as $500 and 90 days for third violations.

However, authorities can't recall the last prosecution, they are so rare. The law applies to unescorted children uner 18 on the streets after 10 p.m. unless they have a good reason.

A typical favorable comment on the curfew comes from polict Lt. Ernest Sauer, head of the department's juvenile division at Phoenix, Ariz., where parents of chronic offenders have been jailed.

"We think it's a real good weapon against delinquents," he says. "Generally we have real fine cooperation. It gives parents a hammer over the kids' heads without making them out as old fogies."

Nashville, Tenn., adopted an 11 p.m. curfew for all under 18 two years ago at the suggestion of Police Chief D.E. Hoose. At the time there were four or five complaints nightly about young hoodlums.

"Now," according to the chief, "we sometimes go a week without a single complaint."

Baltimore has what is called the Battaglia Plan, originated by Police Capt. Frank J. Battaglia. Around 10 p.m., police begin stopping young motorists to check their drivers' licenses and car registration.

But Greenwich, Conn., has no curfew and doesn't plan one. Police Chief David W. Robbins says:

"I think they are ineffective and difficult to enforce. Persons who would observe a curfew are not the ones you would have trouble with.

"Those with criminal intent and who reject authority would not observe them at any rate. A curfew works a hardship and is an unfair restriction on the majority of our youth, who are law abiding."

The New Jersey Youth Commission also opposes curfews and said in a 1957 report:

"Curfews do not touch the roots of the delinquency problem and are usually unenforceable. Such restriction are likely to produce further disrespect for laws as well as constitute an intrusion into the rights of all youth."

Many officials share the opinion of Probate Court Judge W.E. Smith in Boise, Idaho.

"You can't legislate good behavior among youngsters. If you want to see an end to juvenile deliquency you have to return to the fundamental values of society.

"Good morality begins at home," the judge says.

YOUNGEST EVER ADMITTED TO VIENNA

Short Of Stature, Long On Talent

By PETER HOFFER

VIENNA (AP)—The youngest student ever admitted to the famed Vienna Academy of Music is a 9-year-old American girl with blonde curls, a ready smile, and remarkable mastery of the keyboard.

Giorgiana Bender, daughter of a retired United States Air Force officer, has been the "Wunderkind" (child wonder) of the academy since she was accepted for the six-year course of piano studies in the spring of 1958.

Georgy, as she is called by her parents, was born at Wright - Patterson Air Force Base in Ohio when her father, Lt. Col. George F. Bender, was stationed there. The family moved to Riederau in upper Bavaria when Bender retired from the Air Force.

"Georgy loved to play the piano from the very start," says the child's mother. "She would pick out little tunes on the keyboard and finally I decided to give her lessons, when she was only four." The mother is an amateur pianist.

Says Georgy, showing her talented hands:

"I always liked to play the piano, ever since I can remember. When other girls were outside, I liked to practice. In the beginning, when I could not read notes, I played from memory, but now I can play nearly any classic piece of music if it is within the reach of my hands."

If life is touch for a "Wunderkind," Giorgiana does not show it. She looks happy. After lessons and four to five hours of daily practicing, she has little time for play. But she loves her dolls and teddy bears of which she has a large family, all lovingly cared for.

Among the first to recognize her astonishing musical talent was German composer and professor Richard Trunk. He advised the Benders to let little Giorgiana have regular instruction from a music teacher and at the age of 5 she entered her first public piano competition at Munich, emerging first in her age group.

Georgy, only 4-ft.-2, cannot reach the piano pedals and has a special pedal attachment so that she can play.

Before moving to Vienna Georgy won recognition in West Germany as a "Wunderkind," giving a 1½ hour recital from memory playing Beethoven, Schubert, Mozart and Bach, plus a series of pieces "for small hands" specially written for her by composer Trunk.

The Benders live near the academy and daily, accompanied by her mother, Georgy walks to the grey - walled building where the next youngest student is aged 16 and students are generally admitted at 16.

Georgy takes piano lessons, studies music theory, harmony and instrumentation in addition to the German language. In all subjects she has excellent grades.

"Georgy," says her mother, "finds it hard to associate with girls of her age and even older girls. She is so very different, even though she does not actually feel it. Her life is dedicated to the piano and she loves every minute of it.

"Each time when we go home after a concert I ask my little girl 'do you still want to become a pianist? You heard how hard it is.' 'Of course I do,' Giorgiana always replies," Mrs. Bender says.

TWILIGHT OF THE TYRANTS. By Tad Szulc. Holt. $4.50.

Latin America remains terra incognita to many North Americans. Here is a perceptive new book by a distinguished New York Times correspondent which offers a readable short course in modern South America, the trends shaping its future and the dictator - marred years of the recent past.

Szulc probes the final hours of what he describes as "the long age of dictators in Latin America . . . finally in its twilight." He takes the reader into the regimes of Juan Peron of Argentina, Marcos Perez Jimenez of Venezuela, Gustavo Rojas Pinilla of Colombia, Manuel Odria of Peru and Getulio Vargas of Brazil.

Latin America remains in ferment. But political maturity has come far and is coming farther fast. The military has stood behind democratic civilian regimes after helping them oust dictatorships.

Popular reaction showed that the dictators — who varied widely both as men and in techniques of rule — erred basically in their conviction that given prosperity there need not be individual freedom.

The population and political importance of Latin America is growing with tremendous rapidity. This book will be both instructive and interesting for the North American who wishes to be informed on an area of increasing significance.

Guide To Good Reading

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

Although this is the busy season of the year for many people, everyone has some time to read, if he will only take advantage of his opportunities. The Ouachita Parish Public Library is adding new books weekly and there are many available for all types of readers.

"Krishna Fluting" by John Berry is the book which won the MacMillan fiction contest. The story is an exotic one, with many conflict in the characters. It will not appeal to all readers, but it is not a book to overlook. "Radius of Action" by De Witt Copp is a masculine adventure story which will appeal to many readers. Of interest to many readers will be "Only in New England" by Theodore Roscoe. One of the most popular books of recent years was "Tammy Out of Time" by Cid Ricketts Sumner. Now the author has given us a sequal to this book called "Tammy Tell Me True." It is certain to be as popular as the first one and the author has lost nothing in her second presentation. A new historical novel is "The French Dragoon" by Roger Rudigoz. It has it's setting in Napoleonic France and is extremely well-done. "Citadel of God" by Louis de Wohl is a novel based on the life of St. Benedict. It is another in de Wohl's series of fictionalized biographies of the saints. Many people are interested in this series and will welcome another title. An absurd and beguiling fantasy is "The Rescuers" by Margery Sharp. It is the story in which a trio of mice rescue a Norwegian poet from the dungeon of an impregnable prison. This will not appeal to everyone, but some readers will like it very much.

Mystery stories are popular with many of our readers and we have recently added a number of stories in this category. "Black is the Fashion for Dying" was written by Latimer. "Come Here and Die" is a new title by York. "Die Like a Dog" is the title of Bret Halliday's latest book. Alfred Hitchcock has a collection called "My Favorites in Suspense" and Rex Stout's latest book is "Plot It Yourself". "Murder is Suggested" is the latest offering of the Lockeridge's and "Walking Shadow" was written by Lenore G. Offord.

"From Galaxies to Man" by John Pfeiffer is a very interesting account of our solar system. "Life in the Crystal Palace" by Alan Harrington gives an interesting interpretation of life in the selling field. "Oil on the Stream" is a history of the interstate pipe line company from 1907-1957. It was written by John L. Loos and was recently published by the L. S. U. Press. A lovely book is "The Golden Age of American History" edited by Frank Freidel. Biographies are always popular and we have new ones dealing with the life of Custer, Edison and Savonarola. Those who are interested in the life of the cowboy will want to read "The Cowboy Reader" edited by Lon Tinkle. It is a very good collection of stories dealing with cowboy life. In the field of heredity, an interesting new title is "Human Heredity" by Ashley Montague.

Deserving special mention is "Sonewall Jackson", a 2-volume biography written by Lenoir Chambers and dealing with the life of this great Confederate soldier. It will probably be considered the definitive biography of this great southerner. If you are interested in the stock market, you will want to see "Let's Take Stock" by Don G. Campbell, which the author styles an inside look at Wall Street.

Fascinating reading is found in "The Golden Age of Quackery" by Stewart H. Holbrook. Did you ever hear of Peruna or Lydia Pinkham's Vegetable Compound or Dr. Kilmer's Swamp Root or Duffy's pure malt? Those were the patent medicines of the turn of the century. This is the story of how Samuel Hopkins Adams, crusaded against their claims and was successful in getting the Pure Food and Drug Act passed? "From Pagan to Christian" by Lin Yutang is a thoughtful analysis of a philosopher's pasasge from Christianity to the Eastern heritage of Confucianism, Taoism and Buddhism and back to Christianity again. It is a beautifully written book and one which will appeal to the serious reader.

RUNNING THE SCALES

With JOHN CALE

A faculty recital at Northeast, a symphony orchestra at Louisiana Tech and the opera "Aida" at New Orleans — coupled with the current run of "My Fair Lady" in Shreveport — will keep culture on the map during the coming week of political climax in the state.

Davis B. Bingham has set his recital for tomorrow night in the Fine Arts Recital Hall at the local college at 8:15. The brass-baritone soloist is choral director at Northeast and director of the choir at the First Presbyterian Church. In addition, the Tennessee - born musician is putting a community chorus through rehearsals for Handel's "Messiah" which will have a mid-December performance here.

ORCHESTRA

Membership holders in the Louisiana Tech Concert Association will hear the Dallas Symphony Thursday at Howard Auditorium. The big ensemble from the oil company is under the direction of Paul Kletski and will play two concerts, one at 3:05 and the other at 8:00 p.m.

It was just about 10 years ago that the Dallas orchestra under the direction of Walter Hendel played here in Neville Auditorium on the old Civic Music series. One of the more outspoken music teachers and symphony fans pushed his point and got the program changed to include one of the Brahms symphonies instead of the too - often - heard Beethoven "Fifth." To some this may have meant merely moving from one of the "Three B's" to another, but to others it was the chance of a decade to hear a Brahms symphony. Several symphonies have come to town since, but not with Brahms on the program.

"ANTIGONE"

The Greek tragedy "Antigone" which played two nights at Northeast last week brought out the amazing skill possessed by the antique writers. The element of conflict which serves to keep a play alive and which is often too scarce in modern plays was woven into the plot. There were at least four conflicting situations which led to the inevitable tragedy.

Antigone could not reconcile herself to the king's edict of not allowing her revolutionist brother a funeral; neither could her sister — a lover of the lighter side of life — convince Antigone that the serious issue was not for her to decide. Then rumblings of discontent from the subjects reached the king's ears coupled with Antigone's direct treatment of her sentiments for a "decent burial" in the face of the military guards.

The use of the chorus was a skill unique to the Greek playwrights. Out of the idiom of the Greek plays — where the actors seem to deliver orations rather than carry on "natural" conversations — groups on the stage seem either to border on the figurative "ham" of a musical comedy chorus line or sometimes they just get in the way of the lead actors.

HI-FI and STEREO

by Greg Hare

Nat "King Cole" and the Kingston Trio will recreate their award - winning recordings on the National Academy of Recording Arts and Sciences 1959 "Grammy" Awards colorcast on NBC-TV, tonight, Sunday, Nov. 29, 7-8 CST.

Hosted by Meredith Wilson, a full list of winners, records and awards will be announced during the awards telecast. The Grammy Award is the record industry's equivalent of Emmy and Oscar.

POPULAR

"DINAH, YES INDEED!" Dinah Shore, with orchestra conducted by Nelson Riddle. Capital T1247, $3.98. Out of the multitude of songs that Dinah Shore has sung — on radio and records, in personal appearances and films, and on her sparkling, top-rated television show — she has gathered for this, her first Capital album, those which are especially popular with her fans. Nelson Riddle ingeniously focuses the attention on Dinah, yet allows room for some outstanding instrumental solos as well. Some of the selections are "It All Depends On You," "Fall In Love With Love," "I'm Old Fashioned," and "Taking A Chance on Love."

'SEMPRINI'S PIANO". England's finest pop pianist and the Abbey Orchestra. Capital T10218, $3.98. Semprini's piano and 60 musicians. That's the ornate setting for the magnificent sound so apparent on the twelve tracks presented by Capital in this, the second album to be recorded by the remarkable English musician. "Semprini's Piano" is music — delightful music — for listening, for dining, for every occasion. The program ranges from Styne through Liszt and it all makes easy listenin'.

CLASSICAL

"ALSO SPRACH ZARATHUSTRA (Op. 30)". Richand Strauss. Herbert Van Karajan conducting The Vienna Philharmonic Orchestra, solo violin: Willi Baskovsky. London CS6129, $4.98. Strauss composed "Also Sprach Zarathustra" during the year 1896. It is based directly on Nietzsche's famous book by the same name. Criticism has often been leveled at Strauss for "having attempted to write philosophical music." But Strauss himself gave this explanation of the work: I did not intend to write philosophical music or to portray in music Nietzsche's great work. I meant to convey by means of music an idea of the development of the human race from its origin, through the various phases of its development. The stereo feeling, in this London emphasized by a low-pitched bell which begins one of the movements.

"JUPITER" and "HAFFNER" SYMPHONIES. Mozart. Josef Krips conducting The Israel Philharmonic Orchestra. London CS6081, $4.98. In the summer of 1788 Mozart composed, the three symphonies in E flat, G minor and C major which are his last and most splendid essays in this form. The Symphony in C major acquired at an early stage in its career the nickname of "Jupiter." It has no relevance to the content of the music. The "Haffner" Symphony was composed in 1782 to celebrate the raising of his friend Sigmund Haffner to the nobility. This album would be a prized item in one's Mozart collection. The orchestration and stereo effect are magnificent.

THE AMERICAN HERITAGE BOOK OF THE PIONEER SPIRIT, by the editors of American Heritage magazine (Simon & Schuster): Stories of the "pushy" people — Jefferson, Franklin, Lewis and Clark and the host of others who gave their country its peculiar surging character. The story is told in text, colored pictures, photographs and document reproductions. A handsome and useful work.

PROSPECTS OF A GOLDEN AGE, by John Dos Passos (Prentice - Hall): A famous novelist looks back to the giants of America's colonial and Revolutionary past. His portraits of Washington, Jefferson, Hamilton, Paine, etc. have the authority of penetrating research as well as fine writing.

Pages Aplenty, But Something Vital Missing

SHORT TERM. By Jay Richard Kennedy. World. $5.75

While Paris, Grenoble and New York, Florida, Maine and California are the general setting for this novel, the two points where Kennedy most often and most purposefully shows us his characters are the Stock Exchange and the bedroom — unless it's a phone booth, a car, the beach or the woods.

The author, who tackled the motion picture industry in his widely read first novel, "Prince Bart," now tackles Wall Street. His hero, Ken Preston, is the son of a financier who lost money there and took his own life. Ken wants to stage a come-back, and is engaged in engineering it as this 540-page novel opens.

But he has had an active life, at least in his hazardous work with the French underground in the war, and then also there comes a woman, Laurie Dugan. Resisting a lot of blandishments from other females, he needs only a few days to decide Laurie must be his — he 42 and she half that. He comes from an old family, and must keep pulling out a silver-box heirloom to remind us of it. She's a social newcomer, so to speak, though she shares with him a business acumen of sorts: Like her mother, she has learned that men will pay for what they want.

This is a novel put together professionally, with all the essential ingredients but one. It has conflict, suspense, worldiness, sex, all manipulated skillfully. But it has no meaning in humanistic terms, it contains hardly a page that seems to me interesting, it leaves me indifferent.

NEW APPROACH

NEW YORK (AP) — A favorite Broadway promotion, the big advertisement with glowing quotes from favorable reviews, was amended by Dore Schary, author, director and co-producer of "The Highest Tree."

Instead of ignoring adverse comments, the play's post-opening display frankly acknowledged that some critics has panned the show.

Schary, a production aide said, insisted on the statement as "the only way of being fair with the public."

Reflections On Life In General

SONIA JE T'ADORE, by Pierre Daninos (Knopf): A collection of wryly amusing reflections on life in general and particularly on "that state of armed peace which is the solid bedrock on which true domestic felicity is built." The book appears to be M. Daninos' apology for some of the rather unkind remarks his essays contain concerning his Russian-born wife. The author's reflections, arranging from airplanes to cover a variety of subjects XYZ. Along the way he has a good deal to say about the problems at home and abroad which confront the cheerful bumbler he claims to be.

IN CUBA

Bearded Officer Takes Over Bank

The Argentine-born leftist, stepping steadily closer to the top of Prime Minister Fidel Castro's hierarchy, moved behind the bank president's desk, succeeding conservative financial expert Felipe Pazos, an internationally recognized banker.

As head of the National Bank, appointed by the Cabinet Thursday, Guevara will control Cuba's foreign exchange reserves and act as virtual dictator of its imports and exports.

Guevara, whose political and economic thinking is orientated more toward the Soviet Union than the United States, blamed low sugar prices for the drop in Cuban reserves.

"If sugar prices had been normal from the first, our foreign exchange situation would have been comfortable," he told the Semiofficial newspaper Revolucion.

Guevara said Cuban bank depositors were logically uneasy about his appointment "because I have a certain fame as an extreme radical." Nevertheless, he promised no abrupt changes in government economic policies.

Cubans, he said, can expect continuation and probably even expansion of rigid import controls to preserve dollar balances which Guevara conceded still are declining.

With the change in bank leadership, the government announced the first normal expropriation of land holdings under the agrarian reform law. Previous land seizures were made without formal reference to the law.

Seized for distribution among landless peasants or conversion into state directed farm cooperatives were the 300,000-acre properties of Hacienda Sevilla in eastern Oriente province.

Officials here said the land—most of it in the mountainous area where Castro first gathered strength for his revolution—was owned by the Cuban Development Co. of Delaware and under lease to a Cuban agricultural firm.

In other developments, military authorities rounded up 250 persons in the Holguin area of Oriente province. Among them is an American sugar cane grower identified as William Fuller.

Police said three unidentified planes flew over Havana Thursday night. Air force headquarters said none of its planes was flying at the time.

Armed students, in the first public appearances of the new people's militia, marched in parades commemorating the 1871 execution of eight students by Spanish forces.

16 Men Hunt Ditched Guns

PARCHMAN, Miss. (AP)—Sixteen men combed a 20-mile stretch of road unsuccessfully Friday for two rifles believed ditched by fleeing escapees from the state penitentiary here.

"We didn't find anything," prison Supt. Bill Harpol said. "We covered both sides of the road between Kosciusko and Durant with two highway patrolmen, two guards and 12 trusties."

Objects of the hunt were two rifles taken by four escapees Sunday night. The fugitives also took two pistols and later sold one to a Durant man, from whom it was recovered.

"We have no leads now," Harpole said. "We'll have to wait for something to develop. We've got alerts out in Mississippi and surrounding states."

Hunted were Jackie Chism, 21, of Amory, and David Hale, 18, of Glenwood, Ore., both serving robbery sentences from Lowndes County.

Investigators learned they bought bus tickets at Kosciusko for Tuscaloosa, Ala., Monday morning, but the driver said they did not use them.

The two and James E. Corley, 29, of Carrollton and June Marie Jeanfreau, 22, of Bay St. Louis, broke out after Corley overpowered a guard while delivering coffee to him.

A woman spotted their picture in a newspaper and tipped officers that Corley and the woman were in the Durant area. They were arrested at a night spot Tuesday night near the motel where they registered as man and wife.

Corley was serving a burglary sentence and the woman a bigamy term.

"We'll present all the evidence to the Sunflower County grand jury in March," Harpole said, "and it will be up to the grand jury. They took some clothes and a car from a Negro farmer at gunpoint, some money from the canteen here and they also broke out of jail."

Armed robbery carries a maximum penalty of death and escaping a penalty of up to five years.

AMONG BUSINESSMEN

Tax Cut Drive Opens Friday

WASHINGTON (AP)—A drive to bring about a quick 3½-billion-dollar annual cut in income taxes was opened Friday among business and industrial men.

The U.S. Chamber of Commerce advised members its board of directors had decided to throw its weight behind the Baker-Herlong bill and "will stimulate educational efforts in all member organizations and firms in support of the measure."

The Baker-Herlong bill, which provides for a graduated scale of tax reductions over a five-year period, is before the House Ways and Means Committee which is making a general study of taxes.

The measure endorsed by the chamber was introduced by Reps. A. S. Herlong Jr. (D-Fla) and Howard H. Baker (R-Tenn). The chamber said it would give all individual taxpayers a rate reduction of not less than 25 per cent over five years. The top rate would be lowered from 91 to 47 per cent and the lowest tax bracket would be reduced from 20 to 15 per cent.

Corporate taxes would drop one per cent annually, going down from 52 to 47 per cent. The bill also would make some changes in depreciation allowances, capital gains, estate and gift taxes.

Estimating the immediate loss of revenue at about 3½ billion dollars a year, the chamber's Washington newsletter to members said this could be offset by a temporary sales tax applied across the board at "a low uniform rate."

"Properly applied" the news letter said, "the reduction would actually increase the amount of government revenues in a short time, distribute the tax burden more equally, promote stability of the dollar, provide both the means and incentive for business to tackle new, and expand going, enterprises and create more jobs for our increasing population."

"Our tax history since the 1920s show that within a year or two after most tax reduction laws have gone into effect, revenues have exceeded those under the old rates. The stimulus of tax relief generates greater economic activity. This offsets any immediate loss caused by lower rates," it said.

The only tax cut not followed by higher revenues came in 1948, a recession year, the chamber said.

Nurse's Body

GLASGOW, Mont. (AP) — The nude body of a Glasgow Air Force Base nurse was found Friday in her blood-spattered home.

Her father, and 6-year-old son were missing and officers expressed fear that they, too, may have been harmed.

The body of Verna Gae Brown, about 34, was discovered by members of a car pool who stopped to take her to work. Her clothing, ripped and torn, was piled on a chair.

A physician said Mrs. Brown had suffered severe abdominal injuries.

The nurse was divorced a little more than a month ago from Harold Brown, a construction worker at the air base.

County Atty. Gordon White recalled that Brown had pleaded guilty and paid a $25 fine on a third-degree assault charge filed by Mrs. Brown last July. He said he wanted Brown for questioning.

UN Committee Asks Korea For Free Elections

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — The U.N. Political Committee called on Communist North Korea Friday to consent to free elections at an early date to open the way for the unification of the Korean peninsula.

The 82-nation committee acted despite a Soviet declaration that the formula outlined in the approved Western resolution would "lock the door on the cause of unification."

The vote was 49-9, with 19 abstaining. Only the Soviet bloc voted against the proposal. Five countries were absent.

The resolution was sponsored by the United States and 13 other countries which fought under the U.N. flag during the Korean War. It is similar to measures adopted each year since the 1954 Far Eastern conference in Geneva, where the Western powers laid down a set of principles on a Korean settlement.

Soviet Delegate I. I. Tugarinov said the Western resolution would have the U.N. "accept unreservedly the ultimatum-like demands the reactionary Syngman Rhee regime should be extended throughout the entire peninsula."

The Communists have contended throughout that unification must be worked out through direct negotiations between North and South Korea.

Three Negroes Plead Guilty To Robbery

TUPELO, Miss. (AP) — Three Negro teen-agers pleaded guilty Friday to armed robbery in the Nov. 16 stabbing of a white youth and were sentenced to state penitentiary.

Circuit Judge Raymond Jarvis, acting on recommendation of Dist. Atty. N. S. (Soggy) Sweat, sentenced Otto Jones, 18, to life; T. L. Carruthers, 18, to 25 years; and J. B. Little, 16, to 20 years.

The three were transferred to prison immediately.

Sweat said sentence was deferred indefinitely on charges of assault and battery with intent to kill.

The three Negroes, all residents of Tupelo, were charged with armed robbery of Andy Mills, 16. Jones was charged with assault and battery with intent to kill in the stabbing of Don Morris, 20, of Olive Branch, and Alonzo Dodson, 28, of Tupelo.

Jones had told police he planned to knife some white persons because whites had mistreated him.

The stabbings aroused the public to such an extent that Police Chief Robert Managhan ordered an 11 p.m. curfew and cautioned residents against taking personal action.

CAB Makes Proposal To Speed Mail

This was favored by the Post Office Department but opposed by the railroads.

The CAB proposed a rate about half that paid the airlines for airmail, or about 19 cents a ton-mile.

The airlines agreed to the proposed rate for December, but most of them indicated they would want a higher rate to carry what has long been called "surface mail" after December.

The Post Office Department also opposed the temporary rate for periods beyond December. It wants a permanent rate established after a hearing.

The CAB denied petitions of the Brotherhood of Railroad and Steamship Clerks the Railway Express Agency and the Assn. of American Railroads to intervene.

It said the nearness of the Christmas mail peak and public interest made action necessary with the least possible delay.

The board gave the parties until Dec. 3 to file notice of objection.

The Post Office Department had advised the CAB that the mail load during December would be greater than ever before and that it was desirable that the unused capacity of the airlines be made available for handling first-class mail.

SAMPLE BALLOT INSTRUCTIONS TO VOTER

AFTER MARKING YOUR BALLOT

Leave Pointers in This Position →

Move the Red Knob to the "Out" position. This automatically records your vote and opens the curtains for the next voter.

SAMPLE BALLOT — Here is a composite sample ballot as it will appear on voting machines in Ouachita parish on Democratic primary election day Dec. 5. The listings of candidates from representative and senator up through the governor's race will be the same on ballots in all wards, but candidates for such offices as police juror, justice of the peace and constable are named only on ballots for the wards in which they are running. Only Wards four and seven are without candidates in one of these categories. When this sample ballot was compiled, one race was inadvertently left out. It is the justice of the peace contest in Ward Two, in which Charles Williams, No. 103, and Jack Wuichet, No. 104, are candidates. In some races, more than one post is at stake, and this is pointed out by a notation in parenthesis which says "(vote for three)" or "(vote for two)", as the case may be. If only one vote is cast where two posts are at stake, the vote will not count. To vote move lever above candidate's name.

Iran Thinks Ike's Set Visit Short

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI)— Iran thinks President Eisenhower's scheduled visit is too short. But a 21-gun salute will pay him tribute and a band will play the Star Spangled Banner before Iran-ians get down to the brass tacks of asking for faster jets and more modern arms.

The President is expected to arrive here at 8:45 a.m. on December 14 from New Delhi and to remain five hours and 45 minutes.

The 45 minutes were squeezed in because Iranians were disappointed at the shortness of the President's stay. But whatever the time limits, he is assured of a warm and friendly welcome.

"We are very happy to have the President in this country," Prime Minister Manouchehr Eghbal told United Press International.

"We consider the trip very good," he said. "We feel sympathy toward those countries which respect the independence of others and Eisenhower has shown that is his policy. We regret he cannot stay longer."

Shah Reza Pahlevi will welcome the President at the airport where a 21-gun salute has been ordered despite the fact this is not a state visit.

The President then will be driven five miles to the Shah's "Marble palace" for a two-hour discussion with the Shah and his advisers. The schedule calls for Eisenhower's regular rest period with lunch afterward. He is scheduled to leave for Athens at 2:30 p.m.

U.S. Ambassador Edward Wailes is credited with persuading Washington to stretch the President's visit slightly at both ends. The Iranians were told the tightness of his schedule was due partly to the fact that he will not fly after dark as an added safety factor.

Generous Town Will Send Band To Orange Bowl

TREYNOR Iowa (AP)—Thanks to the generosity of this small western Iowa town and its neighbors, the local high school band will take part in Orange Bowl festivities at Miami, Fla., New Year's Day.

The trip for the 68 young bandsmen is credited to the efforts of Treynor's 247 residents in raising about $10,000 in expense money over the past eight months.

It all started when John Monea, 28, high school band director, wrote Orange Bowl officials telling them about Treynor's band and how they'd be a good attraction at the Orange Bowl.

The letter led to an invitation from Orange Bowl officials and the drive to raise the trip money began.

Total expenses for the trip were figured at about $9,000 plus $1,000 for additional uniforms and equipment.

Two band concerts and a benefit dance netted $3,000. Parents of the bandsmen held bake sales and business places in Treynor and neighboring towns contributed to the fund.

The bus trip will begin Dec. 27 and the bandsmen are scheduled to arrive in Miami Dec. 30 by way of Lookout Mountain, Tenn.

Goateed Plumber Unsure Whether He Killed Wife

He was identified as Charles R. Lelo. New Orleans police said a check with Seattle authorities confirmed that his wife, Mrs. Betty Lou Good Lelo, had been shot to death Oct. 4.

Police there said she was watching a television program with her two young children in a rooming house when a gunman fired three shots through a window. One shot hit her in the back of the head, killing her instantly.

Lelo, who was arrested Wednesday for investigation in connections with recent robberies, told police Friday:

"All I can remember is that I was riding in my automobile about midnight and I heard a news announcer say that my wife had been shot...

"I just kept riding after that. I figured I must have killed her, but I can't remember doing it. I wanted to get even with her for running around with another man but I didn't plan to kill her."

Mrs. Leo was killed with a .22 caliber rifle. Such a rifle was found in Lelo's car when he was arrested.

BANG-JENSEN

Detectives Work On Diplomat Case

NEW YORK (UPI)—Detectives tried Friday to retrace the last steps of Danish diplomat Povl Bang-Jensen to "clean up the loose ends" in the suicide of the one-time United Nations official who investigated the 1956 Hungarian revolt.

The police inquiry into the death of the 50-year-old former senior U.N. political officer entered the final stages as the current special U.N. representative on the Hungarian question told the General Assembly that reprisals for the revolt still were continuing in Hungary.

At the same time, Hungarian exile organizations announced they would stage a mass demonstration at the headquarters of the Soviet delegation to the United Nations Sunday in connection with Bang-Jensen's death.

The Danish diplomat was found shot to death Thursday on a leaf-strewn bridle path in a wooded area several miles from the nine-room home in which he lived with his wife and five children at Lake Success, N.Y. A suicide note was found in one of his pockets, and a pearl - handed .25 - caliber pistol was in his right hand.

Urges Thorough Investigation

Robert Morris, former chief counsel for the Senate Internal Security subcommittee, urged police to look into "all the circumstances surrounding" the death. Morris said he did not have "the slightest idea" whether Bang-Jensen committed suicide but said his elimination "would have served the Soviets well."

Mrs. Bang-Jensen said her husband had religious scruples against suicide. She said he had told her several times that suicide was "a senseless, useless sort of thing."

But detectives said they were positive the former U.N. official killed himself. The note found in the breast pocket of his jacket was written in his own hand and there was no evidence whatever to indicate foul play. Medical examiners certified the death was suicide after examining his body at Queens General Hospital.

Police said the only unanswered question was how long he had been dead before being found.

HOW LONG SINCE YOU WERE STARVING TO DEATH?

Never? Simple nourishment never meant the difference between life and death to you?

Dag Publishes Proposal About Valid Weddings

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold published Saturday a proposed international agreement under which no marriage would be valid without the free consent of bride and groom.

The text also says all marriages shall be recorded in a civil or other official register and none shall be valid if one or both of the intended spouses is under age. It leaves the minimum age to be recommended by the U.N. Commission on the Status of Women, which will consider the proposed agreement next March. Hammarskjold noted that the 1956 Geneva convention against slavery and similar practices makes 14 the minimum age for marriage.

Check Of Mail Poses Many Complications

By STANLEY MEISLER

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the Federalist days, the young, fretful American republic tried to stop pamphlets about the French revolution from reaching the mailboxes of its citizens.

Since then, in sporadic moments of crisis, the federal government has continued to screen mail and weed out what it considers foreign or dangerous propaganda. Such moments have come in the pre-Civil War days, during the two world wars, and, now, in the cold war.

But the present little-known program, a joint effort by the Post Office Department and the Customs Bureau, is facing the heaviest attack in its existence. For the first time, law suits have been filed against it.

Under the program, the Customs Bureau checks foreign non first-class mail as it enters the United States. If translators and inspectors decide the mail contains foreign — usually Communist — political propaganda, the Post Office generally holds it up and sends a notice to the addressee.

The notice says the propaganda would normally be considered non mailable but the addressee may receive it if he signs an enclosed form. By signing it, the addressee states that he ordered, subscribed to, or desires the material. Many do not sign, and the Post Office destroys the unclaimed material.

No law details this procedure. It is based instead on a ruling of Atty. Gen. Robert H. Jackson in 1940, handed down after the Post

The helicopter carrying Khrushchev flew across Moscow at about 700 feet. It made the 25-mile trip in 10 minutes. Normally it takes 40 minutes to an hour to make the trip because of traffic. Office Department had seized large shipments of Nazi propaganda. His ruling involved a complicated interweaving of the Espionage Act of 1917 and the Foreign agents Registration Act of 1938.

After World War II, the program lay dormant. But the start of the Korean War prompted congressmen to pressure the Customs Bureau and the Post Office to do something about an increasing influx of Communist mail. The Jackson procedures were revived.

Under the Jackson theory, the Post Office may destroy all foreign propaganda—Communist or not—without giving the addressee a chance to sign a form requesting it, or without even telling him about it. And until this year the program operated much that way.

At the start, the current program had chaotic aspects. The Post Office and the Customs Bureau went after propaganda without much advance preparation. They did not even have a set of rules of procedure that the public could read.

On one occasion, the Customs Bureau handed a Russian-English dictionary to a St. Paul employe who could not speak Russian. His task: to wade through a warehouse of Soviet material and pull out all items containing Communist propaganda.

With such procedures, errors of judgment were easy. The government confiscated, among other material, a Soviet book titled "Chess for Beginners," German-language editions of the works of Karl Marx, the Soviet newspaper Pravda, an antichurch book written in England, the London Economist, and a children's story by Sholom Aleichem.

Universities, libraries, political scientists and newsmen discovered that important Russian journals and newspapers, needed in their work, were not reaching them. One scholarly mathematical review, for example, did not receive any Russian mathematical publications for a year.

Complaints descended upon the Post Office and the Customs Bureau. Under the barrage, procedures were gradually changd until the present system evolved.

In the main, only Communist propaganda coming from behind the Iron Curtain is held up now. And the Post Office releases most of it to anyone who signs a form. The chief exception: bulk shipments of Communist propaganda. The department destroys them.

Government officials contend it is dangerous to let subversive, Communist propaganda reach the American public and it is foolish to subsidize it by using the U. S. mails to deliver it. They are particularly concerned about propaganda directed at the foreign-born population in the United States.

But critics say this puts the federal government in the business of deciding what opinions are fit for Americans to read. And they say anyone asked to sign a statement that he desires Communist mail may interpret that requirement as a form of intimidation.

Two law suits by the American Civil Liberties Union are testing the legality and constitutionality of the customs and postal procedures.

In one, the union has sued on behalf of the managing editor of the American Journal of Sociology, who refused to sign the forms for delivery of two Czech magazines.

In the other, an ACLU attorney has sued to force the Post Office to deliver a copy of Red China's Peking Review without his signing the form.

Warburton hints that he welcomes these pioneer law suits as one way of clearing up the controversy over the program.

IN PHILIPPINES

U.S. Men Linked To 'Whisper' Drive

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Philippine Ambassador Carlos P. Romulo said Friday that some U.S. military officers in the Philippines are engaged in "whispering campaigns" against the Filipino people. He proposed an investigation to ferret them out.

Romulo said in a sharp statement that an inquiry "into the background and mentality" of such officials might disclose why "America is not only losing prestige in, but is alienating countries least expected to be unfriendly."

Romulo's ire was aroused by charges of Rep. Phil Weaver (R-Neb.) that U.S. troops in the Philippines have been made the target of looting, harassment, and generally unfriendly treatment by the Filipino people and government.

To Recall Commanders

The chairman of the House Defense Appropriations subcommittee said U.S. commanders would be recalled from the Philippines to testify about Weaver's charges. The lawmaker recently made a three-day inspection of U.S. military bases in the islands.

Meanwhile, the State Department gave a chilly reception to Weaver's suggestion that U. S. troops be withdrawn from the Philippines. Without mentioning Weaver by name, press officer Joseph Reap said U.S. bases there are "important to the security of both countries."

"These bases and the personnel manning them are there to implement a treaty of mutual defense," he said. He added that of the Filipino government to step up law enforcement around U.S. military bases.

Chairman Dennis Chavez (D-N.M.) of the Senate Military Appropriations subcommittee who just toured U.S. bases in more than 15 nations, said he found no widespread anti-Americanism in the Philippines.

"By and large, I found Americans welcome everywhere," Chavez said. "These people know our military spending supports their local economies. They want us. I didn't see any 'Yank, go home' signs."

Romulo mentioned no names in demanding an investigation of U. S military representatives in the this country welcomed the efforts Philippines. He said U. S. investigators already have refuted Weaver's charges, buit it is important to "pinpoint the source of these misrepresentations."

Accident Suit Filed In Winn

WINNFIELD (Special) — A resident of Sikes Dan (Dooley) Miller, 61, has filed a 49,500 damage suit against the state highway Department, claiming damages to cover injuries he said he received in an auto crash.

Miller's lawsuit charges the highway department, while constructing the Winnfield to Gaars Mill Road, placed certain portions of the highway in a dangerous condition.

The Lawsuit claims that the state did not erect necessary safe guards along the construction area.

As a result the lawsuit says, a car driven by Miller's companion got out of control, smashed a tree, and Miller suffered a fractured neck and shoulder injuries.

Miller requested 2,000 dollars for past and future medical expense, 20,000 dollars for past and future suffering, $2,500 for past salary lost and $25,000 for future salary loss.

Miller was granted permission under act 82 of the 1959 Louisiana legislature to sue the Department of Highways.

Khrushchev Flies In Helicopter

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev followed President Eisenhower's example Friday and flew from the airport to his office in a helicopter. He liked it.

He finished his return trip from a vacation in Gagra on the Black Sea, where he has spent the last 10 days, by hopping from the airport right into the Kremlin yard. All the Presidium members were lined up to meet him.

A group of selected Soviet newsmen met him later in the Kremlin.

Tass, the official Soviet news agency, and Moscow radio said they asked him how he liked the flight and whether the craft was as good as the one in which he flew with Eisenhower.

"The flight was very good," he said, "I hardly noticed how I got into Moscow. Everything is a matter of habit. But I have the impression that our cabin was larger and more comfortable. There was no more noise, perhaps less. In a word, it is a good and comfortable thing."

The helicopter is an eight-seater job and it landed in the Kremlin early this month just to show it could be done. At that time Khrushchev inspected it, and watched how it landed in an open place paved with stone and surrounded by Kremlin buildings and a cluster of gold-domed churches.

Making the copter flight with Khrushchev was Pyotor Dementyev, chairman of the state aviation engineering committee; and Mikhail Mil, designer of the M14, which made the flight.

Check Of Mail Poses Many Complications

By STANLEY MEISLER

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the Federalist days, the young, fretful American republic tried to stop pamphlets about the French revolution from reaching the mailboxes of its citizens.

Since then, in sporadic moments of crisis, the federal government has continued to screen mail and weed out what it considers foreign or dangerous propaganda. Such moments have come in the pre-Civil War days, during the two world wars, and, now, in the cold war.

But the present little-known program, a joint effort by the Post Office Department and the Customs Bureau, is facing the heaviest attack in its existence. For the first time, law suits have been filed against it.

Under the program, the Customs Bureau checks foreign non first-class mail as it enters the United States. If translators and inspectors decide the mail contains foreign — usually Communist — political propaganda, the Post Office generally holds it up and sends a notice to the addressee.

The notice says the propaganda would normally be considered non mailable but the addressee may receive it if he signs an enclosed form. By signing it, the addressee states that he ordered, subscribed to, or desires the material. Many do not sign, and the Post Office destroys the unclaimed material.

No law details this procedure. It is based instead on a ruling of Atty. Gen. Robert H. Jackson in 1940, handed down after the Post

The helicopter carrying Khrushchev flew across Moscow at about 700 feet. It made the 25-mile trip in 10 minutes. Normally it takes 40 minutes to an hour to make the trip because of traffic. Office Department had seized large shipments of Nazi propaganda. His ruling involved a complicated interweaving of the Espionage Act of 1917 and the Foreign agents Registration Act of 1938.

After World War II, the program lay dormant. But the start of the Korean War prompted congressmen to pressure the Customs Bureau and the Post Office to do something about an increasing influx of Communist mail. The Jackson procedures were revived.

Under the Jackson theory, the Post Office may destroy all foreign propaganda—Communist or not—without giving the addressee a chance to sign a form requesting it, or without even telling him about it. And until this year the program operated much that way.

At the start, the current program had chaotic aspects. The Post Office and the Customs Bureau went after propaganda without much advance preparation. They did not even have a set of rules of procedure that the public could read.

On one occasion, the Customs Bureau handed a Russian-English dictionary to a St. Paul employe who could not speak Russian. His task: to wade through a warehouse of Soviet material and pull out all items containing Communist propaganda.

With such procedures, errors of judgment were easy. The government confiscated, among other material, a Soviet book titled "Chess for Beginners," German-language editions of the works of Karl Marx, the Soviet newspaper Pravda, an antichurch book written in England, the London Economist, and a children's story by Sholom Aleichem.

Universities, libraries, political scientists and newsmen discovered that important Russian journals and newspapers, needed in their work, were not reaching them. One scholarly mathematical review, for example, did not receive any Russian mathematical publications for a year.

Complaints descended upon the Post Office and the Customs Bureau. Under the barrage, procedures were gradually changd until the present system evolved.

In the main, only Communist propaganda coming from behind the Iron Curtain is held up now. And the Post Office releases most of it to anyone who signs a form. The chief exception: bulk shipments of Communist propaganda. The department destroys them.

Government officials contend it is dangerous to let subversive, Communist propaganda reach the American public and it is foolish to subsidize it by using the U. S. mails to deliver it. They are particularly concerned about propaganda directed at the foreign-born population in the United States.

But critics say this puts the federal government in the business of deciding what opinions are fit for Americans to read. And they say anyone asked to sign a statement that he desires Communist mail may interpret that requirement as a form of intimidation.

Two law suits by the American Civil Liberties Union are testing the legality and constitutionality of the customs and postal procedures.

In one, the union has sued on behalf of the managing editor of the American Journal of Sociology, who refused to sign the forms for delivery of two Czech magazines.

In the other, an ACLU attorney has sued to force the Post Office to deliver a copy of Red China's Peking Review without his signing the form.

Warburton hints that he welcomes these pioneer law suits as one way of clearing up the controversy over the program.

Ole Miss Mauls Maroons, 42-0; Takes Aim At LSU

By LEWIS LORD

STARKSVILLE, Miss. (UPI) — Jake Gibbs, possibly Mississippi's best quarterback since Charlie Conerly, scored two touchdowns and passed for two more Saturday to lead the nations No. 2 team to a 42-0 victory over rival Mississippi State and a Sugar Bowl rematch with LSU.

The victory, witnessed by a crowd of 34,000, was the 100th in 12 years for Rebel Coach John Vaught. Vaught has never lost to State, a 26-point underdog this sunny but cold day.

Mississippi announced immediately after the game its acceptance of an invitation to met third-ranked Louisiana State in the Sugar Bowl New Year's Day. The New Orleans classic will be a replay of a regular season match which L.S.U won 7-3. It was Mississippi's only defeat. Sugar Bowl President Monk Simon said, "We feel we have the outstanding bowl game of the day."

Gibbs, a junior who passes hard and runs harder, threw touchdown passes to halfback Cowboy Woodruff and end Larry Grantham and scored two times on roll-outs behind precision blocking. Fullback Charlie Flowers, an all - America prospect, scored another touchdown to climax a Gibbs-directed drive, and Woodruff returned a pass interception for a final touchdown.

Mississippi State, making its second straight finish in the Southeastern Conference cellar, was bottled up constantly by Mississippi's hard - charging line, led by All-SEC guard Marvin Terrell and center Ken Kirk.

The young Maroons failed to penetrate Mississippi territory in the first half and got no further than the Rebel 36 in the second half.

Mississippi waited 14 minutes to make its first score, then made another before the first period ended. The Rebels moved 63 yards in seven plays with Gibbs hitting Woodruff near the left sidelines on a 23-yard scoring pass.

Mississippi State fullback Walter Flowers fumbled the ensuing kickoff on the State 31 in the grip of a crushing tackle by tackle Butch Kempinska which sent Flowers limping to the bench. Rebel fullback James Anderson recovered. Gibbs then passed to halfback Dewey Partridge for 24 yards and went over from seven yards out on a rollout on the following play. Robert Khaya made the first of his four conversions.

Gibbs engineered an 80 - yard Rebel drive in the second period and Flowers capped it with a four-yard smash over the middle.

Gibbs pin-pointed end Jerry Daniels with a 38-yard pass to the State 19 to set up the Rebels' fourth touchdown and moments later hit Grantham in the end zone for the tally.

In the third period, Gibbs directed a drive from the Rebel 37 to the State 37 where the shifty quarterback from Grenada, Miss., broke away for 37 yards on a roll out for another touchdown.

Two Rebel interceptions, one by Gibbs, stopped Maroon drives in the final period. The second interception came when Woodruff grabbed a pass at the State 42. He went the distance untouched for the Rebels' final touchdown, and fourth string quarterback Doug Elmore sneaked over for two extra points.

ACCARDO WINS IT

Irish Edge Rebs In Thriller, 54-53

Frankie Accardo sank two free shots with six seconds to go to give St. Matthew's Fighting Irish a 54-53 victory over West Monroe's scrappy shorties and delight a homecoming crowd at the parochial school gym last night.

Because of a mixup at the scoring table, Accardo and everybody else didn't know his last charity toss was the winner until after the game. The scoreboard clock read 56-53 after Accardo's final shot and the Irish, thinking they had the game beyond reach, stayed away and let Roy Lee Scroggins shoot a long one just as the game ended. The shot missed.

The victory was the third of the season for Jim Mahoney's St. Matthew's club against one defeat. L. V. Norris' West Monroe Rebels, short on experience and height, were playing in their first game.

West Monroe never led until the final minutes. The Irish had a 15-9 lead at the end of the first period and a 24-20 advantage at halftime.

St. Matthew's pushed their lead to six points early in the third period but West Monroe closed the gap to 36-33 by the end of the stanza and never was behind by more than three points the rest of the way.

Accardo, Puddy Embanato and John Varino got 14 points each for the Irish and Varino controlled the backboards with 20 rebounds.

Larry Danna, before going out on fouls, collected 13 points to lead West Monroe and Scroggins got 11.

Army-Navy Sidelights

The brigade of midshipmen and corps of cadets marched around the cement track circling the field and then raced to their seats prior to the 60th service football game.

The tarpaulin was removed 45 minutes before the kickoff, by which time the rain had stopped and a drying breeze blew into the gigantic stadium.

The name of the playing field has been changed from a year ago, when it was known as Municipal Stadium.

The captains of the two squads come from suburban Philadelphia. Navy center Jim Dunn's home is Rutledge, Pa., and Army end Bill Carpenter comes from Springfield, Pa.

Among the notable visitors in the vast throng were Felix (Doc) Blanchard, Army's All-America fullback from the great mid-40s era, and former Navy quarterback Tom Forrestal.

Blanchard is one of two players to score three touchdowns in a single Army-Navy contest (1945). The other was Army's Pat Uebel in '53.

Many fans were late arriving, fearing a repeat of two years ago when the Middies and Cadets didn't even march around the covered field due to the deluge. The '57 contest was the first since 1934 played in rain.

Phil Monahan had an important sideline seat for the second time at the service classic. In the 1954 game, he was Navy captain, but was hurt and didn't play. Navy won 27-20 and then beat Mississippi 21-0 in the Sugar Bowl.

This season, Monahan scouted every Army game and a lot of the Navy strategy this afternoon was based on his observations.

President Eisenhower, who never has seen an Army-Navy football game while in office, sent a message of "best wishes to both teams."

When the tarpaulin was removed it revealed a firm looking turf which had been spray painted a bright green.

RUSTON, La. — Pint-sized Johnny Hudson revived a dormant Louisiana Tech offensive with a dazzling fourth - quarter passing barrage and sneaked for two touchdowns as the Bulldogs smashed second-ranked Mississippi Southern, 16-0, here Saturday afternoon in a battle of small college giants.

Hudson, a 5-9, 155-pound deadeye from Minden, completed 9 of 11 passes for 139 yards and bunched 8 of his strikes in the final period to set up both scoring bursts.

End Bud Alexander, whose field goal spelled the difference in Tech's 10-7 win over Memphis State two weeks ago, blasted a 32-yard three-pointer in the third period to crack a scoreless deadlock.

The victory, Tech's ninth of the season against one setback and the first over Southern since 1949, stamped the Bulldogs as prime material for a post-season bowl bid. Mississippi Southern had been ticketed for a Tangerine Bowl berth if they hurdled the seventh-ranked Louisianians.

Louisiana Tech, which breezed to the Gulf States Conference title with a 5-0 league mark, has been rumored as a possible participant in the Blue Grass Bowl in Louisville, Ky., Dec. 19. However, Alabama yesterday rejected a bid to the bowl and officials hinted the contest may be dropped. Kentucky has also been invited to play.

The victory was particularly sweet for Tech head coach Joe Aillet, only this week elected to the National Assn. of Intercollegiate Athletics hall of fame. Aillet's record for 19 years at the Bulldog helm stands at 114 victories against 59 losses and 8 ties.

Outweighed by a Southern forward wall averaging 215 pounds per man, the Techmen ran the middle of the line with little success, gaining only 67 yards on the ground while Southern romped for 173.

But Hudson, seeing his first varsity action this season after being redshirted in 1958, took command in the final period and did what had to be done.

Halfback Jack Howard recovered his second of two fumbles shortly after the last stanza opened and the Techsters began to roll. Tommy Purvis bobbled the ball on the Tech 45 and Howard corralled it on his own 38.

Sophomore Andy Farless lost four yards, then Hudson connected with Howard on a 37-yarder that carried to the Mississippi 29. Farless picked up two through the center and Hudson rifled a 13-yard shot to freshman cohort, end Jerry Griffin, at the 14. On the next play it was Hudson again, tossing to end Tom Causey, a junior from Monroe who made a sparkling reception between two defenders on the one.

Fullback Wayne Parker was stopped for no gain and Hudson sneaked over for the touchdown. Slack's kick was no good and the hosts led, 9-0.

But Hudson and the red-jersied Bulldogs weren't through. Sophomore guard Billy Jack Talton sytmied a Southern move moments later, intercepting reserve quarterback Billy Larson's pass on the Mississippi 37.

David Williamson bulled for three yards and a 15-yard penalty set the Techmen back to the 49. Hudson flipped to Griffin for 12 yards, picked up 3 on the option play and handed off the Max Rudd for 6 more yards.

With fourth and one on the 28 Hudson tossed out in the right flat to Williamson who made a fintertip catch and powered his way to a first down on the 20. After Rudd lost a couple on a dive Hudson spiraled a heave to Griffin who made a falling reception on the 2. Hudson faked a handoff and went over the left side to score.

Slack's conversion wrapped up the scoring.

The Southerners, absorbing their first shutout since Chattanooga turned the trick in 1955, made a last-ditch drive, moving to the Tech 15 before running out of steam with one play left in the game.

Lanky Vel Keckin pitched 10 passes in the last three minutes and engineered a 65-yard Southern march. He shot a 33-yarder to end Jugh McInnis a 16-yarder to Leon Akins and a 10 - yarder to Andin McLeod. Three passes and a run from the 20 failed to pick up the first down and Tech took over and ran out the clock.

Southern was literally shot down by shoddy ball handling, losing the ball five times on fumbles, once on the Tech 6. Hudson pounced on that one just before the half to preserve a scoreless stalemate temporarily.

Both clubs put together serious scoring drives in the initial half. On the first play of the second quarter end Charley Garris smashed down Southern's Morris Meador with a hard tackle, jarring the ball loose. Bobby Hinton recovered for the hosts on the invaders' 12.

J. W. Slack moved for one yard and Paul Hynes, Tech's top ground gainer with 30 yards, got one through the middle. Mickey Slaughter's pass was broken up by Charley Ellzey and the Techmen lined up for a field goal attempt from the 17. The pass from center was low and Mickey Slaughter picked it up and passed to Slack who drove to the 3, one yard short of a first down.

Then it was Southern's turn and the Mississippi club marched to the Bulldog 27 in 20 plays where McInnis missed a field goal try.

Tech notched its field goal after the second half kickoff, climaxing a drive from the 35-yard line. Slack, Hynes and Rudd ground out yardage on three carries and junior quarterback Taylor McNeel threw 18 yards to Hynes at the 37 on a fourth down gamble that caught Southern napping.

McNeel then pitched to Slack who was bounced out of bounds by Don Fuell after a 17-yard gain to the 20. Hynes picked up 3 and Rudd moved for 2 before McNeel's pass fell incomplete.

Joe Hinton, Bobby Hinton, Herschel Vinyard and Garris were bulwarks in the consistent Tech defensive forward wall. McInnis, who was credited with 7 tackles and 4 asissts, was Southern's defensive standout along with tackle Buddy Long and tackle Charley Baetzman.

Buddy Supple and Arnold Spence were the big gainers for the southermen. Supple moved for 56 yards in 13 tries and Spence picked up 35 yards in 11 carries.

Causey snared four passes for 48 yards and Griffin hauled in three for 45 yards.

Southern, beaten by Texas A&M, Memphis State and Auburn, finished the season with six wins and four losses.

BELLINO SCORES AGAIN—Navy half back Joe Bellino, clutching the ball like a baseball, goes over for his third touchdown and the Middies' fourth in the third period against Army at Philadelphia Stadium. He became the first Navy player ever to score three touchdowns in the Army-Navy series. Trying to stop him is Army's Bob Oswandel (56). SCORES THREE TIMES

By JACK HAND

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Flashy Joe Bellino's three touchdowns led Navy to a shocking 43-12 rout of favored Army Saturday, the highest point total by any team in the 60 games of this bitter football rivalry.

Bellino, a shifty speed merchant from Winchester, Mass., thrilled the 100,000 fans at Philadelphia Stadium with his brilliant running. The junior halfback tallied on runs of 15 and 47 yards and plunged over from the Army 1 to become the first Navy player ever to score three touchdowns in a single game of this series that dates back to 1890. Only two Army men, Doc Blanchard in 1945 and Pat Uebel in 1953, ever matched this brilliant effort.

Quarterback Joe Tranchini of Navy completely overshadowed Army's Joe Caldwell, smashing through the Cadets for two touchdowns on an 11-yard run and a 1-yard plunge and directing the Middies' attack expertly. Ronnie Branquist blasted into the end zone from the Army 1 for Navy's sixth and final touchdown.

Only for a few moments in the second period did it appear that Army might have a chance to pull this out of the fire.

The Cadets broke through twice, scoring on a 29-yard pass from Caldwell to Bill Carpenter, the lonely end, and a 12-yard power run by Bob Anderson. However Army trailed 21-12 at halftime and didn't come close to scoring again until Caldwell's pass was intercepted in the end zone by Jim Honeywell with a minute to go.

In addition to his scoring runs, he turned in a brilliant 37-yard runback after intercepting an Anderson pass in the third period. And the 5-8 junior also was a standout on pass defense whenever the fired up Navy line didn't completely smother Caldwell.

The game, highest scoring contest in the series, ended without goal posts as crowd of civilians swarmed onto the field and leveled the uprights.

The 3,800 midshipmen had plenty of chances to send the rousing tones of "Anchors Aweigh" into the chill, damp air as Navy rolled up the score. The previous high for a team in this series came in Navy's 42-7 victory in 1951 in the first game after Army's cribbing scandal. Army's high was 40 points in 1903 and the previous high total for both clubs was 49 in 1951.

It was apparent early that this was not to be Army's day. On the first series of plays after receiving the opening kickoff, Navy just missed a touchdown on a tricky pass from Bellino to Dick Pariseau. Pariseau, the flanking halfback, had the ball on his fingertips as he lunged into the end zone.

Navy moved 67 yards in six plays for its first touchdown after forcing Army to punt. A Tranchini-to-George Bezek pass accounted for a vital first down, and Pariseau broke away for 20 yards to the Army 15. Bellino went inside tackle on a quick opener, cut toward the sidelines and scooted 15 yards for the touchdown that touched off a wild ovation in the brigade of midshipmen.

The Middies came right back with another Bellino score, this time on a 47-yard run on a draw play to the right side. Greg Mather's placement try, blocked after the first score, was good this time, and Navy led 13-0 after less than 10 minutes of play.

Army struck back when Caldwell, who had missed with his first six passes despite his 60 per cent completion record in previous games, hit Carpenter for a 29-yard touchdown play.

That only served to arouse the Navy to more strenuous efforts. In 12 plays the Middies moved deep on Tranchini's passing. The quarterback finally went over on a keeper and then passed to Bezek for the 2 points.

Army's second and last scoring march was aided by two personal foul penalties against Navy, and finally was capped by Anderson's 12-yard run.

Navy kept rolling in the second half although Caldwell began to connect with his passes. At the end of the day he had hit six of 23 (only 25 per cent) but added 115 yards that gave him a West Point season high of 1,258 yards.

Bellino's third touchdown came midway in the third period after his fine run with interception. He drove over from the 13 this time. Tranchini threw the 2-point conversion pass to Tom Hyde, who was voted the outstanding lineman in a press box poll. Bellino, naturally, was the back of the day with 25 carries for 115 yards.

Tranchini plunged over for the fifth Navy score in the first minute of the final period, and passed to Bezek for the 2-pointer. A few minutes later the Middies came right back with another.

After Bellino crashed to the Army 1, Brandquist took it over.

The Navy quarterback completed nine of 15 passes (60 per cent) for 117 yards, but none went for touchdown on a pass.

battle that was expected to be as passing duel between Caldwell and Tranchini resulted in only one touchdwn on a pass.

Navy closed down on Army's ground game, limiting the Cadets to 62 yards rushing. Tackle Ron Erchul was the leader in the rushing of Caldwell.

So first blood in this battle of new service coaches went to Wayne Hardin, who succeeed Eddie Erdelatz at Navy. The victory left the Middies with a final 5-4-1 record. Army dropped back to the .500 mark at 4-4-1, ending a frustrating year for Dale Hall, who took over after Red Blaik stepped down last year.

Hall said his team had no excuse. "I think agood part of it was just poor tackling," he said. While praising Bellino he took time to pay particular attention to Tranchini who played "a real fine game and completed pass after pass with players hanging on to him."

Asked what he had said to the players before the press was admitted, Hall replied, "not anything I would like made public."

By LEWIS LORD

STARKSVILLE, Miss. (UPI) — Jake Gibbs, possibly Mississippi's best quarterback since Charlie Conerly, scored two touchdowns and passed for two more Saturday to lead the nations No. 2 team to a 42-0 victory over rival Mississippi State and a Sugar Bowl rematch with LSU.

The victory, witnessed by a crowd of 34,000, was the 100th in 12 years for Rebel Coach John Vaught. Vaught has never lost to State, a 26-point underdog this sunny but cold day.

Mississippi announced immediately after the game its acceptance of an invitation to met third-ranked Louisiana State in the Sugar Bowl New Year's Day. The New Orleans classic will be a replay of a regular season match which L.S.U won 7-3. It was Missippi's only defeat. Sugar Bowl President Monk Simon said, "We feel we have the outstanding bowl game of the day."

Gibbs, a junior who passes hard and runs harder, threw touchdown passes to halfback Cowboy Woodruff and end Larry Grantham and scored two times on roll-outs behind precision blocking. Fullback Charlie Flowers, an all - America prospect, scored another touchdown to climax a Gibbs-directed drive, and Woodruff returned a pass interception for a final touchdown.

Mississippi State, making its second straight finish in the Southeastern Conference cellar, was bottled up constantly by Mississippi's hard - charging line, led by All-SEC guard Marvin Terrell and center Ken Kirk.

The young Maroons failed to penetrate Mississippi territory in the first half and got no further than the Rebel 36 in the second half.

Mississippi waited 14 minutes to make its first score, then made another before the first period ended. The Rebels moved 63 yards in seven plays with Gibbs hitting Woodruff near the left sidelines on a 23-yard scoring pass.

Mississippi State fullback Walter Flowers fumbled the ensuing kickoff on the State 31 in the grip of a crushing tackle by tackle Butch Kempinska which sent Flowers limping to the bench. Rebel fullback James Anderson recovered. Gibbs then passed to halfback Dewey Partridge for 24 yards and went over from seven yards out on a rollout on the following play. Robert Khaya made the first of his four conversions.

Gibbs engineered an 80 - yard Rebel drive in the second period and Flowers capped it with a four-yard smash over the middle.

Gibbs pin-pointed end Jerry Daniels with a 38-yard pass to the State 19 to set up the Rebels' fourth touchdown and moments later hit Grantham in the end zone for the tally.

In the third period, Gibbs directed a drive from the Rebel 37 to the State 37 where the shifty quarterback from Grenada, Miss., broke away for 37 yards on a roll out for another touchdown.

Two Rebel interceptions, one by Gibbs, stopped Maroon drives in the final period. The second interception came when Woodruff grabbed a pass at the State 42. He went the distance untouched for the Rebels' final touchdown, and fourth string quarterback Doug Elmore sneaked over for two extra points.

ACCARDO WINS IT

Frankie Accardo sank two free shots with six seconds to go to give St. Matthew's Fighting Irish a 54-53 victory over West Monroe's scrappy shorties and delight a homecoming crowd at the parochial school gym last night.

Because of a mixup at the scoring table, Accardo and everybody else didn't know his last charity toss was the winner until after the game. The scoreboard clock read 56-53 after Accardo's final shot and the Irish, thinking they had the game beyond reach, stayed away and let Roy Lee Scroggins shoot a long one just as the game ended. The shot missed.

The victory was the third of the season for Jim Mahoney's St. Matthew's club against one defeat. L. V. Norris' West Monroe Rebels, short on experience and height, were playing in their first game.

West Monroe never led until the final minutes. The Irish had a 15-9 lead at the end of the first period and a 24-20 advantage at halftime.

St. Matthew's pushed their lead to six points early in the third period but West Monroe closed the gap to 36-33 by the end of the stanza and never was behind by more than three points the rest of the way.

Accardo, Puddy Embanato and John Varino got 14 points each for the Irish and Varino controlled the backboards with 20 rebounds.

Larry Danna, before going out on fouls, collected 13 points to lead West Monroe and Scroggins got 11.

Army-Navy Sidelights

The brigade of midshipmen and corps of cadets marched around the cement track circling the field and then raced to their seats prior to the 60th service football game.

The tarpaulin was removed 45 minutes before the kickoff, by which time the rain had stopped and a drying breeze blew into the gigantic stadium.

The name of the playing field has been changed from a year ago, when it was known as Municipal Stadium.

The captains of the two squads come from suburban Philadelphia. Navy center Jim Dunn's home is Rutledge, Pa., and Army end Bill Carpenter comes from Springfield, Pa.

Among the notable visitors in the vast throng were Felix (Doc) Blanchard, Army's All-America fullback from the great mid-40s era, and former Navy quarterback Tom Forrestal.

Blanchard is one of two players to score three touchdowns in a single Army-Navy contest (1945). The other was Army's Pat Uebel in '53.

Many fans were late arriving, fearing a repeat of two years ago when the Middies and Cadets didn't even march around the covered field due to the deluge. The '57 contest was the first since 1934 played in rain.

Phil Monahan had an important sideline seat for the second time at the service classic. In the 1954 game, he was Navy captain, but was hurt and didn't play. Navy won 27-20 and then beat Mississippi 21-0 in the Sugar Bowl.

This season, Monahan scouted every Army game and a lot of the Navy strategy this afternoon was based on his observations.

President Eisenhower, who never has seen an Army-Navy football game while in office, sent a message of "best wishes to both teams."

When the tarpaulin was removed it revealed a firm looking turf which had been spray painted a bright green.

Hudson Leads Tech To 16-0 Victory Over Powerful Southerners

Bulldogs Tip Nation's No. 2 Ranked Team

By JIM CALHOUN
Staff Sports Writer

RUSTON, La. — Pint-sized Johnny Hudson revived a dormant Louisiana Tech offensive with a dazzling fourth - quarter passing barrage and sneaked for two touchdowns as the Bulldogs smashed second-ranked Mississippi Southern, 16-0, here Saturday afternoon in a battle of small college giants.

Hudson, a 5-9, 155-pound deadeye from Minden, completed 9 of 11 passes for 139 yards and bunched 8 of his strikes in the final period to set up both scoring bursts.

End Bud Alexander, whose field goal spelled the difference in Tech's 10-7 win over Memphis State two weeks ago, blasted a 32-yard three-pointer in the third period to crack a scoreless deadlock.

The victory, Tech's ninth of the season against one setback and the first over Southern since 1949, stamped the Bulldogs as prime material for a post-season bowl bid. Mississippi Southern had been ticketed for a Tangerine Bowl berth if they hurdled the seventh-ranked Louisianians.

Louisiana Tech, which breezed to the Gulf States Conference title with a 5-0 league mark, has been rumored as a possible participant in the Blue Grass Bowl in Louisville, Ky., Dec. 19. However, Alabama yesterday rejected a bid to the bowl and officials hinted the contest may be dropped. Kentucky has also been invited to play.

The victory was particularly sweet for Tech head coach Joe Aillet, only this week elected to the National Assn. of Intercollegiate Athletics hall of fame. Aillet's record for 19 years at the Bulldog helm stands at 114 victories against 59 losses and 8 ties.

Outweighed by a Southern forward wall averaging 215 pounds per man, the Techmen ran the middle of the line with little success, gaining only 67 yards on the ground while Southern romped for 173.

But Hudson, seeing his first varsity action this season after being redshirted in 1958, took command in the final period and did what had to be done.

Halfback Jack Howard recovered his second of two fumbles shortly after the last stanza opened and the Techsters began to roll. Tommy Purvis bobbled the ball on the Tech 45 and Howard corraled it on his own 38.

Sophomore Andy Farless lost four yards, then Hudson connected with Howard on a 37-yarder that carried to the Mississippi 29. Farless picked up two through the center and Hudson rifled a 13-yard shot to freshman cohort, end Jerry Griffin, at the 14. On the next play it was Hudson again, tossing to end Tom Causey, a junior from Monroe who made a sparkling reception between two defenders on the one.

Fullback Wayne Parker was stopped for no gain and Hudson sneaked over for the touchdown. Slack's kick was no good and the hosts led, 9-0.

But Hudson and the red-jersied Bulldogs weren't through. Sophomore guard Billy Jack Talton sytmied a Southern move moments later, intercepting reserve quarterback Billy Larson's pass on the Mississippi 37.

David Williamson bulled for three yards and a 15-yard penalty set the Techmen back to the 49. Hudson flipped to Griffin for 12 yards, picked up 3 on the option play and handed off the Max Rudd for 6 more yards.

With fourth and one on the 28 Hudson tossed out in the right flat to Williamson who made a fintertip catch and powered his way to a first down on the 20. After Rudd lost a couple on a dive Hudson spiraled a heave to Griffin who made a falling reception on the 2. Hudson faked a handoff and went over the left side to score.

Slack's conversion wrapped up the scoring.

The Southerners, absorbing their first shutout since Chattanooga turned the trick in 1955, made a last-ditch drive, moving to the Tech 15 before running out of steam with one play left in the game.

Lanky Vel Keckin pitched 10 passes in the last three minutes and engineered a 65-yard Southern march. He shot a 33-yarder to end Jugh McInnis a 16-yarder to Leon Akins and a 10 - yarder to Andin McLeod. Three passes and a run from the 20 failed to pick up the first down and Tech took over and ran out the clock.

Southern was literally shot down by shoddy ball handling, losing the ball five times on fumbles, once on the Tech 6. Hudson pounced on that one just before the half to preserve a scoreless stalemate temporarily.

Both clubs put together serious scoring drives in the initial half. On the first play of the second quarter end Charley Garris smashed down Southern's Morris Meador with a hard tackle, jarring the ball loose. Bobby Hinton recovered for the hosts on the invaders' 12.

J. W. Slack moved for one yard and Paul Hynes, Tech's top ground gainer with 30 yards, got one through the middle. Mickey Slaughter's pass was broken up by Charley Ellzey and the Techmen lined up for a field goal attempt from the 17. The pass from center was low and Mickey Slaughter picked it up and passed to Slack who drove to the 3, one yard short of a first down.

Then it was Southern's turn and the Mississippi club marched to the Bulldog 27 in 20 plays where McInnis missed a field goal try.

Tech notched its field goal after the second half kickoff, climaxing a drive from the 35-yard line. Slack, Hynes and Rudd ground out yardage on three carries and junior quarterback Taylor McNeel threw 18 yards to Hynes at the 37 on a fourth down gamble that caught Southern napping.

McNeel then pitched to Slack who was bounced out of bounds by Don Fuell after a 17-yard gain to the 20. Hynes picked up 3 and Rudd moved for 2 before McNeel's pass fell incomplete.

Joe Hinton, Bobby Hinton, Herschel Vinyard and Garris were bulwarks in the consistent Tech defensive forward wall. McInnis, who was credited with 7 tackles and 4 asissts, was Southern's defensive standout along with tackle Buddy Long and tackle Charley Baetzman.

Buddy Supple and Arnold Spence were the big gainers for the southermen. Supple moved for 56 yards in 13 tries and Spence picked up 35 yards in 11 carries.

Causey snared four passes for 48 yards and Griffin hauled in three for 45 yards.

Southern, beaten by Texas A&M, Memphis State and Auburn, finished the season with six wins and four losses.

BELLINO SCORES AGAIN—Navy half back Joe Bellino, clutching the ball like a baseball, goes over for his third touchdown and the Middies' fourth in the third period against Army at Philadelphia Stadium. He became the first Navy player ever to score three touchdowns in the Army-Navy series. Trying to stop him is Army's Bob Oswandel (56). SCORES THREE TIMES

By JACK HAND

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Flashy Joe Bellino's three touchdowns led Navy to a shocking 43-12 rout of favored Army Saturday, the highest point total by any team in the 60 games of this bitter football rivalry.

Bellino, a shifty speed merchant from Winchester, Mass., thrilled the 100,000 fans at Philadelphia Stadium with his brilliant running. The junior halfback tallied on runs of 15 and 47 yards and plunged over from the Army 1 to become the first Navy player ever to score three touchdowns in a single game of this series that dates back to 1890. Only two Army men, Doc Blanchard in 1945 and Pat Uebel in 1953, ever matched this brilliant effort.

Quarterback Joe Tranchini of Navy completely overshadowed Army's Joe Caldwell, smashing through the Cadets for two touchdowns on an 11-yard run and a 1-yard plunge and directing the Middies' attack expertly. Ronnie Branquist blasted into the end zone from the Army 1 for Navy's sixth and final touchdown.

Only for a few moments in the second period did it appear that Army might have a chance to pull this out of the fire.

The Cadets broke through twice, scoring on a 29-yard pass from Caldwell to Bill Carpenter, the lonely end, and a 12-yard power run by Bob Anderson. However Army trailed 21-12 at halftime and didn't come close to scoring again until Caldwell's pass was intercepted in the end zone by Jim Honeywell with a minute to go.

In addition to his scoring runs, he turned in a brilliant 37-yard runback after intercepting an Anderson pass in the third period. And the 5-8 junior also was a standout on pass defense whenever the fired up Navy line didn't completely smother Caldwell.

The game, highest scoring contest in the series, ended without goal posts as crowd of civilians swarmed onto the field and leveled the uprights.

The 3,800 midshipmen had plenty of chances to send the rousing tones of "Anchors Aweigh" into the chill, damp air as Navy rolled up the score. The previous high for a team in this series came in Navy's 42-7 victory in 1951 in the first game after Army's cribbing scandal. Army's high was 40 points in 1903 and the previous high total for both clubs was 49 in 1951.

It was apparent early that this was not to be Army's day. On the first series of plays after receiving the opening kickoff, Navy just missed a touchdown on a tricky pass from Bellino to Dick Pariseau. Pariseau, the flanking halfback, had the ball on his fingertips as he lunged into the end zone.

Navy moved 67 yards in six plays for its first touchdown after forcing Army to punt. A Tranchini-to-George Bezek pass accounted for a vital first down, and Pariseau broke away for 20 yards to the Army 15. Bellino went inside tackle on a quick opener, cut toward the sidelines and scooted 15 yards for the touchdown that touched off a wild ovation in the brigade of midshipmen.

The Middies came right back with another Bellino score, this time on a 47-yard run on a draw play to the right side. Greg Mather's placement try, blocked after the first score, was good this time, and Navy led 13-0 after less than 10 minutes of play.

Army struck back when Caldwell, who had missed with his first six passes despite his 60 per cent completion record in previous games, hit Carpenter for a 29-yard touchdown play.

That only served to arouse the Navy to more strenuous efforts. In 12 plays the Middies moved deep on Tranchini's passing. The quarterback finally went over on a keeper and then passed to Bezek for the 2 points.

Army's second and last scoring march was aided by two personal foul penalties against Navy, and finally was capped by Anderson's 12-yard run.

Navy kept rolling in the second half although Caldwell began to connect with his passes. At the end of the day he had hit six of 23 (only 23 per cent) but added 115 yards that gave him a West Point season high of 1,258 yards.

Bellino's third touchdown came midway in the third period after his fine run with interception. He drove over from the 13 this time. Tranchini threw the 2-point conversion pass to Tom Hyde, who was voted the outstanding lineman in a press box poll. Bellino, naturally, was the back of the day with 25 carries for 115 yards.

Tranchini plunged over for the fifth Navy score in the first minute of the final period, and passed to Bezek for the 2-pointer. A few minutes later the Middies came right back with another.

After Bellino crashed to the Army 1, Brandquist took it over.

The Navy quarterback completed nine of 15 passes (60 per cent) for 117 yards, but none went for touchdown on a pass.

battle that was expected to be as passing duel between Caldwell and Tranchini resulted in only one touchdwn on a pass.

Navy closed down on Army's ground game, limiting the Cadets to 62 yards rushing. Tackle Ron Erchul was the leader in the rushing of Caldwell.

So first blood in this battle of new service coaches went to Wayne Hardin, who succeeed Eddie Erdelatz at Navy. The victory left the Middies with a final 5-4-1 record. Army dropped back to the .500 mark at 4-4-1, ending a frustrating year for Dale Hall, who took over after Red Blaik stepped down last year.

Hall said his team had no excuse. "I think agood part of it was just poor tackling," he said. While praising Bellino he took time to pay particular attention to Tranchini who played "a real fine game and completed pass after pass with players hanging on to him."

Asked what he had said to the players before the press was admitted, Hall replied, "not anything I would like made public."

TECH GATOR BOUND

Georgia Whips Engineers, 21-14; Accepts Orange Bid

By DAVID M. MOFFIT

ATLANTA (UPI) — Halfback Fred Brown paced Georgia's Bulldogs to a 21-14 victory over arch-rival Georgia Tech Saturday and Georgia immediately announced it had accepted an invitation to the Orange Bowl.

The Bulldogs, with a 9-1 record and the Southeastern Conference title to show for Coach Wally Butts finest season in a decade, will meet Missouri, the Big Eight representative, in Miami's Orange Bowl feature on Jan. 1.

Georgia Tech announced after the game that it had accepted an invitation to the Gator Bowl in Jacksonville, Fla., Jan. 2 Tech will meet Arkansas of the Southwest Conference in the Gator Bowl game, it was announced there.

Georgia piled up three first-half touchdowns before a crowd of 45,000 and fought off a determined Tech bid in the second half.

Brown, speedy nephew of one-time all-America Johnny Mack Brown, set up the Bulldogs' first touchdown with a 38-yard end sweep and scored the final one on a 40-yard pass play.

Despite bitter cold, the sell-out crowd stayed in its seats until the final gun as Tech unleashed its offense in the closing minutes to turn what had appeared to be a rout into a thriller.

Trailing 0-21, the Yellowjackets scored late in the third period on a 57-yard pass play, then threatened twice in the fourth period before finally scoring again on a 38-yard pass.

Quarterback Marvin Tibbetts, subbing for injured Fred Braselton, threw both of Tech's touchdown passes—one to end Gerald Burch, the other to end Fred Murphy.

The Bulldogs looked like the Southeastern Conference Champions they are in the first half, moving through the Tech defense as no other team has done in years. They dominated the half, scoring their first touchdown 30 seconds before the end of the opening period when halfback George Guisler went over from one yard out — two plays after Brown's long run.

Then, with two minutes and three seconds left in the half, quarterback Francis Tarkenton hit end Bill Herron with a 16 - yard pass that scored Georgia's second touchdown. Georgia got the ball back when Tech quick-kicked and with only nine seconds left in the half, quarterback Charlie Britt connected with Brown from 40 yards out for the third touchdown.

Durwood Pennington kicked all three conversions.

Tech finally got back into the game late in the third period on the Tibbetts-to-Burch pass. Then in the fourth period the Jackets really poured it on.

A bad snap on a punt attempt put Tech on the Georgia 14, but a fake field goal on fourth down went astray when no one was in the end zone to receive Tibbetts' pass.

Burch ran 45 yards with a fake kick and the Jackets went from there to the Georgia one yard line, but failed to score when halfback Floyd Faucette slipped on fourth down.

Finally, with three minutes to play, Tech scored again on Tibbetts pass to Murphy.

One of the highlights of the contest was the kicking of Georgia halfback Bobby Walden who averaged 5.8 yards on seven punts including one for 73 yards. Most of his punts were into a strong wind.

The victory gave Georgia a 9-1 record. Tech is 6-4.

TCU Rips SMU, Gains Loop Tie

FORT WORTH, Tex., (AP) — Harry Moreland and Marvin Lasater provided the offense and Jack Spikes the defense Saturday as Texas Christian beat Southern Methodist 19-0 and tied for the Southwest Conference championship. TCU will play Clemson in the Bluebonnet Bowl at Houston Dec. 19.

Moreland scooted 47 yards for one touchdown and Lasater scored two more. Spikes stopped Don Meredith's passing.

TCU wound up with an 8-2 season record and a triple tie with Arkansas and Texas for the title. Texas plays in the Cotton Bowl and Arkansas in the Gator Bowl.

A crowd of 40,000—largest ever to see an SMU-TCU game in Fort Worth—watched the Frogs give SMU a licking. The TCU line stymied everything the Methodist's tried. Although Meredith, the fine SMU passer, managed to complete 14 throws for more than 100 yards, he was rushed badly, mostly by Spikes. Seven times Meredith was thrown for losses.

The charging Frog line blocked two SMU kicks, one setting up a touchdown.

And Southern Methodist wound up with a minus one yard rushing—this for the Southwest Conference's top offensive team.

Bob Lilly, TCU tackle, blocked Don Stewart's punt in the second period and knocked the ball outside on the SMU 17. Spikes and Lasater crashed to the touchdown, Lasater making the last nine yards. R. E. Dodson missed his first try for point in 19—he last missed against SMU a year ago.

Shortly afterward, after Jimmy Gilmore's punt that went out on the SMU 1 put the Methodists in a hole, TCU scored again. A pass interference penalty that put the ball on the SMU 47 helped. From here the Moreland raced through the line for a touchdown. Moreland failed to run over the conversion.

Celtics Rout Pistons, Snap Losing Streak

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Celtics had no trouble Saturday showing why they are the world champions as they trounced the Detroit Pistons 136-110 in an NBA game which was televised nationally.

Detroit Coach Red Rocha had an inkling of the outcome, because he said prior to the game: "It's a tough break for us to have to play this powerhouse right after they dropped two straight to Philadelphia. They may kill us."

The Celtics proved Rocha's fears were justified as six men scored in double figures, paced by Frank Ramsey who led both teams with 24 points.

Other high men for the winners were Bill Sharman with 20, Bob Cousy and Sam Jones with 19 each and Tom Heinsohn 16.

Boston's victory before a Boston Garden crowd of 4,296 was accomplished with far less help than usual from Bill Russell, who is still hobbled by a sprained ankle. He was used sparingly.

After trailing in the open minutes, Boston moved in front to stay when Heinsohn hit a jump shot to make the score 16-14.

The Celtics boosted this to 33 points 109-76, as the fourth period opened and the issue was never in doubt.

Sooners Tip Cowboys By 17-7 Margin

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Fullback Ronnie Hartline and center Jim Davis provided the heroics for the Oklahoma Sooners in a hard-earned 17-7 football victory over the Oklahoma State Cowboys Saturday.

It was the 14th straight time for the Sooners to put the skids to their cross-state rival. The triumph this time, however, was tough to achieve as the fired-up Cowboys played head-to-head with the Sooners most of the way.

Oklahoma stormed to the front in the fourth quarter from a 7-3 deficit, putting across a touchdown early in the period and then adding the clincher in the final minutes.

Oklahoma State forged ahead on a 60-yard drive with 6½ minutes left in the second quarter. A three-yard pass from quarterback Dick Soergel to end Billy Dodson on fourth down provided the touchdown and then Dodson added the extra point.

The Sooners came right back and moved to the Cowboy 10 only to have a pass interception spoil their effort. But fortunately the Sooners recovered a fumble on the 10 to set up 21-yard field goal by Davis on fourth down.

Hartline then broke the hearts of the Cowboy supporters early in the fourth period with a beautiful 31-yard touchdown run on a perfect cutback through tackle. The Sooners weren't content with this meager three-point lead and put together 81 yards in a 16-play series for the final score. Quarterback Bobby Boyd plunged the final yard.

Reb Officials Limit Tickets For Bowl Tilt

OXFORD, Miss. (UPI) — The University of Mississippi announced Saturday because of an anticipated shortage in Sugar Bowl tickets there will be a limit of two per family.

The university's committee on intercollegiate athletics said that alumni and the general public can purchase tickets to the New Year's Day Classic between Ole Miss and LSU by mail order only.

The committee said telephone and C.O.D. orders can not be accepted, and payment of mail orders must be in the forms of a cashiers' check, or Post Office or Western Union money orders.

No orders can be accepted after midnight, Dec. 10. The tickets are $6 each.

Each individual ordering tickets must submit his own order, the committee said, and group orders cannot be accepted. Orders can be filled only to the limited number of tickets available.

Sale priorities are in the following order: players and coaches; university students; faculty and staff; active alumni, as of Nov. 28, 1959; inactive alumni; the general public residing in the university area.

All orders should be directed to Business Manager of Athletics, Box 185, the University of Mississippi. Add 25 cents to each order to cover handling and mailing, said the committee.

Snead Pilots Wake Forest Past Carolina

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (UPI) — Quarterback Norman "slinger" Snead set five new Atlantic Coast Conference records Saturday in leading Wake Forest to a 43-20 victory over South Carolina in a game which saw tempers flare briefly in the closing seconds.

A crowd of 12,200 watched the Dean junior set new season marks for passes attempted and completed, touchdown passes, passing yardage and total offense.

Snead passed to Bobby Allen for one score, to Pete Manning for another and to Winston Futch for a third. His passes to Boll Ruby and Bobby Robinson set up a fourth, scored by Jerry Ball on a one-yard plunge.

Futch also scored on a 25-yard run and the Deacons wrapped it up with two touchdowns in the brawl-marred final 30 seconds of the game. Chuck Reiley went one yard for one score and center Buck Jolly galloped 14 yards with an intercepted pass for the final tally.

South Carolina, sparked by quarterback Steve Satterfield and fullbacks Phil Lavoie and John Saunders, pulled ahead 8-0 on Lavoie's one-yard plunge early in the first period. Lavoie ran for the two-pointer.

PAUL MARTIN LOOKS 'EM OVER

Northeast Basketball

The "We're Building" sign hangs out at Northeast Louisiana State where Coach Lenny Fant, with a predominately freshman squad, is less than a week away from shooting his Indian basketball edition into a regular 22-game schedule, plus the host role in the annual holiday tournament on December 28-29.

After about a month and a half of training, the Indians open their season on the road next Friday night against East Texas State at Commerce, Tex. The East Texans have only one senior player, Noel Fain, a 6-foot-3 ace from Winnsboro of our state, but he is supported by a fair mixture of juniors and sophomores.

Ronald Doyle, a 6-foot-2 senior from Calvert City, Ky., is the only regular back in harness at Northeast and apparently he is going to have to carry a big load this year.

Seniors Fred Bradley, 6-1, Bismarck, Mo., and Larry Stegall, 5-11, Desloge, Mo., are lettermen being counted on strongly along with sophomores Lanny Johnson, 6-1, Monroe; David Harkins, 6-5, Hico; and J. B. Edmiston, 6-0, Simsboro. They, with Doyle, represent all seasoned talent in the Indian camp, with the exception of Gene Cozine, a junior college transfer from Missouri.

Freshmen are going to play a lot of ball at Northeast this year, and some of the frosh are making close battles for starting jobs.

Frosh hopes are Milton Linder, 6-3, Fort Necessity; Bobby Lockwood, 6-3, and Eddie Smith, 6-4, Spearsville; John Hagan, 6-8, a Colorado youth with no cage experience; Gerald Meeks, 6-4, Cumberland, Md.; Stewart Toms, 5-10, and Malsolm Georgem 6-4, Quitman; Fred Mazura, 6-2, an ex-serviceman from Elizabeth, N.J.; and Robert Cook, 6-3, Jonesboro.

Cozine has had a tonsil operation that will keep him inactive for a few days, but he'll be getting in his licks before the season is very old.

Northeast follows East Texas with a Saturday night game with Lamar Tech at Beaumont, before coming to Monroe for the home opener Monday week against William Carey of Hattiesburg, Miss., in the new Ouachita Parish High gymnasium which will be the scene of all Northeast home games this year.

The Indians are going to lose some, and they're going to win some. They really have a fine looking bunch of freshmen to back up the lean crop of seasoned players. A cage schedule that continues to show improvement awaits the Tribe with such foes as Mississippi Southern, Memphis State, Arkansas State, and Nichols State in addition to East Texas and Lamar, plus all the usual Gulf States Conference schools.

Special Train

Bayou DeSiard Country Club is sponsoring a special Sugar Bowl train for its members and guests, provided 150 reservations are assured in time to charter the train.

James W. Moore, spokesman for Bayou DeSiard, said the train, as planned, will leave Monroe at 11:30 a.m. New Year's Day, but passengers may board the Pullman anytime after 10 p.m. December 31. The train will remain in New Orleans all day while the football fans are at the game.

Departure for home is scheduled for 1 a.m. January 2, with the Pullman to open at 9 p.m. January 1. The train will be due in Monroe at 7:40 a.m. Saturday, January 2.

Fans will have to secure their own tickets for the game.

MOORE SPARKLES

Vanderbilt Halts Tennessee 14-0

By LEON DANIEL

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UPI — Halfback Tom Moore sparked Vanderbilt to a 14-0 win over Tennessee Saturday and set a single season ground-gaining record for the Commodores in the bargain.

Some 31,000 spectators watched as Moore ripped through the Tennessee defense to amass 107 yards on the ground. His total for the year is 676 yards which breaks a school record of 668 yards set by Herb Rich in 1949.

Moore scored in the third period and his running mate, halfback Thom Garden, picked up the other tally in the first period by ripping nine yards through the left side of the Tennessee line.

Moore was a sparkplug in the highly effective Commodore ground attack which got underway immediately as Moore broke loose on the fourth play from scrimmage for a 32-yard run.

The Vols managed to stop a Commodore march in the first period at the three yard line, but Vanderbilt roared back, scoring on its next series of downs.

Moore blasted over left tackle for the third period score in a drive that covered 36 yards in 10 plays.

The win broke a "Knoxville hex" for Vanderbilt. The Commodores had not won a game in Knoxville for 22 years in one of the South's hottest rivalries.

The win puts Vanderbilt in the first division Southeastern Conference standings. The Commodores had a season record of 5-3-2. The loss left the Vols with a 5-4-1 mark.

The Commodores picked up 19 first downs to nine for the Vols. Vanderbilt gained 189 yards on the ground to 96 for Tennessee.

The Vol offense was virtually ineffectual in the first half but sophomore tailback Glenn Glass showed promise as Tennessee displayed some offensive power in the last two periods.

WEST PALM BEACH

Palmer, Ragan Tied With 205s

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Arnold Palmer of Ligonier, Pa., Saturday fired a 6-under-par 66 to pull even with Dave Ragan of Orlando with 205 after 54 holes of the $15,000 West Palm Beach Invitational Golf Tournament.

Palmer bagged seven birdies over the 6,745-yard Palm Beach Country Club course. Par is 72.

Brewer, who was three strokes back at the halfway point Friday, shot a 68 for 206. Cooper was 4-under-par with 68 and a 207 total.

Palmer pulled even with Ragan on the 18th hole when he dropped a chip shot 4 feet from the pin and sank the putt for a birdie 4 while Ragan, playing in the same threesome, took a par 5.

Brewer was driving to take the lead when he reached the 18th. He needed only seven putts and was 5-under-par after seven holes. The 18th was Brewer's only over-par hole. He sliced his drive into sand and blasted to the fairway and ended with a double bogey, putting from 25 feet for a 7.

Bill Johnson of Provo, Utah, shot the day's second best round, a 67. His play boosted him from seven strokes back to within four of the top.

Billy Casper Jr., of Apple Valley, Calif., winner of two tournaments in the last two weeks, had a 68 for a 210. Tied with Casper for sixth place was Gardner Dickinson Jr., of Palm Beach. He shot 71.

The final 18 holes will be played Sunday.

TECH GATOR BOUND

Georgia Whips Engineers, 21-14; Accepts Orange Bid

By DAVID M. MOFFIT

ATLANTA (UPI) — Halfback Fred Brown paced Georgia's Bulldogs to a 21-14 victory over arch-rival Georgia Tech Saturday and Georgia immediately announced it had accepted an invitation to the Orange Bowl.

The Bulldogs, with a 9-1 record and the Southeastern Conference title to show for Coach Wally Butts finest season in a decade, will meet Missouri, the Big Eight representative, in Miami's Orange Bowl feature on Jan. 1.

Georgia Tech announced after the game that it had accepted an invitation to the Gator Bowl in Jacksonville, Fla., Jan. 2 Tech will meet Arkansas of the Southwest Conference in the Gator Bowl game, it was announced there.

Georgia piled up three first-half touchdowns before a crowd of 45,000 and fought off a determined Tech bid in the second half.

Brown, speedy nephew of one-time all-America Johnny Mack Brown, set up the Bulldogs' first touchdown with a 38-yard end sweep and scored the final one on a 40-yard pass play.

Despite bitter cold, the sell-out crowd stayed in its seats until the final gun as Tech unleashed its offense in the closing minutes to turn what had appeared to be a rout into a thriller.

Trailing 0-21, the Yellowjackets scored late in the third period on a 57-yard pass play, then threatened twice in the fourth period before finally scoring again on a 38-yard pass.

Quarterback Marvin Tibbetts, subbing for injured Fred Braselton, threw both of Tech's touchdown passes—one to end Gerald Burch, the other to end Fred Murphy.

The Bulldogs looked like the Southeastern Conference Champions they are in the first half, moving through the Tech defense as no other team has done in years. They dominated the half, scoring their first touchdown 30 seconds before the end of the opening period when halfback George Guisler went over from one yard out — two plays after Brown's long run.

Then, with two minutes and three seconds left in the half, quarterback Francis Tarkenton hit end Bill Herron with a 16 - yard pass that scored Georgia's second touchdown. Georgia got the ball back when Tech quick-kicked and with only nine seconds left in the half, quarterback Charlie Britt connected with Brown from 40 yards out for the third touchdown.

Durwood Pennington kicked all three conversions.

Tech finally got back into the game late in the third period on the Tibbetts-to-Burch pass. Then in the fourth period the Jackets really poured it on.

A bad snap on a punt attempt put Tech on the Georgia 14, but a fake field goal on fourth down went astray when no one was in the end zone to receive Tibbetts' pass.

Burch ran 45 yards with a fake kick and the Jackets went from there to the Georgia one yard line, but failed to score when halfback Floyd Faucette slipped on fourth down.

Finally, with three minutes to play, Tech scored again on Tibbetts pass to Murphy.

One of the highlights of the contest was the kicking of Georgia halfback Bobby Walden who averaged 5.8 yards on seven punts including one for 73 yards. Most of his punts were into a strong wind.

The victory gave Georgia a 9-1 record. Tech is 6-4.

Score by Periods

Scoring Summary

Georgia — Guisler 1 run (Pennington kick); Herron 16 pass from Tarkenton (Pennington kick); Brown 40 pass from Britt (Pennington kick).

DEFENSE SHINES

TCU Rips SMU, Gains Loop Tie

FORT WORTH, Tex., (AP) — Harry Moreland and Marvin Lasater provided the offense and Jack Spikes the defense Saturday as Texas Christian beat Southern Methodist 19-0 and tied for the Southwest Conference championship. TCU will play Clemson in the Bluebonnet Bowl at Houston Dec. 19.

Moreland scooted 47 yards for one touchdown and Lasater scored two more. Spikes stopped Don Meredith's passing.

TCU wound up with an 8-2 season record and a triple tie with Arkansas and Texas for the title. Texas plays in the Cotton Bowl and Arkansas in the Gator Bowl.

A crowd of 40,000—largest ever to see an SMU-TCU game in Fort Worth—watched the Frogs give SMU a licking. The TCU line stymied everything the Methodist's tried. Although Meredith, the fine SMU passer, managed to complete 14 throws for more than 100 yards, he was rushed badly, mostly by Spikes. Seven times Meredith was thrown for losses.

The charging Frog line blocked two SMU kicks, one setting up a touchdown.

And Southern Methodist wound up with a minus one yard rushing—this for the Southwest Conference's top offensive team.

Bob Lilly, TCU tackle, blocked Don Stewart's punt in the second period and knocked the ball outside on the SMU 17. Spikes and Lasater crashed to the touchdown, Lasater making the last nine yards. R. E. Dodson missed his first try for point in 19—he last missed against SMU a year ago.

Shortly afterward, after Jimmy Gilmore's punt that went out on the SMU 1 put the Methodists in a hole, TCU scored again. A pass interference penalty that put the ball on the SMU 47 helped. From here the Moreland raced through the line for a touchdown. Moreland failed to run over the conversion.

Celtics Rout Pistons, Snap Losing Streak

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Celtics had no trouble Saturday showing why they are the world champions as they trounced the Detroit Pistons 136-110 in an NBA game which was televised nationally.

Detroit Coach Red Rocha had an inkling of the outcome, because he said prior to the game: "It's a tough break for us to have to play this powerhouse right after they dropped two straight to Philadelphia. They may kill us."

The Celtics proved Rocha's fears were justified as six men scored in double figures, paced by Frank Ramsey who led both teams with 24 points.

Other high men for the winners were Bill Sharman with 20, Bob Cousy and Sam Jones with 19 each and Tom Heinsohn 16.

Boston's victory before a Boston Garden crowd of 4,296 was accomplished with far less help than usual from Bill Russell, who is still hobbled by a sprained ankle. He was used sparingly.

After trailing in the open minutes, Boston moved in front to stay when Heinsohn hit a jump shot to make the score 16-14.

The Celtics boosted this to 33 points 109-76, as the fourth period opened and the issue was never in doubt.

Sooners Tip Cowboys By 17-7 Margin

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Fullback Ronnie Hartline and center Jim Davis provided the heroics for the Oklahoma Sooners in a hard-earned 17-7 football victory over the Oklahoma State Cowboys Saturday.

It was the 14th straight time for the Sooners to put the skids to their cross-state rival. The triumph this time, however, was tough to achieve as the fired-up Cowboys played head-to-head with the Sooners most of the way.

Oklahoma stormed to the front in the fourth quarter from a 7-3 deficit, putting across a touchdown early in the period and then adding the clincher in the final minutes.

Oklahoma State forged ahead on a 60-yard drive with 6½ minutes left in the second quarter. A three-yard pass from quarterback Dick Soergel to end Billy Dodson on fourth down provided the touchdown and then Dodson added the extra point.

The Sooners came right back and moved to the Cowboy 10 only to have a pass interception spoil their effort. But fortunately the Sooners recovered a fumble on the 10 to set up 21-yard field goal by Davis on fourth down.

Hartline then broke the hearts of the Cowboy supporters early in the fourth period with a beautiful 31-yard touchdown run on a perfect cutback through tackle. The Sooners weren't content with this meager three-point lead and put together 81 yards in a 16-play series for the final score. Quarterback Bobby Boyd plunged the final yard.

Reb Officials Limit Tickets For Bowl Tilt

OXFORD, Miss. (UPI) — The University of Mississippi announced Saturday because of an anticipated shortage in Sugar Bowl tickets there will be a limit of two per family.

The university's committee on intercollegiate athletics said that alumni and the general public can purchase tickets to the New Year's Day Classic between Ole Miss and LSU by mail order only.

The committee said telephone and C.O.D. orders can not be accepted, and payment of mail orders must be in the forms of a cashiers' check, or Post Office or Western Union money orders.

No orders can be accepted after midnight, Dec. 10. The tickets are $6 each.

Each individual ordering tickets must submit his own order, the committee said, and group orders cannot be accepted. Orders can be filled only to the limited number of tickets available.

Sale priorities are in the following order: players and coaches; university students; faculty and staff; active alumni, as of Nov. 28, 1959; inactive alumni; the general public residing in the university area.

All orders should be directed to Business Manager of Athletics, Box 185, the University of Mississippi. Add 25 cents to each order to cover handling and mailing, said the committee.

Snead Pilots Wake Forest Past Carolina

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (UPI) — Quarterback Norman "slinger" Snead set five new Atlantic Coast Conference records Saturday in leading Wake Forest to a 43-20 victory over South Carolina in a game which saw tempers flare briefly in the closing seconds.

A crowd of 12,200 watched the Dean junior set new season marks for passes attempted and completed, touchdown passes, passing yardage and total offense.

Snead passed to Bobby Allen for one score, to Pete Manning for another and to Winston Futch for a third. His passes to Boll Ruby and Bobby Robinson set up a fourth, scored by Jerry Ball on a one-yard plunge.

Futch also scored on a 25-yard run and the Deacons wrapped it up with two touchdowns in the brawl-marred final 30 seconds of the game. Chuck Reiley went one yard for one score and center Buck Jolly galloped 14 yards with an intercepted pass for the final tally.

South Carolina, sparked by quarterback Steve Satterfield and fullbacks Phil Lavoie and John Saunders, pulled ahead 8-0 on Lavoie's one-yard plunge early in the first period. Lavoie ran for the two-pointer.

Northeast Basketball

The "We're Building" sign hangs out at Northeast Louisiana State where Coach Lenny Fant, with a predominately freshman squad, is less than a week away from shooting his Indian basketball edition into a regular 22-game schedule, plus the host role in the annual holiday tournament on December 28-29.

After about a month and a half of training, the Indians open their season on the road next Friday night against East Texas State at Commerce, Tex. The East Texans have only one senior player, Noel Fain, a 6-foot-3 ace from Winnsboro of our state, but he is supported by a fair mixture of juniors and sophomores.

Ronald Doyle, a 6-foot-2 senior from Calvert City, Ky., is the only regular back in harness at Northeast and apparently he is going to have to carry a big load this year.

Seniors Fred Bradley, 6-1, Bismarck, Mo., and Larry Stegall, 5-11, Desloge, Mo., are lettermen being counted on strongly along with sophomores Lanny Johnson, 6-1, Monroe; David Harkins, 6-5, Hico; and J. B. Edmiston, 6-0, Simsboro. They, with Doyle, represent all seasoned talent in the Indian camp, with the exception of Gene Cozine, a junior college transfer from Missouri.

Freshmen are going to play a lot of ball at Northeast this year, and some of the frosh are making close battles for starting jobs.

Frosh hopes are Milton Linder, 6-3, Fort Necessity; Bobby Lockwood, 6-3, and Eddie Smith, 6-4, Spearsville; John Hagan, 6-8, a Colorado youth with no cage experience; Gerald Meeks, 6-4, Cumberland, Md.; Stewart Toms, 5-10, and Malsolm Georgem 6-4, Quitman; Fred Mazura, 6-2, an ex-serviceman from Elizabeth, N.J.; and Robert Cook, 6-3, Jonesboro.

Cozine has had a tonsil operation that will keep him inactive for a few days, but he'll be getting in his licks before the season is very old.

Northeast follows East Texas with a Saturday night game with Lamar Tech at Beaumont, before coming to Monroe for the home opener Monday week against William Carey of Hattiesburg, Miss., in the new Ouachita Parish High gymnasium which will be the scene of all Northeast home games this year.

The Indians are going to lose some, and they're going to win some. They really have a fine looking bunch of freshmen to back up the lean crop of seasoned players. A cage schedule that continues to show improvement awaits the Tribe with such foes as Mississippi Southern, Memphis State, Arkansas State, and Nichols State in addition to East Texas and Lamar, plus all the usual Gulf States Conference schools.

Special Train

Bayou DeSiard Country Club is sponsoring a special Sugar Bowl train for its members and guests, provided 150 reservations are assured in time to charter the train.

James W. Moore, spokesman for Bayou DeSiard, said the train, as planned, will leave Monroe at 11:30 a.m. New Year's Day, but passengers may board the Pullman anytime after 10 p.m. December 31. The train will remain in New Orleans all day while the football fans are at the game.

Departure for home is scheduled for 1 a.m. January 2, with the Pullman to open at 9 p.m. January 1. The train will be due in Monroe at 7:40 a.m. Saturday, January 2.

Fans will have to secure their own tickets for the game.

Cage Tournaments

There are about 50 high school tournaments on tap for this section of the state in the next several weeks. Some, like Downsville, Quitman, Epps, Eros, Dodson, and Simsboro, have already been played, although Epps has a junior event coming up, as well as another show in Simsboro.

MOORE SPARKLES

Vanderbilt Halts Tennessee 14-0

By LEON DANIEL

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UPI — Halfback Tom Moore sparked Vanderbilt to a 14-0 win over Tennessee Saturday and set a single season ground-gaining record for the Commodores in the bargain.

Some 31,000 spectators watched as Moore ripped through the Tennessee defense to amass 107 yards on the ground. His total for the year is 676 yards which breaks a school record of 668 yards set by Herb Rich in 1949.

Moore scored in the third period and his running mate, halfback Thom Garden, picked up the other tally in the first period by ripping nine yards through the left side of the Tennessee line.

Moore was a sparkplug in the highly effective Commodore ground attack which got underway immediately as Moore broke loose on the fourth play from scrimmage for a 32-yard run.

The Vols managed to stop a Commodore march in the first period at the three yard line, but Vanderbilt roared back, scoring on its next series of downs.

Moore blasted over left tackle for the third period score in a drive that covered 36 yards in 10 plays.

The win broke a "Knoxville hex" for Vanderbilt. The Commodores had not won a game in Knoxville for 22 years in one of the South's hottest rivalries.

The win puts Vanderbilt in the first division Southeastern Conference standings. The Commodores had a season record of 5-3-2. The loss left the Vols with a 5-4-1 mark.

The Commodores picked up 13 first downs to nine for the Vols. Vanderbilt gained 189 yards on the ground to 96 for Tennessee.

The Vol offense was virtually ineffectual in the first half but sophomore tailback Glenn Glass showed promise as Tennessee displayed some offensive power in the last two periods.

Score by Periods

Vandy	7	0	7	0	—14
Tenn.	0	0	0	0	— 0

Scoring Summary:

Vandy — Garden 9 run (Morris kick); Moore 2 run (Morris kick).

VMI's McKenna Southern Loop's Coach Of Year

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — John McKenna, who turned a rebuilding year into a championship one at Virginia Military institute, Saturday was named Southern Conference coach of the year.

McKenna, started the season with just one regular returning from 1958. He finished it with an 8-1-1 over-all record, seven consecutive victories, and the conference title. He was a landslide winner in voting by members of the Southern Conference Sportswriters Assn.

Palmer, Ragan Tied With 205s

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Arnold Palmer of Ligonier, Pa., Saturday fired a 6-under-par 66 to pull even with Dave Ragan of Orlando with 205 after 54 holes of the $15,000 West Palm Beach Invitational Golf Tournament.

Palmer bagged seven birdies over the 6,745-yard Palm Beach Country Club course. Par is 72.

Brewer, who was three strokes back at the halfway point Friday, shot a 68 for 206. Cooper was 4-under-par with 68 and a 207 total.

Palmer pulled even with Ragan on the 18th hole when he dropped a chip shot 4 feet from the pin and sank the putt for a birdie 4 while Ragan, playing in the same threesome, took a par 5.

Bill Johnson of Provo, Utah, shot the day's second best round, a 67. His play boosted him from seven strokes back to within four of the top.

Winter Meet May Breed New Draft

By MILTON RICHMAN

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI) —Baseball gets down to business Monday and launches its winter meetings, which could produce more trades than ever, a revolutionary football-type draft and a method of handling that "hot potato"—the Continental League.

Neither Branch Rickey, president of the Continental League, nor any other member of the proposed new circuit has been invited to attend either the minor league meetings here, Nov. 30-Dec. 3, or the major league sessions at Miami Beach, Dec. 7-9.

The Continental Leaguers aren't bothered as much about the obvious brush-off as they are about the major leagues' recent talk of expansion.

"We all know they're not going to expand," said William Shea, chairman of the founders' group, in New York. "Their only purpose in indicating they will is to hold us up. We're hopeful that at their meetings they will live up to their promise and let the public know they have no intention of expanding."

If the majors fail to do so, Shea said, then the Continental League "may go back to Congress."

Even before tackling the question of what to do about the Continental League, however, major and minor league officials vote on a number of new proposals, including a radical type draft similar to the one now used by the National Football League.

The proposal, sponsored by the Denver club of the American Association, calls for the unrestricted drafting of any player without previous professional baseball experience. That would mean the majors and minors could select players from semi-pro, high school and college ranks on June 15, Oct. 15 and March 15 of each year.

Naturally, practically all clubs will be for this proposal, but there is a question as to its legality. The lawmakers say it's perfectly okay for professional football teams to draft this way, but they may take a different view about professional baseball clubs doing the same thing.

Dodgers Propose Change

Among the other proposals on the agenda is one by the Los Angeles Dodgers to amend the current draft rule. Under the present rule, the majors are permitted to draft first-year players in the minors but can not option them back to the minors. The Dodgers are hoping to have the rule amended so that players drafted by the majors could be optioned out for one year.

"All this legislation is aimed at curbing the tremendous bonuses paid to untried young players," explained one National League official. "We're all sick and tired of throwing money down the drain. Even the clubs that have regularly paid big bonuses are disillusioned. There's a big campaign on to trim bonus spending."

Be that as it may, some major league club will shell out $25,000 for veteran players in the minors and $15,000 for first-year men in the draft on Monday. The majors will draft first and then the minors will hold their draft the same day.

Bob Keegan, Warren Hacker, Hank Aguirre, Don Lee and Joe Lonnett, all of whom have major league experience, are said to be among the better bets to be drafted in the veteran class. Others among the eligibles include such familiar names as Larry Doby, Norm Zauchin, Murray Wall, Don Bessent, Gary Blaylock, foster Castleman, Dusty Rhodes and Willy Miranda.

There are a number of first-year bonus players among the eligibles, too, youngsters who received as much as $75,000 within the past year, and they're available at $15,000 each. This is a new phase of the draft, in effect for the first time, where one club is in a position to profit by another's mistake or throw some more good money after bad.

Only 12 players were drafted by the majors last year at Washington. Best of the batch were Rocky Nelson, who hit .293 with the Pirates, and southpaw Art Ceccarelli, who posted a 5-5 record with the Cubs.

Most of the activity during the meetings will center around renewed efforts at swinging inter-league trades. Up to now, the new inter-league trading period which began a week ago and will be in force until Dec. 15 has proven something of a dud.

TCU Coach Pleased With Dec. 19 Foe

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — "That's wonderful," said Coach Abe Martin of Texas Christian Saturday when told Clemson would oppose his team in the Bluebonnet Bowl at Houston Dec. 19.

"Clemson has a great ball club," the coach continued. "It has an 8-2 record—the same as ours—and any team able to compile that record in a real tough conference like that is bound to be tops. You know Clemson played a great game in the Sugar Bowl last Jan. 1."

Martin's TCU team had just finished beating Southern Methodist 19-0 to tie for the Southwest Conference championship with Texas and Arkansas.

"Frank Howard, coach of Clemson, is a fine man and a real coach and it will be a pleasure playing his team," Martin enthused.

LOSERS MISS ORANGE BOWL

Florida Rallies To Whip Miami

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI)— Dick Allen brought Florida from behind in the final period with a field goal and a touchdown pass to a 23-14 win over Miami Saturday that knocked the Hurricane out of the Orange Bowl.

Allen, a 25-year-old Atlanta passmaster who came back from service to play his last year of college football, engineered a 20 yard field goal and threw a nine-yard touchdown pass within two defensive minutes of the last period.

The 175-pound Allen had put the Gators ahead in the first period with a three yard touchdown burst and a conversion and thus had a hand in every Florida point. He also threw a 53-yard scoring pass.

The Hurricane, triumphant last week over Michigan State, was favored to win and go into the Orange Bowl against Missouri. But the defeat sent the Orange Bowl bid to Georgia instead.

Miami had come back in the second half and scored two touchdowns in the third period to go ahead, 14-7. One Hurricane score came on a one yard plunge by fullback Frank Bouffard and the other on a short smash by halfback Jim Vollenweider.

Allen's 53 yard scoring pass to halfback Don Deal pulled Florida to within a point, but Allen's attempt to tie it up with an extra point kick went wide. He made up for it a few minutes later.

Strictly on Allen's passing, the Gators drove from their own 32 to the Miami two where the Hurricanes braced. Allen then kicked a 20-yard field goal to give Florida a 16-14 lead with about seven minutes remaining.

Seconds later, Miami's Fran Curci tossed a pass which Jack Westbrook intercepted for the Gators — one of five Curci passes intercepted — and ran to the Miami four-yard line. On third down, Allen hit end Dave Hudson deep in the end zone and added the conversion to end the scoring. About five minutes were left.

Halfback Doug Partin set up Florida's first touchdown when he intercepted Curci's pass on his own 10 and raced 58 yards to the Miami 32. On the first scrimmage play, Allen tossed a strike to Hudson who bulled to the three-yard line. Two line plunges by Westbrook gained nothing, and Allen faded on third down to pass, found an opening and ran into the end zone standing up.

Corley Boots Field Goal To Topple Rice

HOUSTON, Tex., (AP) — Albert Witcher stole the ball twice in the closing minutes Saturday to set up Larry Corley's 18-yard field goal that gave Baylor a 23-21 comeback victory over the Rice Owls. Corley's 3 - pointed came with 2 minutes and 22 seconds left and pulled Baylor from behind a third time in a season battle in which the lead changed hands five times.

The victory gave Baylor fifth place in final Southwest Conference standings and dropped Rice to sixth place.

Baylor was trailing, 20-21, when Witcher, a senior end, stole the ball the first time. Witcher simply took the ball out of the hands of Billy Bucek, the Rice quarterback, and Baylor took over on the Owl 42. Eleven plays carried to the 2, where Elbert Whorton fumbled and Bucek covered on the 3 for Rice.

Two plays later, however, Witcher moved in on Bucek again. Witcher knocked the ball free and Terence McLeod covered for Baylor on the 11. Three carries by Ronnie Bull, a sophomore halfback, powered to the three before Corley kicked his first field goal in six attempts this season.

Baylor earlier had scored touchdowns on drives of 61, 41 and 75 yards, with Bull scoring from the 11 and 6 and with Ronnie Stanley passing 26 yards to Arnold Davis.

16 TO 6 UPSET

Soph Back Leads Irish Over USC

By ED SAINSBURY

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (UPI) — Sophomore fullback Gerry Gray scored two touchdowns to lead Notre Dame to a 16-6 upset victory over Southern California Saturday before 48,682 fans who braved 29 - degree temperatures and a snow storm to watch the football game.

It was Notre Dame's fifth win against five losses this season for Joe Kuharich's first fighting Irish eleven, one game under the record posted by the 1958 team whose 6-4 record resulted in the firing of Terry Brennan.

Saturday's Irish team was strengthened by the return of George Izo, Jim Crotty and Clay Schulz from the injury list to spark them to victory in the final two games of the season. They manhandled the Trojans who suffered their second straight defeat after eight straight wins.

Southern California got across midfield only five times, once when Bob Livingston intercepted an Izo pass and returned 31 yards, and another time when Marlin McKeever recovered Jim Crotty's fumble on a Trojan punt. But on neither of these occasions could the Trojans dent Notre Dame for a score.

Less than 10 minutes remained to play when substitute signal caller Ben Charles piloted the Trojans 84 yards in 10 plays for their touchdown. Charles completed six passes during the march, but Southern California connected on only 10 of 38 during the game.

Charles' passes covered the final 51 yards of the drive—to Luther Hayes for 23 yards and to Angelo Coia for 15 and 13 yards, scoring on the last toss. His attempted pass-run for the conversion was smothered.

Gray was a key offensive player for the Irish along with Izo. Gray set up the first Notre Dame score with a 36 - yard burst through the line to the Trojan three, and on the next play he smashed through the line for the tally.

End Monty Stickles place-kicked for both conversions.

Gray also was responsible for the final Irish points, a safety. He ran downfield after the last Notre Dame touchdown to tackle Coia in the end zone. Coia returning the kickoff, had circled backward from his own 20-yard line in an effort to find a clear field. Gray netted 75 yards in 13 carries.

It was the 20th victory for the Irish over the Trojans, who have not won here since 1939. The Irish were well in command, gaining 219 yards rushing to Southern California's 97, and 147 yards passing to 118 for the visitors.

Izo completed 11 of 23 passes for all of his team's aerial yardage. The Trojans frequently overthrew their receivers.

Sharp Risks State Crown Monday Night

Louisiana heavyweight champion Mickey Sharp gives Firpo Zybysko another shot at his crown in one half of a double main event at the B and B Arena tomorrow night.

Sharp, a rough - and - tumble grappler who won the title in an elimination series in New Orleans a few weeks ago, almost had the belt wrested away from him by Zybysko here two weeks ago. Zybysko had the champ reeling and tossed him out of the ring but was disqualified.

The other half of the double bill pits Frankie Kovac against the Black Panther. The Panther, who prefers to wear a hood, was unmasked by Sharp not long ago but will probably don the covering for the Kovac battle.

Both main events are scheduled for 60-minute time limits with two falls to win.

The 15-minute opening bout, labeled a "grudge" affair, sends Ken Cooper against the Bat, a masked Monroyan. Cooper defeated the Bat last week and with the help of referee Al Massey and promoter August Baumgartner, lifted the Bat's hood.

The Bat immediately challenged Cooper for a return bout but dashed from the ring when Ken took the offer on the spot.

One fall will decide the match and the winner will pocket all the cash.

NEARLY 200 GAMES SLATED

College Basketball Opens For Business This Week

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Many intersectional games are on tap this week as another college basketball season opens with a bang.

Kentucky, annually one of the country's powers in the sport, sets the tempo for the week which finds nearly 200 games scheduled.

Coach Adolph Rupp's lads play at home against Colorado State College on Tuesday, the official opening of the season, then take off on a transcontinental trip to Los Angeles. There the Wildcats will play UCLA on Friday and Southern California on Saturday.

The Ohio State game will mark the varsity debut of 6-9 sophomore Jerry Lucas for the Buckeyes. He was one of the greatest high school players in Ohio and is expected to put Ohio State in the thick of the fight for the Big 10 championship.

All-Americas Jerry West and Oscar Robertson return to action for West Virginia and Cincinnati, respectively. West was the most valuable player in the NCAA championship tourney last spring when the Mountaineers were beaten by California for the national collegiate title 71-70.

Robertson, the "Big O", is starting his senior year and is expected to lead Cincinnati to another Missouri Valley Conference title.

Tony Jackson, another standout player, will see action on Tuesday when St. Johns of New York meets Bridgeport and again on Thursday when the Redmen play St. Louis in the feature of a doubleheader at New York's Madison Square Garden.

Jackson jumped into prominence as a sophomore last season when he led St. John's to the ECAC Holiday Festival crown and to an overtime victory over Bradley for the championship of the National Invitation Tournament.

California, with big Darrall Imhoff back, is expected too make a strong bid to retain its NCAA title, although the Golden Bears must qualify as an at-large entry in the tourney this year since the Pacific Coast Conference no longer exists. The Bears open the season Friday against University of California at Santa Barbara.

Intersectional games during the week include Michigan at Pitt, Kentucky Wesleyan at Navy, Oregon State at Hawaii, Texas Western at Oklahoma, Marquette at NYU, southern Methodist at Minnesota, Memphis State at Ohio State, Texas Christian at Oklahoma City, Missouri at Arkansas, Southern Methodist at Iowa, Texas Tech at Colorado, North Texas at Memphis State, St. Louis at Kansas State and Minnesota at Vanderbilt.

FIRST SERIES WIN SINCE '53

Underdog Alabama Defeats Once-Mighty Auburn, 10-0

By BILL TOME

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — Alabama pony back Marlin Dyess scooted 33 yards with a flat pass for a touchdown and sophomore end Tommy Brooker boomed a 27-yard field goal Saturday to whip Auburn 10-0.

The Crimson Tide, a one-touchdown underdog and heavily outweighed in the line, outscrapped the Tigers for the first Alabama victory over Auburn since 1953. It was Bama's seventh 1959 victory against only one loss and two ties.

A capacity crowd of almost 44,000 saw Alabama fritter away one break on penalties but return for Brooker's field goal late in the second period, then push Auburn around almost at will in the second half.

Brooker's field goal climaxed a march from the Bama 25 and Dyess' run, in which he outran two defenders and slipped out of the arms of a third, came on a flat pass from Bobby Skelton on the Auburn 39. The Tide had moved from its own 25.

Auburn's only threat came late in the final period when the passes of sophomore quarterback Bobby Hunt carried the Tigers from their own 13 to the Alabama 14. But Alabama center Billy Richardson, a stalwart on defense, intercepted an Auburn pass there.

Coach Paul Bryant's eleven won the game up front, refusing to yield to the likes of all-Southeastern linemen Zeke Smith, Jackie Burkett and Ken Rice, who had made the Tigers' line one of the nation's toughest.

On one occasion, 186 pound tackle Gary Phillips broke through to throw Hunt for a five yard loss. On another linebacker Buddy Wesley shot the gap to hit Bryant Harvard eight yards behind his own line.

Alabama quarterback Pat Trammell, engaging in a sophomore duel with Hunt, also contributed to the victory with recovery of two fumbles at crucial periods and heady direction of a light but hard-hitting backfield.

Auburn failed to get a first down in the second half until launching its futile 73-yard march which ended with Richardson's interception.

Alabama's first opportunity came in the first period when Trammell fell on a loose ball on the Auburn 24. But two 15 yard penalties pushed the Tide far back.

On the march to Brooker's field goal, a Tommy White - to - Billy Richardson pass accounted for 21 yards and Trammell ran out of the pass pocket for 21 more. The Auburn defense stiffened on its 11 and Brooker dropped back to kick high and true.

After Joe Dolan punted dead on the Alabama 25 midway in the third period the Tide rolled back to the Auburn 39 where Skelton found Dyess in the left flat and the 148-pounder, a 9.6 sprinter, was gone for the game's only touchdown.

Winter Meet May Breed New Draft

By MILTON RICHMAN

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI) —Baseball gets down to business Monday and launches its winter meetings, which could produce more trades than ever, a revolutionary football-type draft and a method of handling that "hot potato"—the Continental League.

Neither Branch Rickey, president of the Continental League, nor any other member of the proposed new circuit has been invited to attend either the minor league meetings here, Nov. 30-Dec. 3, or the major league sessions at Miami Beach, Dec. 7-9.

The Continental Leaguers aren't bothered as much about the obvious brush-off as they are about the major leagues' recent talk of expansion.

"We all know they're not going to expand," said William Shea, chairman of the founders' group, in New York. "Their only purpose in indicating they will is to hold us up. We're hopeful that at their meetings they will live up to their promise and let the public know they have no intention of expanding."

If the majors fail to do so, Shea said, then the Continental League "may go back to Congress."

Even before tackling the question of what to do about the Continental League, however, major and minor league officials vote on a number of new proposals, including a radical type draft similar to the one now used by the National Football League.

The proposal, sponsored by the Denver club of the American Association, calls for the unrestricted drafting of any player without previous professional baseball experience. That would mean the majors and minors could select players from semi-pro, high school and college ranks on June 15, Oct. 15 and March 15 of each year.

Naturally, practically all clubs will be for this proposal, but there is a question as to its legality. The lawmakers say it's perfectly okay for professional football teams to draft this way, but they may take a different view about professional baseball clubs doing the same thing.

Dodgers Propose Change

Among the other proposals on the agenda is one by the Los Angeles Dodgers to amend the current draft rule. Under the present rule, the majors are permitted to draft first-year players in the minors but can not option them back to the minors. The Dodgers are hoping to have the rule amended so that players drafted by the majors could be optioned out for one year.

"All this legislation is aimed at curbing the tremendous bonuses paid to untried young players," explained one National League official. "We're all sick and tired of throwing money down the drain. Even the clubs that have regularly paid big bonuses are disillusioned. There's a big campaign on to trim bonus spending."

Be that as it may, some major league club will shell out $25,000 for veteran players in the minors and $15,000 for first-year men in the draft on Monday. The majors will draft first and then the minors will hold their draft the same day.

Bob Keegan, Warren Hacker, Hank Aguirre, Don Lee and Joe Lonnett, all of whom have major league experience, are said to be among the better bets to be drafted in the veteran class. Others among the eligibles include such familiar names as Larry Doby, Norm Zauchin, Murray Wall, Don Bessent, Gary Blaylock, foster Castleman, Dusty Rhodes and Willy Miranda.

There are a number of first-year bonus players among the eligibles, too, youngsters who received as much as $75,000 within the past year, and they're available at $15,000 each. This is a new phase of the draft, in effect for the first time, where one club is in a position to profit by another's mistake or throw some more good money after bad.

Only 12 players were drafted by the majors last year at Washington. Best of the batch were Rocky Nelson, who hit .293 with the Pirates, and southpaw Art Ceccarelli, who posted a 5-5 record with the Cubs.

Most of the activity during the meetings will center around renewed efforts at swinging interleague trades. Up to now, the new inter-league trading period which began a week ago and will be in force until Dec. 15 has proven something of a dud.

LOSERS MISS ORANGE BOWL

Florida Rallies To Whip Miami

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI)— Dick Allen brought Florida from behind in the final period with a field goal and a touchdown pass to a 23-14 win over Miami Saturday that knocked the Hurricane out of the Orange Bowl.

Allen, a 25-year-old Atlanta passmaster who came back from service to play his last year of college football, engineered a 20 yard field goal and threw a nine-yard touchdown pass within two defensive minutes of the last period.

The 175-pound Allen had put the Gators ahead in the first period with a three yard touchdown burst and a conversion and thus had a hand in every Florida point. He also threw a 53-yard scoring pass.

The Hurricane, triumphant last week over Michigan State, was favored to win and go into the Orange Bowl against Missouri. But the defeat sent the Orange Bowl bid to Georgia instead.

Miami had come back in the second half and scored two touchdowns in the third period to go ahead, 14-7. One Hurricane score came on a one yard plunge by fullback Frank Bouffard and the other on a short smash by halfback Jim Vollenweider.

Allen's 53 yard scoring pass to halfback Don Deal pulled Florida to within a point, but Allen's attempt to tie it up with an extra point kick went wide. He made up for it a few minutes later.

Strictly on Allen's passing, the Gators drove from their own 32 to the Miami two where the Hurricanes braced. Allen then kicked a 20-yard field goal to give Florida a 16-14 lead with about seven minutes remaining.

Seconds later, Miami's Fran Curci tossed a pass which Jack Westbrook intercepted for the Gators — one of five Curci passes intercepted — and ran to the Miami four-yard line. On third down, Allen hit end Dave Hudson deep in the end zone and added the conversion to end the scoring. About five minutes were left.

Halfback Doug Partin set up Florida's first touchdown when he intercepted Curci's pass on his own 10 and raced 58 yards to the Miami 32. On the first scrimmage play, Allen tossed a strike to Hudson who bulled to the three-yard line. Two line plunges by Westbrook gained nothing, and Allen faded on third down to pass, found an opening and ran into the end zone standing up.

Score by Periods

Florida	7	0	6	10	—23
Miami	0	0	14	0	—14

Scoring Summary:

Florida — Allen 3 run (Allen kick); Deal 53 pass from Allen (kick failed); FG Allen 20; Hudson 9 pass from Allen (Allen kick);

Miami—Bouffard 1 run (Dangel kick); Markowski 1 run (Dangel kick).

Sharp Risks State Crown Monday Night

Louisiana heavyweight champion Mickey Sharp gives Firpo Zybysko another shot at his crown in one half of a double main event at the B and B Arena tomorrow night.

Sharp, a rough - and - tumble grappler who won the title in an elimination series in New Orleans a few weeks ago, almost had the belt wrested away from him by Zybysko here two weeks ago. Zybysko had the champ reeling and tossed him out of the ring but was disqualified.

The other half of the double bill pits Frankie Kovac against the Black Panther. The Panther, who prefers to wear a hood, was unmasked by Sharp not long ago but will probably don the covering for the Kovac battle.

Both main events are scheduled for 60-minute time limits with two falls to win.

The 15-minute opening bout, labeled a "grudge" affair, sends Ken Cooper against the Bat, a masked Monroyan. Cooper defeated the Bat last week and with the help of referee Al Massey and promoter August Baumgartner, lifted the Bat's hood.

The Bat immediately challenged Cooper for a return bout but dashed from the ring when Ken took the offer on the spot.

One fall will decide the match and the winner will pocket all the cash.

NEARLY 200 GAMES SLATED

College Basketball Opens For Business This Week

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Many intersectional games are on tap this week as another college basketball season opens with a bang.

Kentucky, annually one of the country's powers in the sport, sets the tempo for the week which finds nearly 200 games scheduled.

Coach Adolph Rupp's lads play at home against Colorado State College on Tuesday, the official opening of the season, then take off on a transcontinental trip to Los Angeles. There the Wildcats will play UCLA on Friday and Southern California on Saturday.

The Ohio State game will mark the varsity debut of 6-9 sophomore Jerry Lucas for the Buckeyes. He was one of the greatest high school players in Ohio and is expected to put Ohio State in the thick of the fight for the Big 10 championship.

All-Americas Jerry West and Oscar Robertson return to action for West Virginia and Cincinnati, respectively. West was the most valuable player in the NCAA championship tourney last spring when the Mountaineers were beaten by California for the national collegiate title 71-70.

Robertson, the "Big O", is starting his senior year and is expected to lead Cincinnati to another Missouri Valley Conference title.

Tony Jackson, another standout player, will see action on Tuesday when St. Johns of New York meets Bridgeport and again on Thursday when the Redmen play St. Louis in the feature of a doubleheader at New York's Madison Square Garden.

Jackson jumped into prominence as a sophomore last season when he led St. John's to the ECAC Holiday Festival crown and to an overtime victory over Bradley for the championship of the National Invitation Tournament.

California, with big Darrall Imhoff back, is expected too make a strong bid to retain its NCAA title, although the Golden Bears must qualify as an at-large entry in the tourney this year since the Pacific Coast Conference no longer exists. The Bears open the season Friday against University of California at Santa Barbara.

Intersectional games during the week include Michigan at Pitt, Kentucky Wesleyan at Navy, Oregon State at Hawaii, Texas Western at Oklahoma, Marquette at NYU, southern Methodist at Minnesota, Memphis State at Ohio State, Texas Christian at Oklahoma City, Missouri at Arkansas, Southern Methodist at Iowa, Texas Tech at Colorado, North Texas at Memphis State, St. Louis at Kansas State and Minnesota at Vanderbilt.

FIRST SERIES WIN SINCE '53

By BILL TOME

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — Alabama pony back Marlin Dyess scooted 33 yards with a flat pass for a touchdown and sophomore end Tommy Brooker boomed a 27-yard field goal Saturday to whip Auburn 10-0.

The Crimson Tide, a one-touchdown underdog and heavily outweighed in the line, outscrapped the Tigers for the first Alabama victory over Auburn since 1953. It was Bama's seventh 1959 victory against only one loss and two ties.

A capacity crowd of almost 44,000 saw Alabama fritter away one break on penalties but return for Brooker's field goal late in the second period, then push Auburn around almost at will in the second half.

Brooker's field goal climaxed a march from the Bama 25 and Dyess' run, in which he outran two defenders and slipped out of the arms of a third, came on a flat pass from Bobby Skelton on the Auburn 39. The Tide had moved from its own 25.

Auburn's only threat came late in the final period when the passes of sophomore quarterback Bobby Hunt carried the Tigers from their own 13 to the Alabama 14. But Alabama center Billy Richardson, a stalwart on defense, intercepted an Auburn pass there.

Coach Paul Bryant's eleven won the game up front, refusing to yield to the likes of all-Southeastern linemen Zeke Smith, Jackie Burkett and Ken Rice, who had made the Tigers' line one of the nation's toughest.

On one occasion, 186 pound tackle Gary Phillips broke through to throw Hunt for a five yard loss. On another linebacker Buddy Wesley shot the gap to hit Bryant Harvard eight yards behind his own line.

Alabama quarterback Pat Trammell, engaging in a sophomore duel with Hunt, also contributed to the victory with recovery of two fumbles at crucial periods and heady direction of a light but hard-hitting backfield.

Auburn failed to get a first down in the second half until launching its futile 73-yard march which ended with Richardson's interception.

Alabama's first opportunity came in the first period when Trammell fell on a loose ball on the Auburn 24. But two 15 yard penalties pushed the Tide far back.

On the march to Brooker's field goal, a Tommy White - to - Billy Richardson pass accounted for 21 yards and Trammell ran out of the pass pocket for 21 more. The Auburn defense stiffened on its 11 and Brooker dropped back to kick high and true.

After Joe Dolan punted dead on the Alabama 25 midway in the third period the Tide rolled back to the Auburn 39 where Skelton found Dyess in the left flat and the 148-pounder, a 9.6 sprinter, was gone for the game's only touchdown.

Score by Periods

Alabama	0	3	7	0	—10
Auburn	0	0	0	0	— 0

Ruston High Grid Banquet Monday Night

RUSTON, La. (Special) — Ruston High's football banquet will be held in the new Louisiana Tech Student Center here next Monday night, Nov. 30, starting at 7 p.m.

L. J. "Hoss" Garrett, who is serving his 23rd year as Bearcat athletic director and head coach, said the sports event will highlight the awarding of special honors to three players on the 1959 edition.

Joe Aillet, Louisiana Tech's well known athletic chief and head grid mentor, has accepted an invitation to announce the recipients of these honors and will present each with an engraved trophy. The names will not be known until announced during the program.

Recognition will be given to the Most Valuable Back, Most Valuable Lineman, and the player selected for the Coaches' Award. The latter is awarded to the gridder who displayed the most competitive spirit and desire to play.

Last year the honorees included Pat Shows as most valuable back; Charlie Hinton, most valuable lineman; and guard Bobby Bryan, the Coaches' trophy. Shows was also a member of the squad this fall, while Hinton is presently attending LSU on a football scholarship.

Sponsored annually by the Ruston Lions Club, the banquet program will include an introduction of each player and his date by assistant coach R. W. "Moose" Phillips, and comments on the recent season by Garrett.

'Bama Declines Blue Grass Offer

BIRMINGHAM (UPI) — Alabama Saturday night was invited to meet Kentucky in the Blue Grass bowl but turned it down.

Coach Paul (Bear Bryant said simply, "we are not going to any bowl this year."

In a telegram to Tryant shortly after his Crimson Tide upset favored Auburn, 10-0, the Blue Grass Bowl Committee said it had voted unanimously to extend the invitation.

BROWNS-49ERS KEY CLASH

Pro Title Hopes At Stake In All Five Games Today

By EARL WRIGHT
United Press International

The National Football League's division races are so close that title hopes will be at stake in each of Sunday's five games.

The Cleveland Browns entertain the San Francisco Forty - Niners in the key game. This clash, in which the Browns are 10-point favorites, will affect both divisions.

The Baltimore Colts, tied with San Francisco for the Western Division lead, play host to the Los Angeles Rams and also are favored by 10 points. Cleveland and the Philadelphia Eagles are deadlocked a game behind the New York Giants in the Eastern race.

New York is a 10-point choice for its Yankee Stadium game with the Washington Redskins but Philadelphia is a 3½ point underdog for its game with the Steelers at Pittsburgh. The Chicago Bears are seven-point favorites for their 70th game with the Chicago Cardinals.

The Bears are only a game behind the Western leaders and could tie for first by winning, if San Francisco and Baltimore lose.

Cleveland, Baltimore and New York are heavy choices but teams favored by seven or more points have been defeated in eight of the 55 games played so far this season. All three of Sunday's stout favorites play at home against opponents weakened by injuries.

Y. A. Tittle, San Francisco's No. 1 quarterback, suffered a knee injury during last Sunday's 45-14 loss to Baltimore and won't play. John Brodie will take his place against the Browns. Milt Plum, Cleveland's young quarterback, has completed more than 60 per cent of his passes and 13 have gone for touchdowns, a total second only (but far behind) the 1959 high of 24 collected by John Unitas of the Colts.

Unitas leads Baltimore against a talent-laden Los Angeles squad that has been weakened by injuries and other difficulties. The club's three guards — Duane Putnam, John Houser and Buck Lansford — are out with injuries and Putnam was suspended Thursday for violating training rules. The Colts want Sunday's game badly because they then finish their regular season in games at San Francisco and Los Angeles, where they have won only one game.

Charley Conerly, New York's top quarterback, has a sprained ankle but probably will play some against Washington after friends and fans honor him with a shower of gifts that will include two automobiles. Washington has a far longer injury list. Its top signal-caller, Eddie Lebaron, is nursing rib injuries. The Giants entertain the Browns Dec. 6.

Philadelphia, which has joined San Francisco as the surprise clubs of the campaign, visits a Pittsburgh team that has thrilled its television fans with road triumphs over the Giants and Browns the past two weeks. The Forbes Field game will match two of the game's top passers and team leaders in Bobby Layne of the Steelers and Norm Van Brocklin of the Eagles. Layne beat the Giants and Browns the last two weeks with clutch passes in the final seconds.

The Bears tackle a Cardinal team that specializes in fumbles and long runs by John Crow, Ken Hall, Billy Stacy and Bobby Joe Conrad. If the Bears, aided by the Browns and Rams, should gain a first-place tie with the Colts and Forty-Niners, they immediately would become Western favorites. The Bears play their last two games at home against the Steelers and Detroit Lions.

There are only five games Sunday instead of the usual six because Green Bay and Detroit played Thursday. The Packers won, 24-17.

Klu, Lollar Sign Chisox Pacts For '60

CHICAGO (AP) — The two big guns of the Chicago White Sox attack, first baseman Ted Kluszewski and catcher Sherm Lollar, Saturday became the first players signed by the American League champions for 1960.

Sox President Bill Veeck said both players received salary increases.

"I gave them contracts Tuesday, but told them to think it over a day or two," said Veeck. "They did, and accepted the terms offered."

Lollar, 35, will be starting his eighth White Sox season. Last season he batted .265, set a big league career high of 22 home runs and matches his 1958 RBI high of 84.

Kluszewski, also 35, provided most of the Sox thunder in the World Series against the Los Angeles Dodgers, belting 3 home runs and driving across 10 runs. Big Klu joined the Sox Aug. 25, coming from the Pittsburgh Pirates in a swap for Harry Simpson. He played in 30 games for the Sox, batting .297.

IN TENSAS PARISH

Ten-Day Deer Season To Open

FERRIDAY, La. (Special) — Biologist Dewey Wills reminded hunters Saturday that the Chicago Mills Game Management Area in Tensas Parish opens Tuesday for a ten-day deer season.

"I'd like for all the hunters in northeast Louisiana to know that the Chicago Mills Game Management Area will open for a ten-day deer season this Tuesday, Dec. 1," said Wills.

He explained that the season will be for any deer except spotted fawns for the first three days.

The remaining seven days, Wills explained, will be for bucks only.

The season will run Dec. 1-10.

Hunters can enter the game management area on a permit basis after having checked in at any of three check stations.

The check stations will be operated at the following locations:

1. Tensas River bridge
2. Jordan's Ferry
3. Cooter's Point

The season will be operated and supervised by Wills, assisted by personnel of the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries Commission.

FANS HONOR VETERAN GREAT

Conerly Has His Day In New York

NEW YORK (AP)—Pro football fans in New York say thanks Sunday to quarterback Charlie Conerly, the 38-year-old Mississippi cotton farmer who in 11 National Football League seasons and three-fourths of another has:

1. Thrown 2,573 passes.
2. Completed 1,297 for 17,801 yards and 153 touchdowns.
3. Led the Giants to two Eastworld championship in the last three years in the wake of a chorus of boos that almost forced his retirement.
4. "Aged 25 years."

Sunday is Charlie Conerly Day at Yankee Stadium for the old man of the Giants as he plays for the 23rd time against the club that drafted him out of the college ranks at Mississippi way back in 1945 — the Washington Redskins. And it comes with Conerly's popularity probably at an all-time peak in the town that takes stardom for granted.

Out for two weeks with an ailing ankle, Conerly returned to the controls of the Eastern Conference leaders last Sunday against the Chicago Cards and promptly produced the first touchdowns the Giants had scored since he was hurt on Nov. 3. Six field goals by Pat Summerall in a 9-3 victory and a 14-9 loss were the sum total Conerly was absent.

A large delegation from his hometown of Clarksdale, Miss., will join in honoring Conerly, who will receive gifts worth $25,000 including the automobiles. After the game, there will be a dinner-dance with Conerly and his wife the guests of honor.

Conerly, who became eligible for the pro draft two years before his graduation in 1947 because of war service, was traded to the Giants for the 1948 season without having played a game for the Redskins. He's been the Giants' regular passer—first as a single wing tailback and then as a T quarterback—ever since.

He weathered the loud and vigorous fan protest of his passing and handling of the offense when the team had mediocre seasons in 1953-54-55 and came back stronger than ever—leading the Giants to the world title in 1956 and to the Eastern Conference last year.

This year, he ranks third in NFL passing with 8.33 average yards gained per pass. He has completed 78 of 138 attemps for 1,150 yards and six touchdowns. Only four passes have been intercepted.

Clemson Rips Furman, Gets Bowl Berth

GREENVILLE, S.C. (AP) — Clemson's Tigers smashed Furman 56-3 Saturday and then accepted an invitation to play Southwestern Conference co - champ Texas Christian in the Bluebonnet Bowl at Houston, Dec. 19.

Clemson, last year's Sugar Bowl team, finished with a 8-2 record and its second straight Atlantic Coast Conference championship.

A 20-yard field goal by halfback Shelly Sutton that gave Furman a 3-0 lead in the early moments apparently roused the Tigers. They went to work immediately and before the final whistle nine Tigers figured in the scoring.

Furman fumbles set up two touchdowns. Clemson halfback Doug Daigneault pounced on a Hurricane bobble at the Furman 19 to set up his own scoring run from the 9 three plays later. Quarterback Lowndes Shingler got a second touchdown four plays after Clemson recovered another Furman bobble at the Hurricane 36.

Quarterback Harvey White's passing was a mainstay of much of the Clemson offense. A 79-yard drive for the first Clemson touchdown was built around his passing. The final touchdown march of 55 yards also came mostly on his throwing.

Daigneault returned a Furman punt 57 yards to the Hurricane 15 to set up another Clemson touchdown. Halfback George Usry picked up most of the yardage in another 57-yard scoring march, then plunged over from the 1. Usry, fullback Doug Cline and halfback Bill Mathis took turns punching out yardage in Clemson's final scoring move, capped by Mathis' 2-yard plunge.

Six Standouts Set To Appear In Blue-Gray

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—Five more standout college performers, four from the Midwest, joined the North squad for the Dec. 26 Blue-Gray football game and the South picked up a fancy-passing quarterback.

Texas A&M's captain and quarterback, Charlie Milstead, was the Southerner announced Saturday.

The additions to the Yankee Roster are Michigan State's 205-pound guard, Don Wright and 220-pound tackle, Paul Rochester; Maryland's fullback, Jim Joyce, a 200-pounder; Iowa State's speedy halfback, Dwight Nichols, and the University of Iowa's 210 - pound tackle John Sawin.

The North team, which whipped the Southerners 16 to 0 last year to give the Yankees three wins in the last five years, will be coached by Jack Mollenkopf of Purdue, Don Faurot of Missouri and Gomer Jones of Oklahoma.

Majors Steers FSU Victory

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Quarterback Joe Majors passed for two touchdowns Saturday night as Florida State scalped Tampa 33-0 in the 1959 finale for both teams.

The 171 - pound senior from Huntland, Tenn., completed 20 of 32 passes for 313 yards. He scored the final Seminoles tally himself on a five-yard sweep.

The passing performance of the ball-handling magician was a single game record for an FSU quarterback. Majors also carried the ball eight times for 59 yards rushing.

Bargaining War To Begin Monday

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — A bargaining war with the newly-formed American Football League appeared in the offing as the National Football League prepared for its annual draft of college players next Monday.

The 12 clubs in the NFL undoubtedly will choose players already garnered by the AFL in its first draft in Minneapolis, Minn., last Monday.

Thus, bankrolls will play an important role in whether a college gridder signs with the NFL or the AFL, which is bent on fielding eight teams for 1960. The bidding might be reminiscent of the cold-cash war that broke out between the NFL and the now-defunct All-American Conference several years ago.

The AFL, beating the NFL to the gun by one week, selected a total of 88 players, with each club getting 11 as a nucleus for a team.

Some of the players selected by the AFL included such stalwarts as quarterback Richie Lucas of Penn State; halfback Gerhard Schwedes, Syracuse; quarterback Don Meredith, Southern Methodist, quarterback Dean Look, Michigan State; halfback Billy Cannon, Louisiana State University, and end Monty Stickles, Notre Dame.

NFL acting Commissioner Austin Gunsel said it was almost certain that some of the gridders chosen by the AFL will come up in the NFL choices.

"It will just narrow itself down to what the college player wants and what we can offer him and what they can offer him," said Gunsel, preparing the first draft session in years which will be minus Bert Bell, who died last month.

Gunsel said the draft meeting probably will take up the whole day. He said the club owners probably will discuss possible ties in each conference and make arrangements for the world championship game.

Each club will select 20 players instead of 30 which has been the custom since 1942, with the exception of 1948 when 25 were named by the member teams.

The order of pick will hinge on the standings of the teams after the completion of Sunday's action. The club with the lowest percentage at that time will pick first. The team with the highest percentage will select last.

In case of ties, a toss of the coin by Gunsel will decide who gets first choice. After that, the succeeding selections will be rotated.

The NFL held its first draft in 1936, when each of the nine teams then in the league chose nine players. Jay Berwanger, of Chicago University, was the first selectee, going to the Philadelphia Eagles.

The league's annual meeting will be held in Miami Beach, Fla., Jan. 20.

Buffs Rally In 2nd Half For 15-7 Win

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — Colorado quarterback Gale Weidner adjusted his sights after a miserable first half and pitched two touchdown passes to defeat Air Force 15-7 in football Saturday.

Weidner connected on only four of 17 throws in the first two quarters but he fired scoring bullseyes for 11 yards to fullback Chuck Weiss and nine yards to halfback Jerry Steffen in the second half.

The Buffaloes preserved the victory with a pulse-tingling defensive stand in the last 30 seconds. Air Force quarterback Rich Mayo, hitting on two key passes, had moved the Airmen 60 yards down to the Colorado 9 where it was first and goal.

The Buffaloes stopped every play and on the final pass linebacker Joe Romig broke up a throw into the end zone.

Air Force scored in the first three minutes on fullback Monte Moorberg's two-yard plunge after a 44-yard pass from Mayo to halfback Don Baucom put the Airmen on Colorado's 5. Colorado, brining its season record to five won, five lost, kept the Air Force attack thoroughly contained except for the one scoring thrust and the last-minute threat.

The Buffaloes were in Air Force territory most of the second quarter but suffered from the inability of Weidner and his receivers to connect. Colorado's biggest threat of the first half was ended by Mayo's interception of Weidner's throw in the end zone after the Buffaloes advanced to the Air Force 8.

Rebels Okay Sugar Bowl Unanimously

STATE COLLEGE, Miss. (AP) —A roar went up Saturday in the Mississippi locker room when the players were told the Sugar Bowl trip to play Louisiana State was up to them.

Unanimous approval came immediately after Mississippi's 42-0 victory over Mississippi State.

Coach Johnny Vaught said, "We're happy to have the opportunity to play in the Sugar Bowl again, and especially against LSU. We will try to give a good account of ourselves."

Players were shouting, "On to New Orleans."

Guard Marvin Terrell said he was happy to get another shot at LSU.

Claude Simons, president of the New Orleans Mid-Winter Sports Assn. said, "We feel we will have the top bowl game in the nation. We know we have two of the finest teams in the nation."

In regard to the game with State, Vaught said, "We were happy to win, and I thought our boys did a good job. Center Ken Kirk was outstanding and quarterback Jake Gibbs did a superlative job."

Fullback Charlie Flowers said, "They've got a tough ball club and I don't see how they lost so many games."

State coach Wade Walker said, "Ole Miss has a great ball club, but they were no better than we expected."

Walker said a series of early breaks enabled the Rebels to run up a 27-0 halftime advantage.

"We had to defend against Flowers from tackle to tackle and when Gibbs started his roll-out stuff and passing, it really got rough," Walker said.

University officials said their allotment of Sugar Bowl tickets would fall far short of the expected demand.

The university said there will be a limit of two tickets to one family or order. The alumni and the general public can buy tickets only by mail.

Priorities are:

1. Players, coaches and their families.
2. Other university students.
3. University faculty and staff.
4. University active alumni.
5. University inactive alumni.
6. General public residing in the area.

Beats Old Rival Holy Cross, 14-0

WORCESTER, Mass., (AP) — Boston College turned an intercepted pass and a recovered fumble into fourth quarter touchdowns Saturday and beat old rival Holy Cross 14-0 in the 56th meeting of the two Jesuit institutions.

Vin Hogan, a sure footed 180-pound halfback, scurried through the mud and rain for both touchdowns, one on a three-yard sweep of end and another on a 38-yard pass play from Johnny Amabile.

BC fullback Frank Robotti, who saw only limited service because of a leg injury, pounced on a Holy Cross fumble on the Crusaders' 40 to set up the first touchdown.

Eagle linebacker Jim Connolly pulled a bit of larceny to provide the second.

Bengal Aide May Receive K-State Job

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — The Manhattan Mercury said Saturday night a decision is expected within 10 days on a successor to Bus Mertes, who resigned Monday as head football coach at Kansas State University.

Nick Seitz, sports editor, said, "As nearly as can be told it will not be a big name coach, as originally speculated, but an assistant from a major football school.

"It looks like it might be Louisiana State. He could be any one of three men at the school."

Seitz did not name the three, but said they were assistants on the staff of LSU coach Paul Dietzel.

The sports writer said there was strong local support from K-State alumni for Bill Walsh, who was Mertes' line coach last season.

Seitz said athletic director H. B. Lee has his "list of prospective candidates narrowed down to five or six coaches and sources close to Lee say the final decision will come within 10 days."

In Baton Rouge, Dietzel said Kansas State athletic authorities had contacted LSU to inquire about four assistants. They were assistant defensive line coach Charlie McClendon, offensive line coach Bill Peterson, defensive back coach George Terry and offensive back coach Carl Madox.

Dietzel said it would be tough to lose any of them, especially on the eve of the Sugar Bowl game against Mississippi, but added he would do everything to help any who wanted to step up.

Dietzel declined to say if K-State had any preference among the four coaches.

UCLA Kept Under Wraps, Beats Utah

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Halfbacks Bill Kilmer and Jim Johnson got together on a 65-yard touchdown pass in the second quarter Saturday and heavily favored UCLA went on to defeat Utah 21-6.

The game wound up Utah's season with 5-5 record. UCLA with one to go has a 5-3-1 record.

The Bruins went under wraps in the second half with their 21-6 lead, unveiling as little as possible in view of its intersectional battle next week with top-rated Syracuse.

The visiting Redskins put on one brilliant drive for their touchdown. It came in the second quarter and extended 84 yards in 13 plays. Halfback Larry Wilson crumbed over the line for the final yard.

BROWNS-49ERS KEY CLASH

Pro Title Hopes At Stake In All Five Games Today

By EARL WRIGHT
United Press International

The National Football League's division races are so close that title hopes will be at stake in each of Sunday's five games.

The Cleveland Browns entertain the San Francisco Forty - Niners in the key game. This clash, in which the Browns are 10-point favorites, will affect both divisions.

The Baltimore Colts, tied with San Francisco for the Western Division lead, play host to the Los Angeles Rams and also are favored by 10 points. Cleveland and the Philadelphia Eagles are deadlocked a game behind the New York Giants in the Eastern race.

New York is a 10-point choice for its Yankee Stadium game with the Washington Redskins but Philadelphia is a 3½ point underdog for its game with the Steelers at Pittsburgh. The Chicago Bears are seven-point favorites for their 70th game with the Chicago Cardinals.

The Bears are only a game behind the Western leaders and could tie for first by winning, if San Francisco and Baltimore lose.

Cleveland, Baltimore and New York are heavy choices but teams favored by seven or more points have been defeated in eight of the 55 games played so far this season. All three of Sunday's stout favorites play at home against opponents weakened by injuries.

Y. A. Tittle, San Francisco's No. 1 quarterback, suffered a knee injury during last Sunday's 45-14 loss to Baltimore and won't play. John Brodie will take his place against the Browns. Milt Plum, Cleveland's young quarterback, has completed more than 60 per cent of his passes and 13 have gone for touchdowns, a total second only (but far behind) the 1959 high of 24 collected by John Unitas of the Colts.

Unitas leads Baltimore against a talent-laden Los Angeles squad that has been weakened by injuries and other difficulties. The club's three guards — Duane Putnam, John Houser and Buck Lansford — are out with injuries and Putnam was suspended Thursday for violating training rules. The Colts want Sunday's game badly because they then finish their regular season in games at San Francisco and Los Angeles, where they have won only one game.

Charley Conerly, New York's top quarterback, has a sprained ankle but probably will play some against Washington after friends and fans honor him with a shower of gifts that will include two automobiles. Washington has a far longer injury list. Its top signal-caller, Eddie Lebaron, is nursing rib injuries. The Giants entertain the Browns Dec. 6.

Philadelphia, which has joined San Francisco as the surprise clubs of the campaign, visits a Pittsburgh team that has thrilled its television fans with road triumphs over the Giants and Browns the past two weeks. The Forbes Field game will match two of the game's top passers and team leaders in Bobby Layne of the Steelers and Norm Van Brocklin of the Eagles. Layne beat the Giants and Browns the last two weeks with clutch passes in the final seconds.

The Bears tackle a Cardinal team that specializes in fumbles and long runs by John Crow, Ken Hall, Billy Stacy and Bobby Joe Conrad. If the Bears, aided by the Browns and Rams, should gain a first-place tie with the Colts and Forty-Niners, they immediately would become Western favorites. The Bears play their last two games at home against the Steelers and Detroit Lions.

There are only five games Sunday instead of the usual six because Green Bay and Detroit played Thursday. The Packers won, 24-17.

IN TENSAS PARISH

Ten-Day Deer Season To Open

FERRIDAY, La. (Special) — Biologist Dewey Wills reminded hunters Saturday that the Chicago Mills Game Management Area in Tensas Parish opens Tuesday for a ten-day deer season.

"I'd like for all the hunters in northeast Louisiana to know that the Chicago Mills Game Management Area will open for a ten-day deer season this Tuesday, Dec. 1," said Wills.

He explained that the season will be for any deer except spotted fawns for the first three days.

The remaining seven days, Wills explained, will be for bucks only.

The season will run Dec. 1-10.

Hunters can enter the game management area on a permit basis after having checked in at any of three check stations.

The check stations will be operated at the following locations:

1. Tensas River bridge
2. Jordan's Ferry
3. Cooter's Point

The season will be operated and supervised by Wills, assisted by personnel of the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries Commission.

FANS HONOR VETERAN GREAT

Conerly Has His Day In New York

NEW YORK (AP)—Pro football fans in New York say thanks Sunday to quarterback Charlie Conerly, the 38-year-old Mississippi cotton farmer who in 11 National Football League seasons and three-fourths of another has:

1. Thrown 2,573 passes.
2. Completed 1,297 for 17,801 yards and 153 touchdowns.
3. Led the Giants to two Eastworld championship in the last three years in the wake of a chorus of boos that almost forced his retirement.
4. "Aged 25 years."

The latter is Conerly's chucklin' retort to his gray, almost white hair and his grand-daddy appearance when in the informal company of his young, frisky teammates.

Sunday is Charlie Conerly Day at Yankee Stadium for the old man of the Giants as he plays for the 23rd time against the club that drafted him out of the college ranks at Mississippi way back in 1945 — the Washington Redskins. And it comes with Conerly's popularity probably at an all-time peak in the town that takes stardom for granted.

Out for two weeks with an ailing ankle, Conerly returned to the controls of the Eastern Conference leaders last Sunday against the Chicago Cards and promptly produced the first touchdowns the Giants had scored since he was hurt on Nov. 3. Six field goals by Pat Summerall in a 9-3 victory and a 14-9 loss were the sum total Conerly was absent.

A large delegation from his hometown of Clarksdale, Miss., will join in honoring Conerly, who will receive gifts worth $25,000 including the automobiles. After the game, there will be a dinner-dance with Conerly and his wife the guests of honor.

Conerly, who became eligible for the pro draft two years before his graduation in 1947 because of war service, was traded to the Giants for the 1948 season without having played a game for the Redskins. Clemson Rips Furman, Gets Bowl Berth

GREENVILLE, S.C. (AP) — Clemson's Tigers smashed Furman 56-3 Saturday and then accepted an invitation to play Southwestern Conference co-champ Texas Christian in the Bluebonnet Bowl at Houston, Dec. 19.

Clemson, last year's Sugar Bowl team, finished with a 8-2 record and its second straight Atlantic Coast Conference championship.

A 20-yard field goal by halfback Shelly Sutton that gave Furman a 3-0 lead in the early moments apparently roused the Tigers. They went to work immediately and before the final whistle nine Tigers figured in the scoring.

Furman fumbles set up two touchdowns. Clemson halfback Doug Daigneault pounced on a Hurricane bobble at the Furman 19 to set up his own scoring run from the 9 three plays later. Quarterback Lowndes Shingler got a second touchdown four plays after Clemson recovered another Furman bobble at the Hurricane 36.

Quarterback Harvey White's passing was a mainstay of much of the Clemson offense. A 79-yard drive for the first Clemson touchdown was built around his passing. The final touchdown march of 55 yards also came mostly on his throwing.

Daigneault returned a Furman punt 57 yards to the Hurricane 15 to set up another Clemson touchdown. Halfback George Usry picked up most of the yardage in another 57-yard scoring march, then plunged over from the 1. Usry, fullback Doug Cline and halfback Bill Mathis took turns punching out yardage in Clemson's final scoring move, capped by Mathis' 2-yard plunge.

Klu, Lollar Sign Chisox Pacts For '60

CHICAGO (AP) — The two big guns of the Chicago White Sox attack, first baseman Ted Kluszewski and catcher Sherm Lollar, Saturday became the first players signed by the American League champions for 1960.

Sox President Bill Veeck said both players received salary increases.

"I gave them contracts Tuesday, but told them to think it over a day or two," said Veeck. "They did, and accepted the terms offred."

Lollar, 35, will be starting his eighth White Sox season. Last season he batted .265, set a big league career high of 22 home runs and matches his 1958 RBI high of 84.

Kluszewski, also 35, provided most of the Sox thunder in the World Series against the Los Angeles Dodgers, belting 3 home runs and driving across 10 runs. Big Klu joined the Sox Aug. 25, coming from the Pittsburgh Pirates in a swap for Harry Simpson. He played in 30 games for the Sox, batting .297.

Six Standouts Set To Appear In Blue-Gray

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—Five more standout college performers, four from the Midwest, joined the North squad for the Dec. 26 Blue-Gray football game and the South picked up a fancy-passing quarterback.

Texas A&M's captain and quarterback, Charlie Milstead, was the Southerner announced Saturday.

The additions to the Yankee Roster are Michigan State's 205-pound guard, Don Wright and 220-pound tackle, Paul Rochester; Maryland's fullback, Jim Joyce, a 200-pounder; Iowa State's speedy halfback, Dwight Nichols, and the University of Iowa's 210 - pound tackle John Sawin.

The North team, which whipped the Southerners 16 to 0 last year to give the Yankees three wins in the last five years, will be coached by Jack Mollenkopf of Purdue, Don Faurot of Missouri and Gomer Jones of Oklahoma.

Majors Steers FSU Victory

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Quarterback Joe Majors passed for two touchdowns Saturday night as Florida State scalped Tampa 33-0 in the 1959 finale for both teams.

The 171 - pound senior from Huntland, Tenn., completed 20 of 32 passes for 313 yards. He scored the final Seminoles tally himself on a five-yard sweep.

The passing performance of the ball-handling magician was a single game record for an FSU quarterback. Majors also carried the ball eight times for 59 yards rushing.

Buffs Rally In 2nd Half For 15-7 Win

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — Colorado quarterback Gale Weidner adjusted his sights after a miserable first half and pitched two touchdown passes to defeat Air Force 15-7 in football Saturday.

Weidner connected on only four of 17 throws in the first two quarters but he fired scoring bullseyes for 11 yards to fullback Chuck Weiss and nine yards to halfback Jerry Steffen in the second half.

The Buffaloes preserved the victory with a pulse-tingling defensive stand in the last 30 seconds. Air Force quarterback Rich Mayo, hitting on two key passes, had moved the Airmen 60 yards down to the Colorado 9 where it was first and goal.

The Buffaloes stopped every play and on the final pass linebacker Joe Romig broke up a throw into the end zone.

Air Force scored in the first three minutes on fullback Monte Moorberg's two-yard plunge after a 44-yard pass from Mayo to halfback Don Baucom put the Airmen on Colorado's 5. Colorado, brining its season record to five won, five lost, kept the Air Force attack thoroughly contained except for the one scoring thrust and the last-minute threat.

The Buffaloes were in Air Force territory most of the second quarter but suffered from the inability of Weidner and his receivers to connect. Colorado's biggest threat of the first half was ended by Mayo's interception of Weidner's throw in the end zone after the Buffaloes advanced to the Air Force 8.

Beats Old Rival Holy Cross, 14-0

WORCESTER, Mass., (AP) — Boston College turned an intercepted pass and a recovered fumble into fourth quarter touchdowns Saturday and beat old rival Holy Cross 14-0 in the 56th meeting of the two Jesuit institutions.

Vin Hogan, a sure footed 180-pound halfback, scurried through the mud and rain for both touchdowns, one on a three-yard sweep of end and another on a 38-yard pass play from Johnny Amabile.

BC fullback Frank Robotti, who saw only limited service because of a leg injury, pounced on a Holy Cross fumble on the Crusaders' 4 to set up the first touchdown.

Eagle linebacker Jim Connolly pulled a bit of larceny to provide the second.

COAST TO COAST

Controversy Gets Plenty Comment

DENVER, Colo. (AP)—The controversial subject of birth control, both in this country and abroad, drew comment from coast to coast Saturday.

At Denver, Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass), who plans to decide soon whether to seek his party's presidential nomination, said he is opposed to the use of federal funds for birth control measures in foreign countries.

At Washington, the International Cooperation Administration said any debate on the subject is "an academic discussions." A spokesman for the agency, which handles the foreign aid program, said: "Not one penny of foreign aid funds ever has been used for dissemination of birth control information, and there are no plans to do so."

At San Francisco Episcopal Bishop James A. Pike said it is time "some leading Roman Catholics bring out into the open" what he termed the fact that many U.S. Catholics are observing less and less the official church ban against contraception.

At Minneapolis, Cass Canfield of New York, president of the Planned Parenthood Federation of America, said Sen. Kennedy is showing an "awareness of the facts of international life."

Canfield referred to a New York newspaper story which quoted Kennedy as saying: "I would not think it was wise for the United States to refuse to grant assistance to a country which is pursuing a policy it feels to be in its own best interest."

The paper said Kennedy's statement came in answer to a question as to what his position would be as president if the Indian government decided on birth control as a matter of national policy.

Kennedy, who came here for three days of speeches and appearances in the Rocky Mountain country, did not go into that phase of the question in an airport interview. He declined comment on Bishop Pike's statement.

The Massachusetts senator said the question of birth control measures is one for each country to decide, "since it involves the life of each country."

Bishop Pike denied Saturday he is opposed to the election of a Roman Catholic as president. Earlier, he had raised the question whether a Catholic in the White House would observe church ruling on the matter and deny public funds for promoting birth control in underdeveloped countries.

Roman Catholic bishops in this country expressed strong opposition to using federal funds in this way. They also read it is "simply not true" that the Catholic church is gradually accepting the idea of artificial birth control.

Glenn L. Archer, executive director of Protestants and Other Americans United for Separation of Church and State, said the Catholic bishops' policy statement would be made a part of lawsuits in three states.

Archer said the suits seek to halt the use of public funds by "any sectarian hospital which impairs birth control freedom for non-Catholic patients and doctors."

The states are Louisiana, Kentucky, and Maryland.

Rocket Failures Discussed

By ROBERT MUSEL

LONDON (UPI) — There must be a reason why Russia's rockets succeed while America's so frequently fail, and a number of scientists think they know what it is.

Top men in their field, contacked in private conversations at international space meetings, have given their opinions in the agonizing post-mortems that follow such massive American failures as the one this week at Cape Canaveral. Some are Americans whose names cannot be used because of their official positions.

The main reason for the Russian successes, according to the scientists I have spoken to, is that Russia builds and assembles its rockets on the launching site. It makes sure that each one is made virtually by hand. It tests each part, no matter how small or insignificant, in every possible way.

Russian scientists control every single process of every part that goes in to the rockets. They do not leave this to a manufacturer.

In contrast, American rockets are hauled piecemeal to the testing site. One competent American scientist told me that an inquiry into one expensive rocket failure traced the cause to 75 cents worth of faulty metal.

A London Daily Express reporter who covered Thursday's failure of the seven million dollar Atlas-Able moon rocket at Cape Canaveral said he had been told of missiles arriving from the manufacturers rusted and in bad shape. He said one had to be sent back to the factory because it was so "dilapidated and knocked-about."

The millions spent on a rocket failure can be written off, but you can't store prestige at Fort Knox. President Eisenhower must make his overseas tour without the same prestige moon shot that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev had.

American intelligence learned about the Russian "hand made" rockets many months ago. Presumably the lesson is still being digested.

Savings Account Drop Noted In Banks In Cuba

HAVANA (AP) — Savings accounts in Cuban banks have dropped considerably with Maj. Ernesto Guevara's appointment as president of the National Bank and with cabinet approval of a government savings bond issue.

"There is no paric, but there is no question it is a minor run," an American banker said Saturday.

Another banker described the activity as an "obvious reflex" after the appointment of Guevara, a leftist revolutionary with little economic experience.

Banks were unable to say how much money has been withdrawn, but the manager of one foreign bank said its savings accounts went down 20 to 30 per cent.

Various bank spokesmen reported much activity in transferring savings accounts to checking accounts.

Some banks reported increased activity toward the weekend while others said transfers slacked off by Friday.

Cabinet announcement of an issue of low-price savings bonds, which it said would be redeemed in 20 years at four times their purchase price, put the government in competition with banks for savings accounts.

One bank official said some depositors feared the government might freeze savings accounts and replace them with bonds.

IMPORTED CAST

NEW YORK (AP) — The entire British cast of Brendan Behan's "The Hostage" is being brought from London for the Broadway production.

Usually Actors Equity permits only major performers to make the transatlantic crossing. In this case, it was felt, an intact complement would be necessary for proper interpretation of what the author calls "an uproariously funny tragedy."

An unusual element of the play is that prior to each performance the cast meets to agree upon interpolations into the dialogue from the news of each day, a device designed to assure topical immediacy to the dramatic events.

I BELIEVE

★ I believe I know my State and its people, their needs and the things they want most. I believe at this time that we need leadership and harmony, that a peaceful and harmonious relationship among people from all walks of life in all sections of our state is something that cannot be measured in dollars and cents.

★ I believe in the importance of EDUCATION . . . for every child in our State. During my previous administration we enacted a COMPULSORY SCHOOL ATTENDANCE LAW for all children 7 to 15. We increased the per-pupil appropriation for education nearly 100%, the largest ever in any administration before or since.

★ I believe in SEGREGATION unqualifiedly. In my opinion, the best way to maintain our historic way of life, and to insure harmonious relations between the races, is to provide separate and equal facilities, not in name only but in actual fact. I believe this difficult problem can be resolved for the mutual benefit of all our people without changing our traditional policy of segregation.

★ I believe I know and understand the problems of FARMERS. I grew up on a poor hill farm in North Louisiana and experienced poverty at its worst. I operate a farm today, like to farm, and hope I can operate a farm as long as I live. I know and appreciate what farmers and farms have meant to Louisiana and America.

★ I believe that our God-given natural resources should be used wisely for the greatest and longest possible benefit for ourselves and our children and their children. When I was in office before, we supported that belief by creating separate units to supervise conservation of Wildlife and Fisheries, Forests and Oil and Gas. I believe that we should pay more attention to the preservation of our fish and game, that we should have more public hunting grounds and additional fishing, boating and hunting lakes all over our state.

★ I believe our state is an ideal spot for business and industry. I believe we should make a greater effort to promote wide distribution of our farm and factory products, and sell business and industry on the wonderful things we make and grow in our state. When I was governor before, I devoted considerable time and travel conferring with industrialists and businessmen elsewhere on the advantages they would find in Louisiana. Before I left office we gained some 450 new industries and additions in the state, with payrolls totaling some $70,000,000.

★ I believe in ECONOMY, for running our State in a careful and conservative fashion—the way a wise businessman runs his business. After many millions of dollars worth of benefits to the people, when I left office in 1948, there was a treasury surplus of some $38,000,000 and this was achieved without additional taxes or new taxes. I will oppose any additional tax burdens on the people today for I believe that with proper management of our finances, new taxes are not needed.

★ I believe in political INDEPENDENCE AND HONESTY. I won't tolerate racketeering or organized vice. I won't tolerate interference by any federal agency with the police power of our State as guaranteed to the State by the constitution. At the same time, I won't tolerate interference by the State with the powers granted to the cities and parishes of the state.

If you believe as I do, then I urge you to vote for me and my ticket on December 5th.

Rocket Failures Discussed

By ROBERT MUSEL

LONDON (UPI) — There must be a reason why Russia's rockets succeed while America's so frequently fail, and a number of scientists think they know what it is.

Top men in their field, contacked in private conversations at international space meetings, have given their opinions in the agonizing post-mortems that follow such massive American failures as the one this week at Cape Canaveral. Some are Americans whose names cannot be used because of their official positions.

The main reason for the Russian successes, according to the scientists I have spoken to, is that Russia builds and assembles its rockets on the launching site. It makes sure that each one is made virtually by hand. It tests each part, no matter how small or insignificant, in every possible way.

Russian scientists control every single process of every part that goes in to the rockets. They do not leave this to a manufacturer.

In contrast, American rockets are hauled piecemeal to the testing site. One competent American scientist told me that an inquiry into one expensive rocket failure traced the cause to 75 cents worth of faulty metal.

A London Daily Express reporter who covered Thursday's failure of the seven million dollar Atlas-Able moon rocket at Cape Canaveral said he had been told of missiles arriving from the manufacturers rusted and in bad shape. He said one had to be sent back to the factory because it was so "dilapidated and knocked-about."

The millions spent on a rocket failure can be written off, but you can't store prestige at Fort Knox. President Eisenhower must make his overseas tour without the same prestige moon shot that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev had.

American intelligence learned about the Russian "hand made" rockets many months ago. Presumably the lesson is still being digested.

Savings Account Drop Noted In Banks In Cuba

HAVANA (AP) — Savings accounts in Cuban banks have dropped considerably with Maj. Ernesto Guevara's appointment as president of the National Bank and with cabinet approval of a government savings bond issue.

"There is no panic, but there is no question it is a minor run," an American banker said Saturday.

Another banker described the activity as an "obvious reflex" after the appointment of Guevara, a leftist revolutionary with little economic experience.

Banks were unable to say how much money has been withdrawn, but the manager of one foreign bank said its savings accounts went down 20 to 30 per cent.

Various bank spokesmen reported much activity in transferring savings accounts to checking accounts.

Some banks reported increased activity toward the weekend while others said transfers slacked off by Friday.

Cabinet announcement of an issue of low-price savings bonds, which it said would be redeemed in 20 years at four times their purchase price, put the government in competition with banks for savings accounts.

One bank official said some depositors feared the government might freeze savings accounts and replace them with bonds.

IMPORTED CAST

NEW YORK (AP) — The entire British cast of Brendan Behan's "The Hostage" is being brought from London for the Broadway production.

Uusally Actors Equity permits only major performers to make the transatlantic crossing. In this case, it was felt, an intact complement would be necessary for proper interpretation of what the author calls "an uproariously funny tragedy."

An unusual element of the play is that prior to each performance the cast meets to agree upon interpolations into the dialogue from the news of each day, a device designed to assure topical immediacy to the dramatic events.

I BELIEVE

★ I believe I know my State and its people, their needs and the things they want most. I believe at this time that we need leadership and harmony, that a peaceful and harmonious relationship among people from all walks of life in all sections of our state is something that cannot be measured in dollars and cents.

★ I believe in the importance of EDUCATION . . . for every child in our State. During my previous administration we enacted a COMPULSORY SCHOOL ATTENDANCE LAW for all children 7 to 15. We increased the per-pupil appropriation for education nearly 100%, the largest ever in any administration before or since.

★ I believe in SEGREGATION unqualifiedly. In my opinion, the best way to maintain our historic way of life, and to insure harmonious relations between the races, is to provide separate and equal facilities, not in name only but in actual fact. I believe this difficult problem can be resolved for the mutual benefit of all our people without changing our traditional policy of segregation.

★ I believe I know and understand the problems of FARMERS. I grew up on a poor hill farm in North Louisiana and experienced poverty at its worst. I operate a farm today, like to farm, and hope I can operate a farm as long as I live. I know and appreciate what farmers and farms have meant to Louisiana and America.

★ I believe that our God-given natural resources should be used wisely for the greatest and longest possible benefit for ourselves and our children and their children. When I was in office before, we supported that belief by creating separate units to supervise conservation of Wildlife and Fisheries, Forests and Oil and Gas. I believe that we should pay more attention to the preservation of our fish and game, that we should have more public hunting grounds and additional fishing, boating and hunting lakes all over our state.

★ I believe our state is an ideal spot for business and industry. I believe we should make a greater effort to promote wide distribution of our farm and factory products, and sell business and industry on the wonderful things we make and grow in our state. When I was governor before, I devoted considerable time and travel conferring with industrialists and businessmen elsewhere on the advantages they would find in Louisiana. Before I left office we gained some 450 new industries and additions in the state, with payrolls totaling some $70,000,000.

★ I believe in ECONOMY, for running our State in a careful and conservative fashion—the way a wise businessman runs his business. After many millions of dollars worth of benefits to the people, when I left office in 1948, there was a treasury surplus of some $38,000,000 and this was achieved without additional taxes or new taxes. I will oppose any additional tax burdens on the people today for I believe that with proper management of our finances, new taxes are not needed.

★ I believe in political INDEPENDENCE AND HONESTY. I won't tolerate racketeering or organized vice. I won't tolerate interference by any federal agency with the police power of our State as guaranteed to the State by the constitution. At the same time, I won't tolerate interference by the State with the powers granted to the cities and parishes of the state.

If you believe as I do, then I urge you to vote for me and my ticket on December 5th.

Nuptial Mass Unites Mary Wood, James Lyons

A Nuptial Mass at ten o'clock on Thanksgiving morning in St. Joseph's Catholic church united in marriage Miss Mary O'Delle Wood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O'Dell Wood, and James Bernard Lyons, son of Mr. and Mrs. Voris Lyons of West Monroe. The Rev. Michael Hannon, assisted by the Rev. Vitus Duschinsky, performed the double ring ceremony in the presence of friends and relatives. The servers at the Mass were Dudy Brown and Julian Fontana.

Large arrangements of white gladioli and mums were placed on either side of the main altar. Pedestial baskets held similar arrangments at the foot of the altar and the two side altars, carried out the same theme.

"Ave Maria," "Panis Angelicus," and "On this Day, O Beautiful Mother" were sung by Bobby Joe Inzina, accompanied at the organ by Mrs. Harold Price.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a handmade gown of Skinners' bridal satin and scalloped imported Chantilly lace. It was fashioned with an Empire waist of lace over satin and fitted lace sleeves forming a point over the hand. Seed pearls followed the pattern of the lace at neck and sleeves. The lace skirt featured a satin overskirt caught at the center with two bows. Scallops of lace formed a chapel train. A crown o. pearls held her finger tip veil of illusion. She carried a satin and lace covered prayer book, gift of the groom, topped with a white orchid surrounded by tube roses, feather carnations, and satin ribbon.

Mrs. Roy Hicks of Houma, sister of the bride was matron of honor. Miss Doris McCaa was maid of honor, and other attendants were Mrs. Joe Harrell, of Alexandria, sister of the groom; Mrs. William Harrington of Dallas, Texas; and Mrs. Billy Carlisle of Shreveport. They wore identical sheath dresses of exotic blue satin brocade fashioned with a pleated cummerbund ending in a large bow in the center back. Their headdresses were flat bows of exotic blue with matching veils. They wore short white gloves and exotic blue pumps. Each carried a single Albatross chrysanthemum tinted exotic blue.

Mary Ann Hicks of Houma, niece of the bride, served as flower girl. She was wearing a white chrystly frock with a close fitting bodice and a short tierred skirt. A pleated sash of exotic blue formed streamers the length of the skirt. She wore white gloves and a single drop pearl, gift of the bride. Her flowers were a white basket filled with rose petals.

Immediately after the ceremony a reception was held in the church hall, which was decorated with white ruffled gladioli formed a background for the receiving line. Mrs. Wood, mother of the bride, was wearing a mulberry silk faille dress with matching sequin hat. The groom's mother, Mrs. Lyons, was in royal blue silk with a white feather hat. Both wore corsages of white split carnations and stephanotis.

The memory candle was burning on a round table covered with white net over satin. Here Mrs. Bernice Busbice presided at the guest book.

A mirror circled with white mums and lilies of the valley held the tiered wedding cake at the other end of the table. White roses, mums, and lilies of the valley decorated the cake, which was topped with a bride and groom. Those who assisted in serving were Mrs. Paul Malikowski, aunt, of the bride, Mrs. Joe Ben Jones, Mrs J. Frank Jones, and Mrs. R. L. Moore, III.

After the reception, the couple left for a short wedding trip. Mrs. Lyons was wearing a moss green suit trimmed with natural mink. Her hat was of mink and satin bows, and she wore black accessories and black satin gloves. Upon their return, the couple will be at home in Monroe while Mr. Lyons is attending Louisiana Tech.

Cottee Party Given By Four Hostesses Tuesday

The Thanksgiving motif was carried out in the decorations of the morning coffee hosted by Mrs. Herbert Mayo, Mrs. J. W. Webster, Jr., Mrs. E. P. Chapman, and Mrs. Jack Tarver. The Jade room of the Paragon club was the scene of the party on Tuesday between ten and twelve.

Gold and bronze mums arranged with amber lights on a large bronze compote centered the table. Flanking the centerpiece were bronze candles in silver cnadlesticks entwined with small mums.

Coffee was served from twin silver services at each end of the table. Mrs. Fred Liner, Mrs. Jim Williams, Mrs. Jams Neill, and Mrs. Fred Moses alternated in pouring.

Nuptial Mass Unites Mary Wood, James Lyons

A Nuptial Mass at ten o'clock on Thanksgiving morning in St. Joseph's Catholic church united in marriage Miss Mary O'Delle Wood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O'Dell Wood, and James Bernard Lyons, son of Mr. and Mrs. Voris Lyons of West Monroe. The Rev. Michael Hannon, assisted by the Rev. Vitus Duschinsky, performed the double ring ceremony in the presence of friends and relatives. The servers at the Mass were Duffy Brown and Julian Fontana.

Large arrangements of white gladioli and mums were placed on either side of the main altar. Pedestial baskets held similar arrangments at the foot of the altar and the two side altars, carried out the same theme.

"Ave Maria," "Panis Angelicus," and "On this Day, O Beautiful Mother" were sung by Bobby Joe Inzina, accompanied at the organ by Mrs. Harold Price.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a handmade gown of Skinners' bridal satin and scalloped imported Chantilly lace. It was fashioned with an Empire waist of lace over satin and fitted lace sleeves forming a point over the hand. Seed pearls followed the pattern of the lace at neck and sleeves. The lace skirt featured a satin overskirt caught at the center with two bows. Scallops of lace formed a chapel train. A crown o. pearls held her finger tip veil of illusion. She carried a satin and lace covered prayer book, gift of the groom, topped with a white orchid surrounded by tube roses, feather carnations, and satin ribbon.

Mrs. Roy Hicks of Houma, sister of the bride was matron of honor. Miss Doris McCaa was maid of honor, and other attendants were Mrs. Joe Harrell, of Alexandria, sister of the groom; Mrs. William Harrington of Dallas, Texas; and Mrs. Billy Carlisle of Shreveport. They wore identical sheath dresses of exotic blue satin brocade fashioned with a pleated cummerbund ending in a large bow in the center back. Their headdresses were flat bows of exotic blue with matching veils. They wore short white gloves and exotic blue pumps. Each carried a single Albatross chrysanthemum tinted exotic blue.

Mary Ann Hicks of Houma, niece of the bride, served as flower girl. She was wearing a white chrystly frock with a close fitting bodice and a short tierred skirt. A pleated sash of exotic blue formed streamers the length of the skirt. She wore white gloves and a single drop pearl, gift of the bride. Her flowers were a white basket filled with rose petals.

Immediately after the ceremony a reception was held in the church hall, which was decorated with white ruffled gladioli formed a background for the receiving line. Mrs. Wood, mother of the bride, was wearing a mulberry silk faille dress with matching sequin hat. The groom's mother, Mrs. Lyons, was in royal blue silk with a white feather hat. Both wore corsages of white split carnations and stephanotis.

The memory candle was burning on a round table covered with white net over satin. Here Mrs. Bernice Busbice presided at the guest book.

A mirror circled with white mums and lilies of the valley held the tiered wedding cake at the other end of the table. White roses, mums, and lilies of the valley decorated the cake, which was topped with a bride and groom. Those who assisted in serving were Mrs. Paul Malikowski, aunt, of the bride, Mrs. Joe Ben Jones, Mrs J. Frank Jones, and Mrs. R. L. Moore, III.

After the reception, the couple left for a short wedding trip. Mrs. Lyons was wearing a moss green suit trimmed with natural mink. Her hat was of mink and satin bows, and she wore black accessories and black satin gloves. Upon their return, the couple will be at home in Monroe while Mr. Lyons is attending Louisiana Tech.

MR. AND MRS. W. R. DONELSON cut their wedding cake following their marriage at Central Baptist church.

Miss Strohm, Mr. Donelson Wed At Central Church

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Strohm, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Donelson.

Other members of the committee were Mrs. Ellen Gillis, in charge of entertainment, and Miss Ann Mickel, programs.

Girl Scout News

"Heaven can wait; we'll take troop camping now" was the title of an article we read not long ago. One group of girls will agree, we are sure, are those of Troop 33, who spent last weekend at Pine Wood. The weather cooperated beautifully, with cool night and a sunshiny morning.

What could be cozier than supper in front of the fire, with hot cocoa to supplement nosebag lunches brought from home, followed by sommores for dessert, with the marshmallows toasted over coals in the fireplace? Afterwards, campfire consisted of dramatization of folk tales, using simple costumes made from materials at hand. This was fulfilling a requirement on the Magic Carpet badge. Singing by the firelight concluded the evening. The cool, sunshiny morning was perfect for cooking breadtwists over coals, each girl cooking her own to a golden brown.

Breakfast kapers over, a hike is usually a must for active girls. They never tire of going to the river, as there are several paths to follow, different things to see at each season. As a bit of camp improvement, the girls swept pine needles off the roof and then raked around the building. At lunch time the girls prepared coffee can casserole over an outdoor fire. Then followed the cleaning up before leaving for home.

Girls who enjoyed the outing were: Pam Clay, Jean Colvin, Paula Choitz, Martha Easley, Maurine Halpin, Carol Madden, Barbara Smith, Diane Strickland, Wanda Phillips, Carol Ullman, Kitty Vaughan. Leaders of the troop, Mrs. Frank Halpin and Mrs. C. E. Vaughan, and Mrs. Emma Jane Ullman were the adults in charge.

A piece of service tied in with Thanksgiving was the making of favors of Pilgrim Hats filled with candies and sending them to Charity Hospital. Shows that second - grade Brownie Scouts can carry out their Promise "to help other people every day". Mrs. John T. Bush and Mrs. Walter C. Bell are leaders of this troop, which meets at Ridge Avenue Baptist Church, West Monroe.

Completing their fifth consecutive year of Scouting and registering for their sixth, are the following girls of Troop 24, Mrs. Edmund Middleton, leader: Patricia Ayers, Susan Benton, Robbie Hicks, Polly Johnson, Rebecca Middleton, Anna Margaret Miller, Barbara Suomi, Michelle Varnado. The troop has a long record of worthwhile activities, with the out of doors being one of their favorites. Many of the girls have attended day camp for years, have perfected many out of door skills, which they have shared with troops of younger girls. Most are First Class Scouts and expect to reach Curved Bar, the highest rank this year. Their only regret is that our Council doesn't have an established camp, so they have missed that experience. Congratulations to Troop 24 and their leader!

Broadway-Robertson Rites Planned

Broadway of Oak Grove. The ceremony will be performed by the Rev. J. J. Coody in the First Church of God, December 20 at three o'clock in the afternoon. A reception will follow in the recreation room of the church.

Miss Strohm, Mr. Donelson Wed At Central Church

Miss Beverly Frances Strohm became the bride of William Robert Donelson in a double ring ceremony performed by the Rev. Charles B. Littleton at the Central Baptist church on November 12. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Strohm, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Donelson.

The young couple stood beneath an archway covered with ivy to exchange their vows. White tapers and baskets of white gladioli were used at each side of the arch. The candles were lighted by Miss Rosalyn Strohm and Miss Barbara Donelson. They wore pink taffeta dresses with bouffant sleeves.

An organ concert was given by Mrs. Everett Zeagler, who also accompanied the soloist, Miss Charlotte Sally. Miss Sally sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer".

The bride, who entered on the arm of her father, wore a full length dress of Chantilly lace fashioned with a Peter Pan collar, long sleeves coming to a point over the hands, and a train of net ruffles. She carried a Bible covered with lace and white carnations with long white streamers.

Miss Wista Lou Anderson, maid of honor, wore a white-green taffeta dress with large sleeves and a dark green velveteen cummerbund. In her hair she wore a band of matching velveteen. She carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

Flower girls were Debbie Lynn Travis and Nina Tippit, nieces of the bride. Their dresses were of light green taffeta, similar to that of the maid of honor. They carried baskets filled with white carnations.

RECEPTION

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony in the church parlors, which were decorated in a scheme of pink and white. White stock and pink carnations were placed on the table where Mrs. W. W. Terry presided at the bride's book.

Centerpiece for the bride's table was an arrangement of double rings of pink and white carnations. Those who assisted in serving were Mrs. Martin Travis, Sr., Mrs. Lester Travis, Miss Ida Rose Strohm, Miss Mamie Alice Strohm, Mrs. Dena Prince, Mrs. F. L. O'Neal.

Altrusa Hears Mrs. Willis, Mr. Gray

Job attitudes was the title of the talk made by Mrs. O. Willis to members of the Altrusa Club, classified service club for executive and professional women on Thursday evening. Mrs. Willis, instructor in office education at the Ouachita Parish Schools, told of on the job training for pupils majoring in office and business methods, and how employers help in forming the right job attitudes in the trainee.

Veo Gray, minister of music at the First Baptist Church of Monroe, accompanied by Ronny Brothers at the piano, gave a solo entitled "Grandma" from Showboat. This was followed by a trumpet solo, the "Lord's Prayer."

Mrs. Helen Luckett, president, opened the meeting with the Altrusa blessing and then turned the program over to Mrs. Faye Heard, chairman of the vocational information committee who presented the guests to the club. Other members of the committee were Mrs. Ellen Gillis, in charge of entertainment, and Miss Ann Mickel, programs.

After a dinner, club members turned in the dolls which were dressed by them for the Salvation Army's Christmas program. Forty dolls were dressed by the group for this community agency. Table decorations were done by Miss Maibel Hood, guest of Mrs. Faye Heard. Centering the head table was a large brown wicker basket filled with a curved arrangement of dried flowers in autumn colors. With this arrangement Miss Hood used bronze and gold candles.

A door prize was presented by the committee to Mrs. Willis.

Attending the meeting were Miss Mary Benoit, Mrs. Maude Bentrup, Mrs. Adrienne Carr, Mrs. Jewel Durham, Miss Gertrude Gregory, Mrs. Heard, Mrs. Madeline Hirsch, Dr. Julia Hunter, Mrs. Addie Lou Juneman, Mrs. Luckett, Mrs. Marguerite Meek, Miss Mickel, Mrs. Emma Jean Mouton, Mrs. Lois West, Mrs. Marie Frazier, Mrs. Marion Hanks, Miss Annis Klie, Mrs. Beatrice Patterson, Mrs. Ellen Gillis, Mrs. Elizabeth Reitzammer, and guests Mrs. LaRue Howard, Mrs. Willis, Miss Hood, Mr. Gray, and Mr. Brothers.

It's reported that Russia is working on a machine that will enable people to get by with as little as one hour of sleep each day. The gadget, the report states, is designed to drive fatigue toxins out of the brain.

Girl Scout News

"Heaven can wait: we'll take troop camping now" was the title of an article we read not long ago. One group of girls will agree, we are sure, are those of Troop 33, who spent last weekend at Pine Wood. The weather cooperated beautifully, with cool night and a sunshiny morning.

What could be cozier than supper in front of the fire, with hot cocoa to supplement rosebag lunches brought from home, followed by sommores for dessert, with the marshmallows toasted over coals in the fireplace? Afterwards, campfire consisted of dramatization of folk tales, using simple costumes made from materials at hand. This was fulfilling a requirement on the Magic Carpet badge. Singing by the firelight concluded the evening. The cool, sunshiny morning was perfect for cooking breadtwists over coals, each girl cooking her own to a golden brown.

Breakfast kapers over, a hike is usually a must for active girls. They never tire of going to the river, as there are several paths to follow, different things to see at each season. As a bit of camp improvement, the girls swept pine needles off the roof and then raked around the building. At lunch time the girls prepared coffee can casserole over an outdoor fire. Then followed the cleaning up before leaving for home.

Girls who enjoyed the outing were: Pam Clay, Jean Colvin, Paula Choitz, Martha Easley, Maurine Halpin, Carol Madden, Barbara Smith, Diane Strickland, Wanda Phillips, Carol Ullman, Kitty Vaughan. Leaders of the troop, Mrs. Frank Halpin and Mrs. C. E. Vaughan, and Mrs. Emma Jane Ullman were the adults in charge.

A piece of service tied in with Thanksgiving was the making of favors of Pilgrim Hats filled with candies and sending them to Charity Hospital. Shows that second - grade Brownie Scouts can carry out their Promise "to help other people every day". Mrs. John T. Bush and Mrs. Walter C. Bell are leaders of this troop, which meets at Ridge Avenue Baptist Church, West Monroe.

Completing their fifth consecutive year of Scouting and registering for their sixth, are the following girls of Troop 24, Mrs. Edmund Middleton, leader: Patricia Ayers, Susan Benton, Robbie Hicks, Polly Johnson, Rebecca Middleton, Anna Margaret Miller, Barbara Suomi, Michelle Varnado. The troop has a long record of worthwhile activities, with the out of doors being one of their favorites. Many of the girls have attended day camp for years, have perfected many out of door skills, which they have shared with troops of younger girls. Most are First Class Scouts and expect to reach Curved Bar, the highest rank this year. Their only regret is that our Council doesn't have an established camp, so they have missed that experience. Congratulations to Troop 24 and their leader!

Broadway-Robertson Rites Planned

Announcement is made today by Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Robertson of Oak Grove of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter Maxine to Joe Edward Broadway, son of Mr. and Mrs. K. D. Broadway of Oak Grove. The ceremony will be performed by the Rev. J. J. Coody in the First Church of God, December 20 at three o'clock in the afternoon. A reception will follow in the recreation room of the church.

Well, we got some beautiful Indian summer days this week. Wonderful for the hunters, wonderful for children out of school, wonderful for entertaining visitors who were with us for Thanksgiving.

Visitors who enjoyed a real round of parties were Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Shaw of Huddersfield, Yorkshire, England, and their daughter, Lesley, who are guests of the GEORGE SNELLINGS, JR., in their home on Country Club road. Affairs were small and planned to give the visitors a view of southern living.

Tuesday night Marie Louise and George invited a few friends in to meet the Shaws. The hostess used a centerpiece of chrysanthemums and early camellias. Pyracantha berries and greenery were placed throughout the house.

The JACK EASTERLINGS, the JIM EWINGS, and the HAROLD WOODS, JR., were hosts at a dinner party in the Woods home Wednesday. They served an all-American type menu, beginning with a clam dip and going on to roast beef, string beans in consumme, potatoes au gratin, Bing cherry jello and cocoanut cake.

Thanksgiving dinner was served Thursday noon at the Snellings. That night the GEORGE WEAKS and the J. H. TROUSDALES, JR., entained at supper. A seasonal fruit arrangement was used on the buffet, where a light meal was set out.

On Friday LOUISE THEUS and DIT CUTLER invited the ladies for lunch at the Theus home. Lump crab meat was the high point of the menu . . . Later in the afternoon, the Shaws and the Snellings went to the B. W. BIEDENHARN home. The guests visited the farm. A light buffet supper was served before the group motored to Ruston for the Neville - Minden game, the visitors' first glimpse of football.

Yesterday at one the G. L. MORGANS were hosts at a boating party. Lunch was served during a trip up the river on the "Playhouse" . . . The H. G. M'DONALDS and the HENRY BERNSTEINS honored the guests from England at an oyster dinner . . . The CLYDE BROWNS will entertain this morning at a milk punch party, before the Shaws and Snellings leave later in the day for a few days in Natchez and New Orleans.

SIS WHITE has had a family house party going all week. Her daughter, POLLY JEAN DURHAM and her boys, JOEY and ROGER BRENT, came on Monday. MAX joined his family here Wednesday, and drove them all home Friday . . . DOTTIE and ED WICKER and their children, JOHNNY, ROBBIE, ROGER WHITE, and MARY WYNNE, came from Dallas on Wednesday and will be leaving today.

On Friday BETTY MOORE honored Dottie at a luncheon held on the porch at the Bayou DeSiard Country Club. The pink - covered table was centered with an arrangement of pink chrysanthemums in a crystal bowl. Sixteen old friends of the honoree attended.

Several small gatherings of the high school set have honored CAROL TURNER, daughter of the HIRAM PYBURNS of Ruston, who came Sunday and spent Thanksgiving with NANCY TALBOT in the home of the RALPH TALBOTS. Nancy entertained with a seated conversational hour Tuesday afternoon. The tea table featured an arrangement of fruits and nuts in a brandy snifter. Fourteen attended . . . MARY TIL WRIGHT was hostess at a small supper party Tuesday night at Bayou DeSiard Country Club . . . FRAN SHATTUCK invited a foursome for bridge on Wednesday.

Home from Tulane for the Thanksgiving holidays was PRENT SEYMOUR. He invited a group of some thirty of the college set to drop in Friday night. Occasion for the celebration was Prent's twenty - first birthday. A light buffet of snacks and "finger-food" was served from a buffet centered with a Thanksgiving fruit arrangement.

MAIDYE JEAN STRICKLAND drove to Orange, Texas, taking home her aunt, AUDREY HEBERT, who had been here over the week end. After several days there, Maidye drove home for Thanksgiving, bringing her grandmother, MRS. LEANDER HEBERT, and Audrey back for the week end.

Guests of CRARY SMITH for the holiday were the D. Y. SMITHS, JR., of Sheveport and their four children. Crary had a family Thanksgiving dinner at home on Thursday, and on Friday honored Mary with a lady-luncheon at the Bayou DeSiard Country Club.

The RUSSELL BATES, JR., went to New Orleans on Tuesday to pick up their new little adopted daughter, CANDEE RENEE. The baby was born February 6, 1959. The paternal grandmother is MRS. RUSSELL BATES, SR., of Clarksville, Tenn., and the maternal grandparents are the REV. and MRS. A. F. BALSMEIER of Hutchinson, Kansas.

JEAN and JACK DAVIS and their children, JACKIE, DIANE, DONOVAN, and DEDE, are in New Orleans. They went down Wednesday to spend Thanksgiving with Jean's parents, the DONOVAN BROWNES, and are due home tonight.

The mail is getting more interesting every day, what with the invitations coming in. There were several affairs this week of the type which delights your reporter: everyone complimenting their hostess by dressing as if her party were an OCCASION. Described elsewhere in these pages are the GEORGE ROREX party at the Lotus Club and that hosted by HELEN CAMPBELL, the ARTHUR GRANTS, and the WINNIE COLES at the Paragon Wednesday.

Among the gaily dressed ladies spied at one or another of these parties were RUBY MITCHELL in a white satin shirtwaist dress worn with an elegant full length white satin coat . . . camille WOOD wearing champagne beige brocaded satin with gold shoes . . . DOT MASUR in a red-on-blue cut velvet . . . and MRS. WILL WALTON of Jackson, Miss., in a luscious shade of cafe au lait . . . All the ladies were exclaiming over JUDY TURPIN's black shoes appliqued with gold kid (a recent New York purchase) . . . JOAN BANCROFT's shocking pink velvet was fashioned with a wide cowl collar . . . MAYDRON JONES' white satin shirtwaist featured a shadow print of roses . . . First of the holiday reds were seen in ELTSNER FRAZER'S peau de soie, DOT NOLAND's lace, and HELEN WALLACE's chiffon . . . We heard much favorable comment on JUNE M'HENRY's new mink - collared sheared beaver jacket.

Just in case our readers thought that Nobel prize poetry had to be gloomy, we decided to give them this work on cats by Nobel poet T. S. Eliot:

You've seen them both at work and games,
And learnt about their proper names,
Their habits and their habitat:
ut
But
How would you ad-dress a Cat?

So first your memory I'll jog,
And say: A CAT IS NOT A DOG.

Now Dogs pretend they like to fight;
They often bark, more seldom bite;
But yet a Dog is, on the whole,
What you would call a simple soul.
And far from showing too much pride
Is frequently undignified.
He's very easily taken in—
Just chuck him underneath the chin
Or slap his back or shake his paw,
and he will gambol and guffaw.
He's such an easy-going lout,
He'll answer any hail or shout.

Again I must remind you that
A Dog's a Doga CAT's A CAT.
A Dog's a Dog—a CAT's A CAT.

With Cats, some say, one rule is true:
Don't speak till you are spoken to.
Myself, I do not hold with that—
I say, you should ad-dress a Cat.
But always keep in mind that he
Resents familiarity.

Before a Cat will condescend
To treat you as a trusted friend,
Some little token of esteem
Is needed, like a dish of cream;
And you might now and then supply
Some caviare, or Strassburg Pie,
Some potted grouse, or salmon paste—
He's sure to have his personal taste.
(I know a Cat, who makes a habit
Of eating nothing else but rabbit,
And when he's finished, licks his paws
So's not to waste the onion sauce.)
A Cat's entitled to expect
These evidences of respect.
And so in time you reach your aim,
And finally call him by his NAME.

So this is this, and that is that:
And there's how you AD-DRESS A CAT.

2 Airmen Find Trapped Family

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Two airmen noticed a broken railing on a bridge over the Arkansas River Friday, investigated, and discovered an automobile on its side in the water.

The temperature was below freezing, but they dived in and found a family of four trapped inside.

Wedding Friday Unites Miss Parker, Mr. Kibble

Stone Avenue Methodist Church was the setting for the wedding Friday evening of Miss Betty Clyde Parker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Parker of Monroe, and Arthur Kibble, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude A. Kibble of Milwaukie, Oregon.

The Reverend Issac A. Patton performed the double ring ceremony in the presence of relatives and friends. The church was decorated with stands of yellow mums and candelabra with yellow candles entwined with southern smilax and fern trees.

Preceding the ceremony a program of music was presented by Ronnie Brothers. Mrs. Betty Foreman, soloist, sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer." The traditional weddding marches were used for the processional and recessional.

Mr. Kibble chose J. P. North of West Monroe for his best man. Groomsmen were Larry Parker, brother of the bride, Ray Golman, Eddie Hales, and Van Anderson.

Preceding the bride to the altar were Mrs. Frances Anderson, matron of honor; Miss Harley Petty, Miss Betty Thomas, Miss Ann Hobgood, and Miss Margie Black, bridesmaids. Their gowns were identical models of after hours peau de soie in the new cappucine color. Their hats were made of the same material in the shape of autumn leaves. They wore shoes to match and carried crescent bouquets of bronze mums in a crescent shape.

Flower girls, Lynn and Raina Hales, cousins of the bride, were miniature replicas of the bridesmaids. Ringbearer was Corbitt McMullen.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride was wearing a gown of white imported chantilly lace with sabrina neckline, scalloped and embroidered in seed pearls and fashioned with fitted bodice, long pointed sleeves, and a full bouffant skirt caught at the back with a horseshoe of hand made roses and a chapel train. A three-tiered veil of imported illusion, hand scalloped in seed pearls, fell in soft folds from a crown of pearls and sequins. She carried a handmade lace handkerchief belonging to an old friend. Her bouquet was a white orchid surrounded by yellow roses.

Mrs. Parker, mother of the bride, chose an original model of blue silk. Her accessories were black and white with a corsage of yellow roses. Mrs. Kibble, mother of the bridegroom, also wore blue with beige accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

RECEPTION

Following the ceremony a reception was given by the bride's parents in Fellowship Hall of the church. Arrangements of bridal flowers and greenery carried out the bridal theme.

Greeting the guests at the entrance to the hall was Mrs. Pauline Petty, presiding at the guest book, who presented them to the receiving line.

The bride's table, overlaid with white lace, was centered with a silver candelabra holding yellow tapers and encircled by garlands of ferns and bridal flowers. The bride's cake, adorned with yellow bride's roses, was topped by a miniature bridal couple.

Mrs. Eddie Hales and Mrs. Fred Holts, aunts of the bride, served punch and Mrs. Mildred Crabtree cut the wedding cake. Others assisting in the receiving and serving during the evening were Mrs. Dorothy Standard, Mrs. Nell Thomas, and Mrs. Morris Hearne.

Out of town guests were: Mrs. Claude Kibble, Milwaukie, Oregon; Mr. and Mrs. Aden Parker and Mr. and Mrs. Tony Parker and Janice of Laurel, Mississippi; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Black, Jerry, Margie and Rudolph of Ellisville, Mississippi; Mrs. Luther Parker of Taylorsville, Mississippi; Mrs. Robert O'Rourke of New Orleans; Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Royalst, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Holt and Mary Susan, and Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Royals, Jean, Kay and Patsy of McGhee, Arkansas.

REHEARSAL SUPPER

On the eve of the wedding, Miss Parker's aunt, Mrs. Bonnie Hales, and Mrs. Nell Thomas entertained with a beautifully planned rehearsal supper at the Flamingo Room at the Hollywood.

The beautiful bronze and yellow colors of the fall season were used in the table centerpiece.

Guests, in addition to Miss Parker and Mr. Kibble, were: the Reverend Isaac A. Patton, Mr. and Mrs. Van Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Hales, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Thomas, Miss Harley Petty, Miss Ann Hobgood, Miss Margie Black, Miss Betty Thomas, Mr. Larry Parker, Mr. Ray Golman, Mr. J. P. North, Mrs. Owen McMullen, Corbitt McMullen, Mrs. Betty Foreman, Mrs. Pauline Petty, Mrs. Claude Kibble, mother of the bridegroom and the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Parker.

MRS. ARTHUR KIBBLE

Miss Anne Rose Harrell, Gerald Glen Arrant Wed

Saturday evening Miss Anne Rose Harrell became the bride of Gerald Glen Arrant ina double ring ceremony at the First Baptist church in West Monroe. Dr. Jaroy Weber officiated. The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Harrell of West Monroe. The groom is the son of the late Mrs. Neva Gevin Arrant, also of West Monroe.

The young couple pledged their vows before an altar of greenery flanked with baskets holding fan shaped bouquets of white gladioli and wine chrysanthemums. Cathedral tapers burned in wrought iron candelabra. Southern smilax wreathed the candelabra and was entwined in the choir railing.

As the ushers directed guests to their pews. Bob Oldenberg presented a concert of traditional music. Miss Betty Bandy sang "Love the Perfect Gift," "Ave Maria." and "The Wedding Prayer." Candles were lighted by Joe Jones III, and Roger Rutledge.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Sidney Allen Swink, wore a floor length gown of winterberry red velvet with a portrait neckline and a bell shaped skirt. Her satin pumps were dyed to match and her headdress was a bandeau of white fur. Wine Fuji chrysanthemums were the flowers pinned to her white fur muff.

Bridesmaids were Miss Gladys Halsell, Miss Beverly Halsell, Miss Linda Landers, Miss Sue Weir, Miss Phoebe Allen, and Mrs. Don Juan Auger, whose dresses were identical to that of the matron of honor. The junior bridesmaid, Linda White, and the flower girl, Sarah Norsworthy, also wore floor length dresses of winterberry red and carried white fur muffs.

Howard Stapp, Jr., was best man. Ushers were Walter Franks, William Harkness, Donald Thames, E. L. Geuin, Joel Jones, III. and Roger Rutledge. Jim Williams served as junior groomsman and Sandy Williams was ring bearer.

BRIDE

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father, Robert E. Harrell, who gave her in marriage. Her gown of white silk cloud satin was fashioned with a tight fitted bodice closed up the back with tiny covered buttons, a portrait neckline, and long sleeves ending in points over the hands. The full skirt with side panel inserts swept into a full cathedral train. Her veil of heirloom rosepoint lace framed her face and was caught back with orange blossoms and pearls. Her only jewelry was a string of tiny pearls, a gift from the groom. She carried a cascade arrangement of white anthiriums.

RECEPTION

The Highland Park country club was the setting for the reception. Upon arrival, guests were greeted by Mr. Harrell and the bride's cousins, Harrell and Ed Williams, and Sgt. Kelly A. Farrar. In the receiving line were Mrs. Harrell, Mrs. Rutledge, the bride and groom and attendants.

The bride's table was laid with a linen cut work cloth, centered with the tiered wedding cake. which was served by Mrs. Rudolph Farrar and Mrs. J. F. Jones, Jr.

On the refreshment table was an imported cutwork cloth of linen over pink satin. The central decor was a spike arrangement of white Fuji chrysanthemums and white beauty berry branches in a footed silver bowl. Candles in branched silver candelabra were used on each side of the bouquet. Mrs. George Williams and Mrs. J. Ed Williams poured at the silver coffee service, while Mrs. J. Morgan Drew and Mrs. Bruce Brooks alternated at the punch bowl.

Miss Gloria Golsby presided at the guest register. Tea girls who assisted were Misses Jeanette Brooks, Martha Harper, Fay Parker, and Mrs. Howard Stapp Jr. Other members of the house party were Mrs. J. Steele Williams, Mrs. George P. Harrell, Mrs. Judy Farrar, and Mrs. J. Cordell Allen.

Speaks To Lakeshore PTA

The Lakeshore Parent-Teacher Association had Mayor Jack Howard as their gust speaker at the November meeting. He was introduced to the group by Tommy Mulhearn.

Mayor Howard spoke on the subject of discipline and juvenile delinquency. He pointed out that juvenile delinquency might well be referred to as rebellion on the part of the teen-ager against parental authority. We find boys rebelling against fathers who will not allow them the use of the family car; others that forbid visitation to certain places; in fact we find open rebellion against parents period . . . According to the thinking of the speaker the home is basically to blame for the delinquency of our youth. He stated that we are not giving our children the proper training in the home today; that too much is left to the school and the church.

Carl Davis, president presided during the business session. The treasurer's report was given showing that the budget set had been reached. Mrs. John P. Zoll gave a detailed report of the Carnival projects, including amount raised by each.

The fifth grade parents served individual cakes, coffee and cokes during the social hour.

Mrs. R. E. Newman, Mrs. A. T. Wynn, Mrs. A. R. Bates, Mrs. G. E. Butler, Mrs. W. A. Carr, Mrs. R. H. Cunliffe, Mrs. Dawes, Mrs. Ferguson, Mrs. Gee, Mrs. J. J. Gulledge, Mrs. Fred Hayton, Mrs. C. O. Hayton, Mrs. T. E. Humphries, Mrs. J. D. Ingram, Mrs. E. F. Kenny, Mrs. Newman and Mrs. W. F. Wall.

Mrs. Newman Hosts Green Thumb Club

The Green Thumb garden club met in the home of Mrs. Ralph Newman on the Calhoun road Thursday at two o'clock.

Mrs. Earl Ferguson presided at the business meeting. Mrs. D. B. Gee read the minutes. Reports were given by Mrs. John Dawes and Mrs. Ralph Newman.

A discussion of Christmas arrangements constituted the program.

by Denise

Well, we got some beautiful Indian summer days this week. Wonderful for the hunters, wonderful for children out of school, wonderful for entertaining visitors who were with us for Thanksgiving.

Visitors who enjoyed a real round of parties were Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Shaw of Huddersfield, Yorkshire, England, and their daughter, Lesley, who are guests of the GEORGE SNELLINGS, JR., in their home on Country Club road. Affairs were small and planned to give the visitors a view of southern living.

Tuesday night Marie Louise and George invited a few friends in to meet the Shaws. The hostess used a centerpiece of chrysanthemums and early camellias. Pyracantha berries and greenery were placed throughout the house.

The JACK EASTERLINGS, the JIM EWINGS, and the HAROLD WOODS, JR., were hosts at a dinner party in the Woods home Wednesday. They served an all-American type menu, beginning with a clam dip and going on to roast beef, string beans in consumme, potatoes au gratin, Bing cherry jello and cocoanut cake.

Thanksgiving dinner was served Thursday noon at the Snellings. That night the Shaws and Snellings leave later in the day for a few days in Natchez and New Orleans.

SIS WHITE has had a family house party going all week. Her daughter, POLLY JEAN DURHAM and her boys, JOEY and ROGER BRENT, came on Monday. MAX joined his family here Wednesday, and drove them all home Friday . . . DOTTIE and ED WICKER and their children, JOHNNY, ROBBIE, ROGER WHITE, and MARY WYNNE, came from Dallas on Wednesday and will be leaving today.

On Friday BETTY MOORE honored Dottie at a luncheon held on the porch at the Bayou DeSiard Country Club. The pink - covered table was centered with an arrangement of pink chrysanthemums in a crystal bowl. Sixteen old friends of the honoree attended.

Several small gatherings of the high school set have honored CAROL TURNER, daughter of the HIRAM PYBURNS of Ruston, who came Sunday and spent Thanksgiving with NANCY TALBOT in the home of the RALPH TALBOTS. Nancy entertained with a seated conversational hour Tuesday afternoon. The tea table featured an arrangement of fruits and nuts in a brandy snifter. Fourteen attended . . . MARY TIL WRIGHT was hostess at a small supper party Tuesday night at Bayou DeSiard Country Club . . . FRAN SHATTUCK invited a foursome for bridge on Wednesday.

Home from Tulane for the Thanksgiving holidays was PRENT SEYMOUR. He invited a group of some thirty of the college set to drop in Friday night. Occasion for the celebration was Prent's twenty - first birthday. A light buffet of snacks and "finger-food" was served from a buffet centered with a Thanksgiving fruit arrangement.

MAIDYE JEAN STRICKLAND drove to Orange, Texas, taking home her aunt, AUDREY HEBERT, who had been here over the week end. After several days there, Maidye drove home for Thanksgiving, bringing her grandmother, MRS. LEANDER HEBERT, and Audrey back for the week end.

Guests of CRARY SMITH for the holiday were the D. Y. SMITHS, JR., of Sheveport and their four children. Crary had a family Thanksgiving dinner at home on Thursday, and on Friday honored Mary with a lady-luncheon at the Bayou DeSiard Country Club.

The RUSSELL BATES, JR., went to New Orleans on Tuesday to pick up their new little adopted daughter, CANDEE RENEE. The baby was born February 6, 1959. The paternal grandmother is MRS. RUSSELL BATES, SR., of Clarksville, Tenn., and the maternal grandparents are the REV. and MRS. A. F. BALSMEIER of Hutchinson, Kansas.

JEAN and JACK DAVIS and their children, JACKIE, DIANE, DONOVAN, and DEDE, are in New Orleans. They went down Wednesday to spend Thanksgiving with Jean's parents, the DONOVAN BROWNES, and are due home tonight.

The mail is getting more interesting every day, what with the invitations coming in. There were several affairs this week of the type which delights your reporter: everyone complimenting their hostess by dressing as if her party were an OCCASION. Described elsewhere in these pages are the GEORGE ROREX party at the Lotus Club and that hosted by HELEN CAMPBELL, the ARTHUR GRANTS, and the WINNIE COLES at the Paragon Wednesday.

Among the gaily dressed ladies spied at one or another of these parties were RUBY MITCHELL in a white satin shirtwaist dress worn with an elegant full length white satin coat . . . camille WOOD wearing champagne beige brocaded satin with gold shoes . . . DOT MASUR in a red-on-blue cut velvet . . . and MRS. WILL WALTON of Jackson, Miss., in a luscious shade of cafe au lait . . . All the ladies were exclaiming over JUDY TURPIN's black shoes appliqued with gold kid (a recent New York purchase) . . . JOAN BANCROFT's shocking pink velvet was fashioned with a wide cowl collar . . . MAYDRON JONES' white satin shirtwaist featured a shadow print of roses . . . First of the holiday reds were seen in ELTSNER FRAZER'S peau de soie, DOT NOLAND'S lace, and HELEN WALLACE'S chiffon . . . We heard much favorable comment on JUNE M'HENRY'S new mink - collared sheared beaver jacket.

Just in case our readers thought that Nobel prize poetry had to be gloomy, we decided to give them this work on cats by Nobel poet T. S. Eliot:

You've seen them both at work and games,
And learnt about their proper names,
Their habits and their habitat:
ut
But
How would you ad-dress a Cat?

So first your memory I'll jog,
And say: A CAT IS NOT A DOG.

Now Dogs pretend they like to fight;
They often bark, more seldom bite;
But yet a Dog is, on the whole,
What you would call a simple soul.
And far from showing too much pride
Is frequently undignified.
He's very easily taken in—
Just chuck him underneath the chin
Or slap his back or shake his paw,
and he will gambol and guffaw.
He's such an easy-going lout,
He'll answer any hail or shout.

Again I must remind you that
A Dog's a Doga CAT's A CAT.
A Dog's a Dog—a CAT's A CAT.

With Cats, some say, one rule is true:
Don't speak till you are spoken to.
Myself, I do not hold with that—
I say, you should ad-dress a Cat.
But always keep in mind that he
Resents familiarity.

Before a Cat will condescend
To treat you as a trusted friend,
Some little token of esteem
Is needed, like a dish of cream;
And you might now and then supply
Some caviare, or Strassburg Pie,
Some potted grouse, or salmon paste—
He's sure to have his personal taste.
(I know a Cat, who makes a habit
Of eating nothing else but rabbit,
And when he's finished, licks his paws
So's not to waste the onion sauce.)
A Cat's entitled to expect
These evidences of respect.
And so in time you reach your aim,
And finally call him by his NAME.

So this is this, and that is that:
And there's how you AD-DRESS A CAT.

2 Airmen Find Trapped Family

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Two airmen noticed a broken railing on a bridge over the Arkansas River Friday, investigated, and discovered an automobile on its side in the water.

The temperature was below freezing, but they dived in and found a family of four trapped inside.

Air-Surviving Fungi Can Damage Lenses

By ALBERT W. MCCOLLOOGH
United Press International

The importance of keeping lenses clean and dry is pointed up by the discovery in Japan of a fungus that can live long enough on air alone to do serious damage to any glass surface upon which it may settle.

This microscopic enemy of photographers is the tonophilus variety of the aspergillus glaucus fungus. It was discovered by Dr. T. Ohtsuki of Tokyo, a researcher at Ochanomizu University.

Most fungi die quickly if they have no food. But Ohtsuki reports that tonophilus can live for some time on even a perfectly clean lens surface, provided the relative humidity is 60 to 90 per cent. During growth the fungus exudes tiny moisture droplets that contain corrosive acids. Left on a lens these could do permanent damage and produce a lens that would give hazy pictures.

To guard against such damage, lenses and all photo equipment should be kept in a dry place, along with a chemical moisture absorbent in a closed container if necessary. Lenses should be cleaned gently with lens tissue and when not in use should be capped.

If the fungus becomes a problem despite these measures, its growth can be kept down with application of chemical fumes that provide protection to lens surfaces for 10 years, according to a report in PMI—Photo Methods for Industry, monthly industrial photographic magazine.

For information about these 16MM films, write to the Commanding Officer, U.S. Army Signal Corps Support Agency, White Sands Missile Range, New Mexico, Attention Sigws-Pi.

Graflex, Inc., makers of that veteran workhorse among professional news photographers, the Speed Graphic, has come out with a new model, the Super Speed Graphic 4 x 5. At the same time, it is offering two new 35MM cameras.

Major differences between the new super speed graphic and previous models include a high-speed between-the-lens shutter that gives exposures of up to one one thousandth second and a completely redesigned aluminum body. Prices vary depending on lens equipment.

A small item but one that can provide vital protection for color slides is a recently marketed plastic solution called miracote. A slide dipped into a jar of this acquires a hard coating that is resistant to moisture and finger-smudge on both film and mount. A jar costing $1.98 coats 250 slides.

DEBT COLLECTING

'Skip Tracing' Held Not Legal

By MARGUERITE DAVIS
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The promise of a temporary job as a movie extra, or that almost-official looking document from Washington, may be bait to catch an unwary debtor, Rep. Robert W. Kastenmeier (D - Wis.) warned Saturday.

Kastenmeier said some of his correspondents complain of being tracked down by their creditors through false or misleading promises.

The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) said that method of "skip tracing" has increased in recent years despite FTC regulations, upheld by the courts, against the practice.

The FTC forbids unfair or deceptive practices in interstate commerce, including those designed to trap a swindling debtor. The agency also believes that some debtors may have just reason for not paying their obligations promptly, Sherman R. Hill, chief of the FTC's Enforcement Division, said.

The creditor turns over the debtor's last known address to a collection agent whose job it is to write a letter so interesting that, when forwarded, it will persuade the victim to disclose his current address and other pertinent details, Hill said.

The collection agent baits the hook with an offer of money, either through attractive work or "refunds," or the promise of a gift. Two methods apparently have been especially productive, Kastenmeier said.

In one, the collection agency purports to be a casting firm, securing local talent for a "major motion picture company." The victim is told he has been chosen to work as an extra, and is sent a thorough questionnaire to be filled out and returned.

Through it the gullible debtor provides his address, telephone number, friends or relatives through whom he may be reached his employer's name, and full details about his automobile. This information then is sold to his creditor who had lost track of the debtor.

In the second method, the collection agency adopts a name which sounds like a federal agency, rents office space in Washington, and claims to have money for the debtor if he will submit detailed "identification."

"View with suspicion any such exotic mail," Kastenmeier said. "if you have any doubts, see your lawyer or write to me."

Unemployed But Wealthy Just Briefly

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — On paper, Laverne D. Morris was one of the wealthiest unemployed men in Pontiac Friday. But his prosperity did not last.

Morris, a laid off auto worker went to the Michigan Employment Security Commission (MESC) office to draw his $36 semiweekly benefits.

Then, he went to Pontiac motors division, his employer, to get his supplemental unemployment benefits—those which the auto companies, by agreement with the United Auto Workers, pay their unemployed workers in addition to what the state gives them.

Morris dug out his $86 check and was amazed that it was for $9,992.59. He hurried back to the MESC office where officials found that a clerk, erred by punching 9992-59, the number of the Pontiac account with MESC.

A new check was issued quickly for Morris.

Officials said the mistake was due to a human error and no further action was planned.

Payrolls Of Senators To Be Told

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senators' payrolls, long cloaked in secrecy, will be made public Monday.

The name, job title, and salary of each employe of each senator will be published under the terms of a resolution adopted by the Senate last summer.

The resolution requires the Senate secretary to compile the information and to make it available to the public every three months, the first such report, due Monday, covers the period from July 1 through Sept. 30 of this year.

The payrolls of House members are open to public inspection, and news stories earlier this year about House members with relatives on their paryolls led to demands that similar information be made public about senators.

A petition submitted to the Senate last June by the American Society of Newspaper Editors said taxpayers are entitled to know how public funds are disbursed.

The argument most frequently used by senators opposing disclosure is that it may create dissatisfaction within an office if employes learn what their colleagues are making.

The salaries of senators' employes were included in the annual financial report of the secretary of the Senate until 1948. At that time it was decided the information was not required, and it was dropped. This coincided with an upward trend in the pay scale.

Since 1948, the secretary's annual report has listed the names of each senator's employes and the total payroll, but it has not shown how much each employe was paid.

The new reports will show the names and the pay of employes of the Senate itself and of Senate committees and subcommittees as well as of individual senators.

While senators' payrolls have not been made public by the Senate since 1948, each senator was free to disclose the information if he wished. Several have done so during the past year, particularly since adoption of the resolution providing for quarterly reports.

Senators are allowed different amounts for their office staffs, depending on the population of their states. At the bottom of the scale are states with a population of under three million; at the top are states—New York is the only one—with a population of 17 million or more.

AWAY FROM DOCTRINE

Gaitskell Asks Labor To Tiptoe

BLACKPOOL, England (AP) — Hugh Gaitskell asked the British Labor party Saturday to tiptoe away from its traditional Socialist doctrine involving state ownership of means of production.

The 53-year-old party leader called for revision of the party constitution written more than 40 years ago.

"We don't aim to nationalize every private firm or to create an endless series of state monopolies," he said.

Speaking for 70 minutes at a special party conference called to assess reasons for three straight election defeats, Gaitskell recalled: "It's no use waving the banners of a bygone age."

Gaitskell said the party executive would spend the next few months working out "fundamental principles of British democratic socialism as we see them and as we feel them today—in 1959, not in 1918." He said he hoped these proposals would be forward-looking and still seem relevant in 1970.

He did not toss state ownership of industry completely overboard.

"I cannot agree that we have reached the frontier of public ownership as a whole," he said.

Gaitskell, a moderate, has been trying for years to move the Labor party away from nationalization which he called an ideological prison. But his speech Saturday was the farthest he ever has pushed his viewpoint.

There were shouts of protest from among the 3,000 delegates and alternates when he said nationalization—long the great totem of the party—should not be regarded as "the be-all and end-all of the movement."

On the whole, Gaitskell seemed to get away with it. He apparently gave the party a new orientation without endangering his own position as leader. As such, he is the man who will become prime minister if Labor wins another election.

Aneurin Bevan, onetime rebel leader but now Gaitskell's lieutenant, will wind up the conference debate Sunday afternoon. If he refrains from attacking Gaitskell's thesis, the Labor party will have turned a corner. If not, warfare between left and right-wingers undoubtedly will break out again.

Gaitskell analyzed in detail the reasons for Labor's defeat at the hands of Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's Conservatives in the Oct. 8 election.

"There seems no doubt," he said, "that the nationalization issue cost Labor votes. Present nationalized industries, such as the railways and coal mines, were not popular with the public."

Gaitskell suggested Socialist aims could be achieved by expanding the cooperative movement, using state money to buy stocks in private enterprises, an by setting up state owned businesses to compete with existing private companies.

"The public monopolies are better than the private ones—but all monopolies have their drawbacks," he said.

Mrs. Barbara Castle, the party chairman, opened the conference with an impassioned plea in support of traditional Socialist doctrines.

Economy Drive Stalls Progress Of Big Bomber

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration's economy drive will force a one-year delay in the first flight of the Air Force's new 2,000-mile-an-hour B-70 hydrogen bomber, it was learned Saturday.

Air Force sources said revised plans call for the swift 350,000-pound bombers to take to the air in 1963 instead of 1962. These sources said the delay was part of a drive to keep Air Force spending at about its present level of $18,600,000,000 a year.

The Air Force hopes eventually to build about 200 of the supersonic B-70 jet bombers. They would be used to replace about half of the nation's current force of 500 B-52 bombers, which are the backbone of this country's nuclear retaliatory power.

While ballistic missiles are expected to become increasingly important in future years, top defense officials have made clear that the manned bombers will play a vital role until this country has literally hundreds of rockets on the firing line.

There also is one school of thought which contends the ballistic missile never can completely replace bombers because of the latter's greater flexibility. These experts point out that a bomber can shift from one target to another in flight while a missile cannot.

The Air Force originally had hoped to step up spending on the B-70 to about 160-million dollars in fiscal 1961, which starts next July 1. Instead, the economy drive will force it to hold the request to about 75-million dollars.

Try To Set Walk Record

FT. DEVENS, Mass. (UPI) — Two soldiers trying to set a new world record for a 110-mile walk gave up today because of fatigue.

Lt. Wayne B. Nicoll, 27, of Bow Mills, N.H., and Sgt. Harry Goldsmith, 30, of Bridgeport, Ohio, climbed into an ambulance near Milford, N.H., after covering 72 miles in 23 hours.

They had hoped to walk into the main gate at Ft. Devens in less than 30 hours to beat a record set by Mike Desmond, 20, of the Royal Air Force in England last week. He hoofed 110 miles from Norwich to London in 30 hours.

"We had pulled muscles, sore feet and the exertion of walking into a heavy wind," Nicoll said. "I'll try again later."

Wedding Friday Unites Miss Parker, Mr. Kibble

Stone Avenue Methodist Church was the setting for the wedding Friday evening of Miss Betty Clyde Parker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Parker of Monroe, and Arthur Kibble, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude A. Kibble of Milwaukie, Oregon.

The Reverend Issac A. Patton performed the double ring ceremony in the presence of relatives and friends. The church was decorated with stands of yellow mums and candelabra with yellow candles entwined with southern smilax and fern trees.

Preceding the ceremony a program of music was presented by Ronnie Brothers. Mrs. Betty Foreman, soloist, sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer." The traditional weddding marches were used for the processional and recessional.

Mr. Kibble chose J. P. North of West Monroe for his best man. Groomsmen were Larry Parker, brother of the bride, Ray Golman, Eddie Hales, and Van Anderson.

Preceding the bride to the altar were Mrs. Frances Anderson, matron of honor; Miss Harley Petty, Miss Betty Thomas, Miss Ann Hobgood, and Miss Margie Black, bridesmaids. Their gowns were identical models of after hours peau de soie in the new cappucine color. Their hats were made of the same material in the shape of autumn leaves. They wore shoes to match and carried crescent bouquets of bronze mums in a crescent shape.

Flower girls, Lynn and Raina Hales, cousins of the bride, were miniature replicas of the bridesmaids. Ringbearer was Corbitt McMullen.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride was wearing a gown of white imported chantilly lace with sabrina neckline, scalloped and embroidered in seed pearls and fashioned with fitted bodice, long pointed sleeves, and a full bouffant skirt caught at the back with a horseshoe of hand made roses and a chapel train. A three-tiered veil of imported illusion, hand scalloped in seed pearls, fell in soft folds from a crown of pearls and sequins. She carried a handmade lace handkerchief belonging to an old friend. Her bouquet was a white orchid surrounded by yellow roses.

Mrs. Parker, mother of the bride, chose an original model of blue silk. Her accessories were black and white with a corsage of yellow roses. Mrs. Kibble, mother of the bridegroom, also wore blue with beige accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

RECEPTION

Following the ceremony a reception was given by the bride's parents in Fellowship Hall of the church. Arrangements of bridal flowers and greenery carried out the bridal theme.

Greeting the guests at the entrance to the hall was Mrs. Pauline Petty, presiding at the guest book, who presented them to the receiving line.

The bride's table, overlaid with white lace, was centered with a silver candelabra holding yellow tapers and encircled by garlands of ferns and bridal flowers. The bride's cake, adorned with yellow bride's roses, was topped by a miniature bridal couple.

Mrs. Eddie Hales and Mrs. Fred Holts, aunts of the bride, served punch and Mrs. Mildred Crabtree cut the wedding cake. Others assisting in the receiving and serving during the evening were Mrs. Dorothy Standard, Mrs. Nell Thomas, and Mrs. Morris Hearne.

For her wedding trip to Florida the bride donned an original light blue wool suit with black fur collar, black accessories and the white orchid from her bridal bouquet.

Out of town guests were: Mrs. Claude Kibble, Milwaukie, Oregon; Mr. and Mrs. Aden Parker and Mr. and Mrs. Tony Parker and Janice of Laurel, Mississippi; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Black, Jerry, Margie and Rudolph of Ellisville, Mississippi; Mrs. Luther Parker of Taylorsville, Mississippi; Mrs. Robert O'Rourke of New Orleans; Mr. and Mrs. J. Speaks To Lakeshore PTA

The Lakeshore Parent-Teacher Association had Mayor Jack Howard as their gust speaker at the November meeting. He was introduced to the group by Tommy Mulhearn.

Mayor Howard spoke on the subject of discipline and juvenile delinquency. He pointed out that juvenile delinquency might well be referred to as rebellion on the part of the teen-ager against parental authority. We find boys rebelling against fathers who will not allow them the use of the family car; others that forbid visitation to certain places; in fact we find open rebellion against parents period . . . According to the thinking of the speaker the home is basically to blame for the delinquency of our youth. He stated that we are not giving our children the proper training in the home today; that too much is left to the school and the church.

Miss Joanne Genung Weds Gerald Bernard Busby

The First Presbyterian church was the scene of the wedding of Miss Joanne Arlene Genung and Gerald Bernard Busby on Friday evening. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Arthur Genung, and the groom is the son of Mrs. Ernest Earl Busby of Dallas, Texas, and the late Mr. Busby.

Dr. W. H. McFadden performed the double ring ceremony in a setting of white candles, white gladioli, chrysanthemums, and sprengerii fern. A pre-nuptial concert was given by Mrs. Eloise Stanhope at the organ. Mrs. Stanhope accompanied Garland Shell, who sang "Ice Leibe Dich" and, at the conclusion of the service, "Blest Be the Tie That Binds."

The bride given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of imported Bouquet of Peau and hand clipped Alencon lace fashioned in modified princess lines, straight in front, full at the sides, and flowing to the back in a chapel sweep. The portrait neckline was trimmed with appliques of lace. Her headpiece of Alencon lace and peau de soie, accented with pearls and sequins, was topped with a full fingertip veil of illusion. She wore an heirloom pearl necklace and carried a Bible with Phalaenopsis orchids and stephanotis.

Mrs. Randall August Frank of New Orleans served as matron of honor. Mrs. Richmond Ellison of Kenner, Mrs. Jerald Holden Womack and Miss Carol Joy Genung sister of the bride were bridesmaids. Their identical full skirted, waltz length dresses were of Mayflower pink organza and velveteen, with headpieces of matching velveteen leaves accented with seed pearls and silk tulle. They wore matching tulle mitts and carried bouquets of toast Fuji mums, wheat, and croton leaves.

Ernest Earl Busby, Jr., of Dayton, Ohio, served his brother as best man. Ushers were Billy Underhill and Jack Jenkins of Dallas, and Oland Silk, Paul Stewart, Edd Routt, Calvin McFadden, and Hershel Alvis Gentry.

RECEPTION

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlor, which was decorated for the occasion with white gladioli, chrysanthemums, and sprengerii fern. In the receiving line with the young couple were Mrs. Genung, mother of the bride, and Mrs. Busby, the groom's mother. Mrs. Genung's dress was of blue lace, worn with matching accessories, while Mrs. Busby chose rose lace. They wore white hybrid orchid corsages.

A silver epergne held white Fuji mums on the punch table. Mrs. Charles Morgan, Mrs. August Kemmig, Miss May Marston, Mrs. Carl Mittell, Mrs. Bobby Pappas, and Mrs. Marcus Mapp alternated at the punch bowl.

On the cake table were antique silver candlesticks used with white tapers, hybrid orchids and fern. Mrs. J. W. Womack and Mrs. John Scogin, Jr., served the bride's cake. Mrs. Garland Shell presided at the bride's book, and Miss Dorothy Dawson at the rice bowl. Mrs. Henry Freeman provided background organ music.

As the young couple left on their wedding trip, the bride was wearing a beige wool sheath dress with matching embroidered wool jacket and olive green accessories. Her corsage was a white orchid. On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Busby will be at home at 104 Willow street.

The bride attended Eleanor McMain High Scool and Tulane University in New Orleans. The groom is a graduate of Southern Methodist University in Dallas, Texas. He is a member of Delta Sigma Phi fraternity.

Air-Surviving Fungi Can Damage Lenses

By ALBERT W. MCCOLLOOGH
United Press International

The importance of keeping lenses clean and dry is pointed up by the discovery in Japan of a fungus that can live long enough on air alone to do serious damage to any glass surface upon which it may settle.

This microscopic enemy of photographers is the tonophilus variety of the aspergillus glaucus fungus. It was discovered by Dr. T. Ohtsuki of Tokyo, a researcher at Ochanomizu University.

Most fungi die quickly if they have no food. But Ohtsuki reports that tonophilus can live for some time on even a perfectly clean lens surface, provided the relative humidity is 60 to 90 per cent. During growth the fungus exudes tiny moisture droplets that contain corrosive acids. Left on a lens these could do permanent damage and produce a lens that would give hazy pictures.

To guard against such damage, lenses and all photo equipment should be kept in a dry place, along with a chemical moisture absorbent in a closed container if necessary. Lenses should be cleaned gently with lens tissue and when not in use should be capped.

If the fungus becomes a problem despite these measures, its growth can be kept down with application of chemical fumes that provide protection to lens surfaces for 10 years, according to a report in PMI—Photo Methods for Industry, monthly industrial photographic magazine.

Looking for a program for your photo club or other group? Movies of rockets and missiles can be borrowed free from the White Sands Missile Range. For information about these 16MM films, write to the Commanding Officer, U.S. Army Signal Corps Support Agency, White Sands Missile Range, New Mexico, Attention Sigws-Pi.

Graflex, Inc., makers of that veteran workhorse among professional news photographers, the Speed Graphic, has come out with a new model, the Super Speed Graphic 4 x 5. At the same time, it is offering two new 35MM cameras.

Major differences between the new super speed graphic and previous models include a high-speed between-the-lens shutter that gives exposures of up to one one thousandth second and a completely redesigned aluminum body. Prices vary depending on lens equipment.

A small item but one that can provide vital protection for color slides is a recently marketed plastic solution called miracote. A slide dipped into a jar of this acquires a hard coating that is resistant to moisture and finger-smudge on both film and mount. A jar costing $1.98 coats 250 slides.

DEBT COLLECTING

'Skip Tracing' Held Not Legal

By MARGUERITE DAVIS
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The promise of a temporary job as a movie extra, or that almost-official looking document from Washington, may be bait to catch an unwary debtor, Rep. Robert W. Kastenmeier (D - Wis.) warned Saturday.

Kastenmeier said some of his correspondents complain of being tracked down by their creditors through false or misleading promises.

The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) said that method of "skip tracing" has increased in recent years despite FTC regulations, upheld by the courts, against the practice.

The FTC forbids unfair or deceptive practices in interstate commerce, including those designed to trap a swindling debtor. The agency also believes that some debtors may have just reason for not paying their obligations promptly, Sherman R. Hill, chief of the FTC's Enforcement Division, said.

The creditor turns over the debtor's last known address to a collection agent whose job it is to write a letter so interesting that, when forwarded, it will persuade the victim to disclose his current address and other pertinent details, Hill said.

The collection agent baits the hook with an offer of money, either through attractive work or "refunds," or the promise of a gift. Two methods apparently have been especially productive, Kastenmeier said.

In one, the collection agency purports to be a casting firm, securing local talent for a "major motion picture company." The victim is told he has been chosen to work as an extra, and is sent a thorough questionnaire to be filled out and returned.

Through it the gullible debtor provides his address, telephone number, friends or relatives through whom he may be reached his employer's name, and full details about his automobile. This information then is sold to his creditor who had lost track of the debtor.

In the second method, the collection agency adopts a name which sounds like a federal agency, rents office space in Washington, and claims to have money for the debtor if he will submit detailed "identification."

"View with suspicion any such exotic mail," Kastenmeier said. "if you have any doubts, see your lawyer or write to me."

Unemployed But Wealthy Just Briefly

Morris, a laid off auto worker went to the Michigan Employment Security Commission (MESC) office to draw his $86 semiweekly benefits.

Then, he went to Pontiac motors division, his employer, to get his supplemental unemployment benefits—those which the auto companies, by agreement with the United Auto Workers, pay their unemployed workers in addition to what the state gives them.

Morris dug out his $86 check and was amazed that it was for $9,992.59. He hurried back to the MESC office where officials found that a clerk, erred by punching 9992-59, the number of the Pontiac account with MESC.

A new check was issued quickly for Morris.

Officials said the mistake was due to a human error and no further action was planned.

Payrolls Of Senators To Be Told

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senators' payrolls, long cloaked in secrecy, will be made public Monday.

The name, job title, and salary of each employe of each senator will be published under the terms of a resolution adopted by the Senate last summer.

The resolution requires the Senate secretary to compile the information and to make it available to the public every three months, the first such report, due Monday, covers the period from July 1 through Sept. 30 of this year.

The payrolls of House members are open to public inspection, and news stories earlier this year about House members with relatives on their paryolls led to demands that similar information be made public about senators.

A petition submitted to the Senate last June by the American Society of Newspaper Editors said taxpayers are entitled to know how public funds are disbursed.

The argument most frequently used by senators opposing disclosure is that it may create dissatisfaction within an office if employes learn what their colleagues are making.

The salaries of senators' employes were included in the annual financial report of the secretary of the Senate until 1948. At that time it was decided the information was not required, and it was dropped. This coincided with an upward trend in the pay scale.

Since 1948, the secretary's annual report has listed the names of each senator's employes and the total payroll, but it has not shown how much each employe was paid.

The new reports will show the names and the pay of employes of the Senate itself and of Senate committees and subcommittees as well as of individual senators.

While senators' payrolls have not been made public by the Senate since 1948, each senator was free to disclose the information if he wished. Several have done so during the past year, particularly since adoption of the resolution providing for quarterly reports.

Senators are allowed different amounts for their office staffs, depending on the population of their states. At the bottom of the scale are states with a population of under three million; at the top are states—New York is the only one—with a population of 17 million or more.

MICKEY COHEN TELLS-OFF POLICE COMMISSION — Former gambler Mickey Cohen, testifying before the Police Commission as it considered the entertainment license application made for a restaurant, shouts to the commission that "the decision will be a phony." AWAY FROM DOCTRINE

Gaitskell Asks Labor To Tiptoe

BLACKPOOL, England (AP) — Hugh Gaitskell asked the British Labor party Saturday to tiptoe away from its traditional Socialist doctrine involving state ownership of means of production.

The 53-year-old party leader called for revision of the party constitution written more than 40 years ago.

"We don't aim to nationalize every private firm or to create an endless series of state monopolies," he said.

Speaking for 70 minutes at a special party conference called to assess reasons for three straight election defeats, Gaitskell recalled: "It's no use waving the banners of a bygone age."

Gaitskell said the party executive would spend the next few months working out "fundamental principles of British democratic socialism as we see them and as we feel them today—in 1959, not in 1918." He said he hoped these proposals would be forward-looking and still seem relevant in 1970.

He did not toss state ownership of industry completely overboard.

"I cannot agree that we have reached the frontier of public ownership as a whole," he said.

Gaitskell, a moderate, has been trying for years to move the Labor party away from nationalization which he called an ideological prison. But his speech Saturday was the farthest he ever has pushed his viewpoint.

There were shouts of protest from among the 3,000 delegates and alternates when he said nationalization—long the great totem of the party—should not be regarded as "the be-all and end-all of the movement."

On the whole, Gaitskell seemed to get away with it. He apparently gave the party a new orientation without endangering his own position as leader. As such, he is the man who will become prime minister if Labor wins another election.

Aneurin Bevan, onetime rebel leader but now Gaitskell's lieutenant, will wind up the conference debate Sunday afternoon. If he refrains from attacking Gaitskell's thesis, the Labor party will have turned a corner. If not, warfare between left and right-wingers undoubtedly will break out again.

Gaitskell analyzed in detail the reasons for Labor's defeat at the hands of Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's Conservatives in the Oct. 8 election.

"There seems no doubt," he said, "that the nationalization issue cost Labor votes. Present nationalized industries, such as the railways and coal mines, were not popular with the public."

Gaitskell suggested Socialist aims could be achieved by expanding the cooperative movement, using state money to buy stocks in private enterprises, an by setting up state owned businesses to compete with existing private companies.

"The public monopolies are better than the private ones—but all monopolies have their drawbacks," he said.

Mrs. Barbara Castle, the party chairman, opened the conference with an impassioned plea in support of traditional Socialist doctrines.

Economy Drive Stalls Progress Of Big Bomber

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration's economy drive will force a one-year delay in the first flight of the Air Force's new 2,000-mile-an-hour B-70 hydrogen bomber, it was learned Saturday.

Air Force sources said revised plans call for the swift 350,000-pound bombers to take to the air in 1963 instead of 1962. These sources said the delay was part of a drive to keep Air Force spending at about its present level of $18,600,000,000 a year.

The Air Force hopes eventually to build about 200 of the supersonic B-70 jet bombers. They would be used to replace about half of the nation's current force of 500 B-52 bombers, which are the backbone of this country's nuclear retaliatory power.

While ballistic missiles are expected to become increasingly important in future years, top defense officials have made clear that the manned bombers will play a vital role until this country has literally hundreds of rockets on the firing line.

There also is one school of thought which contends the ballistic missile never can completely replace bombers because of the latter's greater flexibility. These experts point out that a bomber can shift from one target to another in flight while a missile cannot.

The Air Force originally had hoped to step up spending on the B-70 to about 160-million dollars in fiscal 1961, which starts next July 1. Instead, the economy drive will force it to hold the request to about 75-million dollars.

Try To Set Walk Record

FT. DEVENS, Mass. (UPI) — Two soldiers trying to set a new world record for a 110-mile walk gave up today because of fatigue.

Lt. Wayne B. Nicoll, 27, of Bow Mills, N.H., and Sgt. Harry Goldsmith, 30, of Bridgeport, Ohio, climbed into an ambulance near Milford, N.H., after covering 72 miles in 23 hours.

They had hoped to walk into the main gate at Ft. Devens in less than 30 hours to beat a record set by Mike Desmond, 20, of the Royal Air Force in England last week. He hoofed 110 miles from Norwich to London in 30 hours.

"We had pulled muscles, sore feet and the exertion of walking into a heavy wind," Nicoll said. "I'll try again later."

MR. AND MRS. LAWRENCE L. McCORMACK

McCormack-Roney Rites Solemnized November 17

Miss Bonnie Ruth Roney and Lawrence Leo McCormack were married in a morning ceremony November 17 at Our Lady of Fatima Catholic Church. The Rev. George W. Martinez officiated. Mr. and Mrs. Louis Toney of Sterlington are the parents of the bride, while the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Maurice L. McCormack.

Baskets of white gladioli decorated the altar. Mrs. Sam Lassuzo, Jr., presented a concert of organ music as the guests were being seated by the usher, Jerome M. Braud. The traditional wedding marches were played.

The bride wore a gown of Chantilly lace and nylon organza, styled with a Peter Pan collar and bracelet length sleeves. The bouffant skirt was fashioned of alternating tiers of lace and organza. Her coronet of seed pearls and sequins held a finger tip veil of nylon illusion. She wore the traditional something old, something new, something borrowed, something blue, and a penny in her shoe. A gold cross, gift of the groom, was her only ornament. She carried white carnations mounted on a lace covered Bible, with cascades of net bows and satin ribbon streamers.

Miss Linda Toney, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a full - skirted ice blue taffeta dress with a low round neckline accented with a wide collar and a corsage of white carnations. Thomas M. McCormack served his brother as best man.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Toney was wearing a dress of pearl gray antique satin brocade. Her hat was a curve of pink feathers, and her corsage, pink carnations. Mrs. McCormack, mother of the groom, chose a blue nylon lace over taffeta and a hat of blue feathers and sequins. Her corsage was also of pink carnations. Mrs. Lawrence Crowley, maternal grandmother of the groom who flew from Chicago for the wedding, wore a black and white dress with a white hat and gloves and a pink carnation corsage.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony. White chrysanthemums were the flowers on the table which held the bride's guest book. Miss Janet McCormack was in charge of the book.

The bride's table was overlaid with a lace tablecloth and centered with the tiered cake, topped with a miniature bride and groom. Flanking the cake were tall white tapers in crystal candelabra. Miss Jolene Buttita presided at the crystal punch bowl, and Mrs. Charles Coody, sister of the bride, poured coffee. Mrs. J. I. Braud served the cake.

Out - of - town guests present for the wedding included Virgil Toney, Billy Toney, Ronald Toney, and Donald Toney of Sterlington.

Set Up Rainy Day 'Dry-Off' Area For Kids

Be prepared for the coming rainy season by setting aside a special area in the house where the children can remove their damp outdoor clothing. It will save a surprising amount of stain removal chores on floors, carpeting and furnishings.

Most practical place could be just inside the back door. Install hooks so the youngsters can hang their raincoats and caps. Place a rubber mat on the floor for galoshes and boots.

Organist was Miss Katheryn Patton of Newellton, who accompanied Miss Lou Ellen Overhultz of Bastrop as she sang "Because," "Through the Years," and "The Lord's Prayer."

Randy and Tommy McDonald, nephews of the bride, laid the aisle cloth preceding the entry of the bridal party.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of antique ivory satin frosted with appliques of peau d'ange lace. The closely fitted bodice was made with scalloped neckline and long sleeves. Folds of the skirt was caught up with satin cabbage roses to form a bustle above the full chapel train. A crown of tiny pearls held the veil of silk illusion. A white orchid centered her bouquet of lilies of the valley and stephanotis.

Miss Helen Hester Burnside of Newellton was maid of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Clifford Wilkerson, Miss Betty Clyde Ratcliff, Miss Martha Netterville and Miss Margaret Moore of Newellton, and Miss Diane Thames of Baton Rouge. They wore identical floor length dresses of ice blue taffeta with fitted bodices and very wide skirts accented with side poufs of the material. They carried bouquets of American Beauty roses.

Answer Yes To 7 Questions For Happy Marriage

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

"And so the brave prince slew the dragon, rescued the beautiful princess, carried her away to his castle and they were married and lived happily ever after."

American poung people have been reading too many fairy tales, says David Mace, founder of marriage counseling services in Britain, now a visiting professor of family study at the University of Pennsylvania. The concentration of movies, television and current romantic fiction is that the altar is the goal of every girl and boy, and is the gateway to lifelong bliss.

Sometimes the bride and groom do not live happily ever after, says Dr. Mace, writing in a new pamphlet, "What Makes a Marriage Happy?" published by the Public Affairs Committee. And the main reason is that neither partner tries hard enough.

"Many people are unhappy in marriage because they expected to get too much for too little effort," he writes.

Often the honeymoon is over when Mary first sees John touseled, unshaven and grouchy, before his first cup of coffee in the morning. Or when John sees Mary at bedtime with greasy cream on her face and her hair up in curlers. Or when John forgets to kiss Mary good-by in the morning. Or when Mary telephones John in the middle of a business conference to ask if he loves her.

Life isn't a fairy story, points out the professor. And two young people starting out to make a new life together represent only the raw materials out of which a happy marriage can be achieved.

So what does it take to make a happy marriage? Well, says the professor, if you can answer yes to the following questions you can consider yourself happily married:

1. Are you good companions?
2. Do you settle your arguments by mutual adjustment?
3. Would you choose each other again?
4. Do you approve of marriage generally as a satisfactory way of life?
5. Do you consider your marriage happier than most?
6. Are you willing to give and take?
7. Do you think of yourselves as "we" instead of "you" and "I"?

If you can pass this test says Dr. Mace, you really do have a pretty good chance of living happily ever after.

PICTURED IS MISS JO ANN JAY, whose engagement to Vernon Edgar Howard is announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ted R. Jay of Abilene, Texas. Mr. Howard is the son of Mr. and Mrs. V. E. Howard of Greenville, Texas, and the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Hardy Howard of Farmerville. He is a nephew of Mayor Jack Howard of Monroe. Miss Jay is a senior at Abilene Christian college from which Mr. Howard was graduated in 1959. The groom-elect was vice-president of his senior class and president of the summer school student body in 1958. He is listed in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities."

Miss Joanne Genung Weds Gerald Bernard Busby

The First Presbyterian church was the scene of the wedding of Miss Joanne Arlene Genung and Gerald Bernard Busby on Friday evening. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Arthur Genung, and the groom is the son of Mrs. Ernest Earl Busby of Dallas, Texas, and the late Mr. Busby.

Dr. W. H. McFadden performed the double ring ceremony in a setting of white candles, white gladioli, chrysanthemums, and sprengerii fern. A pre-nuptial concert was given by Mrs. Eloise Stanhope at the organ. Mrs. Stanhope accompanied Garland Shell, who sang "Ice Leibe Dich" and, at the conclusion of the service, "Blest Be the Tie That Binds."

The bride given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of imported Bouquet of Peau and hand clipped Alencon lace fashioned in modified princess lines, straight in front, full at the sides, and flowing to the back in a chapel sweep. The portrait neckline was trimmed with appliques of lace. Her headpiece of Alencon lace and peau de soie, accented with pearls and sequins, was topped with a full fingertip veil of illusion. She wore an heirloom pearl necklace and carried a Bible with Phalaenopsis orchids and stephanotis.

Mrs. Randall August Frank of New Orleans served as matron of honor. Mrs. Richmond Ellison of Kenner, Mrs. Jerald Holden Womack and Miss Carol Joy Genung sister of the bride were bridesmaids. Their identical full skirted, waltz length dresses were of Mayflower pink organza and velveteen, with headpieces of matching velveteen leaves accented with seed pearls and silk tulle. They wore matching tulle mitts and carried bouquets of toast Fuji mums, wheat, and croton leaves.

Ernest Earl Busby, Jr., of Dayton, Ohio, served his brother as best man. Ushers were Billy Underhill and Jack Jenkins of Dallas, and Oland Silk, Paul Stewart, Edd Routt, Calvin McFadden, and Hershel Alvis Gentry.

RECEPTION

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlor, which was decorated for the occasion with white gladioli, chrysanthemums, and sprengerii fern. In the receiving line with the young couple were Mrs. Genung, mother of the bride, and Mrs. Busby, the groom's mother. Mrs. Genung's dress was of blue lace, worn with matching accessories, while Mrs. Busby chose rose lace. They wore white hybrid orchid corsages.

A silver epergne held white Fuji mums on the punch table. Mrs. Charles Morgan, Mrs. August Kemmig, Miss May Marston, Mrs. Carl Mittell, Mrs. Bobby Pappas, and Mrs. Marcus Mapp alternated at the punch bowl.

On the cake table were antique silver candlesticks used with white tapers, hybrid orchids and fern. Mrs. J. W. Womack and Mrs. John Scogin, Jr., served the bride's cake. Mrs. Garland Shell presided at the bride's book, and Miss Dorothy Dawson at the rice bowl. Mrs. Henry Freeman provided background organ music.

As the young couple left on their wedding trip, the bride was wearing a beige wool sheath dress with matching embroidered wool jacket and olive green accessories. Her corsage was a white orchid. On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Busby will be at home at 104 Willow street.

The bride attended Eleanor McMain High Scool and Tulane University in New Orleans. The groom is a graduate of Southern Methodist University in Dallas, Texas. He is a member of Delta Sigma Phi fraternity.

Mr. And Mrs. Rorex Host Party At Lotus Club

The Lotus club was the scene of the pre-holiday party hosted by Mr. and Mrs. George Rorex on Friday evening. Over a hundred friends called between the hours of seven and nine.

The hosts stood at the door of the main lounge to welcome their guests. Mrs. Rorex was wearing a red velvet after-five dress styled with a halter neckline and flared skirt. Rhinestones studded the bodice and encircled her throat.

A seasonal motif was carried out in the docorations. Bronze chrysanthemums were used with fall foliage on the buffet table, which was placed against one wall of the lounge. On the piano were miniature turkey figurines fashioned from pine cones. These surrounded the oversize pumpkin filled with pyracantha. Pyracantha berries were also used in the library.

MR. AND MRS. GEORGE ROREX make a last minute check of the buffet table before the arrival of their guests at the Lotus Club last Friday evening.

Green and red paper cups make perfect Christmas bells. To hang, insert a pipe cleaner through the bottom, twist it for a hook. Let the other end hang down below the mouth of the cup and attach a gum drop for a clapper.

Cups cut in half make good bells to top off a gift package.

Ceramics Topic At Meeting Of Ivy Guild

The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. Dozier. Mrs. H. D. Massingill read the minutes of the previous meeting then called the roll.

At the close of the business session, Mrs. Dozier turned the meeting over to Mrs. Herny Taylor, program chairman. Mrs. Taylor introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Tina Moses, who spoke on "Ceramics at Christmas." Mrs. Moses brought from her shop a collection of greenwear, bisque, and finished ceramics. With these she showed the members the step by step process of making ceramics. Mrs. Moses used the completed pieces to show the members how and where they could be used at Christmas time.

A dessert course was served to the following members: Mrs. J. A. Accardo, Mrs. C. F. Albright, Mrs. R. N. Chadderdon, Mrs. W. A. Cornett, Mrs. Dozier, Mrs. T. L. Jones, Mrs. J. J. Ladart, Mrs. J. C. Family Dog Only One Not Entering Fray

LONDON (UPI) —Two men bent on burglary sneaked into the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Green early Friday. They probably wished they hadn't.

Former fighter pilot Green told the story:

"My wife and I woke up and found two men in the bedroom.

"I was stark naked," said Green. "Pretty embarrassing."

"I broke the elastic on my pajamas and they fell down," said Marlene. "But I got a scarf, tied it around me and kept hitting him."

The burglar finally escaped. But all were doing their part in the Green household—all except Cindy, the family's Alsatian dog. The pet stood placidly by during the entire ruckus.

ransacking our dressing table drawers. We jumped out of bed.

"I tackled one man and my wife, Josephine, tackled the other. He dragged her down the corridor and escaped, leaving his shoes. I held onto the other man and we were fighting when my daughter, Marlene (18), joined in.

"She coshed him with a tennis racket so hard it broke."

Reinforcements came — the other Green children, Leonard, 10, and Madeleine, 13. Leonard whacked the man with a shoe tree, hard and often.

Strong-Valentine Vows Heard In Oak Ridge

On Thaksgiving day at five o'clock in the afternoon, Miss Alice Eugenia Valentine became the bride of Charles Payne Strong in a double ring ceremony at the Oak Ridge Methodist church. The Rev. Walter L. Baker officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Homer Valentine of West Monroe, and the groom's parents, also of West Monroe, are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Joseph Strong.

The church was decorated with standing bouquets of large white chrysanthemums and pompon mums accented with tall wedding tapers. An open Bible was placed on the altar.

Miss Diana Smith, organist, performed a pre-nuptial concert, and accompanied Miss Mary Sterling Rolfe, who sang "O Perfect Love" and "The Wedding Prayer."

Attending the bride were Miss Kay Conger of Oak Ridge, maid of honor, and Miss Joan Phares and Miss Roberta Jackson of Many and Miss Beverly Palmer of Shreveport, bridesmaids. They wore floorlength gowns of coquette blue silk taffeta with sweetheart neckline and brief sleeves. The bouffant panniered skirts were caught up on the sides with tiny velvet bows of a deeper shade of blue. On their hair they wore matching velvet and taffeta leaves.

The bride entered on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage. Her gown of silk peau de soie was fashioned with a sweetheart neckline outlined in imported lace and long sleeves coming to a point over the hands. The deep unpressed pleats of the full skirt created a belled effect over a chapel train. She wore a Juliet cap of imported re-embroidered silk lace and carried a bouquet of bridal roses.

Henry Camp served as best man. Ushers were Jack White, Stephen Hamm, and Don Thrash.

RECEPTION

The bride's table was covered with a cloth of lace over white satin. The centerpiece was of white carnations, Pinnochio roses, beauty berries, white grapes and flocked fern arranged in a footed silver bowl. Miss Lucile Huffman poured punch.

The bride's cake, iced with white roses and topped with a miniature bride and groom, was served by Mrs. C. B. Palmer, aunt of the bride. Others assisted were Mrs. C. N. McDuffie, Miss Queenie McDuffie, Mrs. H. J. Norris, Mrs. George W. Files, Miss Nancy Files, Miss Joy Baugh, Miss Marcia Jay Files, and Miss Sterling Elizabeth Files.

For the wedding trip to Florida, the bride changed to a cosmopolitan suit of Lesur tone on tone wool in blue. She wore a black and blue feathered cloche and an orchid corsage.

Mrs. Strong attended Oak Ridge High School and was graduated from All Saints' Episcopal School in Vicksburg and Centenary College in Shreveport. Her sorority is Chi Omega.

The groom is a graduate of West Monroe High School and attended Centenary College. He is student pastor of Union and Little Creek churches neal Alto. The young couple will make their home on White's Ferry Road in West Monroe, while Mr. Strong continues his studies at Northeast State College.

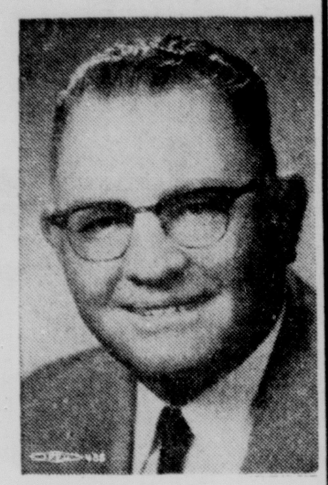
Vote for JOHN F. "RED" McCORMICK for Representative, Ouachita Parish (Vote No. 92)



QUALIFIED: Eight years in Legislature from 1944 to 1952, at which time he did not seek re-election.

A PROVEN RECORD of accomplishments for Ouachita Parish.

2. In 1950 wrote, introduced, and fought for the passage of Acts 527 and 528 converting the junior college in Monroe to a four-year college, known as Northeast Louisiana State College. 3. He took the lead working with our Police Jury in securing state aid for the initiation of the program of constructing 20 miles of blacktop roads per year in Ouachita Parish.
4. Has supported all measures beneficial to our schools and school employees.
5. Co-operated with the City Officials of Monroe, West Monroe, and the Police Jury in working up each year an over-all Parish-wide program of securing State aid for the construction of streets, roads, and bridges.

McCormick is the candidate best qualified to serve Ouachita Parish in the Legislature for the next four years.

'4-D Man' Modern Chilling Movie

Atomic age science has imparted a terrifying new dimension to the horror film.

Movie fans who remember the chilling effects of "Frankenstein" and "The Invisible Man" are in for a scared surprise when they discover that a mere home-made man or one who can make himself disappear are old hat. A fresh monster has invaded the mystery realm of the super-human. You would never know it to look at him because he is just like the man next door. This is what makes it so horrendous when you discover that the only thing different about him is that he can walk through walls, put his hand through windows without breaking them and murder people merely by touching them.

How is this accomplished? Very simply if you have the electronic brair energy, the scientific knowledge of how to use it and the massive will power necessary to apply it. In other words, you must be one of those rare individuals who lives in the fourth dimension. Thus the title of this fascinating new nine reels of the Fairview Production "4D Man," co-starring gorgeous former Miss America, Lee Meriwether, with Robert Lansing and James Congdon, starting Wednesday at the Jim Theater.

It has been inevitable, since John Barrymore, and later Fredric March, gave their impressions of "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" to the public, that one day a movie monster with no visible disfigurement would go further than deforming his own body. "4D Man" explores the almost supernatural effects on a man when he destroys time and matter as well as other human beings and, eventually, himself.

This film is a milestone in horror pictures, according to chiller experts at the releasing studio, Universal - International, where fright films from "The Incredible Shrinking Man" back to "Dracula" have made even hardened camera crew members gasp. The world of cinematic terror has fascinated audiences for more than a quarter century. "The Vampire," "Murders in the Rue Morgue," "The Werewolf of London," "The Mummy," "House of Wax" and "The Creature from the Black Lagoon" are a mere handful of scare shows which have titillated the morbid curiosity of theater-goers through the years.

Mr. And Mrs. Rorex Host Party At Lotus Club

The Lotus club was the scene of the pre-holiday party hosted by Mr. and Mrs. George Rorex on Friday evening. Over a hundred friends called between the hours of seven and nine.

The hosts stood at the door of the main lounge to welcome their guests. Mrs. Rorex was wearing a red velvet after-five dress styled with a halter neckline and flared skirt. Rhinestones studded the bodice and encircled her throat.

A seasonal motif was carried out in the decorations. Bronze chrysanthemums were used with fall foliage on the buffet table, which was placed against one wall of the lounge. On the piano were miniature turkey figurines fashioned from pine cones. These surrounded the oversize pumpkin filled with pyracantha. Pyracantha berries were also used in the library.

Green and red paper cups make perfect Christmas bells. To hang, insert a pipe cleaner through the bottom, twist it for a hook. Let the other end hang down below the mouth of the cup and attach a gum drop for a clapper.

Cups cut in half make good bells to top off a gift package.

And, of course, they are always right for serving punch.

Ceramics Topic At Meeting Of Ivy Guild

The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. Dozier. Mrs. H. D. Massingill read the minutes of the previous meeting then called the roll.

Mrs. Frank Reitzell gave the treasurer's report, and Mrs. Ola Mae Passman gave a horticulture report.

At the close of the business session, Mrs. Dozier turned the meeting over to Mrs. Henry Taylor, program chairman. Mrs. Taylor introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Tina Moses, who spoke on "Ceramics at Christmas." Mrs. Moses brought from her shop a collection of greenwear, bisque, and finished ceramics. With these she showed the members the step by step process of making ceramics. Mrs. Moses used the completed pieces to show the members how and where they could be used at Christmas time.

A dessert course was served to the following members: Mrs. J. A. Accardo, Mrs. C. F. Albright, Mrs. R. N. Chadderdon, Mrs. W. A. Cornett, Mrs. Dozier, Mrs. T. L. Jones, Mrs. J. J. Ladart, Mrs. J. C. Magee, Mrs. Massingill, Mrs. R. A. Morrow, Jr., Mrs. Passman, Mrs. F. C. Patterson, Mrs. H. T. Poulan, Mrs. C. W. Rader, Mrs. Reitzell, Mrs. Solomon, Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. G. L. Thompson, and Mrs. Earl Vigg.

Early Blooms From Quince

By MILDRED SWIFT

If you'll watch your flowering quince, you can see when buds begin to form. If left in the open, these will not open until late January or later. But — if you'll cut the branches that have small buds, you can force these in the house. I did just that last year and had flowering quince blooming in my living room during Christmas week. Seems to me, though, the buds are later forming this year.

GARDEN JOBS

Soon bulb foliage will be coming out of the ground. That is the time to fertilize with a complete food such as 8-8-8.

The cold killed the chrysanthemum blooms for this year so you can cut back the tops now, and they'll make a good root growth for next year.

If you're a new home owner and can't afford many shrubs at this time, resort to vines. Clematis growing up at the corner of the house is lovely. Anybody who grew the white blooming clematis wil' have small plants coming up all around. I know they'll be glad to give you one of these.

Red honeysuckle can be bought from the nursery. It also is a fast spreader. Later in the spring when the weather is warm you can use black-eyed Susan, balloon vine, morning glory, cardinal climber and cypress vine. These can be planted from seed. Their place can be taken over by shrubs later when you can afford it.

In December, you'll plant your tulip bulbs that have been refrigerated for several weeks.

There is still time to plant spring - blooming annual seed-like cornflower, larkspur, candytuft, snapdragon, stock, etc. You can still put out calendula and pansy plants. Keep pansies picked to encourage blooming.

If you have some shade in your garden you'll want a few camellias. Watch them as they bloom and decide on the varieties you'd like best. Call our office, FA 3-2251, for a camellia bulletin. Follow instructions for planting.

Spring - blooming bulbs are on sale in some stores. This is late to plant, but after all, you're not planting for this year alone. Good bulbs will give you late blooms this spring, then you'll have the bulbs for future years.

December, January and February are our best planting months, except at times when the soil is too wet. Old gardeners say if your soil has the proper amount of humus, you can plant the day after a rain. Don't assume that your soil has reached that degree of perfection, though. Most soils are heavy and must dry out some before spading and planting.

JUST TALKING

Young gardeners — when you plant, keep upkeep in mind. Sit down and make a plan. That will save you time and money. You'd be surprised how much the plan will look like the finished landscaped plot. It's so easy to move plants on paper — such a task to move them in the garden. Not only a task, but often you lose them.

A lot of scatter - gun planting means lots of plants to mow around. Beds are easier to keep than individually planted shrubs. You can throw some leaves and straw in the bed and it's pretty well cared for.

However, sometime your plan calls for a row of trees or shrubs. If you connect these with a continuous bed, you'd lose the effect needed. The grass must be kept trimmed from around plants if they are to thrive. These then need a mulch and this area should be at least two feet wide, depending of course, on size of the plant. So you can see a row of individually - planted and mulched plants would bring on constant upkeep. This, however, goes with owning a home. The moral there is — keep your planting to the minimum unless you have plenty of help or plenty of time and the desire to work.

Notice where the family makes a beaten path. That's where you need your walk. These walks can be built as a family project using brick, asphalt, cement, cinders or gravel. If you use cinders or gravel, you'll need a row of brick on each side, laid on their side and well sunk in the ground. Else you'll have gravel all over the lawn nicking your mower.

If you think your place looks gloomy—try pruning some lower limbs. This will also help the grass to grow better. If your house is the type to be painted, try using a color. That also is a pick-up.

TOYS

Play is natural to children. They have a variety of play interests; therefore, they need toys with which to carry out these interests. A child's play changes as he grows and as his abilities develop. Toys should fit a child's interests and abilities at any given time. They should change as he changes. Try to study him; see what he likes.

Children under 18 months need some of the following: rattles, squeaky animals and toys, soft wooly animals and dolls, floating toys; strings of beads, small blocks, nested boxes, cups, books with pictures, rhymes, jingles, records with light rhythmic music, brightly - colored balloons, push - pull toys, animals on wheels, doll carriage, dolls the child can handle easily, small light wagon, simple musical toys, squeeze toys.

Many of the above toys will still be of interest. Others are: stick horse, tricycle to fit child, trucks big enough to straddle, balls, sand box and toys, play table and chairs, dishes and cooking utensils, play furniture, child-size; telephone, dress-up clothes, dolls and doll furniture, stuffed animals, take-apart, put-together toys, puzzles with few pieces, clay.

NEW

A new wool laboratory is doing research on new finishes to give wool the easy - care qualities homemakers want in modern fabric. These qualities include machine washability, improved resistance to wear and soiling, permanent creases in men's and women's slacks and pleated skirts Also being developed is a chemical process that makes wool socks and sweaters shrink - proof without harming the natural qualities of wool. Something to look for in the future.

CAMERA NEWS

IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

About this time each year, I rediscover why Walter Chandoha is the nation's top photographer of cats and dogs. The annual Cats and Dogs Calendar published by the Berkshire Press of Cambridge, Mass., has just made its appearance. During 1960 Chandoha's cats and dogs will pop up every week in new poses to remind us how appealing pet pictures can be.

Despite a file of more than 30,000 cat pictures and 10,000 dog photos, Chandoha still keeps shooting new pictures. He even has enlisted the help of his friends in Huntington, Long Island, who keep him posted on all expected litters in the area, so he will have plenty of new kitten and puppy subjects.

Here are a few Chandoha pointers for better pet pictures:

Know the animal's usual routine and take advantage of the time when it is normally playful, sleepy or eating. Each of these activities makes interesting pictures and it can be entirely natural action. Set up your camera at the spot in advance and be ready for the moment. If the particular spot is bad photographically, see if you can't arrange a more attractive or cosier spot for the pet.

For action pictures, an assistant can be very helpful while your attention is on camera handling. Your wife or child can act as handler, distracter, as a barricade to escape, or as retriever.

Take advantage of a pet's curiosity about a new toy or object or a lure tied to a string which is dragged slowly across the scene.

Make strange sounds vocally or by crumpling some cellophane in the hands and be prepared to catch the instant of alertness if the strategy is successful.

Use tid-bits of food a an inducement. Smear some on objects to get an animal's momentary attention and be ready to shoot the reaction.

Chandoha readily admits that on some occasions all forms of strategy fail to produce a good picture. Put the equipment away and try again another time, he advises.

"With patience, a few of the tricks mentioned, and lots of shooting when the animals are cooperative," he assured me, "most camera fans will wind up with pet photos they'll be proud of."

From pets, to another topic... movie cameras with zoom lenses, the latests trend in the home movie field.

There are a few points to keep in mind about the present new crop of zoom lenses as compared with turret cameras or individual lenses that give you a wide-angle, normal or telephoto view.

None of the zoom lenses can presently cover the extreme range from wide angle to telephoto that can be obtained with individual lenses. The zoom range is limited from moderate wide angle to moderate telephoto.

Some of the zoom lenses do not have a coupled viewfinder so that the eye can see visually any shift in focal length while filming. It is much harder to appreciate or to regulate the change in view when the eye sees a viewfinder with mere stationary outlines of the three different fields of view.

Zoom lenses work in different ways and what seems awkward to one person may suit another movie fan just fine. One type is operated by pushing the lens back and forth with the fingertips. Another has a lever which is turned. A third type is set in motion by pressing a button. In each case, the other hand is busy running the camera.

Zooming, like panning, can easily be overdone and prove to be a fault. To be effective, it must be done slowly, steadily and sparingly. It can be dramatic when used properly in shifting from an overall scene to concentrate attention on an important part of that scene or vice versa.

Most of the changes in viewpoint should be done by changing the zoom lens to the desired view, then shooting. In that way, the impact of zooming, when it does come, will be preserved.

THE SOUTHERN GARDENER

Slow Growing Trees, Shrubs

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

Under ordinary circumstances, most of the kinds of broadleaf evergreen shrubs we use in our foundation and garden plantings grow from six inches to a foot per year. Growth is about twice as great upward as it is laterally. When plants are young and have just been set out in rich soil, they will grow considerably more than this. When they have used up most of their extra food, they will slow down, and only extra feeding will keep them growing rapidly.

FAST GROWERS

Plants like Japanese privet that grow very fast are sometimes useful for quick effect. These, however, always require a great deal of pruning to keep them in shape as they grow. If you are willing to touch them up once a month, they will soon grow to be large shrubs. Sometimes people use fast growers for a quick screen and then remove them when their slower growing shrubs have grown tall enough to replace them.

People new at gardening usually want their shrubs to "grow fast". They soon discover that slow growth, not fast, is really a virtue. There are a very few really slow growing shrubs in cultivation. The pigmy forms of some of the coniferous evergreens which are grown in rock gardens, in trough and dish gardens and as Bonsai by the Japanese are highly attractive, but they will hardly do as foundation plants even if we could get enough of them.

CONIFERS

Perhaps the very finest slow growing conifer available to us from nurseries in America is the "dwarf" form of the Hinoki cypress. This shrub is not really dwarf at all. The first botanists who saw it in Japan used the Latin word, nana, in describing it, but they did not know that it will grow to be over six or eight feet tall eventually. Even though it does, in time grow to a large size, this cypress is one of the handsomest of all ornamental plants. The dense foliage and compact form of it long ago made the Japanese choose it for their little artificially dwarfed trees.

Perhaps you have seen a few specimens of this fine shrub, here and there. Discriminating landscape designers have used it in their plantings in the south. When you visit Biltmore House at Asheville, N. C., you will see it growing in the very large urns at the front entrance. As horticulture advances in the south, more and more gardeners will seek out the choice slow growing trees and shrubs of all kinds. They will grow here just as well as they do in Europe and in the Orient.

Inside Plants For Variety

By AUDREY DAWSON

Now that Ole Man Winter has made his dynamic appearance and it's too cold to garden outside a great number of homemakers are calling about flowering plants for their homes. We are forced to stay inside these cold days and a few plants can add to the appearance as well as the happiness in our homes. So let's talk about some inside plants for the home today.

HOUSE PLANTS

The geraniums are handsome flowering plants and although their flowers are small and rarely showy their scented foliage is quite interesting. These plants should be given a relatively cool temperature rather small pots to induce root crowding and a moderate but not irregular water supply.

The begonias are another popular flowering plant and there are enough species and horticultural forms to make a collector's hobby. These plants are excellent for that sunny window in the house. These plants are very showy, they have shiny leaves, succulent stems and an almost continuous succession of white, rose pink or scarlet flowers.

Although all species of cactus flower only a few are grown for their blooms. The Christmas cactus is quite popular. This plant likes uniform moisture, some shade and a mild temperature. It should have a fairly rich soil.

Spring flowering bulbs or "Dutch" bulbs are often forced into flower for window garden use. Hyacinths, tulips and various kinds of narcissus and daffodils are the most commonly grown. Success with these requires that they be started early and kept in a cool place until the root system has developed well, then they may be put in a slightly warmer place until growth starts. If kept too warm, flower stems and leaves grow tall and weak and require support.

WATCH HEAT

Some causes of unhealthy appearance in your house plants may be from several things. General defoliation may be caused to a sudden change in temperature. Changing from strong sunlight to a dark place, could be caused from gas poisoning. If after dropping the leaves the shoots remain dwarfed, branch repeatedly, and put out small leaves gas injury is indicated.

Browning of the leaf tips suggests improper watering, exposure to drafts of cold air or insect attacks.

Loss of normal color of the foliage suggests overwatering, lack of plant food, or insect attacks.

Spotted foliage suggests overwatering or burning from direct sunlight on foliage that has not been accustomed to it.

GARDENING

Be sure to keep the leaves that are falling now.. Don't burn them. Make a compost pile. If you want the leaves to decay fast sprinkle a light covering of fertilizer high in nitrogen to each layer. Don't let the leaves stay on the ground because they will smother the grass, particularly where the grass has been recently seeded.

FURNITURE

Table tops or any wood surfaces that have white spots due to dampness, spilled water or hot dishes can be restored to their original appearance. They, however, should be treated just as quickly as possible.

Generally, you can successfully remove water spots by wiping over with a cloth wrung dry from water that has a little household ammonia. Then use a dust cloth moistened with polish to restore the finish. The ammonia takes off the spot. If this method doesn't work, try the following: 1 quart of water, 3 tablespoons boiled linseed oil and 1 tablespoon turpentine. Mix the ingredients well and set to cool. Apply a small amount to the spot and leave a few seconds. Then rub the area dry and polish.

COUNCIL NOTES

Congratulations to Mrs. Tuck Taylor, president, and the 30 members of the McGuire Home Demonstration Club for placing first in the Best Club Contest this year. The club received a silver tea service as an award from the Tyner Petrus Company, presented by Mr. Morris Erskine.

The Better Homemakers Club with Mrs. Frank Buce as president placed second. Third place went to Sterlington, Mrs. D. B. Glenn as president. Woodlawn placed fourth, Mrs. Truman Wright president.

Members from twenty - three of the twenty-four clubs were in attendance at the parish council meeting this month.

There will be a new contest next year — the club having the highest number of attendance at the council meetings during the year. Tihs will be sponsored by the Ouachita Valley Fair as announced by Mr. John Birdsong, secretary - manager. This will be a cash award to the club.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Wisner Club Holds Showing

By MARY JARDINE

Wisner Garden Club members staged an all blue ribbon flower show at the Garden Center, this week.

Blue ribbons in the horticulture class were awarded as follows: Mrs. A. M. Ward, Pyracantha and Mrs. E. A. Kiper, American holly.

In the design division, Mrs. W. A. Tucker was awarded top score. A very elegant design was created in a silver compote on a black Chinese base. Yellow and green Evonymus formed the triangular pattern. Yellow Fugi mums was placed as the center of interest. Green grapes were trailed over the lip of container.

NATURAL WOOD

Mrs. E. A. Kiper is known for her original arrangements. This time she selected a natural wood base to place her design on. Placed first were China fir sprays. Loquat buds were placed as the center of interest, with the leaves of the Loquat circling the buds. A lighter green was introduced by the use of painted magnolia leaves. The Loquat buds and the base were the same shade of brown. The whole was a very pleasing rhythmic line-mass design.

Mrs. Guy Kleinpeter chose a brass watering pot for her container which she placed on a round wooden base. Chinese yew branches formed the line. A red China bird was used on the base as an accessory.

SCORING

Several have asked for the point score used in the Garden Center for the arrangements or compositions. We used this score:

Design 30 per cent, Color 30 per cent, Destination 20 per cent, Condition 10 per cent, Relation to container 10 per cent. The breakdown: Under design: Balance, solids to voids, scale, linear design, texture, and transition. Under color; Proportion, balance, relation to surroundings and relations to container. Distinction: Good taste, smartness, compelling, unusual handling of commonplace material. Relation to Container: Texture, proportion harmony of form to design.

In judging, we try to recognize the use of art principles, creativeness and craftmanship.

Guests of the auxiliary were Mrs. Fred Golson, Mrs. E. P. Chapman, and Dr. H. D. Mullis.

Members present were: Mrs. Wood, Mrs. H. D. Mullis, Mrs. D. R. Smith, Mrs. Soloman, Mrs. H. Mayo, Mrs. M. Funderburk, Mrs. F. P. Cerniglia, Mrs. F. E. Crenshaw, Mrs. W. M. Krone, Mrs. J. Padgett and Mrs. R. C. Curry.

Family Dog Only One Not Entering Fray

LONDON (UPI) —Two men bent on burglary sneaked into the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Green early Friday. They probably wished they hadn't.

Former fighter pilot Green told the story:

"My wife and I woke up and found two men in the bedroom.

"I was stark naked," said Green. "Pretty embarrassing."

"I broke the elastic on my pajamas and they fell down," said Marlene. "But I got a scarf, tied it around me and kept hitting him."

The burglar finally escaped. But all were doing their part in the Green household—all except Cindy, the family's Alsatian dog. The pet stood placidly by during the entire ruckus.

ransacking our dressing table drawers. We jumped out of bed.

"I tackled one man and my wife, Josephine, tackled the other. He dragged her down the corridor and escaped, leaving his shoes. I held onto the other man and we were fighting when my daughter, Marlene (18), joined in.

"She coshed him with a tennis racket so hard it broke."

Reinforcements came — the other Green children, Leonard, 10, and Madeleine, 13. Leonard whacked the man with a shoe tree, hard and often.

LITTLE THEATRE

"The Caine Mutiny Court Martial is scheduled to Open on December 11 and will run through December 16, including Sunday. Reservations may be made at the box office on Thursday December 10 from 2:00 until 7:00 and may be made every afternoon for the run of the play at the same hour. Director Ivan Uttall is in desperate need of a Stenotype machine, the type used by a court stenographer. If you have one he can use, please call him. Walter Speed, the Little Theatre hair stylist is making his first stage appearance in "Caine Mutiny Court Martial" in a non-speaking part.

Little Theatre members were very interested in the production of "Antigone" produced on Monday and Tuesday Nights by the drama students of Northeast La. State College. Director George Brian is a loyal Little Theatre member and many of the cast have appeared in Little Theatre plays. Charlene Correro, who played the lead part of Antigone was seen in Pajama Game. W. J. Haddad, who played Tiresais was seen also in "Pajama Game" and more recently in "Janus". Bobbye Strickland, who took the part of Eurydice is familiar to Little Theatre audiences for her work in "Bus Stop" and "Detective Story". Curtis Rape, Pat Medaries and Billie Sue Swanson also appeared in "Pajama Game. This play has it's setting in Ancient Greece and is one of the great pieces of literature of the Western world. Dennis Holt of Ouachita Baptist College at Arkadelphia, Arkansas has rewritten it for modern acting without losing any of Sophocles with wisdom and power. This play has recently been discussed by the Great Books Discussion groups, sponsored by the Ouachita Parish Public Library and many of the participants were seen in the audience.

Frances McHenry has just returned from New York where she had a delightful time attending plays. She says that the highlights of her trip were the Grand Opera performance of "Carmen" and the Sheakspearean production "Much Ado About Nothing." In this she saw John Gielgud and Margaret Leighton. For the fifth time she attended a performance of "My Fair Lady" and also saw "Redhead," "Destry Rides Again," "Marriage Go-round" and "The Warm Peninsula."

The big event in this part of the country is the touring production of "My Fair Lady" which has been running all this week at the municipal auditorium in Shreveport. Today is the last performance of nine which started last Monday. Playing the part of Henry Higgins is Michael Evans, while Diane Tood plays the part of the cockney girl, whom he transformed into a lady. This is a delightful play. I saw it in Chicago several years ago with Brian Ahearne in the lead and loved it. Many people from Monroe went over to see it. On Thanksgiving day Little Theatre members Anna and Sol Snyder and Violet and Warner Holland of Bastrop, Myrtle and L. H. Carter, Harriett and Joe Kern and their son Jimmie and Carrie Dee Drew were observed among the audience. Mary Gill and her daughter Judy and Julia Marx attended the opening performance and also had a visit with the H. W. McCleary's, former Monroe Little Theatre members. On Saturday B. B. Strohn and Jessica Lawn saw the play, while a congenial group attending this afternoon's matinee consists of Sue Dickard, Lallage Feazle, Julius Cahn and Mac Ward.

Don't forget the dates for "Caine Mutiny Court Martial," December 11 through the 16th. Make your plans now to attend.

Mr. Wayne Woods, Campaign Chairman
5th District Headquarters

Monroe, Louisiana

Dear Wayne:

"In reference to the advertisement paid for by now desperate political opposition which appeared in some papers around the State:

"For the record:

"1) I do not know James Hoffa, National President of the Teamsters, have never communicated with him in any way, shape, or form, and do not now have nor do I ever intend to have any deal with him.

"2) The photo of me with Chuck Winters was taken at a large meeting two years ago. Mr. Winters was formerly Secretary-Treasurer of the Central Labor Council of New Orleans and Vicinity, AFL-CIO.

"3) The letter which was sent to Mr. Winters was sent to all groups concerned, including the Firemen's Union, AFL-CIO; the Municipal Employees' Union, AFL-CIO; and the New Orleans Municipal Employees Club.

"4) I have known Mr. Winters for years in the same way that I know all representatives of labor and management in New Orleans; namely, it's part of my job as Mayor to mediate strikes, and our local labor and management people can testify to my fairness, impartiality, and record of success in all such matters.

"5) I welcome the support of Louisiana citizens in all walks of life and am gratified at having already received endorsements from numerous business, industrial, labor, and professional groups. I pledge to them exactly what my published platform states: 'I pledge to justify the confidence of both labor and management in carrying out my duties to represent all the people.'

"As you know, whatever political success I have enjoyed has been due to the combined support of the vast majority of the people of New Orleans.

"This support has been composed of businessmen, housewives, working men and women, professional people, white collar workers, and, in fact, folks from practically every walk of life. The result has been a first primary victory on each occasion I have run for Mayor.

"There are probably many reasons why I have continued to have their confidence and combined support, buit I believe the two main reasons to be:

"1) the widespread approval of our program of progress, prosperity, and stability which has transformed the face of our city, brought countless millions of dollars of new industry and new business to New Orleans, raised the income of our people, and translated our form of government from an obsolete, inefficient maze of duplication into a modern effective instrument for good government and home rule.

"2) the fact that in my 14 years as Mayor I have worked my hardest to efficiently represent all groups with fairness and impartiality and, at the same time, helped to coordinate their individual community efforts into a single combined program to advance our city and its people."

Sincerely
"Chep"

Strong-Valentine Vows Heard In Oak Ridge

On Thaksgiving day at five o'clock in the afternoon, Miss Alice Eugenia Valentine became the bride of Charles Payne Strong in a double ring ceremony at the Oak Ridge Methodist church. The Rev. Walter L. Baker officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Homer Valentine of West Monroe, and the groom's parents, also of West Monroe, are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Joseph Strong.

The church was decorated with standing bouquets of large white chrysanthemums and pompon mums accented with tall wedding tapers. An open Bible was placed on the altar.

Miss Diana Smith, organist, performed a pre-nuptial concert, and accompanied Miss Mary Sterling Rolfe, who sang "O Perfect Love" and "The Wedding Prayer."

Attending the bride were Miss Kay Conger of Oak Ridge, maid of honor, and Miss Joan Phares and Miss Roberta Jackson of Many and Miss Beverly Palmer of Shreveport, bridesmaids. They wore floorlength gowns of coquette blue silk taffeta with sweetheart neckline and brief sleeves. The bouffant panniered skirts were caught up on the sides with tiny velvet bows of a deeper shade of blue. On their hair they wore matching velvet and taffeta leaves.

The bride entered on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage. Her gown of silk peau de soie was fashioned with a sweetheart neckline outlined in imported lace and long sleeves coming to a point over the hands. The deep unpressed pleats of the full skirt created a belled effect over a chapel train. She wore a Juliet cap of imported re-embroidered silk lace and carried a bouquet of bridal roses.

Henry Camp served as best man. Ushers were Jack White, Stephen Hamm, and Don Thrash.

RECEPTION

The bride's table was covered with a cloth of lace over white satin. The centerpiece was o[illegible] e carnations, Pinnochio roses, beauty berries, white grapes and flocked fern arranged in a footed silver bowl. Miss Lucile Huffman poured punch.

The bride's cake, iced with white roses and topped with a miniature bride and groom, was served by Mrs. C. B. Palmer, aunt of the bride. Assisted were Mrs. C. N. McDuffie, Miss Queenie McDuffie, Mrs. H. J. Norris, Mrs. George W. Files, Miss Nancy Files, Miss Joy Baugh, Miss Marcia Jay Files, and Miss Sterling Elizabeth Files.

For the wedding trip to Florida, the bride changed to a cosmopolitan suit of Lesur tone on tone wool in blue. She wore a black and blue feathered cloche and an orchid corsage.

Mrs. Strong attended Oak Ridge High School and was graduated from All Saints' Episcopal School in Vicksburg and Centenary College in Shreveport. Her sorority is Chi Omega.

The groom is a graduate of West Monroe High School and attended Centenary College. He is student pastor of Union and Little Creek churches neal Alto. The young couple will make their home on White's Ferry Road in West Monroe, while Mr. Strong continues his studies at Northeast State College.

Science Meets Soul In New Organization

By TOM HENSHAW
AP Religion Writer

Who is right? The clergyman who looks upon the psychiatrist as an interloper endagering man's soul, or the psychiatrist who views religion as something removed from the practical world?

Probably neither one, says the Academy of Religion and Mental Health in a resume of its first symposium held nearly two years ago in Harriman, N.Y. It will be published shortly by the New York University Press.

The academy, founded in 1954, states its purpose as the "betterment of man's spiritual and emotional health through integration of the moral values of religion and the scientific insights of psychiatry and the behavioral sciences."

Its first report reaches no specific conclusions—none was expected—outside of nothing that religionists and behaviorists are becoming increasingly aware that each has something unique to contribute to the fight on mental disorders.

The report, consisting of summaries of discussions among 35 clergymen and behaviorists, suggests that science and religion would do better to work as partners in the field of mental health, with science providing the tools and religion the broader values.

Both clergymen and scientists reflected this spirit.

"My own personal difficulty with psychology," said Rabbi Albert A. Goldman of Cincinnati, "is very often that it describes social movements, but it has no social philosophy.

"It has not presentedan approach to the problems of life. It may describe the tensions that are at work, but it calls man to no particular action.

In religion, whether it be Catholic, Protestant or Jewish, there is this sense of the urgent demand. We, in religion, are called to action."

Dr. Gregory Zilboorg, clinical professor of psychiatry at the New York College of Medicine said "the real issue is how to differentiate between the psychological and the spiritual and not confuse one's psychological with one's spiritual life."

Baptist Group Sets 'M' Day Meeting Here

The Ouachita Parish Baptist Association will observe annual mobilization "M" night Monday December 7, it was announced today.

According to Charles P. Wood, training union director at the Monroe First Baptist Church, the "M" night program is in accord with the 31,498 churches of the Southern Baptist Convention with headquarters in Nashville, Tennessee.

Wood said the attendance goal for the Ouachita Parish Baptist Association was 1300. The special night in the church was begun in 1945 with the promotion of a large simultaneous Baptist Associational mass meeting on April 24. In 1946, it was decided to designate December for "M" night observance and make it the regular mass meeting for the quarter for launching the training union program for the coming year.

Attendance for the entire convention last year reached 417,517, Wood said.

MY ANSWER by Billy Graham

QUESTION: I have a great fear of death, and yet, because of life's burdens I want to die. I am in good health, but for some reason or other I feel that I am not long for this world? C. C.

ANSWER: It's sad to meet up with a young person like you who has no goal or central purpose in life. You have a chronic case of boredom brought on by thinking of youself too much.

You are the type of individual who might take his own life, because your self-inflicted punishment has made you partly dead already. I read of a girl who took her life and left this note, "Died of old age at twenty-one." I know people who are old at eighteen, and other people who are young at eighty. It's the condition of the heart that makes people old.

You say you're afraid to die. The trouble is: you're afraid to live. Christ said, "I am come that they might have life and that they might have it more abundantly." I have never known a committed Christian who was bored with life. Commit your life to God; let Him open your blurred vision; let Him change your outlook, give you release from guilt, and then you can live with a capital L.

Delay Pruning Green Shrubs Til Holidays

CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

CHAPPAQUA, N. Y. — Christmas is deck the halls with holly time. And pruning shears on your evergreens can harvest a bumper crop of greens for holiday decorating.

Foresighted gardeners — those who remember winter when they're toiling in the summer sun — put off the jog of trimming evergreens until the holiday season.

Then for indoor greenery they clip lengths of upright or spreading yews, holly, huckleberry or laurel shrubs. You'd be surprised at how far a few boughs go.

Surplus wire coat hangers make the frame for evergreen wreaths. Bend two or three into a circle and tape them together.

A tip: it takes a little more work but looks a lot more professional if you clip your boughs into short lengths — six to 10 inches — before tacking them on the frame. You'll have a fuller wreath than one of longer lengths forced into a circle shape.

Loose boughs can be laid along a mantle with Christmas ornaments or used to outline window frames with or without tree lights. They also make a lovely background for holiday flower arrangemetns.

And for double duty service, use the greenery later as a light mulch on your flower beds.

Speaking of mulches, if you have an unfrozen spot in the garden, either because of mild weather or pre- frost mulching, give a thought to a live indoor Christmas tree that can be transplanted outside after the holidays.

You can buy potted fir trees—balsam or spruce are good — which should survive your home's artificial heat if kept well watered and in as cool a spot as you can find.

You might even start a neighborhood trend for indoor Christmas trees to supplement the craze for lavish outdoor decorations. It might someday come down to undecorated trees INSIDE leaving the fancy stuff for outside.

City gardeners without easy access to extra evergreens should buy their Christmas tree a little larger than will fit. Trimming it down to size will provide holiday greens.

Snow and cold make it time, if you haven't already started, to get your bird catering service under way. Don't be a fickle feeder — once you start keep it up until spring.

Wild bird seed can be purchased at garden shops and feed stores. For bird watching refinement, notice which seeds are most popular with different species — some birds go for pumpkin seed, others thrive on millet, oat, buckwheat or wheat.

You can buy small quantities of various seeds and put them out in separate containers to find which birds pick what seeds. You'll be surprised at how fast the dining table is cleaned up.

Keep your gardening friends in mind while Christmas shopping. Garden gloves, small hand tools and packets of seed for planting now or in the spring make fine stocking stuffers.

And for the gardner who has everything but a ride - around mower It might be hard to wrap but it's guaranteed to go over big.

Design Drawing For New Church Shown At Meet

The unveiling of a large water-color design drawing of Jesus the Good Shepherd Catholic Church and Convent highlighted a meeting last week of the Ladies Sanctuary Society of the church, it was announced today.

Dr. J. Young To Report On Gaza Missions

Dr. J. M. Young, Southern Baptist Foreign Medical Missionary to Gaza, will bring first hand reports of mission work in this section of the world at both services today at the College Place Baptist Church.

Dr. Young is a native of Ruston, Louisiana, having graduated from Louisiana Tech and from L. S. U. Medical School in 1951. He and his wife were appointed by the Foreign Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention in 1954 and early in 1955 were sent to the Baptist Hospital in Gaza where they remained over four years before coming home on this present furlough. At the present time Dr. Young is taking additional surgical training at the Confederate Memorial Medical Center in Shreveport.

Dr. Young may be heard at the Sunday morning worship hour at 11:00 o'clock when he will describe the total mission enterprises of Southern Baptists in the Near East. He will also speak at the 7:30 p.m. service. His coming is a means of beginning the emphasis for the taking of the Lottie Moon Christmas Offering for Foreign Missions, a goal of which has been set by the church of $5500.00.

According to the pastor, Reverend T. Earl Ogg, the public is cordially invited to hear this man who for the past four and one half years has lived in one of the most important centers of the world at this time. College Place Baptist Church is located on Sherrouse Avenue just past Northeast Louisiana State College.

DR. J. M. YOUNG

REV. FULLER

New Pastor Takes Post At Church Here

Evangelist Willard Fuller has accepted the pastorate of the Victory Baptist Church, South 10th and Pecan Streets, in the City of Monroe, it has been announced.

He, his wife and three children have taken residence at 801 Mississippi Street. They have come from Many, Louisiana, where he was pastor of the Trinity Baptist Church.

Rev. Fuller is a native of Dry Prong, received his education in Louisiana schools. He received his Theological degree from the New Orleans Baptist Theological Seminary. Mrs. Fuller is the former Garner Dale Swilley of Winnfield.

Their former pastorates are: Chesbrough Baptist Church, Amite, Louisiana; First Baptist Church, Lambert, Mississippi; Second Baptist Church, Leland, Mississippi; First Southern Baptist Church, Huntington Beach, Calif.; Hillside Baptist Church, La Puente, Calif. Fuller has also done evangelistic and mission work in the south and on the west coast.

'Tis The Season To Be Alluring

This is open season for sirens, says Ceil Chapman, famous for formal fashions.

"After five, every woman has the right to be a femme fatale," says the knowing Ceil, who dresses many of the leading glamor girls of stage, screen and television. "Evening fashions should create a great illusion, turning every Cinderella into a princess for a night."

Pursuing her theory, the designer presents the "illusion" silhouette in formal fashions for the festive holiday season. Over a closely fitted sheath she drapes gossamer black lace, chiffon or organza, giving a veiled look to the figure. The effect is all that any siren could desire.

The new after dark "illusions" come in both short and long styles, usually strapless, always figure - revealing and strong on allure. A short dance dress with a hobble - skirt look poses a transparent barrel skirt of black lace over a strapless black sheath. A long evening gown features a spiral drape of sheerest black organza from strapless top to hemline, with a floor - length drape at one side caught up by a cabbage rose.

'4-D Man' Modern Chilling Movie

Atomic age science has imparted a terrifying new dimension to the horror film.

Movie fans who remember the chilling effects of "Frankenstein" and "The Invisible Man" are in for a scared surprise when they discover that a mere home-made man or one who can make himself disappear are old hat. A fresh monster has invaded the mystery realm of the super-human. You would never know it to look at him because he is just like the man next door. This is what makes it so horrendous when you discover that the only thing different about him is that he can walk through walls, put his hand through windows without breaking them and murder people merely by touching them.

How is this accomplished? Very simply if you have the electronic brain energy, the scientific knowledge of how to use it and the massive will power necessary to apply it. In other words, you must be one of those rare individuals who lives in the fourth dimension. Thus the title of this fascinating new nine reels of the Fairview Production "4D Man," co-starring gorgeous former Miss America, Lee Meriwether, with Robert Lansing and James Congdon, starting Wednesday at the Jim Theater.

It has been inevitable, since John Barrymore, and later Fredric March, gave their impressions of "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" to the public, that one day a movie monster with no visible disfigurement would go further than deforming his own body. "4D Man" explores the almost supernatural effects on a man when he destroys time and matter as well as other human beings and, eventually, himself.

This film is a milestone in horror pictures, according to chiller experts at the releasing studio, Universal - International, where fright films from "The Incredible Shrinking Man" back to "Dracula" have made even hardened camera crew members gasp. The world of cinematic terror has fascinated audiences for more than a quarter century. "The Vampire," "Murders in the Rue Morgue," "The Werewolf of London," "The Mummy," "House of Wax" and "The Creature from the Black Lagoon" are a mere handful of scare shows which have titillated the morbid curiosity of theater-goers through the years.

Jaycees Open Yule Trees Sale Monday

The West Monroe Junior Chamber of Commerce yesterday announced that Monday morning will mark the opening of an annual Christmas tree sale.

Trees will be offered for sale until Christmas.

The sale lot is located at 207 Cotton street, the same address from which the trees were marketed last year.

The trees, ranging in size from two to eight feet, have already arrived and are being prepared for the opening Monday.

Proceeds from the sale will be used to finance worthwhile Jaycee community projects.

Publicity Chairman Ronald Hobbs urged that purchases be made early. "We'd like to see the buyers of our trees get the longest possible use of them before Christmas," Hobbs said.

Wayne Franks, Jaycee in charge of the sale, said that someone will be on the lot every day, until all the trees are sold.

"We sold out last year by December 11," Franks said. "I expect they'll go fast this year too," he added.

Tobaccos Take Sharp Mart Losses

NEW YORK (AP) — Tobaccos took sharp losses on the latest cancer warning while aircrafts advanced in a mixed stock market late this afternoon. Turnover was fairly active.

Volume for the day was estimated at 3,300,000 shares compared with 3,550,000 on Wednesday.

Tobaccos were off from 1 to 4 points while other leading stocks showed gains or losses ranging from fractions to around a point mostly.

In late dealings American Tobacco was off about 4 while Philip Morris and Reynolds tobacco were down about 2 apiece. Lorillard (ex dividend) was off about a point. Liggett & Myers lost well over a point.

Curtiss-Wright, under study by the Securities & Exchange Commission because of the stock's gyrations Wednesday, was undisturbed and advanced more than a point. Similar gains were made by Republic Aviation and Douglas Aircraft.

Jump In Steel Operations Is Stock Rise Aid

NEW YORK (UPI) — A jump in steel operations to near 90 per cent of capacity, return of some General Motors workers to the parts department, and some relaxation of tax selling helped stocks rise during the past week.

Railroad issues finally joined the upturn after falling in the first three of the week's four sessions. They declined 2.45 points in their average to a new intraday low up to Wednesday and came back 1.69 points on Friday to leave them 0.76 point lower on the week at 148.60.

The industrial department rose in each session of the and finished with a gain of 7.06 points at 652.52, a new high since Sept. 2. Utilities netted 0.36 to 86.40 and the 65 stocks in the three Dow - Jones averages closed the week at 211.95 up 1.39 points.

For a time the leadership lacked the caliber necessary to bring in new buying. It was dominated—in volume — by the space age group which moved up. Aircrafts were particularly strong as the week ended. Tobaccos rose on Monday when Philip Morris raised its dividend, and fell on Friday when Surgeon General Leroy Burney said smoking was a principal factor in the growing increase of lung cancer.

Curtiss - Wright furnished some fireworks. It announced a new engine with only two moveable parts and that alluring item sent the stock up sharply. Then when the market was having difficulty finding sellers for the stock, the directors cut the dividend and the reverse happened. No buyers were available. The issue rallied again on Friday and closed the week strong.

On Tuesday International Business Machines scored a rise of $16 a share and Eastman Kodak ran up $3.75 to feature the gainers.

It was a week when something of a deluge of increased or extra dividends was announced. These included Philip Morris, Anaconda, Chile Copper, Philco, International Silver, Union Pacific, Commercial Solvents, Sears Roebuck, Bendix, North American Aviation, Hercules Powder, Barrett Corp., Pepsi-Cola, Newmont Mining and American Ice.

The consumer price index rose slightly to a record high, largely because of an increase in transportation costs—higher car prices and a jump in the federal gasoline tax. Business failures increased. Paperboard output declined.

Retail trade held high with many doing their Christmas shopping early. Mercantile stocks reflected this strength. Coal production for a week ago showed a good weekly rise and was nearly 8 per cent higher than a year ago. Wholesale food prices rose slightly but were nearly 8 per cent under a year ago.

Ford ran up 5⅝ points in the autos where General Motors gained 1¼; American 2⅞ and Chrysler a half. Studebaker-Packard lost 1⅜.

In the tobaccos, Philip Morris gained 5½ on the week while the others lost fractions to 1¼ in Lorillard.

Yule Buying Gets Started On Big Scale

NEW YORK (AP)—The Christmas buying spree started this week amid predictions that it will be the biggest ever.

The National Retail Merchants Assn. estimated yule sales will exceed 1958 by six per cent.

Big department stores launched the season with spectacular parades, glittering window displays and intense promotion.

Merchants figure sales between Thanksgiving and Christmas account for 17 to 20 per cent of their annual volume.

Inventories, including major appliances which require steel, are in good shape.

Demand is heavy for luxury items such as furs, jewelry, fine apparel and higher priced toys.

Retail sales this week rose three to seven per cent over a year ago.

Volume for the four-day trading week on the New York Stock Exchange was 13,668,631 shares. The average daily turnover of 3,417,157 was a shade below last week's average. On the bond market, turnover fell to $25,993,000 par value from $35,313,600 a week and $27,709,000 a year ago.

Americans got the news that their cost of living hit a new peak in October. They were hardly surprised.

The Labor Department's consumer index climbed two-tenths of one per cent to 125.5 per cent of the 1947-49 base period. This was the sixth new record in seven months.

Food costs went down three-tenths of one per cent but all other major groups of goods and services advanced. Transportation accounted for most of the increase with higher prices for 1960 automobiles and the new one-cent-a-gallon federal gasoline tax.

The increase means a pay raise for about 1,250,000 workers whose contracts provide for cost-of-living adjustments. Most of the workers are in the automobile, farm equipment, electrical manufacturing and aircraft production industries.

Wholesale food prices climbed slightly this week. Dun & Bradstreet's food index reached $5.92, compared with $5.91 last week and $6.43 in the corresponding 1958 week. The index represents the total price you would pay at wholesale for one pound each of 31 staple foods.

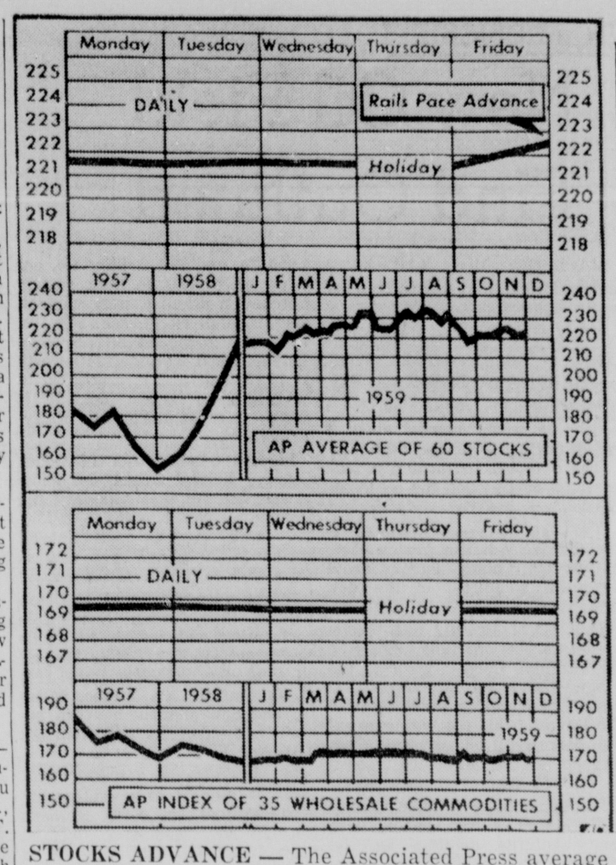
The steel industry worked its production up to an estimated 88 per cent of capacity in the third week since the Taft-Hartley injunction sent striking steelworkers back to the mills.

Finished steel was being turned out faster than had been expected but adequate supplies won't be in the hands of users for several weeks.

Because of steel shortage and the Thanksgiving holiday, the week's auto production dipped to its lowest point of the 1960 model run. November production is estimated at 255,000 cars and 46,000 trucks, compared with 507,530 cars and 93,000 trucks in October.

Chrysler Corp. said it will shut down the last of its assembly plants for one week starting Wednesday because it has run out of steel. General Motors, closed for a month, plans to resume passenger car assembly Dec. 7.

Home building starts in 1960 are estimated at 1,200,000, off 11 per cent from an expected 1,350,000 this year; tight mortgage money is blamed.



STOCKS ADVANCE — The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced last week to 222.5 from 221.7 a week earlier. Led by livestock, the commodity index moved slightly higher to 169.7 from 196.6 in the preceding period. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

TO FARM PROBLEM

Many Searching For Solution

WASHINGTON (AP)—A lot of people are on a search for a solution to the seemingly insolube farm problem.

Once more, agriculture is troubled with declining prices and income, with technological advances forcing severe rural adjustments and controversies flourishing over just what the government should do.

Often in the past, temporary solutions and answers have been provided by farmers themselves through their big national organizations.

Many have been the times when these proposals took perplexed politicians off the hook.

But the way things are going now, the farm organizations offer the solution seekers little hope for 1960. Divisions of viewpoints and conflicts over farm aid proposals, have put these groups into conflicting camps.

When Congress reconvenes in January, it will be confronted with sharply divergent recommendations from farmers' own organizations.

What most politicans would like to know is: should the government try to manage the national economy in behalf of armers, and if so, in what way and how far?

The Eisenhower administration wants to get the government out of agriculture except for providing (1) a minimum degree of price protection against market collapses, (2) research and (3) assistance in developing new markets.

The strong American Farm Bureau Federation has espoused a similar policy in recent years, although it was at one time a major proponent of strong government controls and price supports.

The federation holds its 1959 convention in Chicago Dec. 13-17. It is expected to adopt resolutions reaffirming its stand against government - in - agriculture. However, there have been rumblings of dissent in some Midwestern corn belt states. A new federal corn program, supported by both the administration and the federation, has allowed the production of a stupendous corn crop.

The National Grange's recent convention at Long Beach, Calif., declared that "glib talk" about the government getting out of agriculture is "tantamount to inviting disaster."

The Grange re-endorsed its previous recommendations that Congress grant farmers power to set up and run "self-help" programs designed to stabilize their prices, incomes and farm supplies.

The National Farmers Union earlier this year re-affirmed its support for a sharp reverdal in federal farm policies to provide much higher prices for farmers, through use of stronger price support loans and government payments.

Pointing to government reports that farm income this year is the lowest in 17 years, the union recently described the administration-farm bureau programs as gigantic failures.

The National Milk Producers Federation, at its recent convention here, stood firm for its recommendation of a self-help program for stabilizing dairy prices. This program, which is opposed by both the administration and the Farm Bureau, would employ assessments on producers and production controls to handle surpluses and to prevent over-production.

Various other commodity, reginal and state farm groups are coming up with their own pet proposals. Many of these run counter to those advanced by the big national farm organizations or the administration.

OIL ENTERPRISE

Formalities Set For Co. Formation

HOUSTON (AP) — Formalities will be completed Tuesday for formation of the nation's largest oil company.

Standard Oil Co. (New Jersey) is placing all its domestic producing, refining, and marketing operations under one affiliate.

It will take months to complete the long series of complicated mergers but the huge new operating company becomes a reality Tuesday when Jersey Standard stockholders vote approval.

As a result, a name long familiar to Texas highways gradually will begin appearing throughout Jersey's marketing area that embraces about 30 states. Humble Oil & Refining Co. will become a nationwide operator, refiner, and marketer.

Humble stockholders approved Wednesday. The one-side votes were not surprising in that Jersey held 98.27 per cent of the common stock of the Houston-based affiliate that only recently expanded its marketing operations into New Mexico and Arizona after confining such activities since 1917 to Texas.

Jersey obtained half interest in Humble in 1919 for 17 million dollars. Humble assets at the end of 1958 exceeded 1 1-3 billion dollars.

Under the reorganization plan, Humble of Texas is being replaced by a new Humble of Delaware. The new Humble Oil & Refining Co. was incorporated in Delaware Sept. 4, two days after Jersey officials announced the reshuffling plans.

Four other affiliates will be merged into the new Humble. They are Carter Oil Co., producer-refiner-marketer in the Midwest and Rocky Mountain areas; Esso Standard Oil Co., refiner-marketer in Louisiana and along the East Coast; and Oklahoma and Pate oil companies, marketers in the Chicago-Milwaukee areas.

For the time being each of the five affiliates will operate under its present name as a division of the new Humble.

The new company will lead the nation in oil production and refining. It will own over 22,000 service stations and Jersey officials are confident the new nationwide operations will place Jersey in a stronger competitive position among other coast-to-coast marketers.

Humble and Carter last year produced over 406,000 barrels of oil daily. Texaco Inc. had a United States average of 386,000.

The refining capacity of the new Humble will be 953,000 barrels a day. Among the leading rivals, Texaco's domestic refineries last year processed 598,651 barrels a day, Gulf 485,034.

Socony Mobil Oil Co. also is in the process of merging its domestic subsidiaries. The resulting Mobil Oil Co. has a refining capacity of 737,000 barrels a day. Its oil production last year was about 250,000 barrels daily.

Stock Mart Pulls Gain Out Of Hat

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market this week pulled a modest gain out of the hat—the first advance in four weeks.

The upside edge was due entirely to a fair-to-middling rally on the session after Thanksgiving Day. The market was closed for the holiday.

Out of the welter of tax loss selling, switching and reinvestment enough confidence was born late Friday to give the backward rails and oils an advance even while tobaccos were taking it on the chin due to the government's new warning which linked smoking with cancer.

Some of the Wall Street experts were saying that today's tax loss victims were cheap enough to be likely prospects for an advance in 1960 and traders went for this theory.

Meanwhile the missile and other space age stocks did nicely, some posting big gains. A phenomenon of the week was a 30-point gain Friday by Fairchild Camera, a "glamour" issue on the American Stock Exchange which is thinly held. The stock posted a net gain on the week of 32⅛ to close at 283.

Of the 1,404 issues traded, 677 advanced and 574 declined. New highs for the year totaled 65 and new lows 135.

Volume for the four-day trading week was 13,668,631 shares. The average daily turnover of 3,417,157 was a shade below last week's average.

On the bond market, turnover fell to $25,993,000 par value on the New York Stock Exchange for the four-day week from $35,313,600 a week ago and $27,709,000 a year ago.

The Dow Jones industrial average advanced 6.96 to 652.52, putting it on the way out of a widely-heralded resistance level in the area of 650 or so. There was no particular conviction, however, about the movement this week.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks posted a small gain of 80 cents to $222.50.

The most celebrated stock of the week was Curtiss - Wright which drew upon itself an investigation by the Securities & Exchange Commission. The stock was strong Tuesday and early Wednesday on news of its new lightweight internal combustion engine; but midway through the Wednesday session came news the company had declared a drastic cut in the dividend. This wiped out a gain of more than 5 and left the issue with a fractional loss.

The SEC stepped in to see why these two pieces of news were so closely timed, leading to gyrations in the stock. Curtiss-Wright renewed its advance Friday, closing the week with a net gain of 4½ at 36½.

THE HOME SHIFT

Early Blooms From Quince

By MILDRED SWIFT

If you'll watch your flowering quince, you can see when buds begin to form. If left in the open, these will not open until late January or later. But — if you'll cut the branches that have small buds, you can force these in the house. I did just that last year and had flowering quince blooming in my living room during Christmas week. Seems to me, though, the buds are later forming this year.

GARDEN JOBS

Soon bulb foliage will be coming out of the ground. That is the time to fertilize with a complete food such as 8-8-8.

The cold killed the chrysanthemum blooms for this year so you can cut back the tops now, and they'll make a good root growth for next year.

If you're a new home owner and can't afford many shrubs at this time, resort to vines. Clematis growing up at the corner of the house is lovely. Anybody who grew the white blooming clematis will have small plants coming up all around. I know they'll be glad to give you one of these.

Red honeysuckle can be bought from the nursery. It also is a fast spreader. Later in the spring when the weather is warm you can use black-eyed Susan, balloon vine, morning glory, cardinal climber and cypress vine. These can be planted from seed. Their place can be taken over by shrubs later when you can afford it.

In December, you'll plant your tulip bulbs that have been refrigerated for several weeks.

There is still time to plant spring - blooming annual seed-like cornflower, larkspur, candytuft, snapdragon, stock, etc. You can still put out calendula and pansy plants. Keep pansies picked to encourage blooming.

If you have some shade in your garden you'll want a few camellias. Watch them as they bloom and decide on the varieties you'd like best. Call our office, FA 3-2251, for a camellia bulletin. Follow instructions for planting.

Spring - blooming bulbs are on sale in some stores. This is late to plant, but after all, you're not planting for this year alone. Good bulbs will give you late blooms this spring, then you'll have the bulbs for future years.

December, January and February are our best planting months, except at times when the soil is too wet. Old gardeners say if your soil has the proper amount of humus, you can plant the day after a rain. Don't assume that your soil has reached that degree of perfection, though. Most soils are heavy and must dry out some before spading and planting.

JUST TALKING

Young gardeners — when you plant, keep upkeep in mind. Sit down and make a plan. That will save you time and money. You'd be surprised how much the plan will look like the finished landscaped plot. It's so easy to move plants on paper — such a task to move them in the garden. Not only a task, but often you lose them.

A lot of scatter - gun planting means lots of plants to mow around. Beds are easier to keep than individually planted shrubs. You can throw some leaves and straw in the bed and it's pretty well cared for.

However, sometime your plan calls for a row of trees or shrubs. If you connect these with a continuous bed, you'd lose the effect needed. The grass must be kept trimmed from around plants if they are to thrive. These then need a mulch and this area should be at least two feet wide, depending of course, on size of the plant. So you can see a row of individually - planted and mulched plants would bring on constant upkeep. This, however, goes with owning a home. The moral there is — keep your planting to the minimum unless you have plenty of help or plenty of time and the desire to work.

Notice where the family makes a beaten path. That's where you need your walk. These walks can be built as a family project using brick, asphalt, cement, cinders or gravel. If you use cinders or gravel, you'll need a row of brick on each side, laid on their side and well sunk in the ground. Else you'll have gravel all over the lawn nicking your mower.

If you think your place looks gloomy—try pruning some lower limbs. This will also help the grass to grow better. If your house is the type to be painted, try using a color. That also is a pick-up.

TOYS

Play is natural to children. They have a variety of play interests: therefore, they need toys with which to carry out these interests. A child's play changes as he grows and as his abilities develop. Toys should fit a child's interests and abilities at any given time. They should change as he changes. Try to study him; see what he likes.

Children under 18 months need some of the following: rattles, squeaky animals and toys, soft wooly animals and dolls, floating toys; strings of beads, small blocks, nested boxes, cups, books with pictures, rhymes, jingles, records with light rhythmic music, brightly - colored balloons, push - pull toys, animals on wheels, doll carriage, dolls the child can handle easily, small light wagon, simple musical toys, squeeze toys.

Many of the above toys will still be of interest. Others are: stick horse, tricycle to fit child, trucks big enough to straddle, balls, sand box and toys, play table and chairs, dishes and cooking utensils, play furniture, child-size; telephone, dress-up clothes, dolls and doll furniture, stuffed animals, take-apart, put-together toys, puzzles with few pieces, clay.

NEW

A new wool laboratory is doing research on new finishes to give wool the easy - care qualities homemakers want in modern fabric. These qualities include machine washability, improved resistance to wear and soiling, permanent creases in men's and women's slacks and pleated skirts Also being developed is a chemical process that makes wool socks and sweaters shrink - proof without harming the natural qualities of wool. Something to look for in the future.

The annual Cats and Dogs Calendar published by the Berkshire Press of Cambridge, Mass., has just made its appearance. During 1960 Chandoha's cats and dogs will pop up every week in new poses to remind us how appealing pet pictures can be.

Despite a file of more than 30,000 cat pictures and 10,000 dog photos, Chandoha still keeps shooting new pictures. He even has enlisted the help of his friends in Huntington, Long Island, who keep him posted on all expected litters in the area, so he will have plenty of new kitten and puppy subjects.

Here are a few Chandoha pointers for better pet pictures:

Know the animal's usual routine and take advantage of the time when it is normally playful, sleepy or eating. Each of these activities makes interesting pictures and it can be entirely natural action. Set up your camera at the spot in advance and be ready for the moment. If the particular spot is bad photographically, see if you can't arrange a more attractive or cosier spot for the pet.

For action pictures, an assistant can be very helpful while your attention is on camera handling. Your wife or child can act as handler, distracter, as a barricade to escape, or as retriever.

Take advantage of a pet's curiosity about a new toy or object or a lure tied to a string which is dragged slowly across the scene.

Make strange sounds vocally or by crumpling some cellophane in the hands and be prepared to catch the instant of alertness if the strategy is successful.

Use tid-bits of food a an inducement. Smear some on objects to get an animal's momentary attention and be ready to shoot the reaction.

Chandoha readily admits that on some occasions all forms of strategy fail to produce a good picture. Put the equipment away and try again another time, he advises.

"With patience, a few of the tricks mentioned, and lots of shooting when the animals are cooperative," he assured me, "most camera fans will wind up with pet photos they'll be proud of."

From pets, to another topic... movie cameras with zoom lenses, the latests trend in the home movie field.

There are a few points to keep in mind about the present new crop of zoom lenses as compared with turret cameras or individual lenses that give you a wide-angle, normal or telephoto view.

None of the zoom lenses can presently cover the extreme range from wide angle to telephoto that can be obtained with individual lenses. The zoom range is limited from moderate wide angle to moderate telephoto.

Some of the zoom lenses do not have a coupled viewfinder so that the eye can see visually any shift in focal length while filming. It is much harder to appreciate or to regulate the change in view when the eye sees a viewfinder with mere stationary outlines of the three different fields of view.

Zoom lenses work in different ways and what seems awkward to one person may suit another movie fan just fine. One type is operated by pushing the lens back and forth with the fingertips. Another has a lever which is turned. A third type is set in motion by pressing a button. In each case, the other hand is busy running the camera.

Zooming, like panning, can easily be overdone and prove to be a fault. To be effective, it must be done slowly, steadily and sparingly. It can be dramatic when used properly in shifting from an overall scene to concentrate attention on an important part of that scene or vice versa.

Most of the changes in viewpoint should be done by changing the zoom lens to the desired view, then shooting. In that way, the impact of zooming, when it does come, will be preserved.

THE SOUTHERN GARDENER

Slow Growing Trees, Shrubs

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

Under ordinary circumstances, most of the kinds of broadleaf evergreen shrubs we use in our foundation and garden plantings grow from six inches to a foot per year. Growth is about twice as great upward as it is laterally. When plants are young and have just been set out in rich soil, they will grow considerably more than this. When they have used up most of their extra food, they will slow down, and only extra feeding will keep them growing rapidly.

FAST GROWERS

Plants like Japanese privet that grow very fast are sometimes useful for quick effect. These, however, always require a great deal of pruning to keep them in shape as they grow. If you are willing to touch them up once a month, they will soon grow to be large shrubs. Sometimes people use fast growers for a quick screen and then remove them when their slower growing shrubs have grown tall enough to replace them.

People new at gardening usually want their shrubs to "grow fast". They soon discover that slow growth, not fast, is really a virtue. There are a very few really slow growing shrubs in cultivation. The pigmy forms of some of the coniferous evergreens which are grown in rock gardens, in trough and dish gardens and as Bonsai by the Japanese are highly attractive, but they will hardly do as foundation plants even if we could get enough of them.

CONIFERS

Perhaps the very finest slow growing conifer available to us from nurseries in America is the "dwarf" form of the Hinoki cypress. This shrub is not really dwarf at all. The first botanists who saw it in Japan used the Latin word, nana, in describing it, but they did not know that it will grow to be over six or eight feet tall eventually. Even though it does, in time grow to a large size, this cypress is one of the handsomest of all ornamental plants. The dense foliage and compact form of it long ago made the Japanese choose it for their little artificially dwarfed trees.

Perhaps you have seen a few specimens of this fine shrub, here and there. Discriminating landscape designers have used it in their plantings in the south. When you visit Biltmore House at Asheville, N. C., you will see it growing in the very large urns at the front entrance. As horticulture advances in the south, more and more gardeners will seek out the choice slow growing trees and shrubs of all kinds. They will grow here just as well as they do in Europe and in the Orient.

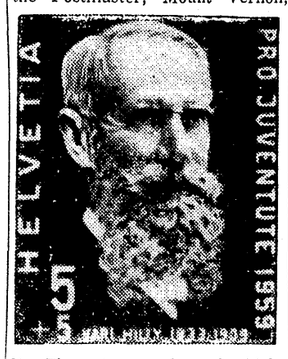
STAMPS

The first of the American Credo stamps, featuring George Washington's famous statement in his Farewell Address of 1796 ("Observe good faith and justice toward all nations"), will be placed on sale at Mount Vernon, Va., on Jan. 20, 1960.

The design for this 4-cent stamp has been given in this column previously.

Stamp collectors desiring first day cancellations may send their addressed envelopes, together with remittance to cover the cost of the stamps to be affixed, to the Postmaster, Mount Vernon,



Va. The outer envelope should be endorsed "First Day Covers 4-Cent Washington Credo Stamp."

The dates and places of the other five Credo stamps will be announced soon.

Switzerland's 1959 "Pro Juventute" set will be issued on Dec. 31, containing five values, four of which are flowers. The fifth bears the portrait of a famous Swiss personage.

The flower stamps are: 10-centimes plus 10 —marsh marigold, 20-c plus 10 —field poppy, 30-c plus 10 —nasturtium, 50-c plus 10 —sweet pea.

A 5-c plus 5 honors Carl Hilty (1833-1909), noted scholar, philosopher and for many years a member of the International Court of Justice at the Hague, reports the Swiss Philatelic Agency in America.

This stamp features a three-quarter portrait of Abraham Lincoln with a quotation from his Gettysburg Address: "Of the People, By the People, For the People," around the sides and top.

Iran has issued a 6-rials brown, red and yellow stamp honoring the United Nations. The design shows a world globe and a hand holding the torch of freedom. The U.N. building appears in the background.

Nationalist China has issued a set of two new commemoratives honoring the National Taiwan Science Hall which opened this year. Each stamp depicts a different view of this museum of science and technology.

Inside Plants For Variety

By AUDREY DAWSON

Now that Ole Man Winter has made his dynamic appearance and it's too cold to garden outside a great number of homemakers are calling about flowering plants for their homes. We are forced to stay inside these cold days and a few plants can add to the appearance as well as the happiness in our homes. So let's talk about some inside plants for the home today.

HOUSE PLANTS

The geraniums are handsome flowering plants and although their flowers are small and rarely showy their scented foliage is quite interesting. These plants should be given a relatively cool temperature rather small pots to induce root crowding and a moderate but not irregular water supply.

The begonias are another popular flowering plant and there are enough species and horticultural forms to make a collector's hobby. These plants are excellent for that sunny window in the house. These plants are very showy, they have shiny leaves, succulent stems and an almost continuous succession of white, rose pink or scarlet flowers.

Although all species of cactus flower only a few are grown for their blooms. The Christmas cactus is quite popular. This plant likes uniform moisture, some shade and a mild temperature. It should have a fairly rich soil.

Spring flowering bulbs or "Dutch" bulbs are often forced into flower for window garden use. Hyacinths, tulips and various kinds of narcissus and daffodils are the most commonly grown. Success with these requires that they be started early and kept in a cool place until the root system has developed well, then they may be put in a slightly warmer place until growth starts. If kept too warm, flower stems and leaves grow tall and weak and require support.

WATCH HEAT

Some causes of unhealthy appearance in your house plants may be from several things. General defoliation may be caused to a sudden change in temperature. Changing from strong sunlight to a dark place, could be caused from gas poisoning. If after dropping the leaves the shoots remain dwarfed, branch repeatedly, and put out small leaves gas injury is indicated.

Browning of the leaf tips suggests improper watering, exposure to drafts of cold air or insect attacks.

Loss of normal color of the foliage suggests overwatering, lack of plant food, or insect attacks.

Spotted foliage suggests overwatering or burning from direct sunlight on foliage that has not been accustomed to it.

GARDENING

Be sure to keep the leaves that are falling now.. Don't burn them. Make a compost pile. If you want the leaves to decay fast sprinkle a light covering of fertilizer high in nitrogen to each layer. Don't let the leaves stay on the ground because they will smother the grass, particularly where the grass has been recently seeded.

FURNITURE

Table tops or any wood surfaces that have white spots due to dampness, spilled water or hot dishes can be restored to their original appearance. They, however, should be treated just as quickly as possible.

Generally, you can successfully remove water spots by wiping over with a cloth wrung dry from water that has a little household ammonia. Then use a dust cloth moistened with polish to restore the finish. The ammonia takes off the spot. If this method doesn't work, try the following: 1 quart of water, 3 tablespoons boiled linseed oil and 1 tablespoon turpentine. Mix the ingredients well and set to cool. Apply a small amount to the spot and leave a few seconds. Then rub the area dry and polish.

COUNCIL NOTES

Congratulations to Mrs. Tuck Taylor, president, and the 30 members of the McGuire Home Demonstration Club for placing first in the Best Club Contest this year. The club received a silver tea service as an award from the Tyner Petrus Company, presented by Mr. Morris Erskine.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Wisner Club Holds Showing

By MARY JARDINE

Wisner Garden Club members staged an all blue ribbon flower show at the Garden Center, this week.

Blue ribbons in the horticulture class were awarded as follows: Mrs. A. M. Ward, Pyracantha and Mrs. E. A. Kiper, American holly.

In the design division, Mrs. W. A. Tucker was awarded top score. A very elegant design was created in a silver compote on a black Chinese base. Yellow and green Evonymus formed the triangular pattern. Yellow Fugi mums was placed as the center of interest. Green grapes were trailed over the lip of container.

NATURAL WOOD

Mrs. E. A. Kiper is known for her original arrangements. This time she selected a natural wood base to place her design on. Placed first were China fir sprays. Loquat buds were placed as the center of interest, with the leaves of the Loquat circling the buds. A lighter green was introduced by the use of painted magnolia leaves. The Loquat buds and the base were the same shade of brown. The whole was a very pleasing rhythmic line-mass design.

Mrs. Guy Kleinpeter chose a brass watering pot for her container which she placed on a round wooden base. Chinese yew branches formed the line. A red China bird was used on the base as an accessory.

SCORING

Several have asked for the point score used in the Garden Center for the arrangements or compositions. We used this score:

Design 30 per cent, Color 30 per cent, Destination 20 per cent, Condition 10 per cent, Relation to container 10 per cent. The breakdown: Under design: Balance, solids to voids, scale, linear design, texture, and transition. Under color; Proportion, balance, relation to surroundings and relations to container. Distinction: Good taste, smartness, compelling, unusual handling of commonplace material. Relation to Container: Texture, proportion harmony of form to design.

In judging, we try to recognize the use of art principles, creativeness and craftmanship.

See Upheaval As Basis Of Delinquency

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

If churches want to do something about juvenile delinquency, they should approach the problem realistically. Sentimental and superficial programs may ease the consciences of church members, but they do more harm than good to distrubed children.

That advice comes from Dr. Edward E. Thornton, professor of pastoral care at the Institute of Religion, Houston, Tex. Dr. Thornton has made an intensive study of the failures and frustrations which churches often encounter in their attempts to help delinquent children. His findings, reported at a recent Southern Baptist youth counseling conference, are equally applicable to other denominations.

The first step toward effective church work in this field, Dr. Thornton said, is to abandon any moralistic or "punitive" approach to delinquent youth.

Social scientists have amassed abundant proof, he said, that juvenile delinquency is not willful wickedness, but is "a symptom of emotional disturbance" in children who have been starved of parental love in the earliest years of life.

Loving the unloved is supposed to be the church's specialty. But it is neither easy nor simple to "communicate love" to disturbed children who have known nothing but hate and rejection. The task calls for "creative imagination" and "the courage to face facts."

One of these facts is that "the emotion disturbance which begets delinquency is deeply set in the child's personality by the time he is eight years old." And the crucial factors in causing it are not the neighborhood, not the school, not a lack of church attendance, but the child's own immediate home environment and particularly his relationships with his parents.

This means, Dr. Thornton said, that churches must "find a way to reach pre-delinquent children between the ages of 5 to 8." And in searching out these children, they must look beyond "the little white cottages of suburbia" into the urban slums where poverty, overcrowding and broken homes vastly increase the likelihood of a child's being deprived of parental love.

When can a church do for these dispossessed children once it has established contact with them? It depends on how far they have drifted before they are found.

"All of the traditional ministries of the church" — including Sunday schools, youth activities, summer camps, recreational centers and sports programs — can be useful in giving pre-delinquent children the acceptance, love and understanding which is lacking in their home lives.

The so-called "sponsorship" plan, under which adult church members try to establish direct personal ties of friendship with individual children, can also be very helpful to pre-delinquents and even to first offenders and probationers.

But none of these measures will do any good for children who have already become "hard-core delinquents," Dr. Thornton said.

"The seriously disturbed child disrupts group activities so completely that their value is cancelled out both for the group and for the troubled child himself." And he can't be reached by an adult sponsor, because he has learned to "play along in the game of comradeship with adults," manipulating them to his advantage, but never letting them have any "real influence" on him.

What the hard-core delinquent needs, Dr. Thornton said, is not an adult pal, and not wholesome recreation, but "therapy."

"Some public and private agencies are pioneering in the creation of institutions which are truly therapeutic communities for the rehabilitation of seriously disturbed children," he said. "But churches, despite their vast outlay for orphanages and hospitals, have so far done very little in this particular field of great need."

Beyond all of these measures, Dr. Thornton concluded, church members have a responsibility as "voting citizens" to work aggressively for basic social reforms—slum clearance, housing projects, welfare services, better schools and so on — that will help to stabilize stress-torn urban families and give their children more hope for the kind of home life they need.

Son Slashes Mother In Classroom

PARIS (AP)—A young man entered the classroom of his schoolteacher mother Saturday, police said, pulled out a razor and slashed her throat before the eyes of 40 grade school pupils.

"Don't kill me, the children are here," the mother was said to have cried when she saw her son.

The youth was identified as Jacques Estudier, 22. He waited quietly for police to arrive to arrest him after the attack. The mother, Marthe Clusaz, 42, was rushed to a hospital in a serious condition.

The school's gate guardian said Estudier seemed nervous and upset when he arrived at the school and asked where his mother's room was located.

He went to the room, entered after a warning knock, and strode straight toward his mother.

She screamed to the children to leave and then made her short plea to her son.

Some of the children—all girls 6 to 8 years old—rushed for the door but most of them watched and screamed. Help arrived quickly from adjoining rooms.

Police gave no motive for the attack. No charges were filed immediately.

AT PARAMOUNT

Outstanding Cast In Picture Here

One of the year's most important pictures, starring Gary Cooper, Rita Hayworth, Van Heflin and Tab Hunter, the William Goetz production of "They Came to Cordura" opens today at the Paramount Theatre. In CinemaScope and Eastman Color, the time before World War I, when a U. S. expeditionary force had swept into Mexico in pursuit of Pancho Villa and his men.

Cooper plays a U. S. Army officer who, because he believes himself a coward, is obsessed with the need to learn, what makes a man or woman brave. He himself had escaped court-martial for cowardice only because his father had been a famous general. Relieved of his combat command, Cooper in further punishment is given the assignment of selecting, and bringing to the rear base at Cordura, five potential Congressional Medal of Honor winners. With his five heroes, Cooper must also escort to Cordura the lovely Miss Hayworth, who has been accused of treason. The desperate trek bares the real nature of all seven.

The stars of "They Came to Cordura" are superbly cast, according to an enthralled Hollywood. Mr. Cooper, who won an Academy Award for his performance as the heroic "Sergeant York," reportedly appears here in sharp contrast as the major who doubts himself. Miss Hayworth is said to provide a character study far removed from her usual "glamour" roles. Van Heflin is seen as the sergeant with an eye on Rita and Tab Hunter as the young officer who cracks under pressure. The remaining stars are equally fine, with Richard Conte as the corporal who helps Heflin in his skulduggery, newcomer Michael Callan making an auspicious screen bow and Dick York as a soldier who suffers the loss of an ear.

"They Came to Cordura" was written by Ivan Moffat and Robert Rossen from Glendon Swarthout's best-selling novel. Rossen directed the Goetz-Baroda production.

IN MISSISSIPPI

New Oil Field Find Outlined

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — A new oil field find seems assured in Hancock County.

The pool opener is Marshall R. Young's No. 1 Jordan Acres, which tested 100 barrels per day. The wildcat is in section 35, 7 south, 15 west, located about 8 miles northwest of Bay St.Louis.

The operator perforated a zone at 10,286-96 feet and the oil tested 35 degrees gravity.

The nearest producing area to the discovery is the Ansley Field of Hancock County, located about 10 miles southwest of the new well.

Gulf Coast Drilling and Exploration Co. has officially completed its Walthall County wildcat, the Magee No. 1, sec. 34, 2 north, 12 east, located three miles west of the Dexter field. The well pumped 160 barrels of oil per day from a sand in the lower Tuscaloosa at 9,780-83 feet.

California and Tidewater are below 10,300 feet in their Felder No. 1, sec. 32-4n-9e, and Larco Drilling Co. is at 10,460 feet in its Wood Guyton No. 1, sec. 15-2n-8e.

Monterey Oil, Kern County Land Co. and Jett Drilling Co. are below 11,000 feet in their closely watched Walthall County wildcat, the Thornhill No. 1, sec. 5-3n-10e. The venture logged oil shows of undetermined commercial worth at 10,476 feet and is scheduled to be drilled to 13,500 feet. It is about 12 miles northwest of Tylertown.

In the Gitano area of Jones County, Nelson Gibson is below 11,200 feet in his wildcat, the Raspberry No. 1, sec. 15-9n-13w. The well logged asphaltic oil shows at 10,792-812 feet and is scheduled to go to 13,500 feet.

In the recently found McComb field of Pike County, Sun Oil is perforating and testing its Gillis No. 1, sec. 15-3n-7e, after logging oil sand. Sun is below 10,400 feet at its Sinclair No. 1, sec. 11-3n-7e, and Sun and Hughes are below 10,000 feet in the Andrews unit No. 1, sec. 14-3n-7e.

In Jeff Davis County, Gulf Coast is moving in a drilling rig at its wildcat, the J. W. Hathorn No. 1, sec. 20-6n-17w, located near Bassfield. The venture is scheduled to go to 10,000 feet.

In Yazoo County, Larco Drilling Co. is below 9,900 feet in its closely watched wildcat, the Gooch Brothers Lumber Co. No. 1, sec. 31-10n-4w, located near Satartia. The well has logged oil shows of undetermined commercial worth.

Field drilling during the past week saw one new oiler completed as a dual producer.

In the diamond field of Wayne County, Southern States Oil Co. completed its Weaver No. 1, sec. 1-9n-7e, flowing 288 barrels of oil per day from a sand at 10,278-87 feet. A second sand at 9n404 feet pumped at the rate of 182 barrels daily.

Abandoned wells were

Adams County — John Callon George Armstrong No. V-1, sec. 9-6n-4w (wildcat) dry at 7,000 feet.

Copiah County — Lone Star Producing Co. Southern Package Corp. No. 1, sec. 1-10n-7e (wildcat) dry at 12,506 feet.

Monroe County — Hyco Oil Co. J B., Snow No. 1, sec. 27-13s-7e (New Hope field) dry at 4,803 feet.

LITTLE THEATRE

"The Caine Mutiny Court Martial is scheduled to Open on December 11 and will run through December 16, including Sunday. Reservations may be made at the box office on Thursday December 10 from 2:00 until 7:00 and may be made every afternoon for the run of the play at the same hour. Director Ivan Uttall is in desperate need of a Stenotype machine, the type used by a court stenographer. If you have one he can use, please call him. Walter Speed, the Little Theatre hair stylist is making his first stage appearance in "Caine Mutiny Court Martial" in a non-speaking part.

Little Theatre members were very interested in the production of "Antigone" produced on Monday and Tuesday Nights by the drama students of Northeast La. State College. Director George Brian is a loyal Little Theatre member and many of the cast have appeared in Little Theatre plays. Charlene Correro, who played the lead part of Antigone was seen in Pajama Game. W. J. Haddad, who played Tiresais was seen also in "Pajama Game" and more recently in "Janus". Bobbye Strickland, who took the part of Eurydice is familiar to Little Theatre audiences for her work in "Bus Stop" and "Detective Story". Curtis Rape, Pat Medaries and Billie Sue Swanson also appeared in "Pajama Game. This play has it's setting in Ancient Greece and is one of the great pieces of literature of the Western world. Dennis Holt of Ouachita Baptist College at Arkadelphia, Arkansas has rewritten it for modern acting without losing any of Sophocles with wisdom and power. This play has recently been discussed by the Great Books Discussion groups, sponsored by the Ouachita Parish Public Library and many of the participants were seen in the audience.

Frances McHenry has just returned from New York where she had a delightful time attending plays. She says that the highlights of her trip were the Grand Opera performance of "Carmen" and the Sheakspearean production "Much Ado About Nothing." In this she saw John Gielgud and Margaret Leighton. For the fifth time she attended a performance of "My Fair Lady" and also saw "Redhead," "Destry Rides Again," "Marriage Go-round" and "The Warm Peninsula."

The big event in this part of the country is the touring production of "My Fair Lady" which has been running all this week at the municipal auditorium in Shreveport. Today is the last performance of nine which started last Monday. Playing the part of Henry Higgins is Michael Evans, while Diane Tood plays the part of the cockney girl, whom he transformed into a lady. This is a delightful play. I saw it in Chicago several years ago with Brian Ahearne in the lead and loved it. Many people from Monroe went over to see it. On Thanksgiving day Little Theatre members Anna and Sol Snyder and Violet and Warner Holland of Bastrop, Myrtle and L. H. Carter, Harriett and Joe Kern and their son Jimmie and Carrie Dee Drew were observed among the audience. Mary Gill and her daughter Judy and Julia Marx attended the opening performance and also had a visit with the H. W. McCleary's, former Monroe Little Theatre members. On Saturday B. B. Strohn and Jessica Lawn saw the play, while a congenial group attending this afternoon's matinee consists of Sue Dickard, Lallage Feazle, Julius Cahn and Mac Ward.

Don't forget the dates for "Caine Mutiny Court Martial," December 11 through the 16th. Make your plans now to attend.

NEW YORK (AP) — A company of 75 American performers has gone to Europe to take part in a production that will probably reach Broadway a year from now.

The venture is "Free and Easy," a saga of blues music upon which composer Harold Arlen has been engaged for five years with director Robert Breen.

Says Stanley Chase, producer of the tour: "The blues are one American export everyone appreciates in Europe, it's one they never get enough of, and it's one they can't possibly duplicate themselves."

'SUMMER PLACE' — Troy Donahue and Sandra Dee play teenage lovers in "A Summer Place" coming to the Paramount Theatre on December 6. The film also stars Richard Egan, Dorothy McGuire and Arthur Kennedy.

SWITCH FOR JULIE

NEW YORK (AP) — Julie Harris, currently a bespectacled spinster in "The Warm Peninsula" on Broadway, is making her professional Shakespearian debut next summer as Juliet.

She will depict the role at the Stratfor, Ont., Festival which opens June 27. In addition to "Romeo and Juliet," Miss Harris will take part in another drama, possibly "A Midsummer Night's Dream" in which she would play Titania.

RYAN TRIES SHAKESPEARE

Ryan appeared in New York several years ago in the phoenix theater production of "Coriolanus."

FOR GOVERNOR

STATE HEADQUARTERS - 308 ST. CHARLES ST.

Phone: TUlane 1251 ● NEW ORLEANS 12

CLAUDE B. DUVAL
State Campaign Manager

November 23, 1959

Mr. Wayne Woods, Campaign Chairman

5th District Headquarters
Penn Hotel
Monroe, Louisiana

Dear Wayne:

"In reference to the advertisement paid for by now desperate political opposition which appeared in some papers around the State:

"For the record:

"1) I do not know James Hoffa, National President of the Teamsters, have never communicated with him in any way, shape, or form, and do not now have nor do I ever intend to have any deal with him.

"2) The photo of me with Chuck Winters was taken at a large meeting two years ago. Mr. Winters was formerly Secretary-Treasurer of the Central Labor Council of New Orleans and Vicinity, AFL-CIO.

"3) The letter which was sent to Mr. Winters was sent to all groups concerned, including the Firemen's Union, AFL-CIO; the Municipal Employees' Union, AFL-CIO; and the New Orleans Municipal Employees Club.

"4) I have known Mr. Winters for years in the same way that I know all representatives of labor and management in New Orleans; namely, it's part of my job as Mayor to mediate strikes, and our local labor and management people can testify to my fairness, impartiality, and record of success in all such matters.

"5) I welcome the support of Louisiana citizens in all walks of life and am gratified at having already received endorsements from numerous business, industrial, labor, and professional groups. I pledge to them exactly what my published platform states: 'I pledge to justify the confidence of both labor and management in carrying out my duties to represent all the people.'

"As you know, whatever political success I have enjoyed has been due to the combined support of the vast majority of the people of New Orleans.

"This support has been composed of businessmen, housewives, working men and women, professional people, white collar workers, and, in fact, folks from practically every walk of life. The result has been a first primary victory on each occasion I have run for Mayor.

"There are probably many reasons why I have continued to have their confidence and combined support, buit I believe the two main reasons to be:

"1) the widespread approval of our program of progress, prosperity, and stability which has transformed the face of our city, brought countless millions of dollars of new industry and new business to New Orleans, raised the income of our people, and translated our form of government from an obsolete, inefficient maze of duplication into a modern effective instrument for good government and home rule.

"2) the fact that in my 14 years as Mayor I have worked my hardest to efficiently represent all groups with fairness and impartiality and, at the same time, helped to coordinate their individual community efforts into a single combined program to advance our city and its people."

Sincerely
"Chep"

Science Meets Soul In New Organization

By TOM HENSHAW
AP Religion Writer

Who is right? The clergyman who looks upon the psychiatrist as an interloper endagering man's soul, or the psychiatrist who views religion as something removed from the practical world?

Probably neither one, says the Academy of Religion and Mental Health in a resume of its first symposium held nearly two years ago in Harriman, N.Y. It will be published shortly by the New York University Press.

The academy, founded in 1954, states its purpose as the "betterment of man's spiritual and emotional health through integration of the moral values of religion and the scientific insights of psychiatry and the behavioral sciences."

Its first report reaches no specific conclusions—none was expected—outside of nothing that religionists and behaviorists are becoming increasingly aware that each has something unique to contribute to the fight on mental disorders.

The report, consisting of summaries of discussions among 35 clergymen and behaviorists, suggests that science and religion would do better to work as partners in the field of mental health, with science providing the tools and religion the broader values.

Both clergymen and scientists reflected this spirit.

"My own personal difficulty with psychology," said Rabbi Albert A. Goldman of Cincinnati, "is very often that it describes social movements, but it has no social philosophy.

"It has not presentedan approach to the problems of life. It may describe the tensions that are at work, but it calls man to no particular action.

In religion, whether it be Catholic, Protestant or Jewish, there is this sense of the urgent demand. We, in religion, are called to action."

Dr. Gregory Zilboorg, clinical professor of psychiatry at the New York College of Medicine said "the real issue is how to differentiate between the psychological and the spiritual and not confuse one's psychological with one's spiritual life."

Delay Pruning Green Shrubs Til Holidays

CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

CHAPPAQUA, N. Y. — Christmas is deck the halls with holly time. And pruning shears on your evergreens can harvest a bumper crop of greens for holiday decorating.

Foresighted gardeners — those who remember winter when they're toiling in the summer sun — put off the jog of trimming evergreens until the holiday season.

Then for indoor greenery they clip lengths of upright or spreading yews, holly, huckleberry or laurel shrubs. You'd be surprised at how far a few boughs go.

Surplus wire coat hangers make the frame for evergreen wreaths. Bend two or three into a circle and tape them together.

A tip: it takes a little more work but looks a lot more professional if you clip your boughs into short lengths — six to 10 inches — before tacking them on the frame. You'll have a fuller wreath than one of longer lengths forced into a circle shape.

Loose boughs can be laid along a mantle with Christmas ornaments or used to outline window frames with or without tree lights. They also make a lovely background for holiday flower arrangemetns.

And for double duty service, use the greenery later as a light mulch on your flower beds.

Speaking of mulches, if you have an unfrozen spot in the garden, either because of mild weather or pre- frost mulching, give a thought to a live indoor Christmas tree that can be transplanted outside after the holidays.

You can buy potted fir trees—balsam or spruce are good — which should survive your home's artificial heat if kept well watered and in as cool a spot as you can find.

You might even start a neighborhood trend for indoor Christmas trees to supplement the craze for lavish outdoor decorations. It might someday come down to undecorated trees IN-SIDE leaving the fancy stuff for outside.

City gardeners without easy access to extra evergreens should buy their Christmas tree a little larger than will fit. Trimming it down to size will provide holiday greens.

Snow and cold make it time, if you haven't already started, to get your bird catering service under way. Don't be a fickle feeder — once you start keep it up until spring.

Wild bird seed can be purchased at garden shops and feed stores. For bird watching refinement, notice which seeds are most popular with different species — some birds go for pumpkin seed, others thrive on millet, oat, buckwheat or wheat.

You can buy small quantities of various seeds and put them out in separate containers to find which birds pick what seeds. You'll be surprised at how fast the dining table is cleaned up.

Keep your gardening friends in mind while Christmas shopping. Garden gloves, small hand tools and packets of seed for planting now or in the spring make fine stocking stuffers.

And for the gardner who has everything but a ride - around mower It might be hard to wrap but it's guaranteed to go over big.

Baptist Group Sets 'M' Day Meeting Here

The Ouachita Parish Baptist Association will observe annual mobilization "M" night Monday December 7, it was announced today.

According to Charles P. Wood, training union director at the Monroe First Baptist Church, the "M" night program is in accord with the 31,498 churches of the Southern Baptist Convention with headquarters in Nashville, Tennessee.

Wood said the attendance goal for the Ouachita Parish Baptist Association was 1300. The special night in the church was begun in 1945 with the promotion of a large simultaneous Baptist Associational mass meeting on April 24. In 1946, it was decided to designate December for "M" night observance and make it the regular mass meeting for the quarter for launching the training union program for the coming year.

Attendance for the entire convention last year reached 417,517, Wood said.

MY ANSWER by Billy Graham

QUESTION: I have a great fear of death, and yet, because of life's burdens I want to die. I am in good health, but for some reason or other I feel that I am not long for this world? C. C.

ANSWER: It's sad to meet up with a young person like you who has no goal or central purpose in life. You have a chronic case of boredom brought on by thinking of youself too much.

You are the type of individual who might take his own life, because your self-inflicted punishment has made you partly dead already. I read of a girl who took her life and left this note, "Died of old age at twenty-one." I know people who are old at eighteen, and other people who are young at eighty. It's the condition of the heart that makes people old.

You say you're afraid to die. The trouble is: you're afaid to live. Christ said, "I am come that they might have life and that they might have it more abundantly." I have never known a committed Christian who was bored with life. Commit your life to God; let Him open your blurred vision; let Him change your outlook, give you release from guilt, and then you can live with a capital L.

Dr. J. Young To Report On Gaza Missions

Dr. J. M. Young, Southern Baptist Foreign Medical Missionary to Gaza, will bring first hand reports of mission work in this section of the world at both services today at the College Place Baptist Church.

Dr. Young is a native of Ruston, Louisiana, having graduated from Louisiana Tech and from L. S. U. Medical School in 1951. He and his wife were appointed by the Foreign Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention in 1954 and early in 1955 were sent to the Baptist Hospital in Gaza where they remained over four years before coming home on this present furlough. At the present time Dr. Young is taking additional surgical training at the Confederate Memorial Medical Center in Shreveport.

Dr. Young may be heard at the Sunday morning worship hour at 11:00 o'clock when he will describe the total mission enterprises of Southern Baptists in the Near East. He will also speak at the 7:30 p.m. service. His coming is a means of beginning the emphasis for the taking of the Lottie Moon Christmas Offering for Foreign Missions, a goal of which has been set by the church of $5500.00.

According to the pastor, Reverend T. Earl Ogg, the public is cordially invited to hear this man who for the past four and one half years has lived in one of the most important centers of the world at this time. College Place Baptist Church is located on Sherrouse Avenue just past Northeast Louisiana State College.

DR. J. M. YOUNG

REV. FULLER

New Pastor Takes Post At Church Here

Evangelist Willard Fuller has accepted the pastorate of the Victory Baptist Church, South 10th and Pecan Streets, in the City of Monroe, it has been announced.

He, his wife and three children have taken residence at 801 Mississippi Street. They have come from Many, Louisiana, where he was pastor of the Trinity Baptist Church.

Rev. Fuller is a native of Dry Prong, received his education in Louisiana schools. He received his Theological degree from the New Orleans Baptist Theological Seminary. Mrs. Fuller is the former Garner Dale Swilley of Winnfield.

Their former pastorates are: Chesbrough Baptist Church, Amite, Louisiana; First Baptist Church, Lambert, Mississippi; Second Baptist Church, Leland, Mississippi; First Southern Baptist Church, Huntington Beach, Calif.; Hillside Baptist Church, La Puente, Calif. Fuller has also done evangelistic and mission work in the south and on the west coast.

'Tis The Season To Be Alluring

This is open season for sirens, says Ceil Chapman, famous for formal fashions.

"After five, every woman has the right to be a femme fatale," says the knowing Ceil, who dresses many of the leading glamor girls of stage, screen and television. "Evening fashions should create a great illusion, turning every Cinderella into a princess for a night."

Pursuing her theory, the designer presents the "illusion" silhouette in formal fashions for the festive holiday season. Over a closely fitted sheath she drapes gossamer black lace, chiffon or organza, giving a veiled look to the figure. The effect is all that any siren could desire.

The new after dark "illusions" come in both short and long styles, usually strapless, always figure - revealing and strong on allure. A short dance dress with a hobble - skirt look poses a transparent barrel skirt of black lace over a strapless black sheath. A long evening gown features a spiral drape of sheerest black organza from strapless top to hemline, with a floor - length drape at one side caught up by a cabbage rose.

Design Drawing For New Church Shown At Meet

The unveiling of a large water-color design drawing of Jesus the Good Shepherd Catholic Church and Convent highlighted a meeting last week of the Ladies Sanctuary Society of the church, it was announced today.

Father Dave Dabria, pastor, exhibited the painting secured from the office of Herbert Land, architect for the buildings now under construction off Loop Road in Monroe

Jaycees Open Yule Trees Sale Monday

The West Monroe Junior Chamber of Commerce yesterday announced that Monday morning will mark the opening of an annual Christmas tree sale.

Trees will be offered for sale until Christmas.

The sale lot is located at 207 Cotton street, the same address from which the trees were marketed last year.

The trees, ranging in size from two to eight feet, have already arrived and are being prepared for the opening Monday.

Proceeds from the sale will be used to finance worthwhile Jaycee community projects.

Publicity Chairman Ronald Hobbs urged that purchases be made early. "We'd like to see the buyers of our trees get the longest possible use of them before Christmas," Hobbs said.

Wayne Franks, Jaycee in charge of the sale, said that someone will be on the lot every day, until all the trees are sold.

"We sold out last year by December 11," Franks said. "I expect they'll go fast this year too," he added.

Tobaccos Take Sharp Mart Losses

NEW YORK (AP) — Tobaccos took sharp losses on the latest cancer warning while aircrafts advanced in a mixed stock market late this afternoon. Turnover was fairly active.

Volume for the day was estimated at 3,300,000 shares compared with 3,550,000 on Wednesday.

Tobaccos were off from 1 to 4 points while other leading stocks showed gains or losses ranging from fractions to around a point mostly.

In late dealings American Tobacco was off about 4 while Philip Morris and Reynolds tobacco were down about 2 apiece. Lorillard (ex dividend) was off about a point. Liggett & Myers lost well over a point.

Curtiss-Wright, under study by the Securities & Exchange Commission because of the stock's gyrations Wednesday, was undisturbed and advanced more than a point. Similar gains were made by Republic Aviation and Douglas Aircraft.

Jump In Steel Operations Is Stock Rise Aid

NEW YORK (UPI) — A jump in steel operations to near 90 per cent of capacity, return of some General Motors workers to the parts department, and some relaxation of tax selling helped stocks rise during the past week.

Railroad issues finally joined the upturn after falling in the first three of the week's four sessions. They declined 2.45 points in their average to a new intraday low up to Wednesday and came back 1.69 points on Friday to leave them 0.76 point lower on the week at 148.60.

The industrial department rose in each session of the and finished with a gain of 7.06 points at 652.52, a new high since Sept. 2. Utilities netted 0.36 to 86.40 and the 65 stocks in the three Dow - Jones averages closed the week at 211.95 up 1.39 points.

For a time the leadership lacked the caliber necessary to bring in new buying. It was dominated—in volume — by the space age group which moved up. Aircrafts were particularly strong as the week ended. Tobaccos rose on Monday when Philip Morris raised its dividend, and fell on Friday when Surgeon General Leroy Burney said smoking was a principal factor in the growing increase of lung cancer.

Curtiss - Wright furnished some fireworks. It announced a new engine with only two moveable parts and that alluring item sent the stock up sharply. Then when the market was having difficulty finding sellers for the stock, the directors cut the dividend and the reverse happened. No buyers were available. The issue rallied again on Friday and closed the week strong.

On Tuesday International Business Machines scored a rise of $16 a share and Eastman Kodak ran up $3.75 to feature the gainers.

It was a week when something of a deluge of increased or extra dividends was announced. These included Philip Morris, Anaconda, Chile Copper, Philco, International Silver, Union Pacific, Commercial Solvents, Sears Roebuck, Bendix, North American Aviation, Hercules Powder, Barrett Corp., Pepsi-Cola, Newmont Mining and American Ice.

The consumer price index rose slightly to a record high, largely because of an increase in transportation costs—higher car prices and a jump in the federal gasoline tax. Business failures increased. Paperboard output declined.

Retail trade held high with many doing their Christmas shopping early. Mercantile stocks reflected this strength. Coal production for a week ago showed a good weekly rise and was nearly 8 per cent higher than a year ago. Wholesale food prices rose slightly but were nearly 8 per cent under a year ago.

Ford ran up 5⅜ points in the autos where General Motors gained 1¼; American 2⅞ and Chrysler a half. Studebaker-Packard lost 1⅜.

In the tobaccos, Philip Morris gained 5½ on the week while the others lost fractions to 1¼ in Lorillard.

Yule Buying Gets Started On Big Scale

NEW YORK (AP)—The Christmas buying spree started this week amid predictions that it will be the biggest ever.

The National Retail Merchants Assn. estimated yule sales will exceed 1958 by six per cent.

Big department stores launched the season with spectacular parades, glittering window displays and intense promotion.

Merchants figure sales between Thanksgiving and Christmas account for 17 to 20 per cent of their annual volume.

Inventories, including major appliances which require steel, are in good shape.

Demand is heavy for luxury items such as furs, jewelry, fine apparel and higher priced toys.

Retail sales this week rose three to seven per cent over a year ago.

Volume for the four-day trading week on the New York Stock Exchange was 13,668,631 shares. The average daily turnover of 3,417,157 was a shade below last week's average. On the bond market, turnover fell to $25,993,000 par value from $35,313,600 a week and $27,709,000 a year ago.

Americans got the news that their cost of living hit a new peak in October. They were hardly surprised.

The Labor Department's consumer index climbed two-tenths of one per cent to 125.5 per cent of the 1947-49 base period. This was the sixth new record in seven months.

Food costs went down three-tenths of one per cent but all other major groups of goods and services advanced. Transportation accounted for most of the increase with higher prices for 1960 automobiles and the new one-cent-a-gallon federal gasoline tax.

The increase means a pay raise for about 1,250,000 workers whose contracts provide for cost-of-living adjustments. Most of the workers are in the automobile, farm equipment, electrical manufacturing and aircraft production industries.

Wholesale food prices climbed slightly this week. Dun & Bradstreet's food index reached $5.92, compared with $5.91 last week and $6.43 in the corresponding 1958 week. The index represents the total price you would pay at wholesale for one pound each of 31 staple foods.

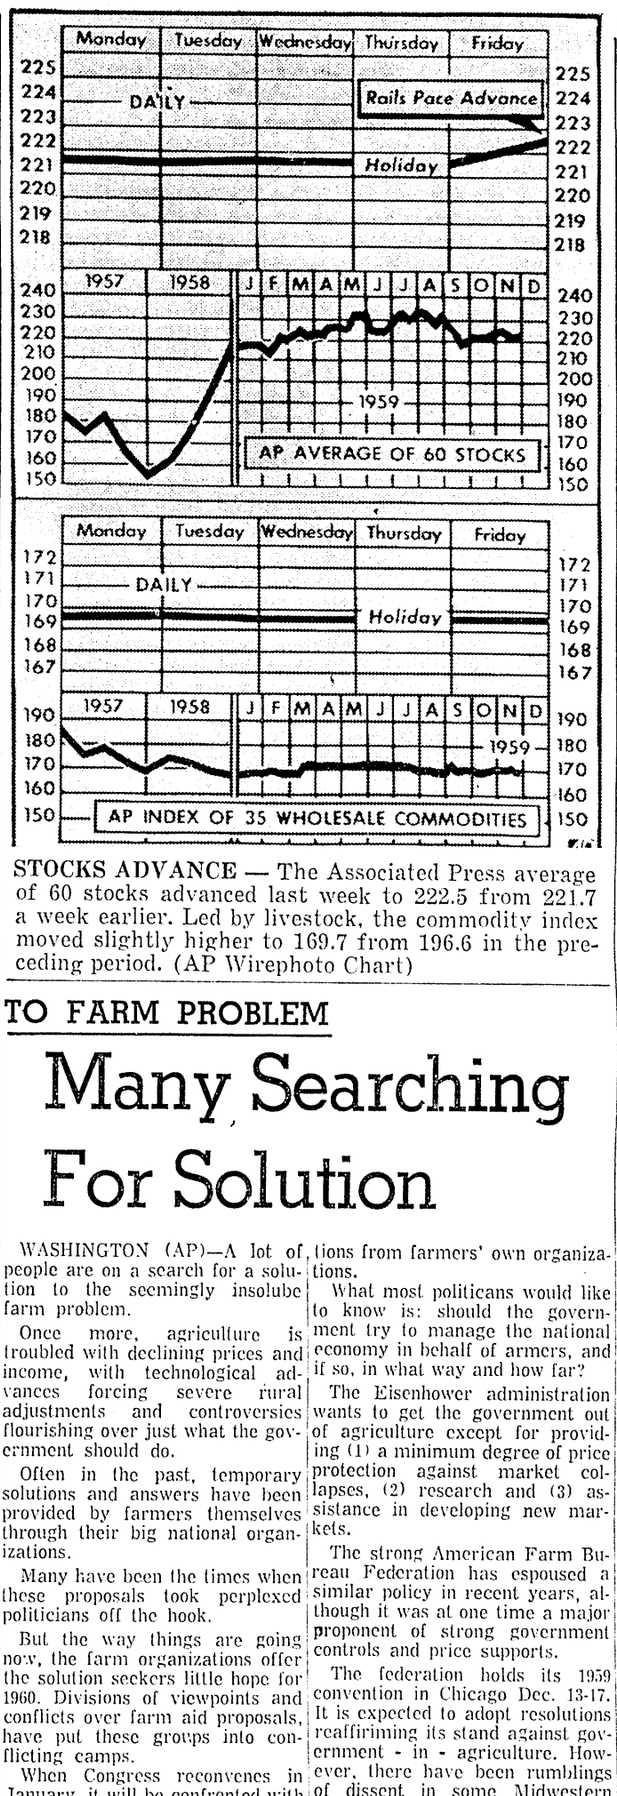
The steel industry worked its production up to an estimated 88 per cent of capacity in the third week since the Taft-Hartley injunction sent striking steelworkers back to the mills.

Finished steel was being turned out faster than had been expected but adequate supplies won't be in the hands of users for several weeks.

Because of steel shortage and the Thanksgiving holiday, the week's auto production dipped to its lowest point of the 1960 model run. November production is estimated at 255,000 cars and 46,000 trucks, compared with 507,530 cars and 93,000 trucks in October.

Chrysler Corp. said it will shut down the last of its assembly plants for one week starting Wednesday because it has run out of steel. General Motors, closed for a month, plans to resume passenger car assembly Dec. 7.

Briefly around the business scene: Small investors start more than 25,000 mutual fund purchase plans each month. . . . Plumbing fixture prices are being raised five per cent by major manufacturers. . . . The National Shoe Institute says leather shoe production this year—642 million pairs—will be the largest in history. . . . Chemical producers expect the industry's 1959 sales to reach a high of more than 24 million dollars. . . . Sylvania Electric Products, Inc., is making an incandescent lamp small enough to pass through the eye of a darning needle. It's used in transistorized circuits in missiles, computers and electronic systems. . . . A 30-year high for interest on short-term governmental borrowing was set when two billion dollars in 320-day notes were sold at an average rate of 4.860 per cent. . . . Home building starts in 1960 are estimated at 1,200,000, off 11 per cent from an expected 1,350,000 this year; tight mortgage money is blamed.



STOCKS ADVANCE — The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced last week to 222.5 from 221.7 a week earlier. Led by livestock, the commodity index moved slightly higher to 169.7 from 196.6 in the preceding period. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

TO FARM PROBLEM

Many Searching For Solution

WASHINGTON (AP)—A lot of people are on a search for a solution to the seemingly insolube farm problem.

Once more, agriculture is troubled with declining prices and income, with technological advances forcing severe rural adjustments and controversies flourishing over just what the government should do.

Often in the past, temporary solutions and answers have been provided by farmers themselves through their big national organizations.

Many have been the times when these proposals took perplexed politicians off the hook.

But the way things are going now, the farm organizations offer the solution seekers little hope for 1960. Divisions of viewpoints and conflicts over farm aid proposals, have put these groups into conflicting camps.

When Congress reconvenes in January, it will be confronted with sharply divergent recommendations from farmers' own organizations.

What most politicans would like to know is: should the government try to manage the national economy in behalf of armers, and if so, in what way and how far?

The Eisenhower administration wants to get the government out of agriculture except for providing (1) a minimum degree of price protection against market collapses, (2) research and (3) assistance in developing new markets.

The strong American Farm Bureau Federation has espoused a similar policy in recent years, although it was at one time a major proponent of strong government controls and price supports.

The federation holds its 1959 convention in Chicago Dec. 13-17. It is expected to adopt resolutions reaffiriming its stand against government - in - agriculture. However, there have been rumblings of dissent in some Midwestern corn belt states. A new federal corn program, supported by both the administration and the federation, has allowed the production of a stupendous corn crop.

The National Grange's recent convention at Long Beach, Calif., declared that "glib talk" about the government getting out of agriculture is "tantamount to inviting disaster."

The Grange re-endorsed its previous recommendations that Congress grant farmers power to set up and run "self-help" programs designed to stabilize their prices, incomes and farm supplies.

The National Farmers Union earlier this year re-affirmed its support for a sharp reverdal in federal farm policies to provide much higher prices for farmers, through use of stronger price support loans and government payments.

Pointing to government reports that farm income this year is the lowest in 17 years, the union recently described the administration-farm bureau programs as gigantic failures.

The National Milk Producers Federation, at its recent convention here, stood firm for its recommendation of a self-help program for stabilizing dairy prices. This program, which is opposed by both the administration and the Farm Bureau, would employ assessments on producers and production controls to handle surpluses and to prevent over-production.

Various other commodity, reginal and state farm groups are coming up with their own pet proposals. Many of these run counter to those advanced by the big national farm organizations or the administration.

Employees Honored

JONESBORO (Special) — On Tuesday Night at 6:30 all employees of Contenential Can Corporation of Hodge, La., with 25 years service and above were honored with a banquet held in the Jonesboro-Hodge high School Cafeteria. Also invited were retired "veterans."

After the invocation by Dallas Henry, safety director, a bounteous meal was served from beautifully decorated tables, by a number of prettily dressed High School Seniors.

A Veterans' Club was organized, with officers chosen according to the length of service.

Chairman, L. A. Cousins, Sr., 45 years; vice-chairman, Harold Leppich, 40 years; secretary-treasurer, A. A. Arsenault, 35 years; sentinal, V. J. Stewart, 35 years.

OIL ENTERPRISE

Formalities Set For Co. Formation

HOUSTON (AP) — Formalities will be completed Tuesday for formation of the nation's largest oil company.

Standard Oil Co. (New Jersey) is placing all its domestic producing, refining, and marketing operations under one affiliate.

It will take months to complete the long series of complicated mergers but the huge new operating company becomes a reality Tuesday when Jersey Standard stockholders vote approval.

As a result, a name long familiar to Texas highways gradually will begin appearing throughout Jersey's marketing area that embraces about 30 states. Humble Oil & Refining Co. will become a nationwide operator, refiner, and marketer.

Humble stockholders approved Wednesday. The one-side votes were not surprising in that Jersey held 98.27 per cent of the common stock of the Houston-based affiliate that only recently expanded its marketing operations into New Mexico and Arizona after confining such activities since 1917 to Texas.

Jersey obtained half interest in Humble in 1919 for 17 million dollars. Humble assets at the end of 1958 exceeded 1 1-3 billion dollars.

Under the reorganization plan, Humble of Texas is being replaced by a new Humble of Delaware. The new Humble Oil & Refining Co. was incorporated in Delaware Sept. 4, two days after Jersey officials announced the reshuffling plans.

Four other affiliates will be merged into the new Humble. They are Carter Oil Co., producer-refiner-marketer in the Midwest and Rocky Mountain areas; Esso Standard Oil Co., refiner-marketer in Louisiana and along the East Coast; and Oklahoma and Pate oil companies, marketers in the Chicago-Milwaukee areas.

For the time being each of the five affiliates will operate under its present name as a division of the new Humble.

The new company will lead the nation in oil production and refining. It will own over 22,000 service stations and Jersey officials are confident the new nationwide operations will place Jersey in a stronger competitive position among other coast-to-coast marketers.

Humble and Carter last year produced over 406,000 barrels of oil daily. Texaco Inc. had a United States average of 386,000.

The refining capacity of the new Humble will be 953,000 barrels a day. Among the leading rivals, Texaco's domestic refineries last year processed 598,651 barrels a day, Gulf 485,034.

Socony Mobil Oil Co. also is in the process of merging its domestic subsidiaries. The resulting Mobil Oil Co. has a refining capacity of 737,000 barrels a day. Its oil production last year was about 250,000 barrels daily.

Stock Mart Pulls Gain Out Of Hat

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market this week pulled a modest gain out of the hat—the first advance in four weeks.

The upside edge was due entirely to a fair-to-middling rally on the session after Thanksgiving Day. The market was closed for the holiday.

Out of the welter of tax loss selling, switching and reinvestment enough confidence was born late Friday to give the backward rails and oils an advance even while tobaccos were taking it on the chin due to the government's new warning which linked smoking with cancer.

Some of the Wall Street experts were saying that today's tax loss victims were cheap enough to be likely prospects for an advance in 1960 and traders went for this theory.

Meanwhile the missile and other space age stocks did nicely, some posting big gains. A phenomenon of the week was a 30-point gain Friday by Fairchild Camera, a "glamour" issue on the American Stock Exchange which is thinly held. The stock posted a net gain on the week of 32⅛ to close at 283.

Of the 1,404 issues traded, 677 advanced and 574 declined. New highs for the year totaled 65 and new lows 135.

Volume for the four-day trading week was 13,668,631 shares. The average daily turnover of 3,417,157 was a shade below last week's average.

On the bond market, turnover fell to $25,993,000 par value on the New York Stock Exchange for the four-day week from $35,313,600 a week ago and $27,709,000 a year ago.

The Dow Jones industrial average advanced 6.96 to 652.52, putting it on the way out of a widely-heralded resistance level in the area of 650 or so. There was no particular conviction, however, about the movement this week.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks posted a small gain of 80 cents to $222.50.

The most celebrated stock of the week was Curtiss - Wright which drew upon itself an investigation by the Securities & Exchange Commission. The stock was strong Tuesday and early Wednesday on news of its new lightweight internal combustion engine; but midway through the Wednesday session came news the company had declared a drastic cut in the dividend. This wiped out a gain of more than 5 and left the issue with a fractional loss.

The SEC stepped in to see why these two pieces of news were so closely timed, leading to gyrations in the stock. Curtiss-Wright renewed its advance Friday, closing the week with a net gain of 4½ at 36½.

See Upheaval As Basis Of Delinquency

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

If churches want to do something about juvenile delinquency, they should approach the problem realistically. Sentimental and superficial programs may ease the consciences of church members, but they do more harm than good to distrubed children.

That advice comes from Dr. Edward E. Thornton, professor of pastoral care at the Institute of Religion, Houston, Tex. Dr. Thornton has made an intensive study of the failures and frustrations which churches often encounter in their attempts to help delinquent children. His findings, reported at a recent Southern Baptist youth counseling conference, are equally applicable to other denominations.

The first step toward effective church work in this field, Dr. Thornton said, is to abandon any moralistic or "punitive" approach to delinquent youth.

Social scientists have amassed abundant proof, he said, that juvenile delinquency is not willful wickedness, but is "a symptom of emotional disturbance" in children who have been starved of parental love in the earliest years of life.

Loving the unloved is supposed to be the church's specialty. But it is neither easy nor simple to "communicate love" to disturbed children who have known nothing but hate and rejection. The task calls for "creative imagination" and "the courage to face facts."

One of these facts is that "the emotion disturbance which begets delinquency is deeply set in the child's personality by the time he is eight years old." And the crucial factors in causing it are not the neighborhood, not the school, not a lack of church attendance, but the child's own immediate home environment and particularly his relationships with his parents.

This means, Dr. Thornton said, that churches must "find a way to reach pre-delinquent children between the ages of 5 to 8." And in searching out these children, they must look beyond "the little white cottages of suburbia" into the urban slums where poverty, overcrowding and broken homes vastly increase the likelihood of a child's being deprived of parental love.

When can a church do for these dispossessed children once it has established contact with them? It depends on how far they have drifted before they are found.

"All of the traditional ministries of the church" — including Sunday schools, youth activities, summer camps, recreational centers and sports programs — can be useful in giving pre-delinquent children the acceptance, love and understanding which is lacking in their home lives.

The so-called "sponsorship" plan, under which adult church members try to establish direct personal ties of friendship with individual children, can also be very helpful to pre-delinquents and even to first offenders and probationers.

But none of these measures will do any good for children who have already become "hard-core delinquents," Dr. Thornton said.

"The seriously disturbed child disrupts group activities so completely that their value is cancelled out both for the group and for the troubled child himself." And he can't be reached by an adult sponsor, because he has learned to "play along in the game of comradeship with adults," manipulating them to his advantage, but never letting them have any "real influence" on him.

What the hard-core delinquent needs, Dr. Thornton said, is not an adult pal, and not wholesome recreation, but "therapy."

"Some public and private agencies are pioneering in the creation of institutions which are truly therapeutic communities for the rehabilitation of seriously disturbed children," he said. "But churches, despite their vast outlay for orphanages and hospitals, have so far done very little in this particular field of great need."

Beyond all of these measures, Dr. Thornton concluded, church members have a responsibility as "voting citizens" to work aggressively for basic social reforms—slum clearance, housing projects, welfare services, better schools and so on — that will help to stabilize stress-torn urban families and give their children more hope for the kind of home life they need.

Son Slashes Mother In Classroom

PARIS (AP)—A young man entered the classroom of his schoolteacher mother Saturday, police said, pulled out a razor and slashed her throat before the eyes of 40 grade school pupils.

"Don't kill me, the children are here," the mother was said to have cried when she saw her son.

The youth was identified as Jacques Estudier, 22. He waited quietly for police to arrive to arrest him after the attack. The mother, Marthe Clusaz, 42, was rushed to a hospital in a serious condition.

The school's gate guardian said Estudier seemed nervous and upset when he arrived at the school and asked where his mother's room was located.

He went to the room, entered after a warning knock, and strode straight toward his mother.

She screamed to the children to leave and then made her short plea to her son.

Some of the children—all girls 6 to 8 years old—rushed for the door but most of them watched and screamed. Help arrived quickly from adjoining rooms.

Police gave no motive for the attack. No charges were filed immediately.

New Oil Field Find Outlined

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — A new oil field find seems assured in Hancock County.

The pool opener is Marshall R. Young's No. 1 Jordan Acres, which tested 100 barrels per day. The wildcat is in section 35, 7 south, 15 west, located about 8 miles northwest of Bay St.Louis.

The operator perforated a zone at 10,286-96 feet and the oil tested 35 degrees gravity.

The nearest producing area to the discovery is the Ansley Field of Hancock County, located about 10 miles southwest of the new well.

Gulf Coast Drilling and Exploration Co. has officially completed its Walthall County wildcat, the Magee No. 1, sec. 34, 2 north, 12 east, located three miles west of the Dexter field. The well pumped 160 barrels of oil per day from a sand in the lower Tuscaloosa at 9,780-83 feet.

California and Tidewater are below 10,300 feet in their Felder No. 1, sec. 32-4n-9e, and Larco Drilling Co. is at 10,460 feet in its Wood Guyton No. 1, sec. 15-2n-8e.

Monterey Oil, Kern County Land Co. and Jett Drilling Co. are below 11,000 feet in their closely watched Walthall County wildcat, the Thornhill No. 1, sec. 5-3n-10e. The venture logged oil shows of undetermined commercial worth at 10,476 feet and is scheduled to be drilled to 13,500 feet. It is about 12 miles northwest of Tylertown.

In the Gitano area of Jones County, Nelson Gibson is below 11,200 feet in his wildcat, the Raspberry No. 1, sec. 15-9n-13w. The well logged asphaltic oil shows at 10,792-812 feet and is scheduled to go to 13,500 feet.

In the recently found McComb field of Pike County, Sun Oil is perforating and testing its Gillis No. 1, sec. 15-3n-7e, after logging oil sand. Sun is below 10,400 feet at its Sinclair No. 1, sec. 11-3n-7e, and Sun and Hughes are below 10,000 feet in the Andrews unit No. 1, sec. 14-3n-7e.

In Jeff Davis County, Gulf Coast is moving in a drilling rig at its wildcat, the J. W. Hathorn No. 1, sec. 20-6n-17w, located near Bassfield. The venture is scheduled to go to 10,000 feet.

In Yazoo County, Larco Drilling Co. is below 9,900 feet in its closely watched wildcat, the Gooch Brothers Lumber Co. No. 1, sec. 31-10n-4w, located near Satartia. The well has logged oil shows of undetermined commercial worth.

Field drilling during the past week saw one new oiler completed as a dual producer.

In the diamond field of Wayne County, Southern States Oil Co. completed its Weaver No. 1, sec. 1-9n-7e, flowing 288 barrels of oil per day from a sand at 10,278-87 feet. A second sand at 9n404 feet pumped at the rate of 182 barrels daily.

Abandoned wells were

Adams County — John Callon George Armstrong No. V-1, sec. 9-6n-4w (wildcat) dry at 7,000 feet.

Copiah County — Lone Star Producing Co. Southern Package Corp. No. 1, sec. 1-10n-7e (wildcat) dry at 12,506 feet.

Monroe County — Hyco Oil Co. J B.. Snow No. 1, sec. 27-13s-7e (New Hope field) dry at 4,803 feet.

AT PARAMOUNT

Outstanding Cast In Picture Here

One of the year's most important pictures, starring Gary Cooper, Rita Hayworth, Van Heflin and Tab Hunter, the William Goetz production of "They Came to Cordura" opens today at the Paramount Theatre. In CinemaScope and Eastman Color, the time before World War I, when a U. S. expeditionary force had swept into Mexico in pursuit of Pancho Villa and his men.

Cooper plays a U. S. Army officer who, because he believes himself a coward, is obsessed with the need to learn, what makes a man or woman brave. He himself had escaped courtmartial for cowardice only because his father had been a famous general. Relieved of his combat command, Cooper in further punishment is given the assignment of selecting, and bringing to the rear base at Cordura, five potential Congressional Medal of Honor winners. With his five heroes, Cooper must also escort to Cordura the lovely Miss Hayworth, who has been accused of treason. The desperate trek bares the real nature of all seven.

The stars of "They Came to Cordura" are superbly cast, according to an enthralled Hollywood. Mr. Cooper, who won an Academy Award for his performance as the heroic "Sergeant York," reportedly appears here in sharp contrast as the major who doubts himself. Miss Hayworth is said to provide a character study far removed from her usual "glamour" roles. Van Heflin is seen as the sergeant with an eye on Rita and Tab Hunter as the young officer who cracks under pressure. The remaining stars are equally fine, with Richard Conte as the corporal who helps Heflin in his skulduggery, newcomer Michael Callan making an auspicious screen bow and Dick York as a soldier who suffers the loss of an ear.

"They Came to Cordura" was written by Ivan Moffat and Robert Rossen from Glendon Swarthout's best-selling novel. Rossen directed the Goetz-Baroda production.

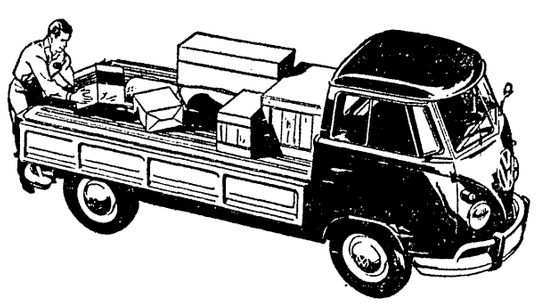
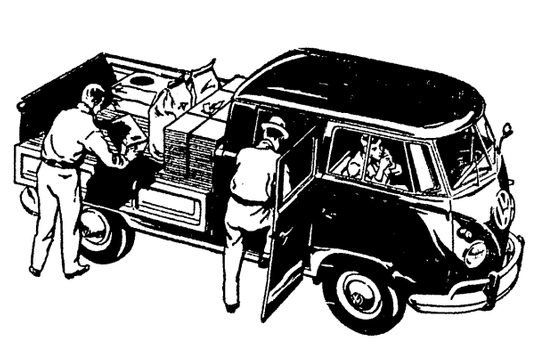
WHICH VOLKSWAGEN TRUCK CAN DELIVER THE GOODS FOR YOU?

PANEL TRUCK. Delivers 1,830 lbs. in 170 cu. ft.—80% more capacity than trucks costing $300 to $700 more. Loads through rear door and double side doors. Like all Volkswagens, it will deliver twice the gas, oil, tire mileage of usual ½-ton trucks. No other panel truck like it! Price: only $1895 P.O.E.



PICK-UP. Delivers 1,764 lbs. on a 45 sq. ft. loading floor—plus 23 cu. ft. in an inside weather-tight locker. Its hinged sides drop down to form a flatbed. Or, with optional stakes and tarpaulin, you can convert it to a van. Loads easily at platform level. Comfortable 3-seater cab. Price: only $1885 P.O.E.

KOMBI. Delivers 9 people on 3 comfortable seats, or 1,786 lbs. of goods. (Takes only minutes to remove two rear seats.) Or 6 people plus a big load. Like all Volkswagen trucks, it parks in 3 feet less space than standard automobiles. Ideal for both business and pleasure. Price: only $2095 P.O.E.



SIX PASSENGER PICK-UP. Delivers full load of supplies, plus a crew of 6. Also, the rear seat is quickly removable to provide sheltered space for an additional 450 lbs. of cargo. Like all VWs, it has rugged unitized construction and the famous air-cooled rear engine. Price: only $2150 P.O.E.

Stormy Panama Demonstration Leaves Several People Injured

Loaded Ship Overturns; Hunt Crew

Houston-Based Craft Holding Ammunition

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—A ship loaded with obsolete but still dangerous military ammunition, overturned in the Gulf of Mexico, and searchers looked in vain Saturday for the 11 en aboard.

A plane found the hulk of the National Pride late Friday, but not until Saturday was it identified as the Houston-based craft.

Planes and ships which hurried to the area found debris scattered over a two-mile area.

But searchers found no sign of the two 30-man life rafts carried by the 135-foot motor ship.

Robert L. Lober, Houston representative of the National Boat Corp. of Houston which operated the ship, said Coast Guardsmen had found no evidence of an explosion.

IDENTIFY

He identified those aboard the ship as: Capt. Raymond S. Nowell, 50, Houston; Chief Mate J .A. Falch, Houston; Second Mate P. H. Brown, New Orleans; Chief Engineer J. J. Ocraman, Orange, Tex.; and crewmen T. F. Burnett, Galveston, Tex.; Walter Zane, Texas City, Tex.; H. C. Moon, Houston; W. E. Massenburg, 32, Houston; J. M. Gonzales, Galeston; Ray Coward, Corpus Christi, Tex.; and an Army private first class who acted as government inspector. His name was withheld by Lober.

Ages of some of those aboard were not available.

The ship became overdue Thursday and Lober asked for a Coast Guard search.

A plane found the hulk of the flatbottomed ship near dusk Friday. It was 61 miles southeast of Galveston.

The ship had been used since September under Army contract to dump obsolete ammunition into the gulf. It carried 460 tons of 755 and 155-millimeter shells on its disastrous trip.

The ammunition came from San Jacinto Ordnance Depot here which the Army is deactivating to make way for industrial expansion along the 50-mile-long Houston Ship Channel.

Weather Bureau spokesmen in Houston joined the Coast Guard in saying high waves, strong winds, and an unbalanced cargo could cause such a ship as the National Pride to overturn.

Winds ranging from 30 to 37 miles an hour swept the gulf area Thursday night.

A Coast Guard spokesman said that "there was no evidence of an explosion."

General Carter Will Speak As Chamber Fete

Gen. William A. Carter, division engineer of U.S. Corps of Engineers at Vicksburg, will address the 39th annual banquet meeting of the Monroe Chamber of Commerce.

Chamber president James W. Moore, in making the announcement, said the banquet would be held December 10 at 7:30 p.m. at the Paragon.

Carter, a native of Texas and holder of several Army medals, is president of the Mississippi River Commission and U.S. Corps division engineer of the Lower Mississippi Valley.

RESERVATIONS

Moore explained that well over 100 advanced reservations had been made for the banquet and that a record crowd was expected.

He pointed out, however, that adequate space was available and that all members of the Chamber of Commerce and their guests could be accomodated.

The banquet will serve as a joint meeting for the Chamber of Commerce and the Monroe Industrial Development Corporation. Annual reports will be made.

In addition, the chamber will install its 1960 officers, who will

GRID ROUNDUP

Navy Tops Army; Bowl List Soars

By DON WEISS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Navy hammered favored Army 43-12 in a record scoring binge and Mississippi, Georgia, Georgia Tech and Clemson nailed major bowl berths Saturday in the last big college football program of the year.

Mississippi accented a Jan. 1 Sugar Bowl invitation for a rematch with Southeastern Conference Louisiana State after routing Mississippi State 42-0. Georgia and Georgia Tech each wound up in bowls after Georgia won their annual season-ending game, 21-14.

Georgia, the SEC champ ignored by the Sugar Bowl, will play Missouri of the Big Eight in the Orange Bowl at Miami, Jan. 1. Georgia Tech (6-4 after the loss) still got the nod opposite Arkansas co-champ of the Southwest Conference, in the Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla., Jan. 2.

Clemson, the Atlantic Coast Conference kingpin, won a match with Texas Christian in Houston's new Bluebonnet Bowl Dec. 19 after crushing Furman 56-3.

The rapid-fire acceptances left only one major bowl berth open—the spot against Penn State in the new Liberty Bowl at Philadelphia Stadium Dec. 19. The Associated Press learned that Navy, despite a mediocre 5-4-1 record, had been invited after its spectacular performance against Army, a touchdown favorite.

Texas Christian grabbed a third share of the Southwest Conference title (tying with Arkansas and Cotton Bowl - bound Texas) by blanking Southern Methodist 19-0.

MORE LAUNCHINGS

Haley Advances Rocket Proposal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower was urged to issue immediate orders to prepare at least three or four more Atlas-Able rockets for launching toward the moon early next year.

The proposal was advanced by Andrew G. Haley Jr., general counsel for the Society. He said the alternative would be a year's delay in any new U. S. moon shot which would be "fatal to America's prestige."

Haley's statement came as a high official described as "naive" and "real stupid" America's previous efforts to compete with Russia in lunar exploration.

This official, who asked that his name not be used, said the 1,500-mile Thor and Jupiter missiles used in the first five U. S. moon shots did not have sufficient power for the project.

REMOVED

Consequentally, he said, most of their guidance equipment had to be removed to reduce weight despite the fact that they were

Traffic Toll Climbing At Steady Pace

Other Mishaps Also Add To Holiday Count

By ASSOCIATED PRESS
By Associated Press

Normal weekend traffic, plagued by scattered snow and ice from the Midwest to New England, pushed the Thanksgiving holiday death toll upward at a steady clip Saturday.

The toll mounted at the rate of four deaths an hour, maintaining a pace which started late Friday.

Traffic deaths were recorded at 295, with 34 dying in fires and 77 in miscellaneous mishaps, for a total of 406.

Bad driving weather — snow, sleet and patches of freezing drizzle — put travel on slippery footing from the Upper Mississippi Valley into northern New England.

Violent deaths were not limited to the highways, however. Three children burned to death near the western Kentucky town of Bardwell when flames destroyed their home. A home fire at Joliet, Ill., killed two small children, both under 2 years of age.

SURVEY

An Associated Press survey of a recent weekend period similar to the current holiday — from 6 p.m. local time, Wednesday to Sunday midnight — showed 433 highway deaths, 49 in fires and

Algerian Rebels Gather Speed In Fighting French

ALGIERS (UPI) — Algerian rebels were reported Saturday to have stepped up the pace of fighting against the French in an apparent prelude to the imminent United Nations debate on Algeria.

French army sources said that 233 Algerian rebels had been killed or captured in the past 48 hours in a sharp increase of military activity.

The sources said 47 rebels were killed in a single battle waged along the border with Tunisia, which provides sanctuary for the nationalists in their five-year-old struggle for independence from France.

ACTIVITY

Observers here said the suddenly increased rebel activity was connected with the forthcoming debate on Algeria in the political committee of the U.N. General Assembly. They said it was designed to add emphasis to a rebel U.N. drive to push through a resolution backing Algerian independence.

The rebels also were believed stepping up their military pressure in an attempt to force President Charles De Gaulle to make some move toward political negotiations with insurgent leaders on Algeria's future.

De Gaulle has long held out a standing offer of safe-conduct for the rebel leaders to travel to Paris to discuss terms of a military ceasefire.

But the French president has refused firmly to negotiate on the political aspects of the eventual self - determination referenrdum which he has promised Algeria in his peace plan.

All Boy Family Hopes For Girl

CHICAGO (AP)—J. Raymond O'Brien, 50, still hopes that one day he'll be the father of a baby girl. But Mrs. O'Brien may be satisfied with things the way they are.

Mrs. O'Brien, 40, presented O'Brien Friday with another son—their 10th.

Asked if he and his wife want any more children, O'Brien said: "Well, I do, but I don't know about my wife. This is a bad day to ask her."

White Woman Killed In N. Y.

NEW YORK (AP)—A 69-year-old white woman was found strangled in her third-floor Brooklyn apartment Saturday. Police said a 17-year-old Negro boy had admitted the slaying.

The body of Katie Cohan was found by a son, John 38, who lived with her. She had been punched in the face, kicked and choked with a belt.

Police said Jasper King, 17, who formerly lived across the hall from the woman, told them he visited her early Saturday.

They quoted him as saying: "I had an impulse to punch her."

Many Asking Assist From Goodfellows

"I have four brothers and one sister. Two of my brothers are crippled. We aren't going to get anything for Christmas," writes a little boy to the Goodfellows Drive.

Contributions are vitally needed for the drive, if needy youngsters are to receive anything for Christmas.

Officials announced that contributions to the drive yesterday had moved up to $125. They pointed out that only the surface had been scratched in fulfilling the needs of many deserving people in the Twin Cities area.

WILL HELP

All money sent to Goodfellows, care of the News-Star—World, will go to help unfortunate people. The drive is being conducted on a "send-in contributions" basis only, and drive workers are working voluntarily, without salary.

Thousands of dollars are needed. "Please help us," the little boy asks for his brothers and sister.

He adds ttat his mother "just has enough to pay for our living expense."

A woman caring for her own seven youngsters and the orphan son of her deceased sister, asks, "please give the children something for Christmas, please."

"My husband doesn't get to work very much, just to get us something to eat," writes the mother of five small children.

DURING HOLIDAY IN AREA

Accidental Death Toll Soars To 8

The area's violent accidental death toll for the long Thanksgiving holiday weekend, yesterday had moved to tragic proportions, with eight persons listed as fatalities.

The latest two fatalities involved a Dubach youth, Larry Clark Rowland, 11, who was accidentally shot to death about 5:15 p.m. Friday, and an Oak Grove man, Warren Hardy Ivey, 38, who was burned to death shortly before midnight Friday when his house was destroyed by fire.

Earlier, six persons had met death in area traffic accidents throughout the area. Two Goodpine, La., Negroes were killed Thursday about 6 p.m. when their car went out of control and smashed into a tree near Summerville. Dead were Lee Odis Washington, 19, and Howard Jackson, 22, who was driving.

FOUR DEATHS

Four white persons were killed in a head-on collision near Winnfield about 3:15 p.m. Friday. Dead were Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Phillips of Simsboro and two Winnfield brothers, Wayne and Tommy Masesey.

The Dubach youth, Larry Rowland, was hunting birds with an older brother Friday afternoon near their home when he was shot. Reports indicated that the brother's gun accidentally went off, hitting young Rowland and killing him instantly. Authorities said the case was termed accidental and no investigation was made. The boys were hunting

Solon Suggests Calling Romulo Home For Study

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Phil Weaver (R-Neb) suggested Saturday that the Philippines government call Ambassador Carlos P. Romulo home for a study of conditions in the island republic.

Weaver said that should be the first step by Philippine officials to "re-examine their entire relationship with our government and our American citizens."

Romulo retorted: "I was in the Philippines recently and I do not have to be told by fly-by-night visitors the conditions in my homeland."

Earlier this week, Weaver charged that members of the American armed forces in the Philippines have been victims of looting, extortion and assault.

INTERVIEW

Romulo in an interview Friday said U.S. representatives in the Philippines are responsible for a whispering campaign against the Philippine government.

Weaver declined to disclose the identity of the persons who gave

Tear Gas Fired Upon Rioting Mob

The Panamanian Guardsmen in many instances were backed up all the way into Canal Zone property under pressure from demonstrators. They fired tar gas and used their rifle butts in an attempt to restore order.

At least one Panamanian was sent to the hospital after being struck by a rifle, and two others were felled by tear gas.

Several of the .S. Infantrymen mingling in the National Guard lines suffered slight injuries from rocks and derbis thrown by the mob.

Some demonstrators, mostly youths, managed to slip past the Guard lines to Roam up and down the wide street which marks the division between Panamanian and U.S. property. However the hasty construction of barbed wire barricades cut off the advance of a majority of the mob.

The barricades and the determination of the National Guardsmen appeared to deter th demonstrators from attempting any major assault on the Canal, such as in the anti-American riots of several weeks ago.

Most of the Panamanians contented themselves with standing opposite the Guard lines, calling names and glowering.

In view of the mounting trouble, the U.S. Army had taken over former control of the Canal Zone from civilian police at 5:45 p.m. However, American troops were being used only as an emergency reserve should the National Guardsmen fail to cope with the situation.

President Ernesto De La Guardia and other government leaders appealed for order as Panamanians streamed to demonstrations celebrating the 138th anniversary of freedom from Spanish rule in 1821.

It was the celebration of the 56th

Jury Convicts Third Man In Ark. Bombings

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—An all-white Circuit Court jury Saturday convicted E. A. Lauderdale Sr., of complicity in the dynamiting of the Little Rock School Board headquarters and recommended three years imprisonment.

Counsel for the 48-year-old segregationist leader, described by prosecution witnesses as the mastermind of an anti-integration plot, vowed to appeal.

The week-long trial ended after the jury of nine men and three women had deliberated an hour and a half. A verdict was brought in shortly after midnight.

THIRD

In addition to the penitentiary sentence, the jury proposed a $500 fine for Lauderdale. Maximum punishment would have been five years in prison and the fine.

Lauderdale was the third man convicted in Little Rock's three integration-linked bombings on the night of Sept. 7. Explosives also

STATE PRIMARY PREDICTION

Casting Of Ballots To Smash Records

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Louisiana will cast more than 853,000 ballots in the Dec. 5 Democratic primary for governor, smashing all records, Secretary of State Wade Martin predicted Saturday.

The turnout of an estimated 77 per cent of the record 1,108,611 vote registration is based on past trends.

"My estimate," the state's chief election officer said in an interview, "is based on the percentage of votes cast out of the total registration in the last five gubernatorial races."

There seems to be a tendency toward wider interest in gubernatorial elections, Martin said, and consequently, wider voter participation.

The previous gubernatorial balloting mark was in 1956, with 819,709 first primary ballots, compared with 761,734 four years earlier and 643,905 in 1948.

Last minute events, such as the harvest of some crops, or uncertain weather, could limit the size of the vote. But based on past years, Martin said, "this seems unlikely."

Martin's prediction, with 11 candidates now entering the stretch drive for governor, struck a blow at any thought of public apathy.

"This year, because there is again interest in improvements in state government," Martin said, "and because there are a greater number of local candidates than ever before, I believe the vote will be at least 77 per cent of the

BOY, 13, WORKS CALMLY

Infant Girl Saved By Smart Brother

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (AP) — Kathy Russ is only eight months old. When she is older her family will tell her about Thanksgiving Day, 1959, the day she almost died. The resourcefulness of her brother, Matt, 13, saved her.

Kathy's father, Matt Russ Sr., told the story.

"It began with a cold," he said. "She wasn't feeling too well.

"Then she started twitching. I knew that was a symptom of convulsions coming on, so I called the doctor."

The convulsions began.

Mrs. Russ told her husband "She's gone. I think she's dead."

Russ took the infant.

"She was limp," he related. "Her skin was cold—like that of a corpse. She was turning blue. I couldn't find a pulse.

"I put her on the floor and started to give artificial respiration. I was using the old sytsem I knew, pumping air into the lungs by pressing on her body."

Matt Jr. came into the room.

"Let me do it, daddy," he said.

"Matt turned Kathy over and started breathing into her mouth," Russ said. "About the fifth time he did, Kathy started to breathe a little. He kept it up five minutes."

The doctor arrived just as young Matt stopped.

Kathy is recovering nicely.

Why did Matt Jr. take over?

"I just saw dad was using an old-fashioned method," he said, explaining he had read about mouth-to-mouth resuscitation in a Boy Scout magazine.

Balloonists Drift Over Nebraska

RAPID CITY, S.D. (AP)—Two balloonists, aloft to study the planet Venus, drifted over Nebraska at nearly 80,000 feet late Saturday sealed in a goldola attached to a huge plastic balloon.

Veteran Navy balloon pilot Cmdr. Malcolm Ross and Charles B. Moore, Cambridge, Mass., scientist carried with them on the scheduled 24-hour flight a powerful telescope to view and photograph the planet's atmosphere from about 81,000 feet.

Navy tracking crews following the balloon said the trajectory apparently would carry the big plastic bag to the St. Louis, Mo. area. Earlier it was thought the balloon would land near LaFayette, Ind., but northerly winds altered the course.

Ross and Moore hoped for a clear look at Venus after sunrise Sunday when the "Morning Star" will be at its brightest.

Ross reported by radio that the 16-inch telescope mounted atop the ball-shaped gondola was not affected by condensation as the balloon rose through a layer of clouds. It had been feared that vapor might fog the instrument.

The balloon took off from the Strato Bowl launching site near here at 10:16 a.m. after ground crews worked three hours getting the bugs out of the gondolar's electrical system. Technicians had to cure some radio trouble and replace a blower in the oxygen system which had burned out. The flight, originally scheduled for Oct. 15, was delayed several times by bad weather.

The balloon rose out of the deep natural bowl in a very slight breeze. As it rose, stronger winds pushed it southward at nearly 70 m.p.h.

After five hours after the take-off the balloon was reported 25 miles south of Chadron, Neb.

Explorers Find Ancient Grave Site

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Archaeologists from the University of Pennsylvania have found the 28-century-old grave of a Persian noblewoman and evidence of Persian agricultural life 6,000 years ago, it was announced Saturday.

The University museum director Dr. Forelich Rainey, said the findings were unearthed at the Iron Age city of Hasanlu, in what is now Iran. The university team was headed by Robert H. Dyson Jr., assistant curator of the Near East section of the museum.

Excavations at the site where Hasanlu golden bowl was found last year brought to light more than 30 graves from the ninth century before the birth of Christ. Hasanlu was destroyed by invaders sometime after 813 B.C., Dyson said. The graves were those of warriors, women and children. Each grave contained a pottery jar with a long spout, a storage jar and various personal ornaments.

The noblewoman was buried wearing fine bronze jewelry, including rings, pins, necklaces and earrings.

The city of Hasanlu was on the frontiers of three major powers of the time, Assyria, Media and Urtaru. The fortress-town, with walls over nine feet thick, is the first excavated site of the little-known kingdom of Mannai.

Armed Services Face Reductions

WASHINGTON (UPI) — When June 30, 1960, rolls around, the U.S. armed services probably will be smaller by about 13,000 men.

The Air Force already has begun a reduction expected to total about 8,000 by the end of this fiscal year. The Navy could lose about 5,000.

The cuts follow a pattern of steady cutbacks in military personnel since the Korean War ended. There are strong indications the trend will continue well into the future—barring some armed emergency.

The reductions will become necessary under the administration's new military budget, which has just been hammered into final form.

Although Congress won't get a look at these latest proposals until some time in January, the Air Force is going ahead with its reduction under the theory: "Since duction under the theory: "Since we have to do it, let's get it over with."

The whole military budget is subject to congressional approval. The Air Force already is operating somewhat below its authorized maximum strength, however, and the administration's recommended figure shouldn't run into any trouble.

The Army and the Marines apparently will not be affected by this latest round of cuts. But the administration is expected to recommend an Army reduction.

So far in his two terms, President Eisenhower has reduced the services by more than a million men. The big bite came after the Korean War ended. But technological advances and other factors also have figured in it.

When he resigned in September, former Assistant Defense Secretary Wilfred J. McNeil told reporters the military could lose 100,000 or more men within the next two to three years.

In a speech this month, Air Force Chief of Staff Gen. Thomas D. White predicted that adjustment of units and improvement of weapons could bring manpower reductions "up to a point." He foresaw extensive shifts in future military planning to adapt to new techniques,

There has been much crystal gazing in defense circles, now that the missile and the atomic weapon have come into their own.

The Army argues that manpower should be cut as little as possible—both from the standpoint of general readiness and the possibility of some day having to fight a limited war.

The President and most Air Force officials think more in terms of fewer units, more widely dispersed and equipped with latest weapons.

The current authorized strength of the armed services is 2,520,000 men—5,000 fewer than provided in the previus budget. The Army is slightly over its maximum, but the Air Force, Navy and Marines are under their ceilings, giving a total strength of 2,497,834 men.

The pay and allowances of these men comes to $11,600,000,000 — a big part of the $41,000,000,000 defense budget. Moreover, personnel costs are rising steadily.

The 100,000-man cut predicted by McNeil would amount to only 5 per cent of the current auhorized strength, but it would save a substantial amount of money.

At present, the Air Force is authorized to have 845,000 men, making it the largest of the services. It actually has in the neighborhood of 833,000, so that its recommended new quota of 825,000 will mean an actual loss of about 8,000.

The Navy hopes to avoid any cut, but it appears there will de about 5,800 fewer sailors by the time the full effect of the new budget are felt.

While this budget was under study, a Pentagon official came up with a statistic that demonstrates the size of figures with which these people have to wrestle:

"If we decided to spend five cents more a day for the meals of service men," he said, "it would cost us 45 million dollars."

Boys Suffocate In Alexandria Gravel Pit

ALEXANDRIA, La. (AP)—Two 15-year-old boys suffocated Saturday when a cave they were digging into at a gravel pit near here collapsed and covered them with stone and sand.

Two young girls who went with them to the pit were standing outside when the hole crumbled. They ran for aid.

Deputies attempted resuscitation, but were unable to save Ronald Monk, son of Clarence Monk of nearby Woodworth, and Murphy Roberts Jr., also of Woodworth.

Young Monk was pinned under a rock slab. The other boy was buried in the debris.

The cave was about 25-foot deep into the side of a gravel pit. It was wide enough to stand in the first six feet.

OF MARINE KIDNAPING

Embassy Gives Formal Protest

NEW DELHI (UPI)—The U. S. embassy Saturday night formally protested the kidnaping of a U. S. Marine in Bombay and told how he was dragged from a taxicab on the street by six Chinese Communists, tied by the neck and hands and beaten.

The protest to India against the "highhanded violation" of an American citizen's rights on the soil of a friendly nation coincided with reports that two Chinese thugs tried to steal coded American diplomatic telegrams from an Indian messenger for the Bombay U.S. Consulate. The attempt failed.

The embassy in New Delhi revealed these additional details of the abduction of Marine Sgt. Robert Armstrong, 30, of Los Angeles:

Friday morning as he was riding in a taxicab toward the Chinese consulate with a Chinese who changed his mind about defecting to the United States, "at least six" Chinese Communists surrounded the cab in front of the consulate and dragged Armstrong from it.

They pushed and pulled him toward the consulate compound gates, punching him in the ribs.

He was dragged into the compound garage and lashed by the hands and neck to a pillar. There, for several hours he was interrogate. One Chinese stood next to him with a club.

He was told if he screamed for help "you will get this" The club was waved in his face.

His person was searched twice. Later he was taken to an open area and photographed.

Police, alerted by an Indian postman delivering mail to the consulate, arrived 25 minutes after the sergeant was dragged in. But despite police demands for his release, the Chinese refused saying "They must complete their investigation."

Police could not force their way in since technically the consulate was Chinese Communist soil. Finally, after six hours of captivity, Armstrong was released to the police.

He suffered rope burns on the neck and back, but a hospital examination showed only superficial injuries.

The United States formally protested to India against the treatment of the American. There could be no direct protest to Red China since the United States does not recognize the Peiping regime.

A few hours after the protest was handed to Indian officials, reliable sources in Bombay said the Chinese Communists tried to seize diplomatic coded telegrams addressed to the American consulate in Bombay, which were being delivered by an Indian employe of the U. S. government.

The sources said the messenger, Anadan Andrew, was attacked by two husky Chinese thugs as he left the Bombay telegraph office. They seized him and demanded the telegrams.

Andrew broke away and fled. He leaped aboard a passing bus and escaped.

A spokesman at the Chinese consulate said the Armstrong incident had been referred to Peiping.

U.S. OFFICIALS DECLARE

Red China Seen As Great Menace

American sea, air and land power is still deployed to help guard Japan in the north from Soviet attack.

But Adm. Harry D. Felt, chief of the unified ground-sea-air command in the vast area, is keeping a sharp eye on Mao Tze-tung's Red armies, Soviet-made jet warplanes and a navy that includes more than a score of submarines.

The menace is to the whole group of nations along the Asian mailand, reaching from the Republic of Korea in the north deep down into Southeast Asia—to the neutral countries as well as those formally allied with the American defense effort.

Felt, in talking to newsmen at his Pearl Harbor headquarters, recently emphasized that the Red China threat takes many forms, political and economic as well as military.

This, as the world learned less than a decade ago in Korea, can be the land of the "little war." But it also could be the place where a little war flamed into global proportions. The Communist Chinese pressure on India's northern border and the previous seizure of Tibet are new samples of Mao's unrelenting probes.

"In Southeast Asia," says Felt, "the people now are thoroughly aware of the threat. They have their eyes open. They have seen what happened in Tibet."

What about Laos, the tiny nation neighboring Communist North Viet Nam and China?

"Laos is the key to the security of that (the Southeast Asia) area today," says the admiral.

The Communist activity in Laos has simmered down during a United Nations inquiry into Red interference, Felt thinks but "it could break out any minute." Laos asked for the U.N. inquiry after charging there was active participation by Communist North Viet Nam military personnel in Laos' rebel activities.

The investigation showed the rebels had received arms and supplies from North Viet Nam but there the U.N. probers said they found no evidence that Communist troops had invaded Laos.

Laos is not a member of any alliance with the United States. The United States has no formal military advisory mission, like those in several neighboring countries, in Laos. But it does have about 100 military and civilian personnel in a "program evaluation office" interested in the utilization of American economic and military aid money and equipment.

Georgia Police Seek Killer Of Elderly Spinster

CEDARTOWN, Ga. (AP)—A 57-year-old spinster was found stabbed to death early today, and officers with bloodhounds set out to track down the assailant.

Officers reported Miss Cleo Hackney had been stabbed seven times in the neck and back and said the slayer had attempted to burn her body by setting her bed on fire.

Bloodhounds led officers to an industrial plant nearby. Several men were picked up for questioning.

Miss Hackney, a jewelry store clerk, lived in the downstairs of a house occupied by her brother-in-law, Homer Hunt.

Officers reported the assailant apparently had entered the house through the basement. They added that the condition of the room indicated the victim had awakened and struggled with the slayer.

Red Boss Claims Butter In Blood Bad For Workers

BERLIN (AP)—East Germans, suffering a severe butter shortage, were told by Communist leader Walter Ulbricht today that eating too much butter can harden their arteries.

"Even in countries which hardly use half as much butter as we do," Ulbricht wrote in the Communist party newspaper. "More and more doctors are saying that excessive use of butter is leading to arteriosclerosis (hardening of the arteries) and to serious circulatory diseases. For the past year this has been an acute problem to us, too."

Boys Admit Murder Of Elderly Man

HIGH POINT, N. C. (UPI) — Sheriff's deputies said today they will charge two teen-age orphans with first degree murder in the sniper shooting of a 77-year-old farmer.

Roger Dell Wilson, 15, and Billy L. Brown, 16, confessed shooting M. J. Hoover at his rural home near here Wednesday night and taking his wallet containing $350 deputies said.

Hoover, a farmer, died from a .22 caliber slug which struck him behind the left ear as he sat reading in an easy chair. Deputies said the youths admitted using an over-under .410-.22 rifle combination, and that Wilson propped the gun up on a tree limb and fired through a window.

Brown lives with an aunt and Wilson with a cousin.

Deputy Sheriff Herman Burrows said Brown broke down under questioning Friday after officers had found portions of a burned billfold near his home. Wilson later admitted his part in the murder, Burrows said, and led deputies to where $300 of the money was buried in a fruit jar in his backyard.

Burrows quoted the youths as saying they had been hunting with the shotgun-rifle combination and shot a boxer dog in the neighborhood before going to Hoover's house. The elderly farmer had a reputation for carrying substantial sums of money.

The deputy said Wilson went into the house after the money following the shooting because Brown "became sick" when he saw the body.

Officers at first believed the shooting was accidental and that Hoover was the victim of a stray bullet fired by a hunter.

However, relatives said Hoover always carried his wallet in the bib pocket of his overalls. The pocket was open and the wallet missing when a son discovered the body about 7 p.m. Wednesday.

Jr. Red Cross Cookie Project Completed Here

The girls of this organization have been busy baking 350 dozen cookies under the direction of Mrs. Jane Watson, home economist from the La. Power and Light Co.

350 baskets were packaged with a dozen cookies and wrapped attractively with yellow cellophane. Eighteen students then delivered these tokens to eleven of the homes for the aged and convalescent in the Twin Cities, giving each of the residents one of the baskets.

Approximately 100 students participated in the project.

FROM BRUSH WITH DEATH

Cake And Candles On The Road Back

A surprise birthday party in a hospital room here Friday evening provided a happy ending to a story that had a very gloomy start about a month ago.

The party was held to honor a West Monroe man Parker Johnson, on his 41st birthday. Although he wasn't able to jump into all the festivities, Johnson still enjoyed the party from the hospital bed where his injuries kept him.

A month ago, he lay on the same bed, barely able to enjoy a thing so simple and gracious as breathing.

PINNED

On October 26, his truck crashed into a roadside embankment south of Monroe, pinning under its warped and twisted cab for about an hour and a half before emergency workers finally were able to free him.

The interior of the truck had to be pried apart so ambulance attendants could free Johnson and rush him to the hospital. He was pinned to the steering column, which was jammed into his side, chest and chin. The gearshift lever was bent and jammed back into the rear of the seat of the cab, and the engine was at a 35 degree angle from the rest of the truck cab.

At St. Francis hospital where he was taken for emergency treatment, attendants said Johnson was in critical condition, and indications gave him very little chance of survival.

For a while, the crushed and injury - laden victim showed little improvement while his family stood by with a staff of medical attendants.

AMAZED

Then, when improvement finally began to win out, it spread like wildfire, and hospital authorities were slightly amazed at Johnson's rapid recovery.

Within the next couple of weeks, he had completely hurdled all danger zones and was well on the road to complete recovery.

"He seemed to have his sights on at least one more birthday," commented his sister-in-law, Laverne Jonnson.

Actually, the idea of a birthday was far from Johnson's mind. That is, until Friday morning when the hospital staff sent him a fat little round birthday cake, along with their best wishes.

That same evening, Johnson was again surprised on his birthday when Laverne, his mother, Mrs. R. L. Johnson, and his brother, Sherman, suddenly appeared at his hospital room with a candle - topped birthday cake and an armload of presents.

"He wasn't able to show too much enthusiasm about it," his mother said, "but we could tell he enjoyed it." Everyone seemed to enjoy the occasion, including various nurses on the third floor, who dropped in to add to the festivities.

Johnson, though, seemed to enjoy the occasion more than anyone. After all, from deathbed to birthday party in one month is a trip of which anyone could be proud.

Youth's Body Found In Field

SOUTH ROXANA, Ill. (AP)— The body of 11-year-old Paul Dean White, missing since July 31, was found Saturday in a cornfield by three rabbit hunters. His skull was crushed and the body badly decomposed. Identification was made by clothing and shoes on the body.

The boy had been missing since his bicycle was found in a park where he had gone seeking work in setting up stands for a Dads Club carnival.

He was the object of a widespread search and the Roxana Dads Club put up a $1,000 award for information about his mysterious disappearance.

The body was found about 200 yards east of state Rt. 111 near a viaduct and about 1½ miles south of South Roxana. It was clad in faded blue dungarees, brown shoes with red soles and white socks. Paul Dean White was wearing the same clothes when he disappeared.

The boy was known as an industrious lad who, worked at many odd jobs but never stayed out at night alone.

The hunters who found the body were Harry Nelson, his son Robert, and Gene Woosley, all of nearby Wood River, Ill.

State investigators were called into the case to examine the body and the scene. The boy was the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. White.

Miss Clark, Mr. Newsom Wed In Rayville Friday

Bridal standards of white gladioli and chrysanthemums used with greenery and clematis formed the background for the marriage of Miss Camille Clark and Kenneth Earl Newsom Friday evening. Dr. H. R. Herrington officiated at the double ring ceremony in the First Baptist Church in Rayville.

Mrs. Albert Carlton Clark, Jr., of Rayville, is the mother of the bride, and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Gussie Newsom, also of Rayville.

The tapered cathedral candles were lighted by Howard McMahon and Gary Smith during the prenuptial concert by Miss Mary Jo Ellington, organist. Miss Betty Miller sang "Because", "The Sweetest Story Ever Told", and "The Lord's Prayer," at the conclusion of the service.

Serving as maid of honor was Miss Mary Ann Jarmon of Bossier City. Her dress was styled with a turquoise velveteen bodice and matching taffeta skirt made princess style with a Watteau back effect. Her headdress was of turquoise tulle over matching bands of velveteen. She carried a sheaf of golden wheat tied with gold lame ribbons.

Mrs. Don C. Francis of Knoxville, Tennessee, cousin of the bride, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Max Livingston, Miss Harriette Haley and Miss Jan McCarthy of Rayville; Mrs. Gary Smith of Baton Rouge, Miss Harriet Smith of Monroe, and Mrs. Gary Bonner of Ft. Worth, Texas. All were dressed identically to the maid of honor.

Junior bridesmaids, who were dressed as the other attendants, were Miss Susan Clark, sister of the bride, and Miss Elizabeth Ann McConnell.

Billy Newsom served his brother as best man. Groomsmen were David McCarty, Howard McMahon, Marion Ratcliff, and Max Livingston of Rayville, Erwin Maxwell of Winnsboro, Gary Smith and A. M. McConnell. Jr., of Baton Rouge.

The bride entered on the arm of her cousin, Massey Keener McConnell, who gave her in marriage. Her gown, fashioned of peau de soie by her mother and Mrs. Homer Norris, featured a lace-silhouetted shoulder line, moulded bodice, and waterfall panniers sweeping into a cathedral train. The skirt was paneled with pearl dewed appliqued sprays of Alencon re-embroidered lace. Her finger-tip veil of illusion cascaded from a headpiece of the same fabric as the dress with matching pearl-encrusted lace. Her bouquet was a crescent of miniature French Fuji mums entwined with ivy and ropes of pearls.

RECEPTION

The church parlor was the scene of the reception immediately following the ceremony. White gladioli, white chrysanthemums, and fern were used to decorate the room. A memory candle and a white Bible were placed on the table where Mrs. E. L. Landrum presided at the bride's book.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Clark was wearing a mauve lace over sateen sheath with a self jacket and matching accessories. Her corsage was a lavender orchid. The groom's mother, Mrs. Newsom, wore a pale blue lace sheath with matching accessories and a white orchid corsage.

The bride's table was overlaid with a white linen cut-work cloth and centered with a bride figurine surrounded with white mums and smilax. The tiered wedding cake, ornamented with lilies of the valley and a miniature rose arrangement, was served by Mrs. Homer Norris, Mrs. W. L. Haley and Mrs. William Gaines alternated at the silver punch bowl at the other end of the table.

Mrs. Ralph Rockett, sister of the groom, provided background music for the reception. Tea girls who assisted were Miss Frankie Newsom, Miss Delories Pitman, Miss Bette Faust, Miss Nancy Cloninger, Miss Joye Gallman, Miss Ann Page, and Miss Mary Hott Myrick. Bags of white tulle containing pink rice were distributed to the guests by Miss Suzonne McConnell.

When the young couple left on their wedding trip to South Louisiana, the bride was wearing a fur-trimmed loden green wool suit with a feather hat and brown lizard shoes and bag. She wore the corsage from her wedding bouquet. Mr. and Mrs. Newsom will make their home in Rayville.

The bride is a graduate of Louisiana Tech, where she was a member of Phi Mu social sorority and Alpha Tau Delta leadership honorary. The groom is a senior at Northeast State College.

Out of town guests at the wedding were Mrs. John Emile Barnette and Mrs. Frances Greer of Benoit, Miss.; Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Smith, Monroe; Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Cudd III, New Orleans; Mr. and Mrs. E. J. ON GOOD-WILL TOUR

Eisenhower Will Make 30 Addresses In Public

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower will speak in public about 30 times, including several major speeches in India, during his trail-blazing goodwill tour beginning this week across Western Europe, the Middle East, South Asia, and North Africa.

Eisenhower's appearance in India at the far point of his journey is expected by diplomats here to constitute a new demonstration of American moral, political and economic support for Indian democracy in its conflict with Chinese Communism. Many diplomats believe this may be the most important single achievement of Eisenhower's 11-country mission.

Some new details of the President's travel plans were announced by the White House Saturday, along with the report that he will make about 30 statements during the journey. Many of these will be arrival and departure statements or brief formal comments in connection with official ceremonies.

Major addresses on U.S. foreign policy as it applies to new nations struggling to establish themselves in freedom and to raise their living standards are expected when the President opens the U.S. exhibit at the World Agricultural Fair in New Delhi Dec. 11 and when he appears before the Indian Parliament. Aides said he is also expected to speak at a civic reception and upon receiving a university degree.

U.S. ambassadors in the countries Eisenhower will visit have been instructed to explain to their host governments that the President considers his journey strictly a good-will mission and does not plan to initiate discussion of any specific problems. However, with retiring Undersecretary of State Robert B. Murphy as his chief political adviser, he will be prepared to discuss any issues raised by his hosts.

Eisenhower will spend five days in and around New Delhi, Dec. 9-14, and the schedule calls for several private talks with Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru.

Nehru told a news conference recently that he expects India's border dispute with Red China to come up along with many other problems. Just recently the reported manhandling of a U.S. Marine sergeant by Chinese Communists in Bombay has put an added strain on relations between India and Red China.

The U.S. position on the border dispute has been one of strong moral support for India in its resistance to the use of force by Communist China.

At the same time, Eisenhower is said to have deep respect for Nehru's desire to stick to his neutrality policy as between the Western and Communist power blocs and to handle by himself the threat to India's security posed by the Red Chinese border pressures.

Nevertheless, it is understood that if the Chinese pressures force India into new military expenditures which endanger its five-year economic development plan, the United States will seriously consider increasing its aid to India. During the past decade the United States has granted or lent India a total of about two billion dollars. This is now the largest single-country program in the foreign aid operation.

The White House announced that the President, traveling by jet plane, will leave on his 22,370-mile trip at 8 p. m. EST next Thursday. This is 2½ hours earlier than previously planned.

After a refueling stop at Goose Bay, Labrador, the chief executive will land at Rome for his first visit about 1 p. m., Dec. 4. The precise times were announced Saturday. The itinerary had previously been released.

The trip will be the longest single journey ever undertaken by an American President. It will be the first time a U. S. president has visited Greece, Turkey, Pakistan, Afghanistan, India and Spain.

Eisenhower will fly from New Delhi to Tehran, Iran, thence to Athens on his way to Paris and the Western summit meeting Dec. 19-21. Between Greece and France he will travel aboard the cruiser Des Moines. In the course of the sea voyage he will land at Tunis Dec. 17 for a conference with President Habib Bourguiba of Tunisia, considered a staunch friend of the West among the leaders of Africa. The earlier program had called for the two men to meet on the cruiser.

Another possible change is that on his scheduled stop in Morocco to see King Mohammed V he may land at Casablanca instead of Rabat.

The President is due back in Washington on Dec. 22.

One of the aspects of the trip which has impressed diplomats here is that Eisenhower will spend about as much time with leaders of countries which are not U. S. allies as with leaders of countries which are allied. This is certain to be considered as a shift in emphasis of U. S. policy, contrasting sharply with the days when the late Secretary of State John Foster Dulles denounced neutrality between communism and Western democracy as immoral.

Eisenhower's first stop at Rome will be for a conference with Allied leaders and so will his second in Ankara, Turkey. In Karachi, Pakistan, he will talk with men who are virtual allies in the Middle East anti-Communist alliance with which the United States is closely associated.

But at Kabul, Afghanistan, and in New Delhi, as well as in Tunisia and Morocco, the President will confer with men who, like Nehru, have identified themselves for years with an opposition to hard military alignments, however much their political dedication may lie with Western forms and institutions.

Detective Says Poison Try Planned

SEATTLE, Wash (UPI)—Chief Detective Vic Kramer said today that arsenic found mixed in coffee in an employes' lunchroom at the county-city building here was a "cold-blooded attempt at mass poisoning."

The arsenic was found after eight staff members of the City Planning Commission became ill last Monday. The results of police laboratory tests disclosed Friday that they had drunk coffee laced with the poison.

A search of the lunchroom on the eighth floor of the building disclosed arsenic in a two-pound tin of drip-grind coffee and more arsenic in a jar of instant coffee.

"This was no accident," Kramer said. "It was deliberate."

The room is used by employes for coffee breaks and during the noon hour for those who pack lunches. Planning Commission and Engineering Department staff members are the chief users, but other employes also have access to the room.

John D. Spaeth, city planning director, said eight of his staff members became sick after the morning coffee break Monday. Three days earlier, several of his employes noticed a different can of coffee next to the one they ordinarily used. They put a note on it saying it did not belong to the Planning Commission.

When the coffee break came Monday, the regular can was gone and the other was in its place in a drawer. The eight used the strange can. They immediately noticed the metallic bitterness in its taste and a few minutes later were seized with cramps, nausea and headaches.

The regular can of coffee was later found hidden behind some supplies.

Presbytery Condemns Gambling

RENO, Nev. (AP)—The Presbytery of Nevada Saturday condemned Nevada's legalized gambling, and said that was its answer to a qualified endorsement from Bishop Robert Dwyer, head of the Reno diocese of Roman Catholics.

The Presbytery, composed of clergy and laity elders of 18 churches throughout Nevada and nearby California communities, opposed gambling for the first time officially.

Its resolution denounced gambling as the worship of a false goddess, Lady Luck, and a means of replenishing the coffers of operators who are engaged in immoral activities.

"We felt we should state our position on gambling in view of Bishop Dwyer's statement," one clergyman said. "We would like it known that not all Christians in Nevada agree."

An Associated Press story from New Orleans last month quoted the bishop as telling an interviewer gambling can be as legitimate a recreation as horse racing.

"It's not gambling but what seems to follow that's sinful," said the head of Nevada's Catholics.

He criticized what he called a hidden element of unfavorable side effects.

But the Presbytery, in a resolution passed at a regular quarterly meeting, declared that gambling itself is sinful.

Its resolution cited gambling as a denial of man's stewardship of property, "a trust from God which may be morally acquired only by gift.

"Breaking of the Tenth Commandment 'thou shalt not covet' by attempting to acquire property without paying the price.

"Worship of the false goddess, Lady Luck, resulting in the exploitation of the many for the benefit of a few.

"Temptation to addiction, the disease of trying to get something for nothing.

"Replenishing the coffers of operators who are engaged in immoral and antisocial activities in Nevada and throughout the nation."

Russ Getting View Of Vote In Magazine

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Russian voters, who have no choice but to vote for the Communist Party, are reading today that the American voter is king and is wooed and sought after by a wide range of candidates.

The latest issue of the Russian-language monthly magazine, "America," has a series of features on the U. S. election system—how candidates are chosen, how campaigns are conducted, and how the public votes.

The articles are an obvious attempt to let Russian citizens contrast their own elections with those in the United States as preparations are made here for the campaigns and elections in 1960.

The magazine, a publication of the U. S. Information Agency, has a circulation of 50,000 in 80 different Soviet cities. Non-government sources estimated up to 50 persons read each copy—a total of 2,500,000.

Heavy emphasis in the main article is placed on the part the American political party plays in the election system. Author Richard M. Scammon, of the Governmental Affairs Institute, writes:

"Most of the confusion of overseas observers comes from an effort to identify American parties with political parties in their own countries, and this cannot be done.

"For the American party system is a product of American federalism, the primary system of party nominations and the prevalance of personalism in political life."

The Russians are told that the major task of the party is organizing the campaign rather than the statement of party doctrine. In the campaign, it is said, the party and candidate must "persuade the voter of the rightness of the candidate's policies and the value of supporting him at the polls."

The article also points up the U.S. voter's habit of splitting the ticket. "Many Americans find no difficulty in voting for a Republican for President, a Democrat for senator from their state, another Republican for representative, and a Democrat for mayor of their home town. If the voter doesn't like any of the regular candidates, he can 'write-in' anyone else he fancies."

Other points emphasized in the articles are the secrecy of the balloting, freedom to vote or not to vote, and the freedom to vote for any of a number of candidates.

Under the free election system, the magazine says, "no man or group can remain in office against the desires of the voters. As President Eisenhower has said, 'the right to vote, to make a secret and independent political decision, is the ultimate guarantee of liberty.'"

The magazine also includes several charts showing the composition by parties of Congress since 1924, the popular vote for president since 1924 and a sample ballot.

Soviet Union Reported As Killing Ban

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Soviet Union was reported Saturday to have dropped its last-minute demand for an inflexible ban on nuclear exposions in Antarctica, thus clearing the way for a precedent-making treaty for the southernmost continent.

The treaty would: 1. permit free scientific use of Antarctica, 2. freeze existing territorial claims there, and 3. set up an inspection system to see that its provisions are not violated.

The agreement may be viewed as another hopeful sign in the cold war thaw, since it could establish a pattern of cooperation between East and West.

The new Soviet position, well-informed circles said here, was given at a meeting of heads of delegations of the 12 nations which have spent more than six weeks in drafting the carefully detailed treaty.

The U.S.S.R. indicated it would accept, subject to certain minor modificatons, the text of an article on nuclear explosions supported by the other 11 delegations.

This provides for a temporary ban on nuclear explosions or disposal of atomic wastes in Antarctica, pending the drafting of an international treaty to which all 12 nations would have to agree. If there is a dissenter among the 12, the temporary ban would continue indefinitely.

At one time the Soviet Union had approved this proposal, but earlier this week they shifted their position and requested an outright ban. The other 11 nations held firm, and the Russians apparently dropped the demand.

Present plans now call for the full conference to meet Monday afternoon, with a closing plenary session and signing of the draft treaty to come Tuesday, the sources said.

The various governments still would have to give final approval to the treaty. A further meeting will be held in Canberra, Australia.

Nations which have participated in the six weeks of talks here are Argentina, Australia, Belgium, Chile, France, Japan, New Zealand, Norway, South Africa, the Soviet Union, the United Kingdom and the United States.

The call for the conference was made by President Eisenhower on May 3, 1958. He noted that the United States "is dedicated to the principle that the vast uninhabited wastes of Antarctica shall be only for peaceful purposes."

"We propose," he said, "That Antarctica shall be open to all nations to conduct scientific or other peaceful activities there."

Flood Warnings Are Issued In New England

BOSTON (AP)—Flood warnings for many of New England's smaller streams and brooks were given Saturday as 24-hour drenching rains saturated the six-state area.

Clearing and cooler weather forecast was expected to ease the flood situation. Unseasonably warm air brought record high temperatures in some places the past two days.

The storm dumped from 1 to 3 inches of rain over the northern sections.

"Since the ground is saturated from heavy rains that fell earlier in the week, there will be large amounts of runoff," the Weather Bureau said.

Western Massachusetts, Vermont, and northern and central parts of New Hampshire and Maine are expected to bear the brunt of the flooding.

The Plymouth area in central New Hampshire, hard hit by floods a month ago, again was the center of the flood threat. Plymouth is located at the junction of the Pemigewasset and Baker Rivers —both expected to overflow their banks.

Several highways, including one in the scenic Crawford Notch area, were closed by high water.

Springfield, Mass., last led the Eastern League in baseball attendance for the last three years.

MRS. CHARLES GILBERT MORGAN

Home Wedding Unites Miss Ethridge, Mr. Morgan

Miss Kay Ethridge and Charles Gilbert Morgan were married at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Ethridge, Jr., on Thursday afternoon. Dr. W. H. McFadden officiated at the ceremony performed before an improvised altar decorated with candles and yellow chrysanthemums.

The bride's only attendant was her sister, Mrs. Bob Patrick, who wore a champagne peau de soie sheath, with matching hat and slippers and a yellow mum corsage.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was gowned in blue lace, ballerina length, with cap sleeves. She wore a blue flower hat and a pearl necklace. Her corsage was one yellow orchid. For something old, she carried her great-grandmother's lace handkerchief.

Fred Salley served his nephew as best man.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Ethridge chose an ivory embroidered crepe with matching accessories and a yellow mum corsage.

A reception for families of the bride and groom and a few close friends was held immediately following the marriage ceremony in the home of the bride's parents. Yellow chrysanthemums and candles were used on the table which held the tiered bride's cake.

Miss Deane Stout presided over the coffee service, while Mrs. Leroy Womack served punch. Mrs. Ray Baird was in charge of the guest book. All those assisting wore yellow mum corsages.

Mrs. Morgan is a graduate of Neville High school. The groom is a graduate of Ouachita Parish high school, and is now attending Northeast State college. The young couple will be at home at 606 Victoria street.

DICKENS ACCUSED — A new book published in Britain yesterday charged that Charles Dickens, above, moralist author of the Victorian era, lived in sin with actress Ellen Ternan and flouted the law to hide the birth of an illegitimate child. Author of the new book, "Dickens Incognito," is actor Felix Aylmer. (AP Wirephoto)

Roosevelt Kidnap Plot Is Revealed

NEW YORK (AP) — Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr. says some wealthy Americans plotted to make a captive of Franklin D. Roosevelt at the time of his third-term election.

In an autobiography to be published Monday, Vanderbilt says that rich industrialists and others, who met around fashionable dinner tables in New York, Newport and Washington conspired to get "that man" out of the White House by force.

"I use the word conspiracy," Vanderbilt writes. "I am really talking of a plot—a serious long-discussed plan to—SHALL I say—capture the President."

A precipitating motive, Vanderbilt says, was to prevent Roosevelt from interfering with chances for large profits in the developing war crisis.

Vanderbilt, a writer, an associate of Roosevelt, and himself a member of a wealthy society family, says he was privy to discussions among the anti-FDR financial group that "really meant business."

"I heard here and there, and bit by bit, pieces that fitted together," he says, and finally concluded "a real conspiracy" was afoot. He said some of the group once met at his mother's home.

But he says they never went through with the scheme, after he was allowed to tip them off that Roosevelt and the FBI knew about it.

The FBI had no comment to make when informed of the story in Vanderbilt's book.

But U.E. Baughman, chief of the Secret Service which guards presidents said he had never heard of such a plot.

The Secret Service Chief at the time Vanderbilt says the plot was hatched, Frank J. Wilson, now retired, also said he had no recollection of such a scheme.

One of Roosevelt's former confidential secretaries, Grace Tully, said that she had never heard of the plot mentioned in the book.

Recounting the alleged plot in "Man of the World: my life on five continents," Vanderbilt writes:

"The idea was to impose a firm restraint, for the good of the country; to hold this dictator, this madman — well cared for, of course; well treated, but well guarded—while sane persons set up emergency controls and saved America."

Vanderbilt relates that he reported the plans to federal agencies, and then was allowed to tip off "those involved in the cabal" through a friend and an Army man.

At one point in the conspiracy, he writes, the site of a Roosevelt-Churchill conference was switched from Palm Beach to a ship at sea to protect Roosevelt.

He says the plot developed after Roosevelt's 1940 election to a third term, and his foes, who had long considered him a traitor to his own wealthy class and to old-line capitalism, "were ready to talk revolution."

"Of the industrialists and the social leaders who conspired or went along, some have died, some have lost power and influence. Others live in Monaco. We can afford to forget them all," he added.

Vanderbilt, great-great grandson of Commodore Cornelius Vanderbilt, founder of the family fortune, is the son of the late Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt. Vanderbilt has become known more as a writer, lecturer and traveler than as a society figure.

Although he hit second in the batting order most of the season, rookie Bob Allison of the Washington Senators drove home 85 runs.

John Bateman, now in his third season as an assistant football coach under Steve Sebo at Penn, worked 10 years under Lou Little at Columbia.

The stable of William G. Helis Jr. led the thoroughbred horse owners in winnings at the 1959 Monmouth Park meeting in Oceanport, N.J., with 101,142.

More Snow Hits Parts Of Country

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

New storms dumped snow in the frigid Great Lakes region Saturday.

Heavy Rains raised flood threats in New England.

A long dry spell brought prayers for rain in arid California.

Warnings of freezing weather were issued for northern Florida.

Snow piled up to 5 to 8 inches in northwestern Pennsylvania and 2 to 3 inches in the southwestern part of the state. A championship high school football game was postponed in Pittsburgh.

Snow reached ankle depth in the Chicago area, and put traffic on a treacherous surface.

A 3-inch fall in Rochester, N.Y., increased the total there to 6 inches.

Strong winds carried rain into Atlantic Coastal areas. Gusts of close to 50 m.p.h. were recorded in White Plains, N.Y.

Warnings of minor flooding were issued in New England after 1 to 3 inches of rain overloaded small streams and brooks.

The flood threat centered on the Plymouth area in central New Hampshire. Rt. 302 at Crawford, further north, was closed by high water. Several other northern routes also were closed temporarily.

Sleet, freezing rain and snow peppered the northern sections of New England.

A cold front, moving into northern Florida, dropped temperatures to 49 in Tallahassee and Pensacola. It was 80 in Miami at the same time.

The Weather Bureau forecast freezing temperatures for extreme northern Florida and said the freeze may extend westward along the Gulf coast into Texas.

Cold weather covered most of the nation. Midday temperatures were around the freezing levels across the north from the Rockies to the Appalachians.

Navy Tops Army; Bowl List Soars

Florida crushed Miami's bowl hopes 23-14 and Notre Dame spilled Southern California 16-6 to salvage a 5-5 season in other key games.

Boston College toppled Holy Cross 14-0, Vanderbilt drubbed Tennessee 14-0, Wake Forest whipped South Carolina 43-20, Oklahoma rallied to down Oklahoma State 17-7, Baylor edged Rice 23-21, and Colorado stopped Air Force 15-7.

There still remains one big one—top-ranked and unbeaten Syracuse against UCLA at Los Angeles next Saturday. UCLA warmed up for that one with a 21-6 victory over Utah.

Speedy Joe Bellino, a junior halfback hampered by injuries most of the season, scored a record-tying three touchdowns on runs of 1, 15 and 47 yards in Navy's shocking rout of Army before 100,000 at Philadelphia Stadium. Quarterback Joe Tranchini scored twice and directed the Middie attack brilliantly to far overshadow Army's touted Joe Caldwell, whose passing was erratic at best.

Only two others ever scored as many as three touchdowns in an Army-Navy game and both were Cadets—Doc Blanchard in 1945 and Pat Uebel in 1953. The 43 points by Navy was the most ever scored by a team in the 60-game series.

Mississippi's rout of State and Sugar Bowl acceptance assured a rematch of the year's great game in the South—the 7-3 LSU victory on All-America Billy Cannon's 89-yard punt return with 10 minutes left. Both teams wound up with 9-1 records and rate No. 2 and 3 nationally.

Georgia struck for three first half touchdowns behind Francis Tarkenton's passing and Fred Brown's running for a 21-0 halftime lead, then just did withstand Tech's second half rally. It gave Georgia a 9-1 record and seven straight victories since it lost its only game, 30-14 to South Carolina on Oct. 3.

Sophomore fullback Gerry Gray scored 14 points—two touchdowns and a tackle causing a safety—for awakened Notre Dame against Southern Cal, which dropped its last two after winning eight in a row.

Halfback Tom Moore, closing out a brilliant career at Vanderbilt, set up one touchdown, scored another and stopped Tennessee's top scoring threat with a fumble recovery.

Florida's star was Dick Allen, who ran for one touchdown, passed for two, and kicked a 20-yard field goal. The Florida defense intercepted five of Miami's Fran Curci's passes.

Vin Hogan scored both Boston College touchdowns on a three-yard run and a 38-yard pass from Johnny Amabile.

Harvey White scored once and triggered the attack with his passing in Clemson's triumph.

Mrs. C. Tillman Dies; Rites Set

Funeral services for Mrs. Charles W. Tillman of Monroe, who died Saturday in a local hospital, will be held at the Temple Baptist Church at 1 p.m., Sunday, with the Rev. Leon Ivey officiating.

Burial will be in the Dermott, Ark. Cemetery under the direction of Mulhearn Funeral Home.

Mrs Tillman who was a former railroad clerk, is survived by her husband, Charles W. Tillman, 618 South Third Street, Monroe, two sisters, Mrs. H. C. Clanton, Pine Bluff, Ark.; Mrs. S. L. Offutt, Memphis, Tenn.; one brother, J. A. Morris, Jr., Dermott, Ark., and a number of nieces and nephews.

She was a member of the Temple Baptist Church and of the Order of the Eastern Star. She was a native of Iola, Kansas and had lived in Monroe for the past 20 years.

Pallbearers will be Deacons of the Temple Baptist Church.

Tear Gas Fired Upon Rioting Mob

anniversary of Panama's independence from Colombia that touched off the anti-American riots.

Special student squads were organized to prevent Saturday's demonstrations from getting out of hand.

Officials feared that professional agitators and Communists would try to stir up trouble nevertheless.

Canal Zone Governor William E. Potter said residents of the Canal Zone, which the United States holds in perpetuity under treaty, could come and go as they pleased as long as there was no violence.

But the 4,000 American residents of Panama City proper were told by the U.S. embassy to avoid congested areas. No Americans could be seen on the streets as busloads of Panamanians began pouring into the city with shouts of "Yankee Go Home."

On Nov. 3, nationalists tried to force their way into the Canal Zone to hang the Panamanian flag. The U.S. embassy flag was torn down and desecrated.

The nationalists have demanded the removal of Governor Potter as well as an end to American "occupation" in the canal area. The United States has refused to turn over control of the canal to Panama although since 1903, the United States has voluntarily surrendered some zone territory and has increased payments to Panama for use of the Canal Zone.

One of the leaders of the nationalist movement is former Foreign Minister Aquilino Boyd, who personally led the demonstrations on Nov. 3.

He is considered a candidate for President of Panama in next year's elections.

LaSalle Area Man Charged With Murder

JENA (Special) — Sheriff department officials here last night charged a 29-year old Negro with murder following the fatal stabbing of a Negro woman near Trout, La.

Arvenus Bennett, also of Trout community, was being held in the LaSalle Parish jail last night in Jena, Sheriff D. Floyd said, on charges of murder.

According to Deputy A. M. Taylor, the incident developed over an argument between Bennett and the Negro woman, Cleola Nelson, 22, about a grocery bill. The pair were not married, he said, but were living together.

REPORT

At the height of the argument, deputies said Bennett grabbed a butcher knife and stabbed the victim through the heart. The incident happened about 4 p.m. yesterday.

He fled the scene before officers from the sheriff's department and state police arrived.

A manhunt ensued, with officers scouring the countryside for Bennett. He was discovered about 6 p.m. hiding under a nearby church, officers said, about three miles from the death scene.

In addition to Sheriff Floyd and Deputy Taylor, other officers assisting in the apprehension included deputies Herschel Floyd, Cliff Barton, Grady McClendon, Constable W. S. Williams, and troopers Larry Roberson and Dickey Nugent of the State Police.

Board To Meet

The Executive Board of the Women of Covenant Presbyterian Church will meet Tuesday, December 1, at 9:30 a.m. at the church. All officer — new and old — were asked to be present.

F. G. "RED" Studdard And Ward 1 Progress!

TO THE PEOPLE of WARD 1,
QUACHITA PARISH:

Some dissatisfaction has been expressed to me as to the possibility of additional delay in the completion of sewerage facilities which are to be constructed in the Sterlington area by the Commissioners of Sewerage District No. 1; and in a recent newspaper article a member of the Ouachita Parish School Board was quoted as stating that a sewerage system for Sterlington is unlikely for the next three or four years.

I am squarely behind every project that will help the people living in any area of the Ward; and as a consequence I have consulted with the attorney and the engineer who have been employed on this project in order to learn from them the true facts as to the progress of this work. A facsimile copy of their letter addressed to the School Board under date of November 23, 1959 is published herewith and this shows that the charges of undue delay in finishing this sewerage system are entirely without foundation.

Even though this sewerage district will not be complete for the opening of the Sterlington High School in September, I am advised that if the School Board desires to become a part of the sewerage district a temporary system can be installed in time for the opening of school and converted to a permanent character when the system is complete—thus eliminating the expense of an independent disposal system which is now being contemplated for the school.

In further evidence of my interest in the welfare of Ward 1, I should like to call your attention to the fact that I sponsored the proceedings by which the Ouachita Parish Police Jury created Fire Protection District No. 1, comprising the entire ward; and I am exerting every effort to have these facilities constructed as rapidly as possible. The first meeting of the governing body of this fire protection district has been called for December 9, 1959, pursuant to a resolution which I introduced. A reproduction of the published proceedings of the Police Jury showing my introduction of this resolution is also published herewith for your information.

During my period of service as Ward 1's representative on the Police Jury several miles of drainage facilities have been completed in the Ward and many miles of gravel road have been blacktopped—all of which will be evident to any person who has resided in the Ward during recent years.

I believe that I have justified the confidence which you have repeatedly placed in me as your representative on the Police Jury for the past sixteen years and I solicit your continued support for the future.

Re: Sewerage District No. 1, Sterlington, Louisiana

Dear Mr. Wall:

The undersigned have been acting as attorneys and engineers, respectively, for the Sterlington Sewerage District and we have observed the newspaper article relative to the securing of a sewerage facility for the new Sterlington High School which appeared in the Monroe Morning World of Wednesday, November 18, 1959, wherein Mr. Charles G. Drennan, School Board member from Ward 1, was quoted as stating that a sewerage system for Sterlington was unlikely for the next three or four years.

We do not know where Mr. Drennan secured his information, but in fairness to the Board of Commissioners of the Sterlington sewerage District, as well as ourselves, we must take issue with this statement and go on record as stating that while we do not believe that the Sterlington Sewerage District will be completed in sufficient time for the new Sterlington High School, we do believe that the Sterlington sewerage system will be in operation within a year's time.

Thanking you, we are

Very truly yours,

Haley Advances Rocket Proposal

used for a mission requiring the highest accuracy.

The official also described as "real stupid" the fact that only one rocket was ordered for the unsuccessful Thanksgiving Day launching featuring the 5,000 mile Atlas intercontinental ballistic missile.

"If the Lunar job is worth doing, as I believe it is," he said, "The Thanksgiving day firing should have been part of a comprehensive program involving at least five or six rockets."

Haley agreed with the criticism. He said Russia plans space projects on a multi-rocket basis and usually has an alternate rocket standing by at the time of the firing.

Unless Eisenhower orders a new moon shot program with overriding priorities, a year or more will pass before America makes another attempt to send a rocket to the moon because all the Atlas rockets to be produced in that period are earmarked for other projects.

Haley said this would be "fatal to America's prestige. "It is vital that we make another attempt to orbit the moon, certainly within three months."

Although missiles could be diverted from other projects to meet Haley's timetable, this could affect tests scheduled in "Project Mercury," to put a man in orbit in 1961, or "Project Midas," to develop an early-warning military satellite.

Spokesmen for the National Aeronautics & Space Administration (NASA) and the Air Force said an order for additional lunar shots would require a careful examination to determine what could be sacrificed or postponed.

School Holiday Ends In Monroe, Parish Systems

Students at Northeast State College, who started vacation at the end of classes Wednesday, will also resume studies Monday.

The next round of holidays in the city and parish school systems will get under way when classes are dismissed at noon, December 22, to remain closed until Jan. 4.

present registration, possibly more."

High interest in local contests traditionally have been a major cause of large voter participation in the race for governor.

The upcoming primary will have candidates for all top state offices, the Legislature, the Democratic and Republican state central committee, sheriff, clerk of court, assessor, coroner, police juror, peace justice and constable.

Martin's prediction follows careful analysis of past trends.

In 1940, during the reform movement that put Sam Jones into the mansion, the registered vote was only 703,810 but 549,840 persons voted for a 77 per cent ratio.

Voter participation sagged to 65.9 per cent in 1944, but that was wartime when many Louisianians were in service.

In 1948, participation climbed again to 70.8 per cent, with Earl Long winning his second term.

Four years later, the voter effort increased to 75.4 per cent, and in 1956, it reached the present percentage mark of 77.5 per cent.

While Martin predicted 77 per cent for the coming primary, he also said the rate might be even higher.

Since Louisiana's million-or-better registration level was reached in 1952, voting effort has been high percentagewise.

Romulo noted Friday that Weaver had suggested Congress get testimony from U.S. field commanders. The Filipino diplomat said this revealed the source of what he called Weaver's misinformation.

Weaver said Romulo's "attitude of do-nothing, say-nothing and propose-nothing is typical of the negative program which brought on the present situation."

The others convicted, John Taylor Coggins, 39-year-old auto salesman, and Jesse Raymond Perry, 24, a truck driver, drew three-year prison sentences. Another man, J. D. Sims, 35-year-old truck driver, pleaded guilty to the school board dynamiting and got five years. A fifth man, Samuel Graydon Beavers, 49, a carpenter, will be tried Dec. 29.

One of Lauderdale's attorneys, W. B. Howard of Jonesboro, Ark., said an appeal would be made to the Arkansas Supreme Court. He said the defense probably would take a full 30 days allowed by Judge William J. Kirby in which to seek a new trial.

Lauderdale remained free on $50,000 bond.

Gordon Sullivan, attorney for Coggins and Perry, said he had received an extension until Jan. 11 to file for a new trial for his clients. Coggins and Perry also are on bond.

FOREIGN POLICIES

Conference May Preface Split

WASHINGTON (AP)—A conference of congressional leaders with President Eisenhower Monday may preface a Democratic split over support of administration foreign policies.

Eisenhower obviously hopes to win from House Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex), Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex) and other congressional Democrats advance approval of the goodwill crusade he is expected to pursue on his forthcoming trip to 11 non-Communist countries.

If this can be accomplished, it would be likely to counter to some extent the sharp condemnation of the administration's international policies almost certain to come from the Democratic Advisory Council at a New York meeting this week shortly after Eisenhower's departure.

The council presumably will reflect the views of five members mentioned as potential party presidential nominees. These include Adlai E. Stevensn, Sens. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, Stuart Symington of Missouri and Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota, and Gov. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown of California.

While the council hardly can afford to deprecate Eisenhower's efforts to solidify the free world on his extensive trip, it already has demonstrated its willingness to attack vigorously his handling of international affairs.

Rayburn and Johnson, who have pointedly ignored council recommendations in the past, have been considerably less critical of the President on this score.

Johnson, who is expected to blossom into far more than a mere Texas favorite son candidate for next year's nomination, has taken the position there is little to be gained politically from broadside criticism of the chief executive. Rayburn, who is booming Johnson as a presidential prospect, goes along generally with this idea.

Because the two leaders have demonstrated in the past their willingness to cooperate when they are consulted in advance, the White House apparently hopes to answer with Monday's conference an old complaint about the handling of bipartisan foreign policy.

As this was voiced by the late Sen. Arthur Vandenberg (R-Mich) years ago during a Democratic administration, the opposition party wants "to be in on the take-offs as well as the crash landings."

While Eisenhower can expect no blanket endorsement of his policies from either Rayburn or Johnson, he is giving them a hand in the take-off by disclosing to them in advance his plans for his unprecedented mission.

The administration reasoning seems to be that by this action it will have taken steps toward tying the congressional leaders to its policies in the face of a prospective attack from the self-styled liberal wing of the Democratic party.

This doesn't mean, of course, that congressional Democrats will forego criticism of policies with which they don't agree. Rayburn and Johnson can be outspoken when they want to be. So can Chairman J. William Fulbright (D-Ark) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and Thomas E. Morgan (D-Pa) of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, who are among those invited to the White House.

Chile Drive Against Arms May Spread

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Chilean drive to reduce armament expenditures may spread to all Latin America, diplomatic sources said Friday.

Chilean President Jorge Alessandri warned this week that Latin America's economy would be seriously weakened if armament competition was allowed to continue.

His statement caused some concern in the defense services of the hemisphere. But it also encouraged some civilians who, in current trade difficulties, are thinking more in terms of balanced budgets than modern weapons.

Important public figures in Argentina, Brazil, Ecuador and Peru were known to be rallying in support of the disarmament plea.

Responsible sources told United Press International that Alessandri may press for a moratorium on military purchases. The idea would be presented to the eleventh Pan American Conference scheduled for Quito next February.

U. S. officials were deliberately staying on the side-lines as they believed that any initiative of this nature should come from the Latin American countries themselves.

It is no secret, however, that the Eisenhower administration firmly favors a shift of emphasis from military to economic aid for needy nations.

Officials here recalled with regret how in 1957 the council of the Organization of American States (OAS) scrapped a progressive disarmament proposal offered by former Costa Rican Ambassador Gonzalo Facio. It had received vigorous endorsement from U.S. delegate John C. Dreier.

The plan was decisively defeated after a Mexican representative charged it would leave the defense of the hemisphere entirely in U.S. hands and that such a thing was "incompatible with my country's dignity."

Diplomatic officials feel that the climate in favor of disarmament has grown considerably in the past two years. This belief is particularly strong in countries recently liberated from dictatorships, with the exception of Cuba.

RACE TRACKS

Labor Board Gives Problem To States

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The National Labor Relations Board (NLRB), exercising its discretionary authority for the first time under the new labor reform law, refused Saturday to assume jurisdiction over labor disputes at horse race tracks.

The board unanimously declined to authorize collective bargaining elections for unions at the Hialeah Race Course, Hialeah, Fla., and Jefferson Downs, Inc., Jefferson Parish, La.

The board based its refusal in part on a provision in the new law that gives state agencies the right to assume jurisdiction over cases rejected by the NLB.

The five-member panel held that "since race track operations generally are subject to close regulation by the states, labor disputes arising at the track should at the track should also be left to state regulation."

It was the first time the board had used the power granted to it by a section of the new law specifically granting it the right to exclude cases having a minor affect on interstate commerce, providing it was a type of dispute rejected by the board before the new law went into effect.

The board noted that even under its old regulations, it has consistently refused since 1950 to assume jurisdiction over race tracks.

Its decision noted that Hialeah had a total income of $6,277,023 in 1959. Jefferson Downs had an income of $600,000 from bets and $60,100 from admissions.

In the Hialeah case, the board turned down the plea of the Carpenters' District Council of Miami for an election involving 16 employes of the race track.

The board ruled that "the effect on commerce of such labor disputes (at race tracks) is not sufficiently substantial to warrant the exercise of the board's jurisdiction." It said race track operations were essentially local in character.

It said it assumes that "the states involved will be quick to assert their authority" to step into race track labor disputes.

In the Jefferson Downs case, it held that although the operation may technically be within the board's jurisdiction, it did not think it would be carrying out the purposes of the new law if it took the case.

At Jefferson Downs, the Independent Mutual Clerks Guild of Louisiana had asked for a collective bargaining election affecting 10 employes.

Authorities Say Dane Obsessed

NEW YORK (AP) — Psychiatrists told police Saturday that Povl Bang-Jensen, deposed United Nations official, seemed obsessed with destroying himself.

Bang-Jensen,50, was found dead of a gunshot wound Thanksgiving. Police say he killed himself.

His body was cremated Saturday and arrangements were made to fly his ashes to his native city, Copenhagen, Denmark.

Bang-Jensen had been depressed since his discharge as a senior political affairs officer at the United Nations last year. His removal followed his refusal to release to his U.N. superiors the names of 81 Hungarian refugees who had testified before a U.N. committee probing the 1956 Hungarian revolt. He said he feared that Communists might get access to the list and take reprisals.

Police quoted Dr. John H. Cornelsen as saying he had treated Bang-Jensen at the latter's home and at the psychiatrist's office in New York City. He said Bang-Jensen had contemplated suicide.

Dr. Cornhelsen said he recommended that Bang-Jensen see another psychiatrist, Dr. F. S. Friedenberg of Brooklyn. The latter also told police Bang-Jensen seemed obsessed with suicide.

A third psychiatrist, Dr. Lawrence Strauss, of Great Neck, N.Y. said Bang-Jensen had been taking sedatives and tranquilizers.

The Bang-Jensens apparently had no financial worries. Police said a joint bank account showed a balance of $17,000.

Mrs. Bang-Jensen, the former Helen Nolan of Port Jervis, N.Y., plans to fly to Denmark for her husband's funeral service on Thursday.

The Bang-Jensens have five children ranging from 4 to 16 years.

Elvis Shook By Booming Ballads And Dying Roock

FRANKFURT, Germany (UPI) —Cpl. Elvis Presley shook his head in disbelief Saturday when told that Rock 'N' Roll was on the wane in the United States.

But he quickly said that if some other type of music is replacing the old Rock beat, he would sing it.

Presley has made his fortune singing Rock 'N' Roll songs on radio, television and records and in movies. When he finishes his Army service next year, he hopes to go back to his same old stand.

When told of reports from cities across the United States that Rock 'N' Roll was fading away, he said

"You've got no idea of how many times I've heard that. I can't say whether it is or isn't. I wish I did, but I've been away from it for about 20 months now.

When told that ballads appeared to be replacing his special kind of music, Presley said he would go along with the trend.

"If it is true," he said, "I'd be a fool not to pay some attention to it. If people have actually changed their minds about what they like, naturally I'd probably try to do more along that line."

No. 79 on the ballot

Prominent Educator Says Rainach Is The Man Who Will Protect Our Children's Future!

F. C. Haley, superintendent of Claiborne Parish schools has mailed the following letter to the presidents of the school boards and to fellow superintendents in all of Louisiana's 67 school districts:

IT IS AFTER much thoughtful consideration that I write you this letter soliciting your assistance on behalf of the candidacy of Sen. Willie Rainach for the governorship of Louisiana. As you know, Sen. Rainach has represented Claiborne Parish as either its representative or senator for the past 20 years. During these years I have known Willie as a neighbor and a friend. I have had his confidence during his moments of success as well as those of sorrow. Rarely have the legislative halls of Baton Rouge witnessed such wise and courageous leadership as that displayed by this gallant warrior from the hills of North Louisiana.

Sen. Rainach does not play politics according to ear, but weighs every issue according to its merits and then moves with great resolution toward what he thinks is the just and proper solution. Had Sen. Rainach been playing for the plaudits of the multitude, you can rest assured that he would not have accepted the chairmanship of the Joint Legislative Committee on Segregation. Neither would he have sponsored the Right to Work Law under conditions in which he at times feared for the welfare of his loved ones. Sen. Rainach is not just an average individual, but he is the type of man that any state is fortunate to have during its tumultuous and troublesome times.

IN SEN RAINACH, education has a tried and true friend. During his 20 years as a lawmaker Willie has supported and championed many of the laws that mean so much to the teachers and children of Louisiana. As you know, most of the teacher welfare laws were enacted during his era and were supported and pushed by Rainach. This talented man is a product of the Claiborne Parish schools. It was at the request of the educators of Claiborne Parish that Sen. Rainach first entered politics. Foremost among those people that encouraged Sen. Rainach to run for representative the first time were his former high school principals and teachers. Wherever you find one of them today, you will find a staunch Rainach supporter.

As you know, during the hectic days of the 1958 session, Rep. Garrett and Sen. Rainach were against the gas gathering tax until they were convinced that, if this tax did not pass, the school session would be abbreviated or the teachers would suffer a salary cut. These men then changed their position and the tax passed with exactly enough votes in the House. These men have suffered great abuse for befriending education.

IN MY LIFE as a school man you educators have honored me by electing me to many of the highest positions in our proffessional organizations. I have been an officer in the coaches' organization. I have served as president of the principals' association. I have been president of the superintendents' association. At various times I have been a delegate to both state and national conventions. For several years I served on the United School Committee. At the present time I am a member of the Teachers' Retirement Board. I think you know me as a quiet and conservative individual. I try not to impose my opinions and views on any person. I also prize and respect the opinions and views of my friends. I would do nothing to betray the trust you have had in me.

It was only after much thoughful consideration that I decided to write this letter. May I also assure you that Sen. Rainach knows nothing of these intentions and has never requested such a favor. It is only because the vital issues facing us in the immediate future are so many and so frightening that I, as a citizen of Louisiana, would feel derelict of my duties if I did not divulge to you my knowledge about Sen. Rainach. Willie is not a radical nor is he an extremist on any issue as his enemies would have you believe. He is a moderate, considerate man with great humility. It was with Sen. Rainach's assistance that the Claiborne Parish School Board was able to consolidate 64 Negro schools into five schools. It was with Sen. Rainach's assistance that every child in Claiborne Parish, regardless of color or creed, is now afforded a high school education. I believe any good Christian in Claiborne Parish will affirm these statements.

NOT SINCE the reconstruction days has Louisiana needed a man of such strong resolution and devotion in the governor's chair. We must not surrender to the liberals, the left-wings, the extremist elements in the Democratic and Republican parties. Many of these national party leaders are nothing but political alley cats without principle, home, or destination. We must not allow our state political leaders to sell us down the river for political pottage. I was proud when Sen Rainach refused to stampede to New Orleans and bow to U.S. Sen. John Kennedy, who had already spit in the South's face. I feel that, if the state of Louisiana and the South in general does not demand self-respect during the next national election, the South shall sink into political turpitude. Sen. Rainach is not a machine man, and, if elected governor, he will not let any machine or any faction dictate the affairs of state. The strong fiber of this nation is made up of rugged individualism. Destroy this fiber and our nation will crumble like a house of sand. In late years too many of our leaders have failed us, and there has been a great erosion of public respect and confidence in our leaders. Too many of our leaders have been advocating oneness in all phases of our life. This is not the American way, and to impose it on our citizenship is only to fall victim of the great Communist conspiracy, whose leaders would make slaves of us all.

THIS LETTER is not meant as a reflection on any of the other candidates for governor. Several of these men are personal friends of mine, but many of them are also political opportunists. How many of them will stand up to the Northern left-wing politicans, to the radical elements of both parties? How many of them will throw road blocks in front of federal edicts that threaten to grind our Southern heritage into the sand? Sen. Rainach is the only candidate that I know of that has offered, if elected, to place the governor's chair between the radical decisions of the federal courts and our school children.

Let us not kid ourselves nor cover our heads with sand. If the high executives of our state do not come to our rescue, the edicts that are now being handed down by our high federal courts are going to catch the children, teachers, principals, superintendents, and school board members of our state like sitting ducks on a pond of water. The citizens of our communities will be expecting a stronger leadership than we can afford without the support of the governor's office. All hell will break loose in our local communities. Some of these communities will make Little Rock look like a peace party. It will take time to turn this tide of liberalism and radicalism, but turn it we must or your children and grandchildren will not enjoy the liberties and privileges that you and I have enjoyed.

ALREADY THE WINDS from the South are blowing hot. The Orleans Parish School Board must produce a plan to integrate immediately. Suits have been rekindled in East Baton Rouge and St. Helena Parishes. A promiment member of the NAACP has stated that Caddo Parish is close in line. Where is your parish on this list?

The fathers and mothers of our children must shoulder the responsibility of the outcome of this election and not leave it in the hands of the political bosses and ward heelers that are trying to reap material and political remuneration. The word integration is a terribly misused word. Some of our judges do not seem to understand its meaning. Many of us in our every day life associate with people of all shades of color. What we object to is being told with whom we must live, eat, and sleep. We do not even care to do this with some people of our own color. Forced integration will not immediately affect those people of wealth. It is the working people and poor people of all races who will suffer most.

Willie is an American statesman all of the way. He is not a half-breed between Americanism and some foreign ism. He takes pride in being a Southerner and a native of Louisiana.

SEN. RAINACH has not promised any pie in the sky. He has not promised a chicken in every pot nor two cars in every garage. But he has promised to fully implement the proposed teachers' salary schedule. I know Sen. Rainach to be sympathetic toward school problems. Mr. Rainach is a family man, having a wife and three children. His wife is a former school teacher.

Sen. Rainach is a Christian gentelman with high morals and is embodied with a high sense of justice. His life's story from an orphan's home to a leading citizen and a great statesman is a Cinderella story within itself. In closing I sincerely solicit your support for this great man for governor.

Sincerely yours,
F. C. HALEY,
Superintendent,
Claiborne Parish Schools.

N.J. Court Won't Delay Enforcement

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — The New Jersey Supreme Court refused Saturday to delay enforcement of a new Sunday sales law pending a ruling on its constitutionality.

In a unanimous decision, the seven justices ruled the law can go into effect immediately in the 12 of New Jersey's 21 counties which approved it at referenda Nov. 3.

Chief Justice Joseph Weintraub said the court felt it had no reason to stop police and county prosecutors from enforcing the law in an orderly way.

As approved in 12 counties, the law bans the sale of wearing apparel, building materials, furniture and appliances on Sunday. Three counties rejected such a law Nov. 3. Six others held no referenda on it.

The present case was started by two firms which maintain highway discount stores in the state—the Channel Lumber Co. and Two Guys from Harrison.

They claimed the Legislature unlawfully delegated law making powers to the people in authorizing the referendum, and that the classification between articles allowed and banned from sale was arbitrary and capricious.

Ark tossed out these contentions Friday and ruled the new law constitutional. He stayed enforcement until 4 p.m. Saturday however, so the State Supreme Court could hold its extraordinary Saturday session and decide whether to stay the law further.

Meanwhile, the plaintiffs filed appeal with the State Supreme Court, and the court set Dec. 22 as the date it will hear arguments on the constitutionality question itself.

Eligible Bachelor Interviewed

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—One of the world's most eligible bachelors—wealthy, handsome 22-year-old Prince Karim Aga Khan IV—talked long and enthusiastically Saturday in precise Harvard English about the problems of his 20 million Ismailis followers.

Put he dismissed with a blush in seconds any talk about personal romance.

"Is there any truth," one newsman asked him at a news conference in the Conquistador room of the Hotel Mark Hopkins, "to a recent report that you proposed to Sylvia Casablanca (19-year-old Mexican beauty)?"

Aga Khan blushed. His eyebrows lifted in an air of disbelief.

"The day I decide to get married I'll tell the press," he said. "But up to then it's a personal question."

The leader of Ismailis scattered over Asia, Africa and the Middle East is in San Francisco on a United States tour to help raise $2,500,000 for the African Research Foundation to extend medical treatment and research in East Africa.

But he made it clear that's merely one of many projects which have so occupied him that he's travelled nearly 300,000 miles since succeeding the late Aga Khan III.

His bulky grandfather once hoisted his 215-pounds on a scale while followers balanced the weight in gifts — one time gold, once platinum, once diamonds. The gift money went for welfare.

Would the young Aga Khan revive that practice?

He'd rather not talk about it. Perhaps some day he might, certainly not before another decade. And his weight? A trim 175 pounds.

Golden Rule May Start Next War

Editor's Note Three years ago a topflight Soviet military theorist published his views on warfare. In essence, they constitute a Soviet concept of World War III. These opinions are now available to the general public in English translation.

By BEM PRICE

WASHINGTON (AP) — If the Russians ever do unto others what they say they expect others to do unto them, World War III would really wreck this globe.

In the opinion of Maj. Gen. G. I. Pokrovsky, topflight Soviet scientist and military theorist, the Soviet Union should be prepared to defend herself against:

1. A surprise attack with long-range missiles.

2. An assault using every weapon of mass destruction in man's arsenal — thermonuclear bombs, chemicals and bacteria.

Ironically, these are precisely the intentions many Western military men attribute to the Soviet Union.

Pokrovsky's three - year - old views have been translated into English and published as a book, "Science and Technology in Contemporary War" by Frederick A. Praeger, Inc.

Pokrovsky, a nuclear expert, is a member of the Interdepartmental Commission for Interplanetary Communications, the outfit which launched the Soviet Sputniks and Luniks.

One thing Pokrovsky makes clear: He believes in the balanced force concept of defense; that is, all services and branches are of equal importance. He doesn't believe in the doctrine of massive deterrence.

"Strategic weapons systems can lead to the unexpected in military affairs. Strategic armament can completely change the whole character of warfare, converting the entire territory of even very large countries into arenas of combat," he writes.

"But strategic weapons, by their very nature, cannot be considered as independent and self-sufficient. All forms of weapons must be employed in warfare in a close and well - organized combined operation."

The 58-year-old Soviet general also notes: "A mass attack by long-range rockets, dealt by surprise, could be especially powerful. All this bespeaks the fact that the long-range rocket increases the role of surprise in contemporary warfare."

Pokrovsky makes it clear that the next war would require thousands of highly qualified technicians, but adds, "Contemporary warfare also requires mass field armies."

The Soviet general expresses the belief that long-range missiles are good only if you know the location of your target—enemy missile sites and industrial complexes.

They are no good, he contends, against highly mobile armies in the field, the people who will do the fighting after the strategic missiles have been launched.

Tomcat Tobe, 10-Week-Old Reason For Pete's 'Training', Watches Hungrily.

ANTI-CAT STRATEGY

Boxing Parakeet

By MARY ANNE CORPIN
Staff Writer

"Come over here and get your boxing lessons, Pete."

P. B. Scott, 425 Wilmuth St., watched as Pete, a multi-colored parakeet, zoomed to the window and attacked a Venetian blind cord.

Tobe, a large, 10-week-old tomcat, also looked on cooly. The boxing lessons are for Tobe's benefit, if he ever decides on parakeet platter.

"Get him, kick him, butt him, bite him, anything's fair," urged Scott. Pete butted the cord viciously.

'JUST JOKE'

"It's just a joke," laughed Scott, "Pete would be just a mouthful for Tobe, and his 'boxing lessons' wouldn't be any good in a real showdown."

In the traditional enmity between cat and bird, Pete has an edge — his flight wings and an ability to scream for help.

"One day, I heard the bird yelling, 'Kitty, kitty, kitty, succaat I got to the kitchen just in time to grab Tobe when he jumped at Pete," Scott mentioned.

Pete has been a member of the Scott household most of his eight months. Tobe arrived two months ago, to both Scott's and Pete's discomfort.

"My wife always wanted a cat, but never had one before. I hate them — except for this one," he said as Tobe climbed up into his lap.

FAVORS BIRD

But Scott favors the bird, an devised the fighting game, to keep Pete in trim.

Pete does everything a potential fighter should do. He spars with the blind cord, lifts his "weights" (the plastic tassel on the end of the cord), and on Scott's command becomes a "punch-drunk fighter."

"You're punch - drunk," chuckles Scott, bobbing up and down, and Pete imitates it perfectly.

Pete showed a fighting instinct one day when he pecked Scott on the arm. "I warned him not to do that, so he hopped to my other arm, and pecked that, too. I tapped him with a pencil, then, and he flew up to the ceiling and circled around and around the house, yelling, "Mama,"

Pete, who has an extensive vocabularly, likes to listen in on phone calls.

QUESTION

"He perched on my wife's shoulder one day when she was talking to a friend of ours, named Marty. When she hung up, Pete looked at her and said, "Is Marty coming here" said Scott.

A card kibitzer Pete also watches when Scott plays solitaire then flies down and starts moving the cards off the deck to suit himself.

"Since we got the cat, we have to put Pete in his cage part of the time. He lived in the house before," Scott added.

Tobe has the run of the house, sleeps on the bed and apparently understands English.

"Tobe meows in my ear to wake me up in the morning. I got tired of that, so my wife told Tobe, 'Don't wake him up tomorrow morning,' The cat didn't bother me for the next two days—but he awoke my wife up both of those mornings. She didn't like that, so she told him to wake me up the next day and believe it or not, he did," said the amazed man.

KNOWS BEST

The soft, gray cat apparently knows what's good for him. When he arrived at the Scott household, he was accompanied by his brother, a blue - gray kitten. The two - week - old blue cat whipped a bulldog, and stood his ground to fight when any dog came near. Tobe ran.

The blue cat went down fighting outnumbered one afternoon; Tobe's "strategic retreat" saved his own life. Now, he "lives to ambush people," Scott quipped.

Tobe lies in wait, then jumps three feet in the air to startle anyone walking through the house.

But he will have to jump higher than that to come close to Pete — that's Pete's unspoken opinion, anyway, as he glares down from the lofty heights of the curtain rod, at the gray enemy.

Crash Programs To Train Scientists Considered Flop

EDITOR'S NOTE—Schools were made a kind of national whipping boy two years ago for America's lag in the missile race. With much fanfare, ambitious programs were announced for better science education. Here is a sobering look at just how much has actually been accomplished.

By G. K. HODENFIELD
AP Education Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—For two years this country has been talking about crash programs to train more scientists. We're still talking, but the programs apparently have flopped.

When the Soviets sent Sputnik I into orbit in the fall of 1957 there was a great outcry:

"We are lagging behind the Russians," it went. "Our schools are to blame."

SCAPEGOAT

The school was a handy scapegoat. Today's students are tomorrow's scientists, and any national program to train more scientists has to start in the classroom.

In some communities there has been remarkable improvement. But at best this is spotty progress. Nationwide, so-called crash programs seem to be wrapped in apathy and tied with red tape.

Dr. Ellsworth Obourne of the U. S. Office of Education says this country is now spending between 50 and 60 million dollars a year to improve science teaching. That includes expenditures by the government as well as foundations and private industry.

"This money is being poured in at the top of a funnel," says Dr. Obourne. "Very little is getting through to the local level where it is needed. It's like pouring money down a rathole."

In comparison to that 50-60 million dollars, the government this year is spending 68 million dollars on our fish and wildlife program. It is spending 82½ million to develop the recreational uses of our parks and public lands. It is spending more than 100 million for an atomic submarine.

AGREE

Scientists and educators agree there are five essentials to a good school program in science.

There must be a broad, comprehensive course of studies, from elementary grades through high school. There should be one well-trained guidance officer for each 200-300 high school students. And three must be good teachers good textbooks, good equipment and facilities.

Dr. James B. Conant, noted educator and former president of Harvard University, recently completed a two-year study of the American high school.

He found 75 per cent of them too small to offer a diversified program except at exorbitant expense. They can't afford advanced science courses for only a few students, they can't afford special teachers for those classes, they can't afford guidance officers, up-to-date textbooks, or laboratory equipment.

These too-small high schools enroll about one-third of the nation's high school students. The larger schoolss are doing better, but they, too, are strapped for money.

This is the situation, point-by-point, based on the latest studies and on a series of interviews with scientist and educators:

1. Curriculum: With a few notable exceptions, science study in the public schools hasn't changed much since the turn of the century.

A new physics course has been worked out by experts at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Similar work in biology is under way at the University of Colorado at Boulder. It may will be years, however, before these new programs are in general use throughout the country.

According to one expert, "There is a lag of at least 10 to 15 years between what goes on in science and what is taught in our schools."

EXCEPTIONS

There are heartening exceptions however, such as in San Angelo, Tex., where there is a coordinated science program from the first grade through the 12th. The junior high and high school courses have to be beefed up each year as better prepared pupils come into those grades. A somewhat similar program got under way in Georgia just this year. Baltimore County, Md., have overhauled its teaching of chemistry and biology. Denver, Colo., is reorganizing its entire science program.

2. Guidance Officers: By a conservative estimate there is a shortage of 15,000 guidance officers in this country. And, according to John T. Stewart of the Illinois State Office of Public Instruction, at least two - thirds of the counselors now employed do not meet minimum requirements.

Another source says less than nine per cent of the guidance officers have any background in science. Literally thousands of potential scientists are being lost to the field through poor counseling or none at all.

PROGRAMS

Several government programs designed to ease the shortage of high school counselors won't begin to fill the need for years to come.

3. Teachers: This is perhaps the most complex part of the entire problem.

Figures compiled by the National education Assn. show a shortage of 135,000 qualified teachers. The need in high school science is especially severe because many good potential science teachers are lured into private industry by better pay.

Many schools just can't offer the courses they would like to, for lack of a teacher. Many teachers with little or no science background are given science classes to teach, in the forlorn hope they'll at least be able to keep ahead of their students.

But it's more than just a shortage of teachers.

Says one scientist: "Many of our science teachers graduated from college 15-20 years ago. They have been following the same old course for years, and they're quite content with it.

Until we can bring these teachers up to date, we'll be teaching space age science with horse and buggy teachers."

SAME COURSE

The national Science Foundation, a government agency, is spending millions of dollars on summer institutes to bring science teachers up to date. Last summer there were 350 such institutes, each lasting from 6 to 10 weeks. Private industry has similar, but smaller, programs. Even so, these institutes can reach only a fraction of the teachers who need their help.

4. Textbooks: Sputnik I started whizzing around the earth more than two years ago. It will be at least another year or two before textbooks dealing with earth satellites are in general use around the country. In some schools, the students won't see those books for another four or five years.

SURVEY

According to a survey by the American Textbook Publishers Institute of New York—and the institute may be a bit prejudiced—the nation's high schools needed to buy 353 million dollars worth of textbooks last year to replace those which were worn out or obsolete. Actual purchases were 67 million dollars.

There is no national program for the purchase of textbooks. Even the National Defense Education Act of 1958, which provides for the build - up of science libraries, specifically bans the purchase of textbooks with NDEA funds.

Title Three of the NDEA provides for 16 million dollars in federal grants to the states to buy equipment for science, mathematics and foreign language teaching, and to employ state supervisors of instruction in those three fields.

But as of now, NDEA officials have no evidence that any of the federal funds have been spent on science equipment.

"When you only read about science, instead of actually experiencing it in the laboratory, it is very dull, dry and uninteresting," says Dr. Obourne of the Office of Education. The students dislike it, and they stay away from it."

Dr. Obourne sees only one hope for the future of science teaching in this country.

"We have to spark a flame at the local level," he says. "The teachers, the parents, the superintendents, the school board members - all those people must really want to do something about it. If we can stir up the fire in the individual schools and neighborhoods—that is our one big hope."

Gubernatorial Race

The present gubernatorial primary campaign — which ends next Saturday with the voting — has been one of the hottest in Louisiana in many a day.

It has been conducted with dignity by some candidates, but with exactly the opposite by other candidates.

Three circulars offering no foundation of truth in factor inference have been distributed anonymously, statewide, against at least two candidates. This is one of the vilest forms of campaigning — a type of attack that never can be adequately answered, and which usually is best not answered at all.

There has been the not unusual presence of hatchetmen. The hatchetman usually is a candidate who attacks another candidate without regard to rules of decency or laws of slander, doing so not for his own benefit but to assist a third candidate — in hope of some kind of reward for the hatchetman if the third candidate is elected.

> All of this has tended to draw attention away from the highly important contests for the Legislature, which always have far too little attention.

The Legislature is a vital cog in government. It is impossible to have good government without a Legislature of capable and intellectual members, free of subservience to the Governor but supporting him in all steps beneficial to the state as a whole. A good Legislature can control a bad Governor. When both are on the undesirable side, the result can be governmental catastrophe.

The people of Louisiana have seen the importance of the Legislature clearly demonstrated during the present Earl K. Long administration.

It was only the fact that under the previous administration the people had established a constitutional provision against new taxation except through a two-thirds majority of the Legislature that Governor Long was prevented from leading the state with new taxes. No one can know how far he would have gone in this direction had he been able to put over a major portion of his original pledge-breaking program.

It was only by a margin of one member of the House that, at times, a one-third majority against the morally corrupt Long schemes was maintained. And a switch of one vote, which opened the door for a switch of others, eventually enabled the Governor to pass the one major tax bill that did get through out of the many he proposed.

A strong and independent Legislature could have prevented much of the turmoil within the state government during the present Long administration.

It could have made it impossible for Governor Long even to get some of his bills to the floor for action.

It could have cracked down on him in many ways at many times.

It could not have made a good Governor out of him but it could have prevented much of the trouble that resulted from his normally dishonest scheming.

It could have prevented Louisiana from becoming a target for nationwide ridicule.

> Instead, the Legislature contained many members either of the same type as Governor Long or too much on the weakling side to resist him. The result was almost a two-thirds legislative majority for what may go down as the worst administration in Louisiana's history.

No matter who is elected Governor this time, it is vital that the Legislature be independent, that it should possess both collective and individual strength in its members, and that all of them should be persons who are determined to rescue Louisiana from the shambles into which Earl Longism has put it.

The Monroe Morning World and News-Star urge the people to study the legislative races closely, and to vote for candidates who are known for their honesty, their political integrity, and their capabilities in their home areas. The government of Louisiana is a $600,000,000 a year operation. Only the best should be on the "Board of Directors" — the Legislature— in guiding its affairs as representatives of the "Stockholders"— the people.

Labor Rebuffs Castro

The Cuban labor confederation early this week rejected Premier Fidel Castro's personal request for a Communist-supported "unity" program and elected an executive committee including no Reds.

The organization — two million strong — in its 10th labor congress voiced the first forthright opposition to Castro on an item of major importance. Following a four-day battle within its ranks, the labor federation finally swung behind the election of a 27-member executive board with no Communist representation. The vote marked a failure of Castro to swing the voting members behind his plan for a "united forces" labor plan.

Out of the more than 3,000 delegates assembled to form an executive committee for the congress, only 16 votes were cast for the plan to include Communists in the organization's governing body.

The action of the majority in itself was commendable. But coming as it did following Castro's open plea — actually a demand — for a coalition committee to head the organization, the results were almost unbelievable.

The revolutionary premier made an unexpected appearance before the delegates and launched into an act which would have put Hitler and Mussolini to shame. He spoke for four hours and kept the group in session past midnight. He charged the delegates were turning the conference into something on the order of a "lunatic asylum," and bitterly denounced members for their disputes prior to the final vote.

Receiving less attention was the move by the same Cuban labor congress to separate itself from the American Regional Labor Organization (ORIT.) Separation from this organization — an affiliate of the AFL-CIO — as well as the voting out of the Communist members of the executive board, is a strong indication Cuban labor wants to place itself on a more nationalistic footing.

Castro and his bearded rebels in taking over Cuba's government last January made rash promises concerning all-out land reform and a greater share of the island's wealth for the working classes.

Owners of land all over Cuba — both native and foreign title holders — have complained of seizure of lands and equipment without any process of law.

Now it appears the powerful labor Congress has also turned against the dictates of Castro in refusing to vote as he demanded regarding a "unity" or coalition executive committee including Communists.

Some observers have given Castro a maximum of six months to carry out his promised improvements or step down one way or another. Apparently, there is already dissention in the very areas where Castro figured he was strongest — labor and agriculture.

Federal Aviation Battle

Far Reaching Proposal Would Put Some 30,000 Employes Of Department Into Uniforms

WASHINGTON — A far-reaching proposal under which some 30,000 Federal Aviation Agency employes would be ordered into uniform and made part of a military - type organization is being readied for congressional consideration.

This highly unusual proposal, certain to draw congressional fire, is in draft form but a copy has been "leaked" to the writer.

In general it would affect all the agency's air traffic controllers, electronic maintenance technicians and flight inspectors.

The proposed legislation, in its present form, would force these employes to give six months notice before quitting their jobs.

* * *

By failing to live up to an "employment agreement" they could be "blackballed" from other government jobs, lost all credit for past gvernment service and forfeit all contributions to the government retirement fund.

In time of national emergency they could be given a penitentiary sentence for desertion if they resigned their jobs.

The proposal also would permit FAA to assign personnel anywhere inside or outside the continental United States.

The document in question was prepared by the FAA's office of plans and requirements. Under terms of the act creating the agency in 1958 FAA must present to congress by Jan. 1 a plan which would guarantee ground air control services to both civilian and military aviation in time of peace and war.

Under the proposal described here FAA would create a "blue-ribbon" military service to be called the Federal Aviation Service. In exchange for the restrictions and penalties involved FAS personnel would be given certain remunerations and fringe benefits workers.

Service in FAS would exempt members from compulsory military service and they would be given preference for federal civilian jobs under the Veterans Preferenct Act.

They would be allowed to retire on full annuities at any age after 30 years of service. Pre-employment and other required medical costs would be paid by FAA.

Anyone transferred to new posts would be paid special allowances to help them pay relocation costs for themselves and their families.

The proposal not only will generate congressional criticism from among those lawmakers who are opposed to any kind of civilian militarization in peace time but already has evoked bitter comment from FAA employes who would be affected.

Joseph J. Reno, president of the 8,000 - member Air Traffic Controllers Association, called the plan "stupid," "asinine" and "absolutely unnecessary."

Even FAA officials are reported to be sharply divided over the extent to which the majority of the agency's 34,000 employes should be militarized. Some agree, however, there should be some form of job restrictions in time of emergency.

FAA Administrator E. R. Quesada, a retired Air Force general, has not indicated how much, if any, of the plan he approves.

The staff report outlining the proposal said that FAA, operating as a traditional civil agency, cannot at this time guarantee its ability to serve the military defense of the nation if any extensive loss of trained personnel should occur. (Air traffic control duties at military bases in the United States and overseas will be taken over by FAA civilian employes.)

"This is a serious current problem, the dimensions of which are tremendously magnified when one considers the probability that the Continental United States may be an active theater of operations in any full - scale nuclear war," the report states.

Since FAA has to train most of its personnel because of the very nature of their work, the report pointed out, the agency should be permitted to retain them "for extended periods of time, if only to amortize its investment."

Noting that special benefits would have to be offered as an employment incentive in exchange for the military - type restrictions involved, the report explained:

"In short, the FAA personnel system will have to be made as attractive and remunerative as possible so that employes will be willing to accept the military requirements and restraints."

Caught In Squeeze

Strike Against Privately-Owned New York Bus Lines Planned

In New York City, a discussion is now taking place which is so characteristic of what is going on all over this country that it merits thought everywhere although it is a strictly local problem.

Michael Quill runs a transport workers union which is his private empire. Although the members of this union are mostly religious men and anti-Communist, in the early days, it was regarded as a Communist union, some of its controlling officers being of that persuasion. Quill is reputed no longer to have any associations with such persons.

One reason that Quill does enjoy a popularity among the members of his union is that he has increased their wages and improved their working conditions. But the New York City subway system is bankrupt and in a disgraceful condition. Its losses have become a drain upon the city.

Now Quill plans a strike on transportation about the time of the Christmas season. The strike is to be against the remaining privately-owned bus lines. It is estimated that it will cost $20,000,000 a year to fulfil Quill's demands. The operating company is caught in a pincers; it cannot absorb the increase by raising rates unless permitted to do so by the state authorities; it cannot decrease its taxes unless permitted to do so by the city; it can permit its plant and equipment to deteriorate until it will be unsafe to use busses or it can go into bankruptcy and thus politically force the city to take over the bus lines which the richest city in America cannot afford to do.

Compare this situation with some of the economic theories of Representative Charles O. Porter of Oregon who, in a letter to a businessman I know, wrote:

". . . 'each time our taxes are raised, we have to get the extra money out of the customer by increasing prices' is an utterly falacious conclusion, as any freshman student of economics could tell you. Raising prices to the consumer is in fact sometimes not even a feasible alternative . . . Taxes are like any other cost which may go up. Sometimes a business finds it prudent to pass the increased cost on to the consumer, sometimes it is utterly impossible. Alternatives must be constantly examined, such as cutting other costs, increasing productivity, changing the product mix of the company, reducing dividends and cutting executivxe salaries . . ."

Representative Porter studied at Harvard where he achieved a cum laude. From his statements concerning economics, it would appear that he must have studied at the feet of some Keynesian economists who infested that and other American universities during the 1930's and 1940's.

The economic system is never as flexible as the Keynesian economists say. Were it so, no business would ever go broke. For instance, in his letter on the subject, Representative Porter writes of the possibility of cutting other costs. What costs? The two principal costs that any industry faces are wages and taxes. Neither can be cut. Wages are usually fixed by an agreement with a union.

The only ways to cut wages are to lay off unnecessary workers, to limit or lessen featherbedding or to increase automatic processes. The steel strike is taking place precisely because industry demands a revision of work rules, rejects featherbedding and therefore would reduce manpower if wages are increased.

Taxes, of course, cannot be cut because taxes are a first lien on earnings and are determined not by negotiations but by legislation.

Porter also suggests reducing dividends and cutting executive salaries as alternatives to increasing prices. If dividends are not adequate to attract capital, how does a business expand? The dividend is not only a compensation for money borrowed, (it is euphemistically called invested) to run a business, but it is a stabilizer of the credit standing of a company. An investor—that is one who at a risk lends his savings to a company—prefers not to put it into blue chips for safety but rather into new and currently expanding enterprises for a reward for his courage. The dividend is what he looks for as an index. Porter's ideas would make it impossible to start small businesses or to expand them on borrowed (often called "public") money.

As for cutting salaries, industry has a tough enough time finding suitable men. Brain-power, experience, knowledge, imagina- law of supply and demand.

Dream Of Okinawa

Priceless Piece Of Island Real Estate Means Long Runways

KADENA, OKINAWA — You tell me your dream — any military man will tell you his. It's Okinawa.

To the Air Force this priceless piece of island real estate means long runways and short missions. To the Army, an ideal staging area that was bought 14 years ago in Army blood. To the Navy, a harbor big enough to accommodate most of the Seventh Fleet and a permanent base for the supporting Third Marine Division.

For all the American Armed Services, Okinawa represents — a place of their own. The Ryukyu Islands (Okinawa, about 70 miles long, is the largest) is governed by the Defense Department. The Army is executive agent and provides the High Commissioner. He governs 50,000 Americans, 600,000 Okinawans and 200,000 Rsukyuans on the smaller islands. The Air Force is the only service which is here in strength. The overall military reason for being here is best told bluntly — to strike the enemy anywhere on the Asia mainland.

In specifics, the American military likes and needs Okinawa because it is dissimilar to other Far Pacific bases. The docile Ryukyuans don't want independence, or "Yankee Go Home", although their leftists agitate very unconvincingly for a reversion to Japanese ownership. The Leftists here are free to demonstrate, but they cannot, as the Japanese Socialists have done at Tachikawa Air Force Base, go to court and prevent the Americans from extending the runways to take heavier, faster planes. Unlike the Filipinos, the Ryukyuans are not feeling the green oats of commendable if adolescent nationalism. Despite exaggerated news stories out of Japan, the R's make little trouble for our military commanders. Unlike the Nationalist Chinese, the R's are not encumbered with a fugitive government of dubious duration.

On Okinawa our military planners can do what they like, or what they must, in our national interest. This has not, as yet, included any suppression of speech, press or assembly. Although the High Commissioner appoints the Islands' chief executive, the R's elect their own legislature, 3/4 of the 29 members are Leftists and mayors. But the total military authority here includes, without explanation or apology, the storing of all suitable explosives, including nuclears.

If anyone finds a ring of Jingo in these propositions, he should lodge his complaint where it belongs. There were meddling statesmen, 1940-50, who turned the United States into an intervening military power. It shouldn't have happened, but it did. The same interventionist school is now producing pupils who want us to disarm and withdraw. The only common level between intervention, 1940-50, ane withdrawal, 1953-59, seems to be the Share America Movement. But to disarm and withdraw from the Far East now, having become so unhappily engulfed in this yellow tide, would be to engineer a mammoth disaster. It could be the end of us.

The three services on Okinawa are no farther from enemy bases than the enemy bases are from here. Hence the mission includes defense as well as offense. The 313th Air Division, under Major General Dale Smith, has two jet fighter wings. One (F-100's) is a mobile striking force. With deployment and refueling, this atomic-capable unit can hit almost anywhere in the Far East.

The other wing on Okinawa (F-86's and F102's) is for air defense of the area. Attached to the defenders is a reconnaissance squadron (F-101's and a combat cargo squadron (C130's) to airlift ground equipment without which the jets cannot fly.

On the bluff called Suicide Cliff, where the Japanese High Command committed hari-kari after losing the battle, stand the Nike-Hercules missiles. The Army here is chiefly quartermaster for the back-up of the front in Korea. The Navy is the Seventh Fleet which patrols the Western Pacific, supported by the Third Marine Division which is here to assault alien beachheads, as required.

The Armed Services are equipped to handle the enemy in front. But the enemy in the rear is the one which could cut us down, as in the past. The poor fools, it seems, are always with us. During my time here, the Senate Foreign Relations committe released a privatelycontracted report with recommendations for the Far East.

From the military viewpoint, this report has only two characteristics. It was prepared by a "professor" with familiar theories of withdrawal and disarmament. It contains recommendations which are indistinguishable from the stated objectives of Sino-Russian Communists. This "association" of ideas does not necessarily imply any "guilt". But if we follow the recommendations of this report, by weakening our allies in Korea and Taiwan, by accommodating Red Chinese, the Japanese Socialists and the Ryukyuan Leftists, it all means that we must find an entirely new Far Eastern policy. And the question is — such as?

RECEIVES HOG CHECK
Bastrop, La.

To the Editor:

I received the check for my market barrows yesterday. I want to thank you for your interest and generosity in our 4-H club work. Thanks so much for supporting our club and buying my pigs.

I am 11 years old and belong to the Pine Grove 4-H club. One of my barrows was grand champion at the Morehouse fair but when I got to Shreveport one was sold to a packing company and two got into the show but didn't win any ribbons. I plan to work hard toward a winner at Shreveport next year.

I borrowed money from the Bank of Morehouse to buy and feed my pigs. I had begun to wonder how I was going to pay my note but with your generosity I can pay my note and have a good start on my next 4-H project (swine).

Thanks again for everything. I would like very much to thank you personally and maybe I will have that opportunity sometime.

P. S. How about getting personal? Do you know a good boy named Bob Bryan. He is my cousin and so is Bill Bryan. I miss him too.

To the Editor:

I want to thank you for your interest in 4-H club and especially for buying my champion Suffolk.

I am 11 years old and this was my first animal - raising project.

UNEFORCED LAWS
Wisner, La.

To The Editor:

I am intensely interested in your editorial of November 20th concerning obsolete or unenforceable laws.

You had a similar article on your editorial page on December 18, 1957, entitled "Unenforced Laws." At that time I wrote you thanking you for your stand on this problem and your effort to educate the public and arouse public opinion against the contempt with which too many public officials treat many of our laws.

The particular unenforced law which results in hundreds of deaths each year and with which I am all too familiar, is the one called the Louisiana Stop Law at all railroad crossings. Since my letter to you concerning this problem (which you published), I have saved many clippings from your paper recording the tragic deaths of many people because this law is not enforced or removed from our statutes. The latest one was a man, his wife, and four or five children just this past week. I feel that my efforts in this matter are all but futile, but it gives me hope when you too keep pecking away at it. Meantime, the rural crossings continue to be deadly hazards that all of us have to cross every day.

Man Almost Buried Alive

LIMA, Peru (AP)—Vincente Tupalaya was a very sick man Saturday. But it was better than what might have been. He missed being buried for dead by just a few minutes two days ago.

The strange story of the near-burial came from the hamlet of Huamancaca Grande, an Inca Indian settlement 10,500 feet high in the Andes.

Tupalaya, 43, suffered a heart attack which left him unconscious. Hid disconsolate family believed him dead and he was thus recorded in the village records.

On the last of a three-day wake, Jose Sanmaniego, a barber and relative was surprised at the good condition of the "corpse," and called a physician. The latter said Tupalaya was unconscious but that his heart was beating.

The sick man was removed to a hospital at Huancayo Friday and his family put aside the crude coffin for use in the indefinite future.

The embalming process is not customary in South America and the dead usually are buried within 24 hours. In the remote Indian villages of the Andes this period frequently is extended to days since decomposition is slowed by constant low temperatures.

Man's Greatest Dream

English Tunnel

By COLIN FROST

DOVER, England (AP) — At the foot of the white cliffs of Dover, with only the screeching gulls for company, stands a rough wooden hut.

Forlorn and battered by the years, the hut is the symbol of one of mankind's greatest dreams —a 36-mile tunnel under the English Channel.

Here in the Victorian golden age men started digging to link England with France, to spread prosperity and foster peace.

They drove a shaft 700 feet deep into the chalk. The wooden hut conceals its entrance. From the bottom of the shaft they tunnelled nearly a mile beneath the Channel.

The tunnel is still there, dank and abandoned, a useless monument to man's suspicion of his neighbor.

Now hope is rising again for the Channel tunnel, a project first thought of in the 18th century. Powerful British, French and American interests will decide next year if it can be built.

The unlikely father of this hope is President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic.

In 1956 he nationalized the Suez Canal. The well-heeled Anglo-French Canal Co., deprived of its prize asset, looked around for other interests. A Channel tunnel seemed the obvious choice.

Today the canal company, 44 per cent owned by the British government, is equal partner in a study group which over the past two years has spent $670,000 investigating the tunnel's chances of success.

Its other partners are Technical Studies, Inc., a group of American financiers, and the British and French Channel Tunnel Cos., which started the digging back in 1881 and were forced to abandon it two years later.

By early next year the study group expects to answer these questions:

Can a tunnel be built, and for what price?

Can it attract enough traffic to pay its way?

Right now the signs look hopeful.

To answer the first question, a survey ship drilled boreholes 200 feet into the Channel bed.

The surveyors found three layers of chalk and below that, clay. The bottom layer of chalk, they say, might have been designed by nature itself as the perfect medium for tunneling.

Economists look to Europe's ever increasing road traffic to give the tunnel healthy revenue. Nonetheless, it would not be a road tunnel.

Cars and trucks, they say, can be handled more speedily, safely and cheaply by running them on to railroad flatcars.

The best informed estimate of cost at the moment is 364 million dollars for a double rail tunnel of 36 miles, 22 of them under the sea.

Experts estimate the tunnel could quickly attract one million cars a year, six million passengers and 500,000 tons of fast freight to give an annual income of $30,800,000.

After deducting operating costs they believe the project could yield 7¾ per cent annually on capital—enough to attract investment from all over the world.

However attractive financially, the project faces tough opposition. British diehards have long looked on the Channel as their surest defense against a continental assault on their homes in war and their morals in peace.

Old soldiers still talk the same way and none louder than Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery.

"This Channel tunnel is a wildcat scheme and I am wholeheartedly opposed to it," he says. "It would strike severe blow at British strategy, which has always been based on the inviolability of our island."

The stock answer to the military men is that if war comes the tunnel can be flooded or blown up. The soldiers reply that decisions of this kind always are taken too late.

This time, however, the soldiers may not have the last word.

A powerful pro-tunnel lobby exists inside the British Parliament. In France, the most foreceful tunnel advocate is Louis Armand, 54-year-old organizing genius who made the French state railroads the most modern in Europe. He sees the tunnel as a certain booster of railroad revenue.

In the end, however, the main obstacle facing the tunnelers may be Europe's increasing division into two trade blocs.

In 1957, when the study group started work, it confidently was expected that Britain would join with France in the six-nation European Common Market, and cross-Channel trade would soar.

The British, however, stayed out. And so once more British insularity, this time mercantile and not military, may prove the end of a fascinating dream.

YOUNGEST EVER ADMITTED TO VIENNA

Short Of Stature, Long On Talent

By PETER HOFFER

VIENNA (AP)—The youngest student ever admitted to the famed Vienna Academy of Music is a 9-year-old American girl with blonde curls, a ready smile, and remarkable mastery of the keyboard.

Giorgiana Bender, daughter of a retired United States Air Force officer, has been the "Wunderkind" (child wonder) of the academy since she was accepted for the six-year course of piano studies in the spring of 1958.

Georgy, as she is called by her parents, was born at Wright - Patterson Air Force Base in Ohio when her father, Lt. Col. George F. Bender, was stationed there. The family moved to Riederau in upper Bavaria when Bender retired from the Air Force.

"Georgy loved to play the piano from the very start," says the child's mother. "She would pick out little tunes on the keyboard and finally I decided to give her lessons, when she was only four." The mother is an amateur pianist.

Says Georgy, showing her talented hands:

"I always liked to play the piano, ever since I can remember. When other girls were outside, I liked to practice. In the beginning, when I could not read notes, I played from memory, but now I can play nearly any classic piece of music if it is within the reach of my hands."

If life is touch for a "Wunderkind," Giorgiana does not show it. She looks happy. After lessons and four to five hours of daily practicing, she has little time for play. But she loves her dolls and teddy bears of which she has a large family, all lovingly cared for.

Among the first to recognize her astonishing musical talent was German composer and professor Richard Trunk. He advised the Benders to let little Giorgiana have regular instruction from a music teacher and at the age of 5 she entered her first public piano competition at Munich, emerging first in her age group.

Georgy, only 4-ft.-2, cannot reach the piano pedals and has a special pedal attachment so that she can play.

Before moving to Vienna Georgy won recognition in West Germany as a "Wunderkind," giving a 1½ hour recital from memory playing Beethoven, Schubert, Mozart and Bach, plus a series of pieces "for small hands" specially written for her by composer Trunk.

Georgy's call to Vienna came when one of the leading piano professors at the Academy heard her play and advised the Benders to bring their child here.

The Benders live near the academy and daily, accompanied by her mother, Georgy walks to the grey - walled building where the next youngest student is aged 16 and students are generally admitted at 16.

Georgy takes piano lessons, studies music theory, harmony and instrumentation in addition to the German language. In all subjects she has excellent grades.

"Georgy," says her mother, "finds it hard to associate with girls of her age and even older girls. She is so very different, even though she does not actually feel it. Her life is dedicated to the piano and she loves every minute of it.

"Each time when we go home after a concert I ask my little girl 'do you still want to become a pianist? You heard how hard it is.' 'Of course I do,' Giorgiana always replies," Mrs. Bender says.

WONDER CHILD: Giorgiana Bender, 9-year - old American girl and youngest student ever admitted to Vienna's Academy of Music, practices in her home.

Pages Aplenty, But Something Vital Missing

SHORT TERM. By Jay Richard Kennedy. World. $5.75

While Paris, Grenoble and New York, Florida, Maine and California are the general setting for this novel, the two points where Kennedy most often and most purposefully shows us his characters are the Stock Exchange and the bedroom — unless it's a phone booth, a car, the beach or the woods.

The author, who tackled the motion picture industry in his widely read first novel, "Prince Bart," now tackles Wall Street. His hero, Ken Preston, is the son of a financier who lost money there and took his own life. Ken wants to stage a come-back, and is engaged in engineering it as this 540-page novel opens.

But he has had an active life, at least in his hazardous work with the French underground in the war, and then also there comes a woman, Laurie Dugan. Resisting a lot of blandishments from other females, he needs only a few days to decide Laurie must be his — he 42 and she half that. He comes from an old family, and must keep pulling out a silver-box heirloom to remind us of it. She's a social newcomer, so to speak, though she shares with him a business acumen of sorts: Like her mother, she has learned that men will pay for what they want.

This is a novel put together professionally, with all the essential ingredients but one. It has conflict, suspense, worldiness, sex, all manipulated skillfully. But it has no meaning in humanistic terms, it contains hardly a page that seems to me interesting, it leaves me indifferent.

NEW APPROACH

NEW YORK (AP) — A favorite Broadway promotion, the big advertisement with glowing quotes from favorable reviews, was amended by Dore Schary, author, director and co-producer of "The Highest Tree."

Instead of ignoring adverse comments, the play's post-opening display frankly acknowledged that some critics has panned the show.

Schary, a production aide said, insisted on the statement as "the only way of being fair with the public."

For Thousands In U.S.

Curfew Tonight

By FRANCIS STILLEY
Associated Press Staff Writer

Curfew rings tonight and every night for thousands of young people all over America.

In Watkins Glen, N.Y., the custodian on duty at the Village Hall takes hold of a bel rope at 10 p.m. and tugs away. The clanging of the bell is a reminder to youths under 17 to be off the streets — at home. The Village Board recently okayed funds for a new bell rope.

Some towns sound church bells, some toot whistles and others blow fire sirens. Still others do none of these but maintain a curfew just the same; it is the law and everyone knows it. The hours vary.

YOUNG FOLKS

The curfew for young folk is a practice of long standing and wide use in the United States.

In some communities when juveniles are found meandering around streets late at night, they are merely picked up by officers and their parents notified.

Sometimes there is drastic punishment, parents included.

In other cases curfew regulations are strictly enforced only when and if it seems necessary.

Curfews were widely employed during World War II, but after the war many plans were either dropped outright or just forgotten.

However, in recent years they were revived or new legislation put them into effect to cope with growing juvenile delinquency troubles.

Generally, rules don't apply to children accompanied by parents or authorized persons, or in travel to and from legitimate events.

An Associated Press survey shows that about half the states use curfew laws of varying degrees of strictness. Primarily it is a matter of steps taken by individual communities rather than by state legislatures.

Another fourth have a mixed situation. The rest either have no curfew laws or never use them even though they are on the books.

Of the 50 per cent which do use curfew regulations, responsible officials in nearly all believe the restrictions are worthwhile—although there are some strong opposing arguments.

OBJECTIONS.

Main objections are that it is almost impossible to achieve 100 per cent compliance, that there are too many authorized functions which now keep children out late and that it is pointless to penalize the well-behaved majority for the failure of the few.

Numerous authorities say, also, that other ordinances such as anti-loitering laws enable officers to handle the situation better than a curfew rule.

On the other hand, the curfew comes in for high praise too.

Wheeling, W. Va., adopted the plan a little less than a year ago and now 30 sirens scattered around the city are touched off nightly at 10 o'clock. After that, youngsters under 16 have about 15 or 20 minutes to get off the streets. On football game nights the leeway is a little greater.

Police Chief Harry Wolf estimates that the curfew has reduced offenses by juveniles under 16 by 95 per cent.

He says enforcement has been no problem.

Wheeling has a population of 59,000 and the curfew was given a lot of advance publicity before it became official. Then police bore down hard a few days to let everyone know they meant business.

A much different view comes from Buffalo, N.Y., a city of nearly 600,000 population. Says police Lt. Howard R. Wheeler, head of the Crime Prevention Bureau:

"We'd almost have to double the size of the police force in trying to enforce a night curfew. If we were to put one in, it would mean that to be worthwhile, neighboring cities and villages would have to do the same. Otherwise, ours would be a waste."

Pointing up the marked contrast in attitudes is the case of Chicago, where more than a million youngsters are affected by curfew regulations. All under 17 must be off the streets by 10:30 p.m. Sunday through Thursday, and by 11 p.m. on Friday and Saturday.

Polict Lt. Michael Delaney, head of the Youth Bureau says the law is publicly accepted and that it has been beneficial in holding down youth crime. The law has the support of all agencies dealing with youth problems.

In the United States, a Col. Alexander Hogeland of Nebraska, is credited as the "father of the curfew law."

INTRODUCED

Hogeland was said to have introduced the first ordinance in Omaha in 1880 to keep youngsters from hanging around steamboat landings, rail stations and low variety shows.

Varying rules date back more than 50 years in Cleveland, Ohio; Hot Springs, Ark., Grand Island, Neb., and Salt Lake City, Utah. Numerous other communities have long-standing statues.

Authorities point out that modern day youth problems are much more difficult because now "the kids are on wheels." They go tearing about the countryside in cars—sometimes stolen ones.

George Head of Anadarko, Okla., a leading figure in that state's youth leadership enterprises, put it this way:

"One difference between here and New York is that local gangs are motorized."

The reference was to the young gangs of New York City, where 11 youthful slayings have occured on the streets since the first of the year. New York has no curfew. There has been some talk of establishing one but the ruling fathers appear to favor tighter police surveillance of the streets instead.

Another new type of problem has been the congregation of youngsters around drive-in theaters and restaurants and resulting altercations. In Orlando, Fla., certain restaurants recently started hiring off-duty police to preserve order.

Hours and ages covered by curfews vary widely around the nation. But in general the hours of 9 and 10 p. m. are the most popular deadlines and the top age limit seldom exceeds 18.

However, Flomaton, Ala., a town of about 4,000, imposed a rigid curfew in August after an outbreak of gang deviltry. Youngsters under 21 must be off the streets between 11 p.m. and 6 a.m. Jail terms up to six months and fines reaching $100 can be imposed on both youths and their parents. Police say everything is quiet now.

In Oregon, all children under 18 are covered by a 1953 state law prescribing a midnight to 4 a.m. curfew period.

A Cleveland ordinance in effect since 1943 bans children under 12 from city streets between dark and dawn, and those under 16 from 11 p.m. to 6 a.m. The law is invoked only when special situations arise.

Penalties for curfew violations over the nation range from a bawling out for youngsters to severe measures affecting both child and parents.

Probably the stiffest is in Sacramento, Calif. Parents are subject to $50 fines and 10 days in jail for first offenses of their offspring, and as much as $500 and 90 days for third violations.

However, authorities can't recall the last prosecution, they are so rare. The law applies to unescorted children uner 18 on the streets after 10 p.m. unless they have a good reason.

A typical favorable comment on the curfew comes from polict Lt. Ernest Sauer, head of the department's juvenile division at Phoenix, Ariz., where parents of chronic offenders have been jailed.

"We think it's a real good weapon against delinquents," he says. "Generally we have real fine cooperation. It gives parents a hammer over the kids' heads without making them out as old fogies."

Nashville, Tenn., adopted an 11 p.m. curfew for all under 18 two years ago at the suggestion of Police Chief D.E. Hoose. At the time there were four or five complaints nightly about young hoodlums.

"Now," according to the chief, "we sometimes go a week without a single complaint."

Baltimore has what is called the Battaglia Plan, originated by Police Capt. Frank J. Battaglia. Around 10 p.m., police begin stopping young motorists to check their drivers' licenses and car registration.

But Greenwich, Conn., has no curfew and doesn't plan one. Police Chief David W. Robbins says:

"I think they are ineffective and difficult to enforce. Persons who would observe a curfew are not the ones you would have trouble with.

"Those with criminal intent and who reject authority would not observe them at any rate. A curfew works a hardship and is an unfair restriction on the majority of our youth, who are law abiding."

The New Jersey Youth Commission also opposes curfews and said in a 1957 report:

"Curfews do not touch the roots of the delinquency problem and are usually unenforceable. Such restriction are likely to produce further disrespect for laws as well as constitute an intrusion into the rights of all youth."

Many officials share the opinion of Probate Court Judge W.E. Smith in Boise, Idaho.

"You can't legislate good behavior among youngsters. If you want to see an end to juvenile deliquency you have to return to the fundamental values of society.

"Good morality begins at home," the judge says.

Twilight Of The Tyrants Is An Excellent Book

TWILIGHT OF THE TYRANTS. By Tad Szulc. Holt. $4.50.

Latin America remains terra incognita to many North Americans. Here is a perceptive new book by a distinguished New York Times correspondent which offers a readable short course in modern South America, the trends shaping its future and the dictator - marred years of the recent past.

Szulc probes the final hours of what he describes as "the long age of dictators in Latin America . . . finally in its twilight." He takes the reader into the regimes of Juan Peron of Argentina, Marcos Perez Jimenez of Venezuela, Gustavo Rojas Pinilla of Colombia, Manuel Odria of Peru and Getulio Vargas of Brazil.

Latin America remains in ferment. But political maturity has come far and is coming farther fast. The military has stood behind democratic civilian regimes after helping them oust dictatorships.

Popular reaction showed that the dictators — who varied widely both as men and in techniques of rule — erred basically in their conviction that given prosperity there need not be individual freedom.

The population and political importance of Latin America is growing with tremendous rapidity. This book will be both instructive and interesting for the North American who wishes to be informed on an area of increasing significance.

Guide To Good Reading

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

Although this is the busy season of the year for many people, everyone has some time to read, if he will only take advantage of his opportunities. The Ouachita Parish Public Library is adding new books weekly and there are many available for all types of readers.

"Krishna Fluting" by John Berry is the book which won the MacMillan fiction contest. The story is an exotic one, with many conflict in the characters. It will not appeal to all readers, but it is not a book to overlook. "Radius of Action" by De Witt Copp is a masculine adventure story which will appeal to many readers. Of interest to many readers will be "Only in New England" by Theodore Roscoe. One of the most popular books of recent years was "Tammy Out of Time" by Cid Ricketts Sumner. Now the author has given us a sequal to this book called "Tammy Tell Me True." It is certain to be as popular as the first one and the author has lost nothing in her second presentation. A new historical novel is "The French Dragoon" by Roger Rudigoz. It has it's setting in Napoleonic France and is extremely well-done. "Citadel of God" by Louis de Wohl is a novel based on the life of St. Benedict. It is another in de Wohl's series of fictionalized biographies of the saints. Many people are interested in this series and will welcome another title. An absurd and beguiling fantasy is "The Rescuers" by Margery Sharp. It is the story in which a trio of mice rescue a Norwegian poet from the dungeon of an impregnable prison. This will not appeal to everyone, but some readers will like it very much.

Mystery stories are popular with many of our readers and we have recently added a number of stories in this category. "Black is the Fashion for Dying" was written by Latimer. "Come Here and Die" is a new title by York. "Die Like a Dog" is the title of Bret Halliday's latest book. Alfred Hitchcock has a collection called "My Favorites in Suspense" and Rex Stout's latest book is "Plot It Yourself". "Murder is Suggested" is the latest offering of the Lockeridge's and "Walking Shadow" was written by Lenore G. Offord.

"From Galaxies to Man" by John Pfeiffer is a very interesting account of our solar system. "Life in the Crystal Palace" by Alan Harrington gives an interesting interpretation of life in the selling field. "Oil on the Stream" is a history of the interstate pipe line company from 1907-1957. It was written by John L. Loos and was recently published by the L. S. U. Press. A lovely book is "The Golden Age of American History" edited by Frank Freidel. Biographies are always popular and we have new ones dealing with the life of Custer, Edison and Savonarola. Those who are interested in the life of the cowboy will want to read "The Cowboy Reader" edited by Lon Tinkle. It is a very good collection of stories dealing with cowboy life. In the field of heredity, an interesting new title is "Human Heredity" by Ashley Montague.

Deserving special mention is "Sonewall Jackson", a 2-volume biography written by Lenoir Chambers and dealing with the life of this great Confederate soldier. It will probably be considered the definitive biography of this great southerner. If you are interested in the stock market, you will want to see "Let's Take Stock" by Don G. Campbell, which the author styles an inside look at Wall Street.

Fascinating reading is found in "The Golden Age of Quackery" by Stewart H. Holbrook. Did you ever hear of Peruna or Lydia Pinkham's Vegetable Compound or Dr. Kilmer's Swamp Root or Duffy's pure malt? Those were the patent medicines of the turn of the century. This is the story of how Samuel Hopkins Adams, crusaded against their claims and was successful in getting the Pure Food and Drug Act passed? "From Pagan to Christian" by Lin Yutang is a thoughtful analysis of a philosopher's pasasge from Christianity to the Eastern heritage of Confucianism, Taoism and Buddhism and back to Christianity again. It is a beautifully written book and one which will appeal to the serious reader.

RUNNING THE SCALES

With JOHN CALE

A faculty recital at Northeast, a symphony orchestra at Louisiana Tech and the opera "Aida" at New Orleans — coupled with the current run of "My Fair Lady" in Shreveport — will keep culture on the map during the coming week of political climax in the state.

Davis B. Bingham has set his recital for tomorrow night in the Fine Arts Recital Hall at the local college at 8:15. The brass-baritone soloist is choral director at Northeast and director of the choir at the First Presbyterian Church. In addition, the Tennessee - born musician is putting a community chorus through rehearsals for Handel's "Messiah" which will have a mid-December performance here.

ORCHESTRA

Membership holders in the Louisiana Tech Concert Association will hear the Dallas Symphony Thursday at Howard Auditorium. The big ensemble from the oil company is under the direction of Paul Kletski and will play two concerts, one at 3:05 and the other at 8:00 p.m.

It was just about 10 years ago that the Dallas orchestra under the direction of Walter Hendel played here in Neville Auditorium on the old Civic Music series. One of the more outspoken music teachers and symphony fans pushed his point and got the program changed to include one of the Brahms symphonies instead of the too - often - heard Beethoven "Fifth." To some this may have meant merely moving from one of the "Three B's" to another, but to others it was the chance of a decade to hear a Brahms symphony. Several symphonies have come to town since, but not with Brahms on the program.

"ANTIGONE"

The Greek tragedy "Antigone" which played two nights at Northeast last week brought out the amazing skill possessed by the antique writers. The element of conflict which serves to keep a play alive and which is often too scarce in modern plays was woven into the plot. There were at least four conflicting situations which led to the inevitable tragedy.

Antigone could not reconcile herself to the king's edict of not allowing her revolutionist brother a funeral; neither could her sister — a lover of the lighter side of life — convince Antigone that the serious issue was not for her to decide. Then rumblings of discontent from the subjects reached the king's ears coupled with Antigone's direct treatment of her sentiments for a "decent burial" in the face of the military guards.

The use of the chorus was a skill unique to the Greek playwrights. Out of the idiom of the Greek plays — where the actors seem to deliver orations rather than carry on "natural" conversations — groups on the stage seem either to border on the figurative "ham" of a musical comedy chorus line or sometimes they just get in the way of the lead actors.

Nat "King Cole" and the Kingston Trio will recreate their award - winning recordings on the National Academy of Recording Arts and Sciences 1959 "Grammy" Awards colorcast on NBC-TV, tonight, Sunday, Nov. 29, 7-8 CST.

POPULAR

"DINAH, YES INDEED!" Dinah Shore, with orchestra conducted by Nelson Riddle. Capital T1247, $3.98. Out of the multitude of songs that Dinah Shore has sung — on radio and records, in personal appearances and films, and on her sparkling, top-rated television show — she has gathered for this, her first Capital album, those which are especially popular with her fans. Nelson Riddle ingeniously focuses the attention on Dinah, yet allows room for some outstanding instrumental solos as well. Some of the selections are "It All Depends On You," "Fall In Love With Love," "I'm Old Fashioned," and "Taking A Chance on Love."

'SEMPRINI'S PIANO". England's finest pop pianist and the Abbey Orchestra. Capital T10218, $3.98. Semprini's piano and 60 musicians. That's the ornate setting for the magnificent sound so apparent on the twelve tracks presented by Capital in this, the second album to be recorded by the remarkable English musician. "Semprini's Piano" is music — delightful music — for listening, for dining, for every occasion. The program ranges from Styne through Liszt and it all makes easy listenin'.

CLASSICAL

"ALSO SPRACH ZARATHUSTRA (Op. 30)". Richand Strauss. Herbert Van Karajan conducting The Vienna Philharmonic Orchestra, solo violin: Willi Baskovsky. London CS6129, $4.98. Strauss composed "Also Sprach Zarathustra" during the year 1896. It is based directly on Nietzsche's famous book by the same name. Criticism has often been leveled at Strauss for "having attempted to write philosophical music." But Strauss himself gave this explanation of the work: I did not intend to write philosophical music or to portray in music Nietzsche's great work. I meant to convey by means of music an idea of the development of the human race from its origin, through the various phases of its development. The stereo feeling, in this London emphasized by a low-pitched bell which begins one of the movements.

"JUPITER" and "HAFFNER" SYMPHONIES. Mozart. Josef Krips conducting The Israel Philharmonic Orchestra. London CS6081, $4.98. In the summer of 1788 Mozart composed, the three symphonies in E flat, G minor and C major which are his last and most splendid essays in this form. The Symphony in C major acquired at an early stage in its career the nickname of "Jupiter." It has no relevance to the content of the music. The "Haffner" Symphony was composed in 1782 to celebrate the raising of his friend Sigmund Haffner to the nobility. This album would be a prized item in one's Mozart collection. The orchestration and stereo effect are magnificent.

Reflections On Life In General

SONIA JE T'ADORE, by Pierre Daninos (Knopf): A collection of wryly amusing reflections on life in general and particularly on "that state of armed peace which is the solid bedrock on which true domestic felicity is built." The book appears to be M. Daninos' apology for some of the rather unkind remarks his essays contain concerning his Russian-born wife. The author's reflections, arranging from airplanes to cover a variety of subjects XYZ. Along the way he has a good deal to say about the problems at home and abroad which confront the cheerful bumbler he claims to be.

THE VITAL FACT IS...

Great Industrial Development of the Twin Cities Almost Wholly Depends on the Election of

James A. Noe as Governor

AND, THE INESCAPABLE FACT IS THAT OUR ENTIRE AREA WILL BE THE BENEFICIARY, BECAUSE . . .

(1) MONROE, WEST MONROE and NORTH LOUISIANA are, by nature, industrial communities.

(2) Our residents provide the principal reservoir of manpower (labor) for industrial expansion.

(3) Our communities provide an attractive "climate" for potential housing developments, living areas, schools, churches, with proper capacity for expansion.

AND, HISTORY (WHICH CAN REPEAT) REVEALS:

(1) In 1926-28 Noe assisted in the transition of our Basic Economy from a fading local carbon production to a national "gas transmission" industry, providing domestic and industrial fuels to all parts of the nation — resulting in permanent industrial investments in the Ouachita Valley of over One Hundred Millions of Dollars . . . and he has personally invested over a million dollars (a part in West Monroe), whereby he provides empoyment for approximately one hundred well-paid employees (a number of them reside in West Monroe).

(And, we could not truthfully say that JIMMIE NOE is the ONLY benefactor of our local college . . . but in the dark, depression days, when inevitable closure faced our local JUNIOR COLLEGE, Governor Noe sponsored successful Legislation which included this important educational institution . . . with its educational and cultural advantages to this community . . . in the state-supported system of Colleges (Act 231 of 1934) . . . in fact, 'savings' this multi-million dollar industry, native to Northeast Louisiana . . . one of the most important single contributions to our 'industrial climate' by reason of its own realistic contributions to our economy. (Such a tremendous contribution to this area, deserves a vote of 'appreciation' from every person who has in the past, or who now reaps benefits from its existence . . .)

(And further, in 1934, he salvaged untold millions of dollars in industrial (as well as domestic) properties, by securing authorization for the Tensas Levee Board to secure rights-of-ways within the Twin Cities for the construction of seawalls and levees.)

(2) Governor Noe is recognized, nation-wide, as a top "industrial salesman."

IN CUBA

Bearded Officer Takes Over Bank

HAVANA (AP)—Bearded Maj. Ernesto Guevara, wearing a dark beret, a rumpled army uniform and a big grin, took over Cuba's National Bank Friday.

The Argentine-born leftist, stepping steadily closer to the top of Prime Minister Fidel Castro's hierarchy, moved behind the bank president's desk, succeeding conservative financial expert Felipe Pazos, an internationally recognized banker.

As head of the National Bank, appointed by the Cabinet Thursday, Guevara will control Cuba's foreign exchange reserves and act as virtual dictator of its imports and exports.

Guevara warned Cubans of new belt-tightening to stem the decline in Cuba's foreign exchange reserves.

Guevara, whose political and economic thinking is orientated more toward the Soviet Union than the United States, blamed low sugar prices for the drop in Cuban reserves.

"If sugar prices had been normal from the first, our foreign exchange situation would have been comfortable," he told the Semiofficial newspaper Revolucion.

Guevara said Cuban bank depositors were logically uneasy about his appointment "because I have a certain fame as an extreme radical." Nevertheless, he promised no abrupt changes in government economic policies.

Cubans, he said, can expect continuation and probably even expansion of rigid import controls to preserve dollar balances which Guevara conceded still are declining.

With the change in bank leadership, the government announced the first normal expropriation of land holdings under the agrarian reform law. Previous land seizures were made without formal reference to the law.

Seized for distribution among landless peasants or conversion into state directed farm cooperatives were the 300,000-acre properties of Hacienda Sevilla in eastern Oriente province.

Officials here said the land—most of it in the mountainous area where Castro first gathered strength for his revolution—was owned by the Cuban Development Co. of Delaware and under lease to a Cuban agricultural firm.

In other developments, military authorities rounded up 250 persons in the Holguin area of Oriente province. Among them is an American sugar cane grower identified as William Fuller.

Police said three unidentified planes flew over Havana Thursday night. Air force headquarters said none of its planes was flying at the time.

Armed students, in the first public appearances of the new people's militia, marched in parades commemorating the 1871 execution of eight students by Spanish forces.

16 Men Hunt Ditched Guns

PARCHMAN, Miss. (AP)—Sixteen men combed a 20-mile stretch of road unsuccessfully Friday for two rifles believed ditched by fleeing escapees from the state penitentiary here.

"We didn't find anything," prison Supt. Bill Harpol said. "We covered both sides of the road between Kosciusko and Durant with two highway patrolmen, two guards and 12 trusties."

Objects of the hunt were two rifles taken by four escapees Sunday night. The fugitives also took two pistols and later sold one to a Durant man, from whom it was recovered.

"We have no leads now," Harpole said. "We'll have to wait for something to develop. We've got alerts out in Mississippi and surrounding states."

Hunted were Jackie Chism, 21, of Amory, and David Hale, 18, of Glenwood, Ore., both serving robbery sentences from Lowndes County.

Investigators learned they bought bus tickets at Kosciusko for Tuscaloosa, Ala., Monday morning, but the driver said they did not use them.

The two and James E. Corley, 29, of Carrollton and June Marie Jeanfreau, 22, of Bay St. Louis, broke out after Corley overpowered a guard while delivering coffee to him.

A woman spotted their picture in a newspaper and tipped officers that Corley and the woman were in the Durant area. They were arrested at a night spot Tuesday night near the motel where they registered as man and wife.

Corley was serving a burglary sentence and the woman a bigamy term.

"We'll present all the evidence to the Sunflower County grand jury in March," Harpole said, "and it will be up to the grand jury. They took some clothes and a car from a Negro farmer at gunpoint, some money from the canteen here and they also broke out of jail."

Armed robbery carries a maximum penalty of death and escaping a penalty of up to five years.

AMONG BUSINESSMEN

Tax Cut Drive Opens Friday

WASHINGTON (AP)—A drive to bring about a quick 3½-billion-dollar annual cut in income taxes was opened Friday among business and industrial men.

The U.S. Chamber of Commerce advised members its board of directors had decided to throw its weight behind the Baker-Herlong bill and "will stimulate educational efforts in all member organizations and firms in support of the measure."

The Baker-Herlong bill, which provides for a graduated scale of tax reductions over a five-year period, is before the House Ways and Means Committee which is making a general study of taxes.

The measure endorsed by the chamber was introduced by Reps. A. S. Herlong Jr. (D-Fla) and Howard H. Baker (R-Tenn). The chamber said it would give all individual taxpayers a rate reduction of not less than 25 per cent over five years. The top rate would be lowered from 91 to 47 per cent and the lowest tax bracket would be reduced from 20 to 15 per cent.

Corporate taxes would drop one per cent annually, going down from 52 to 47 per cent. The bill also would make some changes in depreciation allowances, capital gains, estate and gift taxes.

Estimating the immediate loss of revenue at about 3½ billion dollars a year, the chamber's Washington newsletter to members said this could be offset by a temporary sales tax applied across the board at "a low uniform rate."

"Properly applied" the news letter said, "the reduction would actually increase the amount of government revenues in a short time, distribute the tax burden more equally, promote stability of the dollar, provide both the means and incentive for business to tackle new, and expand going, enterprises and create more jobs for our increasing population."

"Our tax history since the 1920s show that within a year or two after most tax reduction laws have gone into effect, revenues have exceeded those under the old rates. The stimulus of tax relief generates greater economic activity. This offsets any immediate loss caused by lower rates," it said.

The only tax cut not followed by higher revenues came in 1948, a recession year, the chamber said.

Nurse's Body

GLASGOW, Mont. (AP) — The nude body of a Glasgow Air Force Base nurse was found Friday in her blood-spattered home.

Her father, and 6-year-old son were missing and officers expressed fear that they, too, may have been harmed.

The body of Verna Gae Brown, about 34, was discovered by members of a car pool who stopped to take her to work. Her clothing, ripped and torn, was piled on a chair.

A physician said Mrs. Brown had suffered severe abdominal injuries.

The nurse was divorced a little more than a month ago from Harold Brown, a construction worker at the air base.

County Atty. Gordon White recalled that Brown had pleaded guilty and paid a $25 fine on a third-degree assault charge filed by Mrs. Brown last July. He said he wanted Brown for questioning.

UN Committee Asks Korea For Free Elections

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — The U.N. Political Committee called on Communist North Korea Friday to consent to free elections at an early date to open the way for the unification of the Korean peninsula.

The 82-nation committee acted despite a Soviet declaration that the formula outlined in the approved Western resolution would "lock the door on the cause of unification."

The vote was 49-9, with 19 abstaining. Only the Soviet bloc voted against the proposal. Five countries were absent.

The resolution was sponsored by the United States and 13 other countries which fought under the U.N. flag during the Korean War. It is similar to measures adopted each year since the 1954 Far Eastern conference in Geneva, where the Western powers laid down a set of principles on a Korean settlement.

Soviet Delegate I. I. Tugarinov said the Western resolution would have the U.N. "accept unreservedly the ultimatum-like demands the reactionary Syngman Rhee regime should be extended throughout the entire peninsula."

The Communists have contended throughout that unification must be worked out through direct negotiations between North and South Korea.

Three Negroes Plead Guilty To Robbery

TUPELO, Miss. (AP) — Three Negro teen-agers pleaded guilty Friday to armed robbery in the Nov. 16 stabbing of a white youth and were sentenced to state penitentiary.

Circuit Judge Raymond Jarvis, acting on recommendation of Dist. Atty. N. S. (Soggy) Sweat, sentenced Otto Jones, 18, to life; T. L. Carruthers, 18, to 25 years; and J. B. Little, 16, to 20 years.

The three were transferred to prison immediately.

Sweat said sentence was deferred indefinitely on charges of assault and battery with intent to kill.

The three Negroes, all residents of Tupelo, were charged with armed robbery of Andy Mills, 16. Jones was charged with assault and battery with intent to kill in the stabbing of Don Morris, 20, of Olive Branch, and Alonzo Dodson, 28, of Tupelo.

Jones had told police he planned to knife some white persons because whites had mistreated him.

The stabbings aroused the public to such an extent that Police Chief Robert Managhan ordered an 11 p.m. curfew and cautioned residents against taking personal action.

CAB Makes Proposal To Speed Mail

WASHINGTON (AP)—To speed Christmas mail, the Civil Aeronautics Board proposed Friday to permit the airlines to carry ordinary mail by air during December.

This was favored by the Post Office Department but opposed by the railroads.

The CAB proposed a rate about half that paid the airlines for airmail, or about 19 cents a ton-mile.

The airlines agreed to the proposed rate for December, but most of them indicated they would want a higher rate to carry what has long been called "surface mail" after December.

The Post Office Department also opposed the temporary rate for periods beyond December. It wants a permanent rate established after a hearing.

The CAB denied petitions of the Brotherhood of Railroad and Steamship Clerks the Railway Express Agency and the Assn. of American Railroads to intervene.

It said the nearness of the Christmas mail peak and public interest made action necessary with the least possible delay.

The board gave the parties until Dec. 3 to file notice of objection.

The Post Office Department had advised the CAB that the mail load during December would be greater than ever before and that it was desirable that the unused capacity of the airlines be made available for handling first-class mail.

SAMPLE BALLOT — Here is a composite sample ballot as it will appear on voting machines in Ouachita parish on Democratic primary election day Dec. 5. The listings of candidates from representative and senator up through the governor's race will be the same on ballots in all wards, but candidates for such offices as police juror, justice of the peace and constable are named only on ballots for the wards in which they are running. Only Wards four and seven are without candidates in one of these categories. When this sample ballot was compiled, one race was inadvertently left out. It is the justice of the peace contest in Ward Two, in which Charles Williams, No. 103, and Jack Wuichet, No. 104, are candidates. In some races, more than one post is at stake, and this is pointed out by a notation in parenthesis which says "(vote for three)" or "(vote for two)", as the case may be. If only one vote is cast where two posts are at stake, the vote will not count. To vote move lever above candidate's name.

Generous Town Will Send Band To Orange Bowl

TREYNOR Iowa (AP)—Thanks to the generosity of this small western Iowa town and its neighbors, the local high school band will take part in Orange Bowl festivities at Miami, Fla., New Year's Day.

The trip for the 63 young bandsmen is credited to the efforts of Treynor's 247 residents in raising about $10,000 in expense money over the past eight months.

It all started when John Monea, 29, high school band director, wrote Orange Bowl officials telling them about Treynor's band and how they'd be a good attraction at the Orange Bowl.

The letter led to an invitation from Orange Bowl officials and the drive to raise the trip money began.

Total expenses for the trip were figured at about $9,000 plus $1,000 for additional uniforms and equipment.

Two band concerts and a benefit dance netted $2,000. Parents of the bandsmen held bake sales and business places in Treynor and neighboring towns contributed to the fund.

The bus trip will begin Dec. 27 and the bandsmen are scheduled to arrive in Miami Dec. 30 by way of Lookout Mountain, Tenn.

BANG-JENSEN

Detectives Work On Diplomat Case

NEW YORK (UPI)—Detectives tried Friday to retrace the last steps of Danish diplomat Povl Bang-Jensen to "clean up the loose ends" in the suicide of the one-time United Nations official who investigated the 1956 Hungarian revolt.

The police inquiry into the death of the 50-year-old former senior U.N. political officer entered the final stages as the current special U.N. representative on the Hungarian question told the General Assembly that reprisals for the revolt still were continuing in Hungary.

At the same time, Hungarian exile organizations announced they would stage a mass demonstration at the headquarters of the Soviet delegation to the United Nations Sunday in connection with Bang-Jensen's death.

The Danish diplomat was found shot to death Thursday on a leaf-strewn bridle path in a wooded area several miles from the nine-room home in which he lived with his wife and five children at Lake Success, N.Y. A suicide note was found in one of his pockets, and a pearl - handed .25 - caliber pistol was in his right hand.

Urges Thorough Investigation

Robert Morris, former chief counsel for the Senate Internal Security subcommittee, urged police to look into "all the circumstances surrounding" the death. Morris said he did not have "the slightest idea" whether Bang-Jensen committed suicide but said his elimination "would have served the Soviets well."

Mrs. Bang-Jensen said her husband had religious scruples against suicide. She said he had told her several times that suicide was "a senseless, useless sort of thing."

But detectives said they were positive the former U.N. official killed himself. The note found in the breast pocket of his jacket was written in his own hand and there was no evidence whatever to indicate foul play. Medical examiners certified the death was suicide after examining his body at Queens General Hospital.

Police said the only unanswered question was how long he had been dead before being found.

The graying diplomat, whose last job was with the CARE organization, left home Monday saying he was en route to his office. Detectives were checking to determine whether anyone had seen him later.

Bang-Jensen was fired from his United Nations post a year-and-a-half ago for refusing to turn over to the world organization a list of 81 Hungarian freedom fighters from whom he had received information on the 1956 revolt and its suppression by Soviet forces.

He said he feared that if he turned over the list, the freedom fighters' relatives would face reprisals in Hungary.

Sir Leslie Munro, current special U.N. representative on the Hungarian question, told the General Assembly in a 4,700-word report circulated Friday that trials and executions stemming from the revolt still were continuing in Hungary three years later.

Goateed Plumber Unsure Whether He Killed Wife

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — A 41-year-old goateed plumber from Seattle, Wash., was in custody here today after telling police he "probably killed his wife, but I can't remember doing it."

He was identified as Charles R. Lelo. New Orleans police said a check with Seattle authorities confirmed that his wife, Mrs. Betty Lou Good Lelo, had been shot to death Oct. 4.

Police there said she was watching a television program with her two young children in a rooming house when a gunman fired three shots through a window. One shot hit her in the back of the head, killing her instantly.

Lelo, who was arrested Wednesday for investigation in connections with recent robberies, told police Friday:

"All I can remember is that I was riding in my automobile about midnight and I heard a news announcer say that my wife had been shot...

"I just kept riding after that. I figured I must have killed her, but I can't remember doing it. I wanted to get even with her for running around with another man but I didn't plan to kill her."

Mrs. Leo was killed with a .22 caliber rifle. Such a rifle was found in Lelo's car when he was arrested.

Dag Publishes Proposal About Valid Weddings

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold published Saturday a proposed international agreement under which no marriage would be valid without the free consent of bride and groom.

The text also says all marriages shall be recorded in a civil or other official register and none shall be valid if one or both of the intended spouses is under age. It leaves the minimum age to be recommended by the U.N. Commission on the Status of Women, which will consider the proposed agreement next March. Hammarskjold noted that the 1956 Geneva convention against slavery and similar practices makes 14 the minimum age for marriage.

Check Of Mail Poses Many Complications

BY STANLEY MEISLER

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the Federalist days, the young, fretful American republic tried to stop pamphlets about the French revolution from reaching the mailboxes of its citizens.

Since then, in sporadic moments of crisis, the federal government has continued to screen mail and weed out what it considers foreign or dangerous propaganda. Such moments have come in the pre-Civil War days, during the two world wars, and, now, in the cold war.

But the present little-known program, a joint effort by the Post Office Department and the Customs Bureau, is facing the heaviest attack in its existence. For the first time, law suits have been filed against it.

Under the program, the Customs Bureau checks foreign non first-class mail as it enters the United States. If translators and inspectors decide the mail contains foreign — usually Communist — political propaganda, the Post Office generally holds it up and sends a notice to the addressee.

The notice says the propaganda would normally be considered non mailable but the addressee may receive it if he signs an enclosed form. By signing it, the addressee states that he ordered, subscribed to, or desires the material. Many do not sign, and the Post Office destroys the unclaimed material.

No law details this procedure. It is based instead on a ruling of Atty. Gen. Robert H. Jackson in 1940, handed down after the Post.

The helicopter carrying Khrushchev flew across Moscow at about 700 feet. It made the 25-mile trip in 10 minutes. Normally it takes 40 minutes to an hour to make the trip because of traffic.

Office Department had seized large shipments of Nazi propaganda. His ruling involved a complicated interweaving of the Espionage Act of 1917 and the Foreign agents Registration Act of 1938.

After World War II, the program lay dormant. But the start of the Korean War prompted congressmen to pressure the Customs Bureau and the Post Office to do something about an increasing influx of Communist mail. The Jackson procedures were revived.

Under the Jackson theory, the Post Office may destroy all foreign propaganda—Communist or not—without giving the addressee a chance to sign a form requesting it, or without even telling him about it. And until this year the program operated much that way.

The present system of notifying the addressee was started recently by Herbert B. Warburton, the new general counsel of the Post Office.

At the start, the current program had chaotic aspects. The Post Office and the Customs Bureau went after propaganda without much advance preparation. They did not even have a set of rules of procedure that the public could read.

On one occasion, the Customs Bureau handed a Russian-English dictionary to a St. Paul employe who could not speak Russian. His task: to wade through a warehouse of Soviet material and pull out all items containing Communist propaganda.

With such procedures, errors of judgment were easy. The government confiscated, among other material, a Soviet book titled "Chess for Beginners," German-language editions of the works of Karl Marx, the Soviet newspaper Pravda, an antichurch book written in England, the London Economist, and a children's story by Sholom Aleichem.

Universities, libraries, political scientists and newsmen discovered that important Russian journals and newspapers, needed in their work, were not reaching them. One scholarly mathematics review, for example, did not receive any Russian mathematical publications for a year.

Complaints descended upon the Post Office and the Customs Bureau. Under the barrage, procedures were gradually changed until the present system evolved.

In the main, only Communist propaganda coming from behind the Iron Curtain is held up now. And the Post Office releases most of it to anyone who signs a form. The chief exception: bulk shipments of Communist propaganda. The department destroys them.

Government officials contend it is dangerous to let subversive, Communist propaganda reach the American public and it is foolish to subsidize it by using the U. S. mails to deliver it. They are particularly concerned about propaganda directed at the foreign-born population in the United States.

But critics say this puts the federal government in the business of deciding what opinions are fit for Americans to read. And they say anyone asked to sign a statement that he desires Communist mail may interpret that requirement as a form of intimidation.

Two law suits by the American Civil Liberties Union are testing the legality and constitutionality of the customs and postal procedures.

In one, the union has sued on behalf of the managing editor of the American Journal of Sociology, who refused to sign the forms for delivery of two Czech magazines.

In the other, an ACLU attorney has sued to force the Post Office to deliver a copy of Red China's Peking Review without his signing the form.

Warburton hints that he welcomes the lawyer law suits as one way of clearing up the controversy over the program.

Khrushchev Flies In Helicopter

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev followed President Eisenhower's example Friday and flew from the airport to his office in a helicopter. He liked it.

He finished his return trip from a vacation in Gagra on the Black Sea, where he has spent the last 10 days, by hopping from the airport right into the Kremlin yard. All the Presidium members were lined up to meet him.

A group of selected Soviet newsmen met him later in the Kremlin.

Tass, the official Soviet news agency, and Moscow radio said they asked him how he liked the flight and whether the craft was as good as the one in which he flew with Eisenhower.

"The flight was very good," he said, "I hardly noticed how I got into Moscow. Everything is a matter of habit. But I have the impression that our cabin was larger and more comfortable. There was no more noise, perhaps less. In a word, it is a good and comfortable thing."

The helicopter is an eight-seater jet and it landed in the Kremlin early this month just to show it could be done. At that time Khrushchev inspected it, and watched how it landed in an open place paved with stone and surrounded by Kremlin buildings and a cluster of gold-domed churches.

Making the copter flight with Khrushchev was Pyotor Dementyev, chairman of the state aviation engineering committee; and Mikhail Mil, designer of the M14, which made the flight.

IN PHILIPPINES

U.S. Men Linked To 'Whisper' Drive

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Philippine Ambassador Carlos P. Romulo said Friday that some U.S. military officers in the Philippines are engaged in "whispering campaigns" against the Filipino people. He proposed an investigation to ferret them out.

Romulo said in a sharp statement that an inquiry "into the background and mentality" of such officials might disclose why "America is not only losing prestige in, but is alienating countries least expected to be unfriendly."

Romulo's ire was aroused by charges of Rep. Phil Weaver (R-Neb.) that U.S. troops in the Philippines have been made the target of looting, harassment, and generally unfriendly treatment by the Filipino people and government.

To Recall Commanders

The chairman of the House Defense Appropriations subcommittee said U.S. commanders would be recalled from the Philippines to testify about Weaver's charges. The lawmaker recently made a three-day inspection of U.S. military bases in the islands.

Meanwhile, the State Department gave a chilly reception to Weaver's suggestion that U. S. troops be withdrawn from the Philippines. Without mentioning Weaver by name, press officer Joseph Reap said U.S. bases there are "important to the security of both countries."

"These bases and the personnel manning them are there to implement a treaty of mutual defence," he said. He added that of the Filipino government to step up law enforcement around U.S. military bases.

Chairman Dennis Chavez (D-N.M.) of the Senate Military Appropriations subcommittee who just toured U.S. bases in more than 15 nations, said he found no widespread anti-Americanism in the Philippines.

"By and large, I found Americans welcome everywhere," Chavez said. "These people know our military spending supports their local economies. They want us. I didn't see any 'Yank, go home signs.'"

Romulo mentioned no names in demanding an investigation of U. S. military representatives in the this country welcomed the efforts

Accident Suit Filed In Winn

WINNFIELD (Special) — A resident of Sikes Dan (Dooley) Miller, 61, has filed a 49,500 damage suit against the state highway Department, claiming damages to cover injuries he said he received in an auto crash.

Miller's lawsuit charges the highway department, while constructing the Winnfield to Gaars Mill Road, placed certain portions of the highway in a dangerous condition.

The Lawsuit claims that the state did not erect necessary safe guards along the construction area.

As a result the lawsuit says, a car driven by Miller's companion got out of control, smashed a tree, and Miller suffered a fractured neck and shoulder injuries.

Miller requested 2,000 dollars for past and future medical expense, 20,000 dollars for past and future suffering, $2,500 for past salary lost and $25,000 for future salary loss.

Miller was granted permission under act 82 of the 1959 Louisiana legislature to sue the Department of Highways.

Ole Miss Mauls Maroons, 42-0; Takes Aim At LSU

By LEWIS LORD

STARKSVILLE, Miss. (UPI) — Jake Gibbs, possibly Mississippi's best quarterback since Charlie Conerly, scored two touchdowns and passed for two more Saturday to lead the nations No. 2 team to a 42-0 victory over rival Mississippi State and a Sugar Bowl rematch with LSU.

The victory, witnessed by a crowd of 34,000, was the 100th in 12 years for Rebel Coach John Vaught. Vaught has never lost to State, a 26-point underdog this sunny but cold day.

Mississippi announced immediately after the game its acceptance of an invitation to met third-ranked Louisiana State in the Sugar Bowl New Year's Day. The New Orleans classic will be a replay of a regular season match which L.S.U won 7-3. It was Missippi's only defeat. Sugar Bowl President Monk Simon said, "We feel we have the outstanding bowl game of the day."

Gibbs, a junior who passes hard and runs harder, threw touchdown passes to halfback Cowboy Woodruff and end Larry Grantham and scored two times on roll-outs behind precision blocking. Fullback Charlie Flowers, an all - America prospect, scored another touchdown to climax a Gibbs-directed drive, and Woodruff returned a pass interception for a final touchdown.

Mississippi State, making its second straight finish in the Southeastern Conference cellar, was bottled up constantly by Mississippi's hard - charging line, led by All-SEC guard Marvin Terrell and center Ken Kirk.

The young Maroons failed to penetrate Mississippi territory in the first half and got no further than the Rebel 36 in the second half.

Mississippi waited 14 minutes to make its first score, then made another before the first period ended. The Rebels moved 63 yards in seven plays with Gibbs hitting Woodruff near the left sidelines on a 23-yard scoring pass.

Mississippi State fullback Walter Flowers fumbled the ensuing kickoff on the State 31 in the grip of a crushing tackle by tackle Butch Kempinska which sent Flowers limping to the bench. Rebel fullback James Anderson recovered. Gibbs then passed to halfback Dewey Partridge for 24 yards and went over from seven yards out on a rollout on the following play. Robert Khaya made the first of his four conversions.

Gibbs engineered an 80 - yard Rebel drive in the second period and Flowers capped it with a four-yard smash over the middle.

Gibbs pin-pointed end Jerry Daniels with a 38-yard pass to the State 19 to set up the Rebels' fourth touchdown and moments later hit Grantham in the end zone for the tally.

In the third period, Gibbs directed a drive from the Rebel 37 to the State 37 where the shifty quarterback from Grenada, Miss., broke away for 37 yards on a roll out for another touchdown.

Two Rebel interceptions, one by Gibbs, stopped Maroon drives in the final period. The second interception came when Woodruff grabbed a pass at the State 42. He went the distance untouched for the Rebels' final touchdown, and fourth string quarterback Doug Elmore sneaked over for two extra points.

ACCARDO WINS IT

Irish Edge Rebs In Thriller, 54-53

Frankie Accardo sank two free shots with six seconds to go to give St. Matthew's Fighting Irish a 54-53 victory over West Monroe's scrappy shorties and delight a homecoming crowd at the parochial school gym last night.

Because of a mixup at the scoring table, Accardo and everybody else didn't know his last charity toss was the winner until after the game. The scoreboard clock read 56-53 after Accardo's final shot and the Irish, thinking they had the game beyond reach, stayed away and let Roy Lee Scroggins shoot a long one just as the game ended. The shot missed.

The victory was the third of the season for Jim Mahoney's St. Matthew's club against one defeat. L. V. Norris' West Monroe Rebels, short on experience and height, were playing in their first game.

West Monroe never led until the final minutes. The Irish had a 15-9 lead at the end of the first period and a 24-20 advantage at halftime.

St. Matthew's pushed their lead to six points early in the third period but West Monroe closed the gap to 36-33 by the end of the stanza and never was behind by more than three points the rest of the way.

Accardo, Puddy Embanato and John Varino got 14 points each for the Irish and Varino controlled the backboards with 20 rebounds.

Larry Danna, before going out on fouls, collected 13 points to lead West Monroe and Scroggins got 11.

Army-Navy Sidelights

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. (AP)—The Army-Navy pre-game parade was modified Saturday to protect the tarpaulin covered field at Philadelphia Stadium.

The brigade of midshipmen and corps of cadets marched around the cement track circling the field and then raced to their seats prior to the 60th service football game.

A night-long and early morning rain brought the joint decision by Rear Adm. Charles L. Melson, superintendent of the Naval Academy, and Lt. Gen. Garrison H. Davidson, of West Point.

The tarpaulin was removed 45 minutes before the kickoff, by which time the rain had stopped and a drying breeze blew into the gigantic stadium.

The name of the playing field has been changed from a year ago, when it was known as Municipal Stadium.

The captains of the two squads come from suburban Philadelphia. Navy center Jim Dunn's home is Rutledge, Pa., and Army end Bill Carpenter comes from Springfield, Pa.

Carpenter's stepfather works at the Philadelphia Navy Shipyard.

Among the notable visitors in the vast throng were Felix (Doc) Blanchard, Army's All-America fullback from the great mid-40s era, and former Navy quarterback Tom Forrestal.

Blanchard is one of two players to score three touchdowns in a single Army-Navy contest (1945). The other was Army's Pat Uebel in '53.

Many fans were late arriving, fearing a repeat of two years ago when the Middies and Cadets didn't even march around the covered field due to the deluge. The '57 contest was the first since 1934 played in rain.

Phil Monahan had an important sideline seat for the second time at the service classic. In the 1954 game, he was Navy captain, but was hurt and didn't play. Navy won 27-20 and then beat Mississippi 21-0 in the Sugar Bowl.

This season, Monahan scouted every Army game and a lot of the Navy strategy this afternoon was based on his observations.

The 184-page official game program cover took its cue from the space age. Gib Crockett, Washington Star cartoonist, showed a football being launched into space from the stadium.

President Eisenhower, who never has seen an Army-Navy football game while in office, sent a message of "best wishes to both teams."

When the tarpaulin was removed it revealed a firm looking turf which had been spray painted a bright green.

Hudson Leads Tech To 16-0 Victory Over Powerful Southerners

Bulldogs Tip Nation's No. 2 Ranked Team

By JIM CALHOUN
Staff Sports Writer

RUSTON, La. — Pint-sized Johnny Hudson revived a dormant Louisiana Tech offensive with a dazzling fourth - quarter passing barrage and sneaked for two touchdowns as the Bulldogs smashed second-ranked Mississippi Southern, 16-0, here Saturday afternoon in a battle of small college giants.

Hudson, a 5-9, 155-pound deadeye from Minden, completed 9 of 11 passes for 139 yards and bunched 8 of his strikes in the final period to set up both scoring bursts.

End Bud Alexander, whose field goal spelled the difference in Tech's 10-7 win over Memphis State two weeks ago, blasted a 32-yard three-pointer in the third period to crack a scoreless deadlock.

The victory, Tech's ninth of the season against one setback and the first over Southern since 1949, stamped the Bulldogs as prime material for a post-season bowl bid. Mississippi Southern had been ticketed for a Tangerine Bowl berth if they hurdled the seventh-ranked Louisianians.

Louisiana Tech, which breezed to the Gulf States Conference title with a 5-0 league mark, has been rumored as a possible participant in the Blue Grass Bowl in Louisville, Ky., Dec. 19. However, Alabama yesterday rejected a bid to the bowl and officials hinted the contest may be dropped. Kentucky has also been invited to play.

The victory was particularly sweet for Tech head coach Joe Aillet, only this week elected to the National Assn. of Intercollegiate Athletics hall of fame. Aillet's record for 19 years at the Bulldog helm stands at 114 victories against 59 losses and 8 ties.

Outweighed by a Southern forward wall averaging 215 pounds per man, the Techmen ran the middle of the line with little success, gaining only 67 yards on the ground while Southern romped for 173.

But Hudson, seeing his first varsity action this season after being redshirted in 1958, took command in the final period and did what had to be done.

Halfback Jack Howard recovered his second of two fumbles shortly after the last stanza opened and the Techsters began to roll. Tommy Purvis bobbled the ball on the Tech 45 and Howard corralled it on his own 38.

Sophomore Andy Farless lost four yards, then Hudson connected with Howard on a 37-yarder that carried to the Mississippi 29. Farless picked up two through the center and Hudson rifled a 13-yard shot to freshman cohort, end Jerry Griffin, at the 14. On the next play it was Hudson again, tossing to end Tom Causey, a junior from Monroe who made a sparkling reception between two defenders on the one.

Fullback Wayne Parker was stopped for no gain and Hudson sneaked over for the touchdown. Slack's kick was no good and the hosts led, 9-0.

But Hudson and the red-jersied Bulldogs weren't through. Sophomore guard Billy Jack Talton sytmied a Southern move moments later, intercepting reserve quarterback Billy Larson's pass on the Mississippi 37.

David Williamson bulled for three yards and a 15-yard penalty set the Techmen back to the 49. Hudson flipped to Griffin for 12 yards, picked up 3 on the option play and handed off the Max Rudd for 6 more yards.

With fourth and one on the 28 Hudson tossed out in the right flat to Williamson who made a fintertip catch and powered his way to a first down on the 20. After Rudd lost a couple on a dive Hudson spiraled a heave to Griffin who made a falling reception on the 2. Hudson faked a handoff and went over the left side to score.

Slack's conversion wrapped up the scoring.

The Southerners, absorbing their first shutout since Chattanooga turned the trick in 1955, made a last-ditch drive, moving to the Tech 15 before running out of steam with one play left in the game.

Lanky Vel Keckin pitched 10 passes in the last three minutes and engineered a 65-yard Southern march. He shot a 33-yarder to end Jugh McInnis a 16-yarder to Leon Akins and a 10 - yarder to Andin McLeod. Three passes and a run from the 20 failed to pick up the first down and Tech took over and ran out the clock.

Southern was literally shot down by shoddy ball handling, losing the ball five times on fumbles, once on the Tech 6. Hudson pounced on that one just before the half to preserve a scoreless stalemate temporarily.

Both clubs put together serious scoring drives in the initial half. On the first play of the second quarter end Charley Garris smashed down Southern's Morris Meador with a hard tackle, jarring the ball loose. Bobby Hinton recovered for the hosts on the invaders' 12.

J. W. Slack moved for one yard and Paul Hynes, Tech's top ground gainer with 30 yards, got one through the middle. Mickey Slaughter's pass was broken up by Charley Ellzey and the Techmen lined up for a field goal attempt from the 17. The pass from center was low and Mickey Slaughter picked it up and passed to Slack who drove to the 3, one yard short of a first down.

Then it was Southern's turn and the Mississippi club marched to the Bulldog 27 in 20 plays where McInnis missed a field goal try.

Tech notched its field goal after the second half kickoff, climaxing a drive from the 35-yard line. Slack, Hynes and Rudd ground out yardage on three carries and junior quarterback Taylor McNeel threw 18 yards to Hynes at the 37 on a fourth down gamble that caught Southern napping.

McNeel then pitched to Slack who was bounced out of bounds by Don Fuell after a 17-yard gain to the 20. Hynes picked up 3 and Rudd moved for 2 before McNeel's pass fell incomplete.

Then Alexander, kicking from the 22-yard line on a slight angle from the left, split the crossbars to send Tech into the lead.

Joe Hinton, Bobby Hinton, Herschel Vinyard and Garris were bulwarks in the consistent Tech defensive forward wall. McInnis, who was credited with 7 tackles and 4 asissts, was Southern's defensive standout along with tackle Buddy Long and tackle Charley Baetzman.

Buddy Supple and Arnold Spence were the big gainers for the southermen. Supple moved for 56 yards in 13 tries and Spence picked up 35 yards in 11 carries.

Causey snared four passes for 48 yards and Griffin hauled in three for 45 yards.

Southern, beaten by Texas A&M, Memphis State and Auburn, finished the season with six wins and four losses.

Joe Bellino Leads Navy To 43-12 Rout Of Cadets

By JACK HAND

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Flashy Joe Bellino's three touchdowns led Navy to a shocking 43-12 rout of favored Army Saturday, the highest point total by any team in the 60 games of this bitter football rivalry.

Bellino, a shifty speed merchant from Winchester, Mass., thrilled the 100,000 fans at Philadelphia Stadium with his brilliant running. The junior halfback tallied on runs of 15 and 47 yards and plunged over from the Army 1 to become the first Navy player ever to score three touchdowns in a single game of this series that dates back to 1890. Only two Army men, Doc Blanchard in 1945 and Pat Uebel in 1953, ever matched this brilliant effort.

Quarterback Joe Tranchini of Navy completely overshadowed Army's Joe Caldwell, smashing through the Cadets for two touchdowns on an 11-yard run and a 1-yard plunge and directing the Middies' attack expertly. Ronnie Branquist blasted into the end zone from the Army 1 for Navy's sixth and final touchdown.

Only for a few moments in the second period did it appear that Army might have a chance to pull this out of the fire.

The Cadets broke through twice, scoring on a 29-yard pass from Caldwell to Bill Carpenter, the lonely end, and a 12-yard power run by Bob Anderson. However Army trailed 21-12 at halftime and didn't come close to scoring again until Caldwell's pass was intercepted in the end zone by Jim Honeywell with a minute to go.

Bellino, crippled by a leg injury since the Southern Methodist game in early October, came into his own against Army with a smashing effort.

In addition to his scoring runs, he turned in a brilliant 37-yard runback after intercepting an Anderson pass in the third period. And the 5-8 junior also was a standout on pass defense whenever the fired up Navy line didn't completely smother Caldwell.

The game, highest scoring contest in the series, ended without goal posts as crowd of civilians swarmed onto the field and leveled the uprights.

The 3,300 midshipmen had plenty of chances to send the rousing tones of "Anchors Aweigh" into the chill, damp air as Navy rolled up the score. The previous high for a team in this series came in Navy's 42-7 victory in 1951 in the first game after Army's cribbing scandal. Army's high was 40 points in 1903 and the previous high total for both clubs was 49 in 1951.

It was apparent early that this was not to be Army's day. On the first series of plays after receiving the opening kickoff, Navy just missed a touchdown on a tricky pass from Bellino to Dick Pariseau. Pariseau, the flanking halfback, had the ball on his fingertips as he lunged into the end zone.

Navy moved 67 yards in six plays for its first touchdown after forcing Army to punt. A Tranchini-to-George Bezek pass accounted for a vital first down, and Pariseau broke away for 20 yards to the Army 15. Bellino went inside tackle on a quick opener, cut toward the sidelines and scooted 15 yards for the touchdown that touched off a wild ovation in the brigade of midshipmen.

The Middies came right back with another Bellino score, this time on a 47-yard run on a draw play to the right side. Greg Mather's placement try, blocked after the first score, was good this time, and Navy led 13-0 after less than 10 minutes of play.

Army struck back when Caldwell, who had missed with his first six passes despite his 60 per cent completion record in previous games, hit Carpenter for a 29-yard touchdown play.

That only served to arouse the Navy to more strenuous efforts. In 12 plays the Middies moved deep on Tranchini's passing. The quarterback finally went over on a keeper and then passed to Bezek for the 2 points.

Army's second and last scoring march was aided by two personal foul penalties against Navy, and finally was capped by Anderson's 12-yard run.

Navy kept rolling in the second half although Caldwell began to connect with his passes. At the end of the day he had hit six of 23 (only 25 per cent) but added 115 yards that gave him a West Point season high of 1,258 yards.

Bellino's third touchdown came midway in the third period after his fine run with interception. He drove over from the 13 this time. Tranchini threw the 2-point conversion pass to Tom Hyde, who was voted the outstanding lineman in a press box poll. Bellino, naturally, was the back of the day with 25 carries for 115 yards.

Tranchini plunged over for the fifth Navy score in the first minute of the final period, and passed to Bezek for the 2-pointer. A few minutes later the Middies came right back with another.

After Bellino crashed to the Army 1, Brandquist took it over.

The Navy quarterback completed nine of 15 passes (60 per cent) for 117 yards, but none went for touchdown on a pass.

battle that was expected to be as passing duel between Caldwell and Tranchini resulted in only one touchdwn on a pass.

Navy closed down on Army's ground game, limiting the Cadets to 62 yards rushing. Tackle Ron Erchul was the leader in the rushing of Caldwell.

So first blood in this battle of new service coaches went to Wayne Hardin, who succeeed Eddie Erdelatz at Navy. The victory left the Middies with a final 5-4-1 record. Army dropped back to the .500 mark at 4-4-1, ending a frustrating year for Dale Hall, who took over after Red Blaik stepped down last year.

Hall said his team had no excuse. "I think agood part of it was just poor tackling," he said. While praising Bellino he took time to pay particular attention to Tranchini who played "a real fine game and completed pass after pass with players hanging on to him."

Asked what he had said to the players before the press was admitted, Hall replied, "not anything I would like made public."

TECH GATOR BOUND

Georgia Whips Engineers, 21-14; Accepts Orange Bid

By DAVID M. MOFFIT

ATLANTA (UPI) — Halfback Fred Brown paced Georgia's Bulldogs to a 21-14 victory over arch-rival Georgia Tech Saturday and Georgia immediately announced it had accepted an invitation to the Orange Bowl.

The Bulldogs, with a 9-1 record and the Southeastern Conference title to show for Coach Wally Butts finest season in a decade, will meet Missouri, the Big Eight representative, in Miami's Orange Bowl feature on Jan. 1.

Georgia Tech announced after the game that it had accepted an invitation to the Gator Bowl in Jacksonville, Fla., Jan. 2 Tech will meet Arkansas of the Southwest Conference in the Gator Bowl game, it was announced there.

Georgia piled up three first-half touchdowns before a crowd of 45,000 and fought off a determined Tech bid in the second half.

Brown, speedy nephew of one-time all-America Johnny Mack Brown, set up the Bulldogs' first touchdown with a 38-yard end sweep and scored the final one on a 40-yard pass play.

Despite bitter cold, the sell-out crowd stayed in its seats until the final gun as Tech unleashed its offense in the closing minutes to turn what had appeared to be a rout into a thriller.

Trailing 0-21, the Yellowjackets scored late in the third period on a 57-yard pass play, then threatened twice in the fourth period before finally scoring again on a 38-yard pass.

Quarterback Marvin Tibbetts, subbing for injured Fred Braselton, threw both of Tech's touchdown passes—one to end Gerald Burch, the other to end Fred Murphy.

The Bulldogs looked like the Southeastern Conference Champions they are in the first half, moving through the Tech defense as no other team has done in years. They dominated the half, scoring their first touchdown 30 seconds before the end of the opening period when halfback George Guisler went over from one yard out — two plays after Brown's long run.

Then, with two minutes and three seconds left in the half, quarterback Francis Tarkenton hit end Bill Herron with a 16 - yard pass that scored Georgia's second touchdown. Georgia got the ball back when Tech quick-kicked and with only nine seconds left in the half, quarterback Charlie Britt connected with Brown from 40 yards out for the third touchdown.

Durwood Pennington kicked all three conversions.

Tech finally got back into the game late in the third period on the Tibbetts-to-Burch pass. Then in the fourth period the Jackets really poured it on.

A bad snap on a punt attempt put Tech on the Georgia 14, but a fake field goal on fourth down went astray when no one was in the end zone to receive Tibbetts' pass.

Burch ran 45 yards with a fake kick and the Jackets went from there to the Georgia one yard line, but failed to score when halfback Floyd Faucette slipped on fourth down.

Finally, with three minutes to play, Tech scored again on Tibbetts pass to Murphy.

One of the highlights of the contest was the kicking of Georgia halfback Bobby Walden who averaged 5.8 yards on seven punts including one for 73 yards. Most of his punts were into a strong wind.

The victory gave Georgia a 9-1 record. Tech is 6-4.

DEFENSE SHINES

TCU Rips SMU, Gains Loop Tie

FORT WORTH, Tex., (AP) — Harry Moreland and Marvin Lasater provided the offense and Jack Spikes the defense Saturday as Texas Christian beat Southern Methodist 19-0 and tied for the Southwest Conference championship. TCU will play Clemson in the Bluebonnet Bowl at Houston Dec. 19.

Moreland scooted 47 yards for one touchdown and Lasater scored two more. Spikes stopped Don Meredith's passing.

TCU wound up with an 8-2 season record and a triple tie with Arkansas and Texas for the title. Texas plays in the Cotton Bowl and Arkansas in the Gator Bowl.

A crowd of 40,000—largest ever to see an SMU-TCU game in Fort Worth—watched the Frogs give SMU a licking. The TCU line stymied everything the Methodist's tried. Although Meredith, the fine SMU passer, managed to complete 14 throws for more than 100 yards, he was rushed badly, mostly by Spikes. Seven times Meredith was thrown for losses.

The charging Frog line blocked two SMU kicks, one setting up a touchdown.

And Southern Methodist wound up with a minus one yard rushing—this for the Southwest Conference's top offensive team.

Bob Lilly, TCU tackle, blocked Don Stewart's punt in the second period and knocked the ball outside on the SMU 17. Spikes and Lasater crashed to the touchdown, Lasater making the last nine yards. R. E. Dodson missed his first try for point in 19—he last missed against SMU a year ago.

Shortly afterward, after Jimmy Gilmore's punt that went out on the SMU 1 put the Methodists in a hole, TCU scored again. A pass interference penalty that put the ball on the SMU 47 helped. From here the Moreland raced through the line for a touchdown. Moreland failed to run over the conversion.

With only 35 seconds left TCU scored its last touchdown. It was on a 15-yard pass from Larry Dawson to Lasater in the end zone. Dodson converted.

Celtics Rout Pistons, Snap Losing Streak

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Celtics had no trouble Saturday showing why they are the world champions as they trounced the Detroit Pistons 136-110 in an NBA game which was televised nationally.

Detroit Coach Red Rocha had an inkling of the outcome, because he said prior to the game: "It's a tough break for us to have to play this powerhouse right after they dropped two straight to Philadelphia. They may kill us."

The Celtics proved Rocha's fears were justified as six men scored in double figures, paced by Frank Ramsey who led both teams with 24 points.

Other high men for the winners were Bill Sharman with 20, Bob Cousy and Sam Jones with 19 each and Tom Heinsohn 16.

Leading the Pistons' attack were rookie Bailey Howell with 20, and Walter Dukes with 15.

Boston's victory before a Boston Garden crowd of 4,296 was accomplished with far less help than usual from Bill Russell, who is still hobbied by a sprained ankle. He was used sparingly.

After trailing in the open minutes, Boston moved in front to stay when Heinsohn hit a jump shot to make the score 16-14.

In the second period, Boston gradually drew away with Sam Jones and Ramsey hitting consistently for a 22-point half time advantage, 70-48.

The Celtics boosted this to 33 points 109-76, as the fourth period opened and the issue was never in doubt.

Sooners Tip Cowboys By 17-7 Margin

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Fullback Ronnie Hartline and center Jim Davis provided the heroics for the Oklahoma Sooners in a hard-earned 17-7 football victory over the Oklahoma State Cowboys Saturday.

It was the 14th straight time for the Sooners to put the skids to their cross-state rival. The triumph this time, however, was tough to achieve as the fired-up Cowboys played head-to-head with the Sooners most of the way.

Oklahoma stormed to the front in the fourth quarter from a 7-3 deficit, putting across a touchdown early in the period and then adding the clincher in the final minutes.

Oklahoma State forged ahead on a 60-yard drive with 6½ minutes left in the second quarter. A three-yard pass from quarterback Dick Soergel to end Billy Dodson on fourth down provided the touchdown and then Dodson added the extra point.

The Sooners came right back and moved to the Cowboy 10 only to have a pass interception spoil their effort. But fortunately the Sooners recovered a fumble on the 10 to set up 21-yard field goal by Davis on fourth down.

Hartline then broke the hearts of the Cowboy supporters early in the fourth period with a beautiful 31-yard touchdown run on a perfect cutback through tackle. The Sooners weren't content with this meager three-point lead and put together 81 yards in a 16-play series for the final score. Quarterback Bobby Boyd plunged the final yard.

Reb Officials Limit Tickets For Bowl Tilt

OXFORD, Miss. (UPI) — The University of Mississippi announced Saturday because of an anticipated shortage in Sugar Bowl tickets there will be a limit of two per family.

The university's committee on intercollegiate athletics said that alumni and the general public can purchase tickets to the New Year's Day Classic between Ole Miss and LSU by mail order only.

The committee said telephone and C.O.D. orders can not be accepted, and payment of mail orders must be in the forms of a cashiers' check, or Post Office or Western Union money orders.

No orders can be accepted after midnight, Dec. 10. The tickets are $6 each.

Each individual ordering tickets must submit his own order, the committee said, and group orders cannot be accepted. Orders can be filled only to the limited number of tickets available.

Sale priorities are in the following order: players and coaches; university students; faculty and staff; active alumni, as of Nov. 28, 1959; inactive alumni; the general public residing in the university area.

All orders should be directed to Business Manager of Athletics, Box 185, the University of Mississippi. Add 25 cents to each order to cover handling and mailing, said the committee.

Snead Pilots Wake Forest Past Carolina

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (UPI) — Quarterback Norman "slinger" Snead set five new Atlantic Coast Conference records Saturday in leading Wake Forest to a 43-20 victory over South Carolina in a game which saw tempers flare briefly in the closing seconds.

A crowd of 12,200 watched the Dean junior set new season marks for passes attempted and completed, touchdown passes, passing yardage and total offense.

Snead passed to Bobby Allen for one score, to Pete Manning for another and to Winston Futch for a third. His passes to Boll Ruby and Bobby Robinson set up a fourth, scored by Jerry Ball on a one-yard plunge.

Futch also scored on a 25-yard run and the Deacons wrapped it up with two touchdowns in the brawl-marred final 30 seconds of the game. Chuck Reiley went one yard for one score and center Buck Jolly galloped 14 yards with an intercepted pass for the final tally.

South Carolina, sparked by quarterback Steve Satterfield and fullbacks Phil Lavoie and John Saunders, pulled ahead 8-0 on Lavoie's one-yard plunge early in the first period. Lavoie ran for the two-pointer.

PAUL MARTIN LOOKS 'EM OVER

Northeast Basketball

The "We're Building" sign hangs out at Northeast Louisiana State where Coach Lenny Fant, with a predominately freshman squad, is less than a week away from shooting his Indian basketball edition into a regular 22-game schedule, plus the host role in the annual holiday tournament on December 28-29.

After about a month and a half of training, the Indians open their season on the road next Friday night against East Texas State at Commerce, Tex. The East Texans have only one senior player, Noel Fain, a 6-foot-3 ace from Winnsboro of our state, but he is supported by a fair mixture of juniors and sophomores.

Ronald Doyle, a 6-foot-2 senior from Calvert City, Ky., is the only regular back in harness at Northeast and apparently he is going to have to carry a big load this year.

Seniors Fred Bradley, 6-1, Bismarck, Mo., and Larry Stegall, 5-11, Desloge, Mo., are lettermen being counted on strongly along with sophomores Lanny Johnson, 6-1, Monroe; David Harkins, 6-5, Hico; and J. B. Edmiston, 6-0, Simsboro. They, with Doyle, represent all seasoned talent in the Indian camp, with the exception of Gene Cozine, a junior college transfer from Missouri.

Freshmen are going to play a lot of ball at Northeast this year, and some of the frosh are making close battles for starting jobs.

Frosh hopes are Milton Linder, 6-3, Fort Necessity; Bobby Lockwood, 6-3, and Eddie Smith, 6-4, Spearsville; John Hagan, 6-8, a Colorado youth with no cage experience; Gerald Meeks, 6-4, Cumberland, Md.; Stewart Toms, 5-10, and Malsolm Georgem 6-4, Quitman; Fred Mazura, 6-2, an ex-serviceman from Elizabeth, N.J.; and Robert Cook, 6-3, Jonesboro.

Cozine has had a tonsil operation that will keep him inactive for a few days, but he'll be getting in his licks before the season is very old.

Northeast follows East Texas with a Saturday night game with Lamar Tech at Beaumont, before coming to Monroe for the home opener Monday week against William Carey of Hattiesburg, Miss., in the new Ouachita Parish High gymnasium which will be the scene of all Northeast home games this year.

The Indians are going to lose some, and they're going to win some. They really have a fine looking bunch of freshmen to back up the lean crop of seasoned players. A cage schedule that continues to show improvement awaits the Tribe with such foes as Mississippi Southern, Memphis State, Arkansas State, and Nichols State in addition to East Texas and Lamar, plus all the usual Gulf States Conference schools.

Special Train

Bayou DeSiard Country Club is sponsoring a special Sugar Bowl train for its members and guests, provided 150 reservations are assured in time to charter the train.

James W. Moore, spokesman for Bayou DeSiard, said the train, as planned, will leave Monroe at 11:30 a.m. New Year's Day, but passengers may board the Pullman anytime after 10 p.m. December 31. The train will remain in New Orleans all day while the football fans are at the game.

Departure for home is scheduled for 1 a.m. January 2, with the Pullman to open at 9 p.m. January 1. The train will be due in Monroe at 7:40 a.m. Saturday, January 2.

Fans will have to secure their own tickets for the game.

MOORE SPARKLES

Vanderbilt Halts Tennessee 14-0

By LEON DANIEL

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UPI — Halfback Tom Moore sparked Vanderbilt to a 14-0 win over Tennessee Saturday and set a single season ground-gaining record for the Commodores in the bargain.

Some 31,000 spectators watched as Moore ripped through the Tennessee defense to amass 107 yards on the ground. His total for the year is 676 yards which breaks a school record of 668 yards set by Herb Rich in 1949.

Moore scored in the third period and his running mate, halfback Thom Garden, picked up the other tally in the first period by ripping nine yards through the left side of the Tennessee line.

The Vols' singlewing offense never got deeper into Vanderbilt territory than the 23 yard line.

Moore was a sparkplug in the highly effective Commodore ground attack which got underway immediately as Moore broke loose on the fourth play from scrimmage for a 32-yard run.

The Vols managed to stop a Commodore march in the first period at the three yard line, but Vanderbilt roared back, scoring on its next series of downs.

The Commodores went 33 yards in four plays for the first touchdown.

Moore blasted over left tackle for the third period score in a drive that covered 36 yards in 10 plays.

A weak punt by Vol tailback Billy Majors set the Commodores marching goalward.

The win broke a "Knoxville hex" for Vanderbilt. The Commodores had not won a game in Knoxville for 22 years in one of the South's hottest rivalries.

The win puts Vanderbilt in the first division Southeastern Conference standings. The Commodores had a season record of 5-3-2. The loss left the Vols with a 5-4-1 mark.

The Commodores picked up 13 first downs to nine for the Vols. Vanderbilt gained 189 yards on the ground to 96 for Tennessee.

The Vol offense was virtually ineffectual in the first half but sophomore tailback Glenn Glass showed promise as Tennessee displayed some offensive power in the last two periods.

Palmer, Ragan Tied With 205s

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Arnold Palmer of Ligonier, Pa., Saturday fired a 6-under-par 66 to pull even with Dave Ragan of Orlando with 205 after 54 holes of the $15,000 West Palm Beach Invitational Golf Tournament.

Palmer bagged seven birdies over the 6,745-yard Palm Beach Country Club course. Par is 72.

Brewer, who was three strokes back at the halfway point Friday, shot a 68 for 206. Cooper was 4-under-par with 68 and a 207 total.

Palmer pulled even with Ragan on the 18th hole when he dropped a chip shot 4 feet from the pin and sank the putt for a birdie 4 while Ragan, playing in the same threesome, took a par 5.

Brewer was driving to take the lead when he reached the 18th. He needed only seven putts and was 5-under-par after seven holes. The 18th was Brewer's only over-par hole. He sliced his drive into sand and blasted to the fairway and ended with a double bogey, putting from 25 feet for a 7.

Bill Johnson of Provo, Utah, shot the day's second best round, a 67. His play boosted him from seven strokes back to within four of the top.

Billy Casper Jr., of Apple Valley, Calif., winner of two tournaments in the last two weeks, had a 68 for a 210. Tied with Casper for sixth place was Gardner Dickinson Jr., of Palm Beach. He shot 71.

Green Bay Inks Albion College Fullback Hurd

ALBION, Mich. (AP) — Jim Hurd, who set a new Albion College rushing record as a fullback, said Saturday he had signed a contract with the Green Bay Packers of the National Football League. The contract reportedly calls for $8,000 a year, plus an off-season job.

Hurd, 13th round draft choice of the Packers, set an Albion record of 2,094 yards rushing in 455 carries over a four-year span and was an first-team choice in The Associated Press All - Michigan Small College team for 1959. He made the Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Assn. (MIAA) All-Star team three years in a row.

Albion's old rushing record of 2,034 yards was set by Bob MacDonald in 1953.

Winter Meet May Breed New Draft

By MILTON RICHMAN

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI) —Baseball gets down to business Monday and launches its winter meetings, which could produce more trades than ever, a revolutionary football-type draft and a method of handling that "hot potato"—the Continental League.

Neither Branch Rickey, president of the Continental League, nor any other member of the proposed new circuit has been invited to attend either the minor league meetings here, Nov. 30-Dec. 3, or the major league sessions at Miami Beach, Dec. 7-9.

The Continental Leaguers aren't bothered as much about the obvious brush-off as they are about the major leagues' recent talk of expansion.

"We all know they're not going to expand," said William Shea, chairman of the founders' group, in New York. "Their only purpose in indicating they will is to hold us up. We're hopeful that at their meetings they will live up to their promise and let the public know they have no intention of expanding."

If the majors fail to do so, Shea said, then the Continental League "may go back to Congress."

Even before tackling the question of what to do about the Continental League, however, major and minor league officials vote on a number of new proposals, including a radical type draft similar to the one now used by the National Football League.

The proposal, sponsored by the Denver club of the American Association, calls for the unrestricted drafting of any player without previous professional baseball experience. That would mean the majors and minors could select players from semi-pro, high school and college ranks on June 15, Oct. 15 and March 15 of each year.

Naturally, practically all clubs will be for this proposal, but there is a question as to its legality. The lawmakers say it's perfectly okay for professional football teams to draft this way, but they may take a different view about professional baseball clubs doing the same thing.

Dodgers Propose Change

Among the other proposals on the agenda is one by the Los Angeles Dodgers to amend the current draft rule. Under the present rule, the majors are permitted to draft first-year players in the minors but can not option them back to the minors. The Dodgers are hoping to have the rule amended so that players drafted by the majors could be optioned out for one year.

"All this legislation is aimed at curbing the tremendous bonuses paid to untried young players," explained one National League official. "We're all sick and tired of throwing money down the drain. Even the clubs that have regularly paid big bonuses are disillusioned. There's a big campaign on to trim bonus spending."

Be that as it may, some major league club will shell out $25,000 for veteran players in the minors and $15,000 for first-year men in the draft on Monday. The majors will draft first and then the minors will hold their draft the same day.

Bob Keegan, Warren Hacker, Hank Aguirre, Don Lee and Joe Lonnett, all of whom have major league experience, are said to be among the better bets to be drafted in the veteran class. Others among the eligibles include such familiar names as Larry Doby, Norm Zauchin, Murray Wall, Don Bessent, Gary Blaylock, foster Castleman, Dusty Rhodes and Willy Miranda.

There are a number of first-year bonus players among the eligibles, too, youngsters who received as much as $75,000 within the past year, and they're available at $15,000 each. This is a new phase of the draft, in effect for the first time, where one club is in a position to profit by another's mistake or throw some more good money after bad.

Only 12 players were drafted by the majors last year at Washington. Best of the batch were Rocky Nelson, who hit .293 with the Pirates, and southpaw Art Ceccareili, who posted a 5-5 record with the Cubs.

Most of the activity during the meetings will center around renewed efforts at swinging interleague trades. Up to now, the new inter-league trading period which began a week ago and will be in force until Dec. 15 has proven something of a dud.

TCU Coach Pleased With Dec. 19 Foe

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — "That's wonderful," said Coach Abe Martin of Texas Christian Saturday when told Clemson would oppose his team in the Bluebonnet Bowl at Houston Dec. 19.

"Clemson has a great ball club," the coach continued. "It has an 8-2 record—the same as ours—and any team able to compile that record in a real tough conference like that is bound to be tops. You know Clemson played a great game in the Sugar Bowl last Jan. 1."

Martin's TCU team had just finished beating Southern Methodist 19-0 to tie for the Southwest Conference championship with Texas and Arkansas.

"Frank Howard, coach of Clemson, is a fine man and a real coach and it will be a pleasure playing his team," Martin enthused.

NEARLY 200 GAMES SLATED

College Basketball Opens For Business This Week

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Many intersectional games are on tap this week as another college basketball season opens with a bang.

Kentucky, annually one of the country's powers in the sport, sets the tempo for the week which finds nearly 200 games scheduled.

Coach Adolph Rupp's lads play at home against Colorado State College on Tuesday, the official opening of the season, then take off on a transcontinental trip to Los Angeles. There the Wildcats will play UCLA on Friday and Southern California on Saturday.

Top games of Tuesday's opening night find Wake Forest at Ohio State, Tennessee at West Virginia, Indiana State at Cincinnati and Penn State at N.C. State.

The Ohio State game will mark the varsity debut of 6-9 sophomore Jerry Lucas for the Buckeyes. He was one of the greatest high school players in Ohio and is expected to put Ohio State in the thick of the fight for the Big 10 championship.

All-Americas Jerry West and Oscar Robertson return to action for West Virginia and Cincinnati, respectively. West was the most valuable player in the NCAA championship tourney last spring when the Mountaineers were beaten by California for the national collegiate title 71-70.

Robertson, the "Big O", is starting his senior year and is expected to lead Cincinnati to another Missouri Valley Conference title.

Tony Jackson, another standout player, will see action on Tuesday when St. Johns of New York meets Bridgeport and again on Thursday when the Redmen play St. Louis in the feature of a doubleheader at New York's Madison Square Garden.

Jackson jumped into prominence as a sophomore last season when he led St. John's to the ECAC Holiday Festival crown and to an overtime victory over Bradley for the championship of the National Invitation Tournament.

California, with big Darrall Imhoff back, is expected too make a strong bid to retain its NCAA title, although the Golden Bears must qualify as an at-large entry in the tourney this year since the Pacific Coast Conference no longer exists. The Bears open the season Friday against University of California at Santa Barbara.

Intersectional games during the week include Michigan at Pitt, Kentucky Wesleyan at Navy, Oregon State at Hawaii, Texas Western at Oklahoma, Marquette at NYU, southern Methodist at Minnesota, Memphis State at Ohio State, Texas Christian at Oklahoma City, Missouri at Arkansas, Southern Methodist at Iowa, Texas Tech at Colorado, North Texas at Memphis State, St. Louis at Kansas State and Minnesota at Vanderbilt.

FIRST SERIES WIN SINCE '53

Underdog Alabama Defeats Once-Mighty Auburn, 10-0

By BILL TOME

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — Alabama pony back Marlin Dyess scooted 33 yards with a flat pass for a touchdown and sophomore end Tommy Brooker boomed a 27-yard field goal Saturday to whip Auburn 10-0.

The Crimson Tide, a one-touchdown underdog and heavily outweighed in the line, outscrapped the Tigers for the first Alabama victory over Auburn since 1953. It was Bama's seventh 1959 victory against only one loss and two ties.

A capacity crowd of almost 44,000 saw Alabama fritter away one break on penalties but return for Brooker's field goal late in the second period, then push Auburn around almost at will in the second half.

Brooker's field goal climaxed a march from the Bama 25 and Dyess' run, in which he outran two defenders and slipped out of the arms of a third, came on a flat pass from Bobby Skelton on the Auburn 39. The Tide had moved from its own 25.

Auburn's only threat came late in the final period when the passes of sophomore quarterback Bobby Hunt carried the Tigers from their own 13 to the Alabama 14. But Alabama center Billy Richardson, a stalwart on defense, intercepted an Auburn pass there.

Coach Paul Bryant's eleven won the game up front, refusing to yield to the likes of all-Southeastern linemen Zeke Smith, Jackie Burkett and Ken Rice, who had made the Tigers' line one of the nation's toughest.

On one occasion, 186 pound tackle Gary Phillips broke through to throw Hunt for a five yard loss. On another linebacker Buddy Wesley shot the gap to hit Bryant Harvard eight yards behind his own line.

Alabama quarterback Pat Trammell, engaging in a sophomore duel with Hunt, also contributed to the victory with recovery of two fumbles at crucial periods and heady direction of a light but hard-hitting backfield.

Auburn failed to get a first down in the second half until launching its futile 73-yard march which ended with Richardson's interception.

Alabama's first opportunity came in the first period when Trammell fell on a loose ball on the Auburn 24. But two 15 yard penalties pushed the Tide far back.

On the march to Brooker's field goal, a Tommy White - to - Billy Richardson pass accounted for 21 yards and Trammell ran out of the pass pocket for 21 more. The Auburn defense stiffened on its 11 and Brooker dropped back to kick high and true.

After Joe Dolan punted dead on the Alabama 25 midway in the third period the Tide rolled back to the Auburn 39 where Skelton found Dyess in the left flat and the 148-pounder, a 9.6 sprinter, was gone for the game's only touchdown.

Corley Boots Field Goal To Topple Rice

HOUSTON, Tex., (AP) — Albert Witcher stole the ball twice in the closing minutes Saturday to set up Larry Corley's 18-yard field goal that gave Baylor a 23-21 comeback victory over the Rice Owls. Corley's 3 - pointed came with 2 minutes and 22 seconds left and pulled Baylor from behind a third time in a season battle in which the lead changed hands five times.

The victory gave Baylor fifth place in final Southwest Conference standings and dropped Rice to sixth place.

Baylor was trailing, 20-21, when Witcher, a senior end, stole the ball the first time. Witcher simply took the ball out of the hands of Billy Bucek, the Rice quarterback, and Baylor took over on the Owl 42. Eleven plays carried to the 2, where Elbert Whorton fumbled and Bucek covered on the 3 for Rice.

Two plays later, however, Witcher moved in on Bucek again. Witcher knocked the ball free and Terence McLeod covered for Baylor on the 11. Three carries by Ronnie Bull, a sophomore halfback, powered to the three before Corley kicked his first field goal in six attempts this season.

Baylor earlier had scored touchdowns on drives of 61, 41 and 75 yards, with Bull scoring from the 11 and 6 and with Ronnie Stanley passing 26 yards to Arnold Davis.

Rice had scoring drives of 37, 65 and 75 yards with Bucek and Jon Schnable scoring from the 1 and Lonnie Caddell from the 7.

16 TO 6 UPSET

Soph Back Leads Irish Over USC

By ED SAINSBURY

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (UPI) — Sophomore fullback Gerry Gray scored two touchdowns to lead Notre Dame to a 16-6 upset victory over Southern California Saturday before 48,682 fans who braved 29 - degree temperatures and a snow storm to watch the football game.

It was Notre Dame's fifth win against five losses this season for Joe Kuharich's first fighting Irish eleven, one game under the record posted by the 1958 team whose 6-4 record resulted in the firing of Terry Brennan.

Saturday's Irish team was strengthened by the return of George Izo, Jim Crotty and Clay Schulz from the injury list to spark them to victory in the final two games of the season. They manhandled the Trojans who suffered their second straight defeat after eight straight wins.

Southern California got across midfield only five times, once when Bob Livingston intercepted an Izo pass and returned 31 yards, and another time when Marlin McKeever recovered Jim Crotty's fumble on a Trojan punt. But on neither of these occasions could the Trojans dent Notre Dame for a score.

Less than 10 minutes remained to play when substitute signal caller Ben Charles piloted the Trojans 84 yards in 10 plays for their touchdown. Charles completed six passes during the march, but Southern California connected on only 10 of 33 during the game.

Charles' passes covered the final 51 yards of the drive—to Luther Hayes for 23 yards and to Angelo Coia for 15 and 13 yards, scoring on the last toss. His attempted pass-run for the conversion was smothered.

Gray was a key offensive player for the Irish along with Izo. Gray set up the first Notre Dame score with a 36 - yard burst through the line to the Trojan three, and on the next play he smashed through the line for the tally.

His second touchdown came on a one-yard plunge after Notre Dame began driving from the Trojan 49.

End Monty Stickles place-kicked for both conversions.

Gray also was responsible for the final Irish points, a safety. He ran downfield after the last Notre Dame touchdown to tackle Coia in the end zone. Coia returning the kickoff, had circled backward from his own 20-yard line in an effort to find a clear field. Gray netted 75 yards in 13 carries.

It was the 20th victory for the Irish over the Trojans, who have not won here since 1939. The Irish were well in command, gaining 219 yards rushing to Southern California's 97, and 147 yards passing to 118 for the visitors.

Izo completed 11 of 23 passes for all of his team's aerial yardage. The Trojans frequently overthrew their receivers.

Ruston High Grid Banquet Monday Night

RUSTON, La. (Special) — Ruston High's football banquet will be held in the new Louisiana Tech Student Center here next Monday night, Nov. 30, starting at 7 p.m.

L. J. "Hoss" Garrett, who is serving his 23rd year as Bearcat athletic director and head coach, said the sports event will highlight the awarding of special honors to three players on the 1959 edition.

Joe Aillet, Louisiana Tech's well known athletic chief and head grid mentor, has accepted an invitation to announce the recipients of these honors and will present each with an engraved trophy. The names will not be known until announced during the program.

Recognition will be given to the Most Valuable Back, Most Valuable Lineman, and the player selected for the Coaches' Award. The latter is awarded to the gridder who displayed the most competitive spirit and desire to play.

Last year the honorees included Pat Shows as most valuable back; Charlie Hinton, most valuable lineman; and guard Bobby Bryan, the Coaches' trophy. Shows was also a member of the squad this fall, while Hinton is presently attending LSU on a football scholarship.

Sponsored annually by the Ruston Lions Club, the banquet program will include an introduction of each player and his date by assistant coach R. W. "Moose" Phillips, and comments on the recent season by Garrett.

Sharp Risks State Crown Monday Night

Louisiana heavyweight champion Mickey Sharp gives Firpo Zybysko another shot at his crown in one half of a double main event at the B and B Arena tomorrow night.

Sharp, a rough - and - tumble grappler who won the title in an elimination series in New Orleans a few weeks ago, almost had the belt wrested away from him by Zybysko here two weeks ago. Zybysko had the champ reeling and tossed him out of the ring but was disqualified.

The other half of the double bill pits Frankie Kovac against the Black Panther. The Panther, who prefers to wear a hood, was unmasked by Sharp not long ago but will probably don the covering for the Kovac battle.

Both main events are scheduled for 60-minute time limits with two falls to win.

The 15-minute opening bout, labeled a "grudge" affair, sends Ken Cooper against the Bat, a masked Monroyan. Cooper defeated the Bat last week and with the help of referee Al Massey and promoter August Baumgartner, lifted the Bat's hood.

The Bat immediately challenged Cooper for a return bout but dashed from the ring when Ken took the offer on the spot.

One fall will decide the match and the winner will pocket all the cash.

'Bama Declines Blue Grass Offer

BIRMINGHAM (UPI) — Alabama Saturday night was invited to meet Kentucky in the Blue Grass bowl but turned it down.

Coach Paul (Bear Bryant said simply, "we are not going to any bowl this year."

In a telegram to Tryant shortly after his Crimson Tide upset favored Auburn, 10-0, the Blue Grass Bowl Committee said it had voted unanimously to extend the invitation.

LOSERS MISS ORANGE BOWL

Florida Rallies To Whip Miami

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI)—Dick Allen brought Florida from behind in the final period with a field goal and a touchdown pass to a 23-14 win over Miami Saturday that knocked the Hurricane out of the Orange Bowl.

Allen, a 25-year-old Atlanta passmaster who came back from service to play his last year of college football, engineered a 20 yard field goal and threw a nine-yard touchdown pass within two defensive minutes of the last period.

The 175-pound Allen had put the Gators ahead in the first period with a three yard touchdown burst and a conversion and thus had a hand in every Florida point. He also threw a 53-yard scoring pass.

The Hurricane, triumphant last week over Michigan State, was favored to win and go into the Orange Bowl against Missouri. But the defeat sent the Orange Bowl bid to Georgia instead.

Miami had come back in the second half and scored two touchdowns in the third period to go ahead, 14-7. One Hurricane score came on a one yard plunge by fullback Frank Bouffard and the other on a short smash by halfback Jim Vollenweider.

Allen's 53 yard scoring pass to halfback Don Deal pulled Florida to within a point, but Allen's attempt to tie it up with an extra point kick went wide. He made up for it a few minutes later.

Strictly on Allen's passing, the Gators drove from their own 32 to the Miami two where the Hurricanes braced. Allen then kicked a 20-yard field goal to give Florida a 16-14 lead with about seven minutes remaining.

Seconds later, Miami's Fran Curci tossed a pass which Jack Westbrook intercepted for the Gators — one of five Curci passes intercepted — and ran to the Miami four-yard line. On third down, Allen hit end Dave Hudson deep in the end zone and added the conversion to end the scoring. About five minutes were left.

Halfback Doug Partin set up Florida's first touchdown when he intercepted Curci's pass on his own 10 and raced 53 yards to the Miami 32. On the first scrimmage play, Allen tossed a strike to Hudson who bulled to the three-yard line. Two line plunges by Westbrook gained nothing, and Allen faded on third down to pass, found an opening and ran into the end zone standing up.

BROWNS-49ERS KEY CLASH

Pro Title Hopes At Stake In All Five Games Today

By EARL WRIGHT
United Press International

The National Football League's division races are so close that title hopes will be at stake in each of Sunday's five games.

The Cleveland Browns entertain the San Francisco Forty - Niners in the key game. This clash, in which the Browns are 10-point favorites, will affect both divisions.

The Baltimore Colts, tied with San Francisco for the Western Division lead, play host to the Los Angeles Rams and also are favored by 10 points. Cleveland and the Philadelphia Eagles are deadlocked a game behind the New York Giants in the Eastern race.

New York is a 10-point choice for its Yankee Stadium game with the Washington Redskins but Philadelphia is a 3½ point underdog for its game with the Steelers at Pittsburgh. The Chicago Bears are seven-point favorites for their 70th game with the Chicago Cardinals.

The Bears are only a game behind the Western leaders and could tie for first by winning, if San Francisco and Baltimore lose.

Cleveland, Baltimore and New York are heavy choices but teams favored by seven or more points have been defeated in eight of the 55 games played so far this season. All three of Sunday's stout favorites play at home against opponents weakened by injuries.

Y. A. Tittle, San Francisco's No. 1 quarterback, suffered a knee injury during last Sunday's 45-14 loss to Baltimore and won't play. John Brodie will take his place against the Browns. Milt Plum, Cleveland's young quarterback, has completed more than 60 per cent of his passes and 13 have gone for touchdowns, a total second only (but far behind) the 1959 high of 24 collected by John Unitas of the Colts.

Unitas leads Baltimore against a talent-laden Los Angeles squad that has been weakened by injuries and other difficulties. The club's three guards — Duane Putnam, John Houser and Buck Lansford — are out with injuries and Putnam was suspended Thursday for violating training rules. The Colts want Sunday's game badly because they then finish their regular season in games at San Francisco and Los Angeles, where they have won only one game.

Charley Conerly, New York's top quarterback, has a sprained ankle but probably will play some against Washington after friends and fans honor him with a shower of gifts that will include two automobiles. Washington has a far longer injury list. Its top signal-caller, Eddie Lebaron, is nursing rib injuries. The Giants entertain the Browns Dec. 6.

Philadelphia, which has joined San Francisco as the surprise clubs of the campaign, visits a Pittsburgh team that has thrilled its television fans with road triumphs over the Giants and Browns the past two weeks. The Forbes Field game will match two of the game's top passers and team leaders in Bobby Layne of the Steelers and Norm Van Brocklin of the Eagles. Layne beat the Giants and Browns the last two weeks with clutch passes in the final seconds.

The Bears tackle a Cardinal team that specializes in fumbles and long runs by John Crow, Ken Hall, Billy Stacy and Bobby Joe Conrad. If the Bears, aided by the Browns and Rams, should gain a first-place tie with the Colts and Forty-Niners, they immediately would become Western favorites. The Bears play their last two games at home against the Steelers and Detroit Lions.

There are only five games Sunday instead of the usual six because Green Bay and Detroit played Thursday. The Packers won, 24-17.

Klu, Lollar Sign Chisox Pacts For '60

CHICAGO (AP) — The two big guns of the Chicago White Sox attack, first baseman Ted Kluszewski and catcher Sherm Lollar, Saturday became the first players signed by the American League champions for 1960.

Sox President Bill Veeck said both players received salary increases.

"I gave them contracts Tuesday, but told them to think it over a day or two," said Veeck. "They did, and accepted the terms offred."

Lollar, 35, will be starting his eighth White Sox season. Last season he batted .265, set a big league career high of 22 home runs and matches his 1958 RBI high of 84.

Kluszewski, also 35, provided most of the Sox thunder in the World Series against the Los Angeles Dodgers, belting 3 home runs and driving across 10 runs. Big Klu joined the Sox Aug. 25, coming from the Pittsburgh Pirates in a swap for Harry Simpson. He played in 30 games for the Sox, batting .297.

IN TENSAS PARISH

Ten-Day Deer Season To Open

FERRIDAY, La. (Special) — Biologist Dewey Wills reminded hunters Saturday that the Chicago Mills Game Management Area in Tensas Parish opens Tuesday for a ten-day deer season.

"I'd like for all the hunters in northeast Louisiana to know that the Chicago Mills Game Management Area will open for a ten-day deer season this Tuesday, Dec. 1," said Wills.

He explained that the season will be for any deer except spotted fawns for the first three days.

The remaining seven days, Wills explained, will be for bucks only.

The season will run Dec. 1-10.

Hunters can enter the game management area on a permit basis after having checked in at any of three check stations.

The check stations will be operated at the following locations:
1. Tensas River bridge
2. Jordan's Ferry
3. Cooter's Point

The season will be operated and supervised by Wills, assisted by personnel of the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries Commission.

FANS HONOR VETERAN GREAT

Conerly Has His Day In New York

NEW YORK (AP)—Pro football fans in New York say thanks Sunday to quarterback Charlie Conerly, the 38-year-old Mississippi cotton farmer who in 11 National Football League seasons and three-fourths of another has:

1. Thrown 2,573 passes.
2. Completed 1,297 for 17,801 yards and 153 touchdowns.
3. Led the Giants to two Eastworld championship in the last three years in the wake of a chorus of boos that almost forced his retirement.
4. "Aged 25 years."

The latter is Conerly's chucklin' retort to his gray, almost white hair and his grand-daddy appearance when in the informal company of his young, frisky teammates.

Sunday is Charlie Conerly Day at Yankee Stadium for the old man of the Giants as he plays for the 23rd time against the club that drafted him out of the college ranks at Mississippi way back in 1945 — the Washington Redskins. And it comes with Conerly's popularity probably at an all-time peak in the town that takes stardom for granted.

Out for two weeks with an ailing ankle, Conerly returned to the controls of the Eastern Conference leaders last Sunday against the Chicago Cards and promptly produced the first touchdowns the Giants had scored since he was hurt on Nov. 3. Six field goals by Pat Summerall in a 9-3 victory and a 14-9 loss were the sum total Conerly was absent.

A large delegation from his hometown of Clarksdale, Miss., will join in honoring Conerly, who will receive gifts worth $25,000 including the autombiles. After the game, there will be a dinner-dance with Conerly and his wife the guests of honor.

Conerly, who became eligible for the pro draft two years before his graduation in 1947 because of war service, was traded to the Giants for the 1948 season without having played a game for the Redskins. He's been the Giants' regular passer—first as a single wing tailback and then as a T quarterback—ever since.

He weathered the loud and vigorous fan protest of his passing and handling of the offense when the team had mediocre seasons in 1953-54-55 and came back stronger than ever—leading the Giants to the world title in 1956 and to the Eastern Conference last year.

This year, he ranks third in NFL passing with 8.33 average yards gained per pass. He has completed 78 of 138 attemps for 1,150 yards and six touchdowns. Only four passes have been intercepted.

Six Standouts Set To Appear In Blue-Gray

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—Five more standout college performers, four from the Midwest, joined the North squad for the Dec. 26 Blue-Gray football game and the South picked up a fancy-passing quarterback.

Texas A&M's captain and quarterback, Charlie Milstead, was the Southerner announced Saturday.

The additions to the Yankee Roster are Michigan State's 205-pound guard, Don Wright and 220-pound tackle, Paul Rochester; Maryland's fullback, Jim Joyce, a 200-pounder; Iowa State's speedy halfback, Dwight Nichols, and the University of Iowa's 210 - pound tackle John Sawin.

The North team, which whipped the Southerners 16 to 0 last year to give the Yankees three wins in the last five years, will be coached by Jack Mollenkopf of Purdue, Don Faurot of Missouri and Gomer Jones of Oklahoma.

Clemson Rips Furman, Gets Bowl Berth

GREENVILLE, S.C. (AP) — Clemson's Tigers smashed Furman 56-3 Saturday and then accepted an invitation to play Southwestern Conference co - champ Texas Christian in the Bluebonnet Bowl at Houston, Dec. 19.

Clemson, last year's Sugar Bowl team, finished with a 8-2 record and its second straight Atlantic Coast Conference championship.

A 20-yard field goal by halfback Shelly Sutton that gave Furman a 3-0 lead in the early moments apparently roused the Tigers. They went to work immediately and before the final whistle nine Tigers figured in the scoring.

Furman fumbles set up two touchdowns. Clemson halfback Doug Daigneault pounced on a Hurricane bobble at the Furman 19 to set up his own scoring run from the 9 three plays later. Quarterback Lowndes Shingler got a second touchdown four plays after Clemson recovered another Furman bobble at the Hurricane 36.

Quarterback Harvey White's passing was a mainstay of much of the Clemson offense. A 79-yard drive for the first Clemson touchdown was built around his passing. The final touchdown march of 55 yards also came mostly on his throwing.

Halfback Harry Pavilack picked off a Furman pass in the flat at the Hurricane 26 and raced it over to score untouched with only seconds left in the first half.

Daigneault returned a Furman punt 57 yards to the Hurricane 15 to set up another Clemson touchdown. Halfback George Usry picked up most of the yardage in another 57-yard scoring march, then plunged over from the 1. Usry, fullback Doug Cline and halfback Bill Mathis took turns punching out yardage in Clemson's final scoring move, capped by Mathis' 2-yard plunge.

PRO FOOTBALL

Bargaining War To Begin Monday

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — A bargaining war with the newly-formed American Football League appeared in the offing as the National Football League prepared for its annual draft of college players next Monday.

The 12 clubs in the NFL undoubtedly will choose players already garnered by the AFL in its first draft in Minneapolis, Minn., last Monday.

Thus, bankrolls will play an important role in whether a college gridder signs with the NFL or the AFL, which is bent on fielding eight teams for 1960. The bidding might be reminiscent of the cold-cash war that broke out between the NFL and the now-defunct All-American Conference several years ago.

The AFL, beating the NFL to the gun by one week, selected a total of 88 players, with each club getting 11 as a nucleus for a team.

Some of the players selected by the AFL included such stalwarts as quarterback Richie Lucas of Penn State; halfback Gerhard Schwedes, Syracuse; quarterback Don Meredith, Southern Methodist, quarterback Dean Look, Michigan State; halfback Billy Cannon, Louisiana State University, and end Monty Stickles, Notre Dame.

NFL acting Commissioner Austin Gunsel said it was almost certain that some of the gridders chosen by the AFL will come up in the NFL choices.

"It will just narrow itself down to what the college player wants and what we can offer him and what they can offer him," said Gunsel, preparing the first draft session in years which will be minus Bert Bell, who died last month.

Gunsel said the draft meeting probably will take up the whole day. He said the club owners probably will discuss possible ties in each conference and make arrangements for the world championship game.

Each club will select 20 players instead of 30 which has been the custom since 1942, with the exception of 1948 when 25 were named by the member teams.

The order of pick will hinge on the standings of the teams after the completion of Sunday's action. The club with the lowest percentage at that time will pick first. The team with the highest percentage will select last.

In case of ties, a toss of the coin by Gunsel will decide who gets first choice. After that, the succeeding selections will be rotated.

The NFL held its first draft in 1936, when each of the nine teams then in the league chose nine players. Jay Berwanger, of Chicago University, was the first selectee, going to the Philadelphia Eagles.

The league's annual meeting will be held in Miami Beach, Fla., Jan. 20.

Buffs Rally In 2nd Half For 15-7 Win

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — Colorado quarterback Gale Weidner adjusted his sights after a miserable first half and pitched two touchdown passes to defeat Air Force 15-7 in football Saturday.

Weidner connected on only four of 17 throws in the first two quarters but he fired scoring bullseyes for 11 yards to fullback Chuck Weiss and nine yards to halfback Jerry Steffen in the second half.

The Buffaloes preserved the victory with a pulse-tingling defensive stand in the last 30 seconds. Air Force quarterback Rich Mayo, hitting on two key passes, had moved the Airmen 60 yards down to the Colorado 9 where it was first and goal.

The Buffaloes stopped every play and on the final pass linebacker Joe Romig broke up a throw into the end zone.

Air Force scored in the first three minutes on fullback Monte Moorberg's two-yard plunge after a 44-yard pass from Mayo to halfback Don Baucom put the Airmen on Colorado's 5. Colorado, brining its season record to five won, five lost, kept the Air Force attack thoroughly contained except for the one scoring thrust and the last-minute threat.

The Buffaloes were in Air Force territory most of the second quarter but suffered from the inability of Weidner and his receivers to connect. Colorado's biggest threat of the first half was ended by Mayo's interception of Weidner's throw in the end zone after the Buffaloes advanced to the Air Force 8.

Majors Steers FSU Victory

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Quarterback Joe Majors passed for two touchdowns Saturday night as Florida State scalped Tampa 33-0 in the 1959 finale for both teams.

The 171 - pound senior from Huntland, Tenn., completed 20 of 32 passes for 313 yards. He scored the final Seminoles tally himself on a five-yard sweep.

The passing performance of the ball-handling magician was a single game record for an FSU quarterback. Majors also carried the ball eight times for 59 yards rushing.

Rebels Okay Sugar Bowl Unanimously

STATE COLLEGE, Miss. (AP) —A roar went up Saturday in the Mississippi locker room when the players were told the Sugar Bowl trip to play Louisiana State was up to them.

Unanimous approval came immediately after Mississippi's 42-0 victory over Mississippi State.

Coach Johnny Vaught said, "We're happy to have the opportunity to play in the Sugar Bowl again, and especially against LSU. We will try to give a good account of ourselves."

Players were shouting, "On to New Orleans."

Guard Marvin Terrell said he was happy to get another shot at LSU.

Claude Simons, president of the New Orleans Mid-Winter Sports Assn. said, "We feel we will have the top bowl game in the nation. We know we have two of the finest teams in the nation."

In regard to the game with State, Vaught said, "We were happy to win, and I thought our boys did a good job. Center Ken Kirk was outstanding and quarterback Jake Gibbs did a superlative job."

Fullback Charlie Flowers said, "They've got a tough ball club and I don't see how they lost so many games."

State coach Wade Walker said, "Ole Miss has a great ball club, but they were no better than we expected."

Walker said a series of early breaks enabled the Rebels to run up a 27-0 halftime advantage.

"We had to defend against Flowers from tackle to tackle and when Gibbs started his roll-out stuff and passing, it really got rough," Walker said.

University officials said their allotment of Sugar Bowl tickets would fall far short of the expected demand.

The university said there will be a limit of two tickets to one family or order. The alumni and the general public can buy tickets only by mail.

Priorities are:
1. Players, coaches and their families.
2. Other university students.
3. University faculty and staff.
4. University active alumni.
5. University inactive alumni.
6. General public residing in the area.

Beats Old Rival Holy Cross, 14-0

WORCESTER, Mass., (AP) — Boston College turned an intercepted pass and a recovered fumble into fourth quarter touchdowns Saturday and beat old rival Holy Cross 14-0 in the 56th meeting of the two Jesuit institutions.

Vin Hogan, a sure footed 180-pound halfback, scurried through the mud and rain for both touchdowns, one on a three-yard sweep of end and another on a 38-yard pass play from Johnny Amabile.

BC fullback Frank Robotti, who saw only limited service because of a leg injury, pounced on a Holy Cross fumble on the Crusaders' 40 to set up the first touchdown.

Eagle linebacker Jim Connolly pulled a bit of larceny to provide the second.

Bengal Aide May Receive K-State Job

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — The Manhattan Mercury said Saturday night a decision is expected within 10 days on a successor to Bus Mertes, who resigned Monday as head football coach at Kansas State University.

Nick Seitz, sports editor, said, "As nearly as can be told it will not be a big name coach, as originally speculated, but an assistant from a major football school.

"It looks like it might be Louisiana State. He could be any one of three men at the school."

Seitz did not name the three, but said they were assistants on the staff of LSU coach Paul Dietzel.

The sports writer said there was strong local support from K-State alumni for Bill Walsh, who was Mertes' line coach last season.

Seitz said athletic director H. B. Lee has his "list of prospective candidates narrowed down to five or six coaches and sources close to Lee say the final decision will come within 10 days."

In Baton Rouge, Dietzel said Kansas State athletic authorities had contacted LSU to inquire about four assistants. They were assistant defensive line coach Charlie McClendon, offensive line coach Bill Peterson, defensive back coach George Terry and offensive back coach Carl Madox.

Dietzel said it would be tough to lose any of them, especially on the eve of the Sugar Bowl game against Mississippi, but added he would do everything to help any who wanted to step up.

Dietzel declined to say if K-State had any preference among the four coaches.

UCLA Kept Under Wraps, Beats Utah

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Halfbacks Bill Kilmer and Jim Johnson got together on a 65-yard touchdown pass in the second quarter Saturday and heavily favored UCLA went on to defeat Utah 21-6.

The game wound up Utah's season with 5-5 record. UCLA with one to go has a 5-3-1 record.

The Bruins went under wraps in the second half with their 21-6 lead, unveiling as little as possible in view of its intersectional battle next week with top-rated Syracuse.

Kilmer's six-point strike to Johnson, brother of decathlon champion Rafer Johnson, put the Bruins in front 14-6.

Before the second period ended, Bruin Trusse Norris scopped up a blocked punt and rambled 21 yards for the clinching touchdown.

The visiting Redskins put on one brilliant drive for their touchdown. It came in the second quarter and extended 84 yards in 13 plays. Halfback Larry Wilson crumbed over the line for the final yard.

COAST TO COAST

Controversy Gets Plenty Comment

DENVER, Colo. (AP)—The controversial subject of birth control, both in this country and abroad, drew comment from coast to coast Saturday.

At Denver, Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass), who plans to decide soon whether to seek his party's presidential nomination, said he is opposed to the use of federal funds for birth control measures in foreign countries.

At Washington, the International Cooperation Administration said any debate on the subject is "an academic discussions." A spokesman for the agency, which handles the foreign aid program, said: "Not one penny of foreign aid funds ever has been used for dissemination of birth control information, and there are no plans to do so."

At San Francisco Episcopal Bishop James A. Pike said it is time "some leading Roman Catholics bring out into the open" what he termed the fact that many U.S. Catholics are observing less and less the official church ban against contraception.

At Minneapolis, Cass Canfield of New York, president of the Planned Parenthood Federation of America, said Sen. Kennedy is showing an "awareness of the facts of international life."

Canfield referred to a New York newspaper story which quoted Kennedy as saying: "I would not think it was wise for the United States to refuse to grant assistance to a country which is pursuing a policy it feels to be in its own best interest."

The paper said Kennedy's statement came in answer to a question as to what his position would be as president if the Indian government decided on birth control as a matter of national policy.

Kennedy, who came here for three days of speeches and appearances in the Rocky Mountain country, did not go into that phase of the question in an airport interview. He declined comment on Bishop Pike's statement.

The Massachusetts senator said the question of birth control measures is one for each country to decide, "since it involves the life of each country."

Bishop Pike denied Saturday he is opposed to the election of a Roman Catholic as president. Earlier, he had raised the question whether a Catholic in the White House would observe church ruling on the matter and deny public funds for promoting birth control in underdeveloped countries.

Roman Catholic bishops in this country expressed strong opposition to using federal funds in this way. They also read it is "simply not true" that the Catholic church is gradually accepting the idea of artificial birth control.

Glenn L. Archer, executive director of Protestants and Other Americans United for Separation of Church and State, said the Catholic bishops' policy statement would be made a part of lawsuits in three states.

Archer said the suits seek to halt the use of public funds by "any sectarian hospital which impairs birth control freedom for non-Catholic patients and doctors."

The states are Louisiana, Kentucky, and Maryland.

Rocket Failures Discussed

By ROBERT MUSEL

LONDON (UPI) — There must be a reason why Russia's rockets succeed while America's so frequently fail, and a number of scientists think they know what it is.

Top men in their field, contacked in private conversations at international space meetings, have given their opinions in the agonizing post-mortems that follow such massive American failures as the one this week at Cape Canaveral. Some are Americans whose names cannot be used because of their official positions.

The main reason for the Russian successes, according to the scientists I have spoken to, is that Russia builds and assembles its rockets on the launching site. It makes sure that each one is made virtually by hand. It tests each part, no matter how small or insignificant, in every possible way.

Russian scientists control every single process of every part that goes in to the rockets. They do not leave this to a manufacturer.

In contrast, American rockets are hauled piecemeal to the testing site. One competent American scientist told me that an inquiry into one expensive rocket failure traced the cause to 75 cents worth of faulty metal.

A London Daily Express reporter who covered Thursday's failure of the seven million dollar Atlas-Able moon rocket at Cape Canaveral said he had been told of missiles arriving from the manufacturers rusted and in bad shape. He said one had to be sent back to the factory because it was so "dilapidated and knocked-about."

The millions spent on a rocket failure can be written off, but you can't store prestige at Fort Knox. President Eisenhower must make his overseas tour without the same prestige moon shot that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev had.

American intelligence learned about the Russian "hand made" rockets many months ago. Presumably the lesson is still being digested.

Savings Account Drop Noted In Banks In Cuba

HAVANA (AP) — Savings accounts in Cuban banks have dropped considerably with Maj. Ernesto Guevara's appointment as president of the National Bank and with cabinet approval of a government savings bond issue.

"There is no panic, but there is no question it is a minor run," an American banker said Saturday.

Another banker described the activity as an "obvious reflex" after the appointment of Guevara, a leftist revolutionary with little economic experience.

Banks were unable to say how much money has been withdrawn, but the manager of one foreign bank said its savings accounts went down 20 to 30 per cent.

Various bank spokesmen reported much activity in transferring savings accounts to checking accounts.

Some banks reported increased activity toward the weekend while others said transfers slacked off by Friday.

Cabinet announcement of an issue of low-price savings bonds, which it said would be redeemed in 20 years at four times their purchase price, put the government in competition with banks for savings accounts.

One bank official said some depositors feared the government might freeze savings accounts and replace them with bonds.

IMPORTED CAST

NEW YORK (AP) — The entire British cast of Brendan Behan's "The Hostage" is being brought from London for the Broadway production.

Uusally Actors Equity permits only major performers to make the transatlantic crossing. In this case, it was felt, an intact complement would be necessary for proper interpretation of what the author calls "an uproariously funny tragedy."

An unusual element of the play is that prior to each performance the cast meets to agree upon interpolations into the dialogue from the news of each day, a device designed to assure topical immediacy to the dramatic events.

I BELIEVE

★ I believe I know my State and its people, their needs and the things they want most. I believe at this time that we need leadership and harmony, that a peaceful and harmonious relationship among people from all walks of life in all sections of our state is something that cannot be measured in dollars and cents.

★ I believe in the importance of EDUCATION . . . for every child in our State. During my previous administration we enacted a COMPULSORY SCHOOL ATTENDANCE LAW for all children 7 to 15. We increased the per-pupil appropriation for education nearly 100%, the largest ever in any administration before or since.

★ I believe in SEGREGATION unqualifiedly. In my opinion, the best way to maintain our historic way of life, and to insure harmonious relations between the races, is to provide separate and equal facilities, not in name only but in actual fact. I believe this difficult problem can be resolved for the mutual benefit of all our people without changing our traditional policy of segregation.

★ I believe I know and understand the problems of FARMERS. I grew up on a poor hill farm in North Louisiana and experienced poverty at its worst. I operate a farm today, like to farm, and hope I can operate a farm as long as I live. I know and appreciate what farmers and farms have meant to Louisiana and America.

★ I believe that our God-given natural resources should be used wisely for the greatest and longest possible benefit for ourselves and our children and their children. When I was in office before, we supported that belief by creating separate units to supervise conservation of Wildlife and Fisheries, Forests and Oil and Gas. I believe that we should pay more attention to the preservation of our fish and game, that we should have more public hunting grounds and additional fishing, boating and hunting lakes all over our state.

★ I believe our state is an ideal spot for business and industry. I believe we should make a greater effort to promote wide distribution of our farm and factory products, and sell business and industry on the wonderful things we make and grow in our state. When I was governor before, I devoted considerable time and travel conferring with industrialists and businessmen elsewhere on the advantages they would find in Louisiana. Before I left office we gained some 450 new industries and additions in the state, with payrolls totaling some $70,000,000.

★ I believe in ECONOMY, for running our State in a careful and conservative fashion—the way a wise businessman runs his business. After many millions of dollars worth of benefits to the people, when I left office in 1948, there was a treasury surplus of some $38,000,000 and this was achieved without additional taxes or new taxes. I will oppose any additional tax burdens on the people today for I believe that with proper management of our finances, new taxes are not needed.

★ I believe in political INDEPENDENCE AND HONESTY. I won't tolerate racketeering or organized vice. I won't tolerate interference by any federal agency with the police power of our State as guaranteed to the State by the constitution. At the same time, I won't tolerate interference by the State with the powers granted to the cities and parishes of the state.

If you believe as I do, then I urge you to vote for me and my ticket on December 5th.

Nuptial Mass Unites Mary Wood, James Lyons

A Nuptial Mass at ten o'clock on Thanksgiving morning in St. Joseph's Catholic church united in marriage Miss Mary O'Delle Wood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O'Dell Wood, and James Bernard Lyons, son of Mr. and Mrs. Voris Lyons of West Monroe. The Rev. Michael Hannon, assisted by the Rev. Vitus Duschinsky, performed the double ring ceremony in the presence of friends and relatives. The servers at the Mass were Duffy Brown and Julian Fontana.

Large arrangements of white gladioli and mums were placed on either side of the main altar. Pedestial baskets held similar arrangments at the foot of the altar and the two side altars, carried out the same theme.

"Ave Maria," "Panis Angelicus," and "On this Day, O Beautiful Mother" were sung by Bobby Joe Inzina, accompanied at the organ by Mrs. Harold Price.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a handmade gown of Skinners' bridal satin and scalloped imported Chantilly lace. It was fashioned with an Empire waist of lace over satin and fitted lace sleeves forming a point over the hand. Seed pearls followed the pattern of the lace at neck and sleeves. The lace skirt featured a satin overskirt caught at the center with two bows. Scallops of lace formed a chapel train. A crown o. pearls held her finger tip veil of illusion. She carried a satin and lace covered prayer book, gift of the groom, topped with a white orchid surrounded by tube roses, feather carnations, and satin ribbon.

Mrs. Roy Hicks of Houma, sister of the bride was matron of honor. Miss Doris McCaa was maid of honor, and other attendants were Mrs. Joe Harrell, of Alexandria, sister of the groom; Mrs. William Harrington of Dallas, Texas; and Mrs. Billy Carlisle of Shreveport. They wore identical sheath dresses of exotic blue satin brocade fashioned with a pleated cummerbund ending in a large bow in the center back. Their headdresses were flat bows of exotic blue with matching veils. They wore short white gloves and exotic blue pumps. Each carried a single Albatross chrysanthemum tinted exotic blue.

Mary Ann Hicks of Houma, niece of the bride, served as flower girl. She was wearing a white chrystly frock with a close fitting bodice and a short tierred skirt. A pleated sash of exotic blue formed streamers the length of the skirt. She wore white gloves and a single drop pearl, gift of the bride. Her flowers were a white basket filled with rose petals.

Marshall Mahoney of Shreveport was best man. Groomsmen, all from West Monroe, were Joel Venable, Bobby Duncan, Norman Tresner, and Bill Clark.

Immediately after the ceremony a reception was held in the church hall, which was decorated with white ruffled gladioli formed a background for the receiving line. Mrs. Wood, mother of the bride, was wearing a mulberry silk faille dress with matching sequin hat. The groom's mother, Mrs. Lyons, was in royal blue silk with a white feather hat. Both wore corsages of white split carnations and stephanotis.

The memory candle was burning on a round table covered with white net over satin. Here Mrs. Bernice Busbice presided at the guest book.

A mirror circled with white mums and lilies of the valley held the tiered wedding cake at the other end of the table. White roses, mums, and lilies of the valley decorated the cake, which was topped with a bride and groom. Those who assisted in serving were Mrs. Paul Malikowski, aunt of the bride, Mrs. Joe Ben Jones, Mrs J. Frank Jones, and Mrs. R. L. Moore, III.

After the reception, the couple left for a short wedding trip. Mrs. Lyons was wearing a moss green suit trimmed with natural mink. Her hat was of mink and satin bows, and she wore black accessories and black satin gloves. Upon their return, the couple will be at home in Monroe while Mr. Lyons is attending Louisiana Tech.

MR. AND MRS. W. R. DONELSON cut their wedding cake following their marriage at Central Baptist church.

Miss Strohm, Mr. Donelson Wed At Central Church

Miss Beverly Frances Strohm became the bride of William Robert Donelson in a double ring ceremony performed by the Rev. Charles B. Littleton at the Central Baptist church on November 12. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Strohm, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Donelson.

The young couple stood beneath an archway covered with ivy to exchange their vows. White tapers and baskets of white gladioli were used at each side of the arch. The candles were lighted by Miss Rosalyn Strohm and Miss Barbara Donelson. They wore pink taffeta dresses with bouffant sleeves.

An organ concert was given by Mrs. Everett Zeagler, who also accompanied the soloist, Miss Charlotte Sally. Miss Sally sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer".

The bride, who entered on the arm of her father, wore a full length dress of Chantilly lace fashioned with a Peter Pan collar, long sleeves coming to a point over the hands, and a train of net ruffles. She carried a Bible covered with lace and white carnations with long white streamers.

Miss Wista Lou Anderson, maid of honor, wore a white-green taffeta dress with large sleeves and a dark green velveteen cummerbund. In her hair she wore a band of matching velveteen. She carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

Flower girls were Debbie Lynn Travis and Nina Tippit, nieces of the bride. Their dresses were of light green taffeta, similar to that of the maid of honor. They carried baskets filled with white carnations.

Billy Earl Everitt served as best man. Ushers were Henry Donelson, Jackie Norton, and Doyle Smith.

RECEPTION

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony in the church parlors, which were decorated in a scheme of pink and white. White stock and pink carnations were placed on the table where Mrs. W. W. Terry presided at the bride's book.

Centerpiece for the bride's table was an arrangement of double rings of pink and white carnations. Those who assisted in serving were Mrs. Martin Travis, Sr., Mrs. Lester Travis, Miss Ida Rose Strohm, Miss Mamie Alice Strohm, Mrs. Dena Prince, Mrs. F. L. O'Neal.

Altrusa Hears Mrs. Willis, Mr. Gray

Job attitudes was the title of the talk made by Mrs. O. Willis to members of the Altrusa Club, classified service club for executive and professional women on Thursday evening. Mrs. Willis, instructor in office education at the Ouachita Parish Schools, told of on the job training for pupils majoring in office and business methods, and how employers help in forming the right job attitudes in the trainee.

Veo Gray, minister of music at the First Baptist Church of Monroe, accompanied by Ronny Brothers at the piano, gave a solo entitled "Grandma" from Showboat. This was followed by a trumpet solo, the "Lord's Prayer."

Mrs. Helen Luckett, president, opened the meeting with the Altrusa blessing and then turned the program over to Mrs. Faye Heard, chairman of the vocational information committee who presented the guests to the club. Other members of the committee were Mrs. Ellen Gillis, in charge of entertainment, and Miss Ann Mickel, programs.

After a dinner, club members turned in the dolls which were dressed by them for the Salvation Army's Christmas program. Forty dolls were dressed by the group for this community agency. Table decorations were done by Miss Maibel Hood, guest of Mrs. Faye Heard. Centering the head table was a large brown wicker basket filled with a curved arrangement of dried flowers in autumn colors. With this arrangement Miss Hood used bronze and gold candles.

A door prize was presented by the committee to Mrs. Willis.

Attending the meeting were Miss Mary Benoit, Mrs. Maude Bentrup, Mrs. Adrienne Carr, Mrs. Jewel Durham, Miss Gertrude Gregory, Mrs. Heard, Mrs. Madeline Hirsch, Dr. Julia Hunter, Mrs. Addie Lou Juneman, Mrs. Luckett, Mrs. Marguerite Meek, Miss Mickel, Mrs. Emma Jean Mouton, Mrs. Lois West, Mrs. Marie Frazier, Mrs. Marion Hanks, Miss Annis Klie, Mrs. Beatrice Patterson, Mrs. Ellen Gillis, Mrs. Elizabeth Reitzammer, and guests Mrs. LaRue Howard, Mrs. Willis, Miss Hood, Mr. Gray, and Mr. Brothers.

Girl Scout News

"Heaven can wait; we'll take troop camping now" was the title of an article we read not long ago. One group of girls will agree, we are sure, are those of Troop 33, who spent last weekend at Pine Wood. The weather cooperated beautifully, with cool night and a sunshiny morning.

What could be cozier than supper in front of the fire, with hot cocoa to supplement nosebag lunches brought from home, followed by sommores for dessert, with the marshmallows toasted over coals in the fireplace? Afterwards, campfire consisted of dramatization of folk tales, using simple costumes made from materials at hand. This was fulfilling a requirement on the Magic Carpet badge. Singing by the firelight concluded the evening. The cool, sunshiny morning was perfect for cooking breadtwists over coals, each girl cooking her own to a golden brown.

Breakfast kapers over, a hike is usually a must for active girls. They never tire of going to the river, as there are several paths to follow, different things to see at each season. As a bit of camp improvement, the girls swept pine needles off the roof and then raked around the building. At lunch time the girls prepared coffee can casserole over an outdoor fire. Then followed the cleaning up before leaving for home.

Girls who enjoyed the outing were: Pam Clay, Jean Colvin, Paula Choitz, Martha Easley, Maurine Halpin, Carol Madden, Barbara Smith, Diane Strickland, Wanda Phillips, Carol Ullman, Kitty Vaughan. Leaders of the troop, Mrs. Frank Halpin and Mrs. C. E. Vaughan, and Mrs. Emma Jane Ullman were the adults in charge.

A piece of service tied in with Thanksgiving was the making of favors of Pilgrim Hats filled with candies and sending them to Charity Hospital. Shows that second - grade Brownie Scouts can carry out their Promise "to help other people every day". Mrs. John T. Bush and Mrs. Walter C. Bell are leaders of this troop, which meets at Ridge Avenue Baptist Church, West Monroe.

Completing their fifth consecutive year of Scouting and registering for their sixth, are the following girls of Troop 24, Mrs. Edmund Middleton, leader: Patricia Ayers, Susan Benton, Robbie Hicks, Polly Johnson, Rebecca Middleton, Anna Margaret Miller, Barbara Suomi, Michelle Varnado. The troop has a long record of worthwhile activities, with the out of doors being one of their favorites. Many of the girls have attended day camp for years, have perfected many out of door skills, which they have shared with troops of younger girls. Most are First Class Scouts and expect to reach Curved Bar, the highest rank this year. Their only regret is that our Council doesn't have an established camp, so they have missed that experience. Congratulations to Troop 24 and their leader!

Broadway-Robertson Rites Planned

Announcement is made today by Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Robertson of Oak Grove of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter Maxine to Joe Edward Broadway, son of Mr. and Mrs. K. D. Broadway of Oak Grove. The ceremony will be performed by the Rev. J. J. Coody in the First Church of God, December 20 at three o'clock in the afternoon. A reception will follow in the recreation room of the church.

Lakeview HDC Hears Talk On Meats In Meal

Mrs. Audrey Dawson, agent, presented a demonstration on "Meats in the Simple Meal," when Mrs. J. C. Tolbird was hostess to the Lakeview Home Demonstration Club for its monthly meeting.

Two reports were given by Mrs. E. E. White, and Mrs. Donald Tolbird.

Plans were made for the regular Christmas party which will be held December 10, at Tom Hicks camp. Each member is to bring a gift to exchange.

Refreshments were served by the hostess to two visitors, Mrs. Dawson, and Mrs. Calvin Tolbird from the Okaloosa Club, and to the following members: Mrs. Black, Mrs. White, Mrs. W. Franks, Mrs. F. Barrett, Mrs. G. Johnston, Mrs. D. Tolbird, Mrs. Keesee, Mrs. F. Waldroup, and Mrs. E. D. McGrew.

On Dit'

by Denise

Well, we got some beautiful Indian summer days this week. Wonderful for the hunters, wonderful for children out of school, wonderful for entertaining visitors who were with us for Thanksgiving.

Visitors who enjoyed a real round of parties were Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Shaw of Huddersfield, Yorkshire, England, and their daughter, Lesley, who are guests of the GEORGE SNELLINGS, JR., in their home on Country Club road. Affairs were small and planned to give the visitors a view of southern living.

Tuesday night Marie Louise and George invited a few friends in to meet the Shaws. The hostess used a centerpiece of chrysanthemums and early camellias. Pyracantha berries and greenery were placed throughout the house.

The JACK EASTERLINGS, the JIM EWINGS, and the HAROLD WOODS, JR., were hosts at a dinner party in the Woods home Wednesday. They served an all-American type menu, beginning with a clam dip and going on to roast beef, string beans in consumme, potatoes au gratin, Bing cherry jello and cocoanut cake.

Thanksgiving dinner was served Thursday noon at the Snellings. That night the GEORGE WEAKS and the J. H. TROUSDALES, JR., entained at supper. A seasonal fruit arrangement was used on the buffet, where a light meal was set out.

On Friday LOUISE THEUS and DIT CUTLER invited the ladies for lunch at the Theus home. Lump crab meat was the high point of the menu . . . Later in the afternoon, the Shaws and the Snellings went to the B. W. BIEDENHARN home. The guests visited the farm. A light buffet supper was served before the group motored to Ruston for the Neville - Minden game, the visitors' first glimpse of football.

Yesterday at one the G. L. MORGANS were hosts at a boating party. Lunch was served during a trip up the river on the "Playhouse" . . . The H. G. M'DONALDS and the HENRY BERNSTEINS honored the guests from England at an oyster dinner . . . The CLYDE BROWNS will entertain this morning at a milk punch party, before the Shaws and Snellings leave later in the day for a few days in Natchez and New Orleans.

SIS WHITE has had a family house party going all week. Her daughter, POLLY JEAN DURHAM and her boys, JOEY and ROGER BRENT, came on Monday. MAX joined his family here Wednesday, and drove them all home Friday . . . DOTTIE and ED WICKER and their children, JOHNNY, ROBBIE, ROGER WHITE, and MARY WYNNE, came from Dallas on Wednesday and will be leaving today.

On Friday BETTY MOORE honored Dottie at a luncheon held on the porch at the Bayou DeSiard Country Club. The pink - covered table was centered with an arrangement of pink chrysanthemums in a crystal bowl. Sixteen old friends of the honoree attended.

Several small gatherings of the high school set have honored CAROL TURNER, daughter of the HIRAM PYBURNS of Ruston, who came Sunday and spent Thanksgiving with NANCY TALBOT in the home of the RALPH TALBOTS. Nancy entertained with a seated conversational hour Tuesday afternoon. The tea table featured an arrangement of fruits and nuts in a brandy snifter. Fourteen attended . . . MARY TIL WRIGHT was hostess at a small supper party Tuesday night at Bayou DeSiard Country Club . . . FRAN SHATTUCK invited a foursome for bridge on Wednesday.

Home from Tulane for the Thanksgiving holidays was PRENT SEYMOUR. He invited a group of some thirty of the college set to drop in Friday night. Occasion for the celebration was Prent's twenty - first birthday. A light buffet of snacks and "finger-food" was served from a buffet centered with a Thanksgiving fruit arrangement.

MAIDYE JEAN STRICKLAND drove to Orange, Texas, taking home her aunt, AUDREY HEBERT, who had been here over the week end. After several days there, Maidye drove home for Thanksgiving, bringing her grandmother, MRS. LEANDER HEBERT, and Audrey back for the week end.

Guests of CRARY SMITH for the holiday were the D. Y. SMITHS, JR., of Sheveport and their four children. Crary had a family Thanksgiving dinner at home on Thursday, and on Friday honored Mary with a lady-luncheon at the Bayou DeSiard Country Club.

The RUSSELL BATES, JR., went to New Orleans on Tuesday to pick up their new little adopted daughter, CANDEE RENEE. The baby was born February 6, 1959. The paternal grandmother is MRS. RUSSELL BATES, SR., of Clarksville, Tenn., and the maternal grandparents are the REV. and MRS. A. F. BALSMEIER of Hutchinson, Kansas.

JEAN and JACK DAVIS and their children, JACKIE, DIANE, DONOVAN, and DEDE, are in New Orleans. They went down Wednesday to spend Thanksgiving with Jean's parents, the DONOVAN BROWNES, and are due home tonight.

The mail is getting more interesting every day, what with the invitations coming in. There were several affairs this week of the type which delights your reporter: everyone complimenting their hostess by dressing as if her party were an OCCASION. Described elsewhere in these pages are the GEORGE ROREX party at the Lotus Club and that hosted by HELEN CAMPBELL, the ARTHUR GRANTS, and the WINNIE COLES at the Paragon Wednesday.

Among the gaily dressed ladies spied at one or another of these parties were RUBY MITCHELL in a white satin shirtwaist dress worn with an elegant full length white satin coat . . . camille WOOD wearing champagne beige brocaded satin with gold shoes . . . DOT MASUR in a red-on-blue cut velvet . . . and MRS. WILL WALTON of Jackson, Miss., in a luscious shade of cafe au lait . . . All the ladies were exclaiming over JUDY TURPIN's black shoes appliqued with gold kid (a recent New York purchase) . . . JOAN BANCROFT's shocking pink velvet was fashioned with a wide cowl collar . . . MAYDRON JONES' white satin shirtwaist featured a shadow print of roses . . . First of the holiday reds were seen in ELTSNER FRAZER'S peau de soie, DOT NOLAND's lace, and HELEN WALLACE's chiffon . . . We heard much favorable comment on JUNE M'HENRY's new mink - collared sheared beaver jacket.

Just in case our readers thought that Nobel prize poetry had to be gloomy, we decided to give them this work on cats by Nobel poet T. S. Eliot:

You've seen them both at work and games,
And learnt about their proper names,
Their habits and their habitat:
ut
But
How would you ad-dress a Cat?

So first your memory I'll jog,
And say: A CAT IS NOT A DOG.

Now Dogs pretend they like to fight;
They often bark, more seldom bite;
But yet a Dog is, on the whole,
What you would call a simple soul.
And far from showing too much pride
Is frequently undignified.
He's very easily taken in—
Just chuck him underneath the chin
Or slap his back or shake his paw,
and he will gambol and guffaw.
He's such an easy-going lout,
He'll answer any hail or shout.

Again I must remind you that
A Dog's a Doga CAT's A CAT.
A Dog's a Dog—a CAT's A CAT.

With Cats, some say, one rule is true:
Don't speak till you are spoken to.
Myself, I do not hold with that—
I say, you should ad-dress a Cat.
But always keep in mind that he
Resents familiarity.

Before a Cat will condescend
To treat you as a trusted friend,
Some little token of esteem
Is needed, like a dish of cream;
And you might now and then supply
Some caviare, or Strassburg Pie,
Some potted grouse, or salmon paste—
He's sure to have his personal taste.
(I know a Cat, who makes a habit
Of eating nothing else but rabbit,
And when he's finished, licks his paws
So's not to waste the onion sauce.)
A Cat's entitled to expect
These evidences of respect.
And so in time you reach your aim,
And finally call him by his NAME.

So this is this, and that is that:
And there's how you AD-DRESS A CAT.

The temperature was below freezing, but they dived in and found a family of four trapped inside.

Rosemary Noblit the mother, was found dead, pinned under water by one leg.

Wedding Friday Unites Miss Parker, Mr. Kibble

Stone Avenue Methodist Church was the setting for the wedding Friday evening of Miss Betty Clyde Parker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Parker of Monroe, and Arthur Kibble, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude A. Kibble of Milwaukie, Oregon.

The Reverend Issac A. Patton performed the double ring ceremony in the presence of relatives and friends. The church was decorated with stands of yellow mums and candelabra with yellow candles entwined with southern smilax and fern trees.

Preceding the ceremony a program of music was presented by Ronnie Brothers. Mrs. Betty Foreman, soloist, sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer." The traditional weddding marches were used for the processional and recessional.

Mr. Kibble chose J. P. North of West Monroe for his best man. Groomsmen were Larry Parker, brother of the bride, Ray Golman, Eddie Hales, and Van Anderson.

Preceding the bride to the altar were Mrs. Frances Anderson, matron of honor; Miss Harley Petty, Miss Betty Thomas, Miss Ann Hobgood, and Miss Margie Black, bridesmaids. Their gowns were identical models of after hours peau de soie in the new cappucine color. Their hats were made of the same material in the shape of autumn leaves. They wore shoes to match and carried crescent bouquets of bronze mums in a crescent shape.

Flower girls, Lynn and Raina Hales, cousins of the bride, were miniature replicas of the bridesmaids. Ringbearer was Corbitt McMullen.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride was wearing a gown of white imported chantilly lace with sabrina neckline, scalloped and embroidered in seed pearls and fashioned with fitted bodice, long pointed sleeves, and a full bouffant skirt caught at the back with a horseshoe of hand made roses and a chapel train. A three-tiered veil of imported illusion, hand scalloped in seed pearls, fell in soft folds from a crown of pearls and sequins. She carried a handmade lace handkerchief belonging to an old friend. Her bouquet was a white orchid surrounded by yellow roses.

Mrs. Parker, mother of the bride, chose an original model of blue silk. Her accessories were black and white with a corsage of yellow roses. Mrs. Kibble, mother of the bridegroom, also wore blue with beige accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

RECEPTION

Following the ceremony a reception was given by the bride's parents in Fellowship Hall of the church. Arrangements of bridal flowers and greenery carried out the bridal theme.

Greeting the guests at the entrance to the hall was Mrs. Pauline Petty, presiding at the guest book, who presented them to the receiving line.

The bride's table, overlaid with white lace, was centered with a silver candelabra holding yellow tapers and encircled by garlands of ferns and bridal flowers. The bride's cake, adorned with yellow bride's roses, was topped by a miniature bridal couple.

Mrs. Eddie Hales and Mrs. Fred Holts, aunts of the bride, served punch and Mrs. Mildred Crabtree cut the wedding cake. Others assisting in the receiving and serving during the evening were Mrs. Dorothy Standard, Mrs. Nell Thomas, and Mrs. Morris Hearne.

MRS. ARTHUR KIBBLE

Out of town guests were: Mrs. Claude Kibble, Milwaukie, Oregon; Mr. and Mrs. Aden Parker and Mr. and Mrs. Tony Parker and Janice of Laurel, Mississippi; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Black, Jerry, Margie and Rudolph of Ellisville, Mississippi; Mrs. Luther Parker of Taylorsville, Mississippi; Mrs. Robert O'Rourke of New Orleans; Mr. and Mrs. J. Speaks To Lakeshore PTA

The Lakeshore Parent-Teacher Association had Mayor Jack Howard as their gust speaker at the November meeting. He was introduced to the group by Tommy Mulhearn.

Mayor Howard spoke on the subject of discipline and juvenile delinquency. He pointed out that juvenile delinquency might well be referred to as rebellion on the part of the teen-ager against parental authority. We find boys rebelling against fathers who will not allow them the use of the family car; others that forbid visitation to certain places; in fact we find open rebellion against parents period . . . According to the thinking of the speaker the home is basically to blame for the delinquency of our youth. He stated that we are not giving our children the proper training in the home today; that too much is left to the school and the church.

Carl Davis, president presided during the business session. The treasurer's report was given showing that the budget set had been reached. Mrs. John P. Zoll gave a detailed report of the Carnival projects, including amount raised by each.

The fifth grade parents served individual cakes, coffee and cokes during the social hour.

Air-Surviving Fungi Can Damage Lenses

By ALBERT W. MCCOLLOOGH
United Press International

The importance of keeping lenses clean and dry is pointed up by the discovery in Japan of a fungus that can live long enough on air alone to do serious damage to any glass surface upon which it may settle.

This microscopic enemy of photographers is the tonophilus variety of the aspergillus glaucus fungus. It was discovered by Dr. T. Ohtsuki of Tokyo, a researcher at Ochanomizu University.

Most fungi die quickly if they have no food. But Ohtsuki reports that tonophilus can live for some time on even a perfectly clean lens surface, provided the relative humidity is 60 to 90 per cent. During growth the fungus exudes tiny moisture droplets that contain corrosive acids. Left on a lens these could do permanent damage and produce a lens that would give hazy pictures.

To guard against such damage, lenses and all photo equipment should be kept in a dry place, along with a chemical moisture absorbent in a closed container if necessary. Lenses should be cleaned gently with lens tissue and when not in use should be capped.

If the fungus becomes a problem despite these measures, its growth can be kept down with application of chemical fumes that provide protection to lens surfaces for 10 years, according to a report in PMI—Photo Methods for Industry, monthly industrial photographic magazine.

For information about these 16MM films, write to the Commanding Officer, U.S. Army Signal Corps Support Agency, White Sands Missile Range, New Mexico, Attention Sigws-Pi.

Graflex, Inc., makers of that veteran workhorse among professional news photographers, the Speed Graphic, has come out with a new model, the Super Speed Graphic 4 x 5. At the same time, it is offering two new 35MM cameras.

Major differences between the new super speed graphic and previous models include a high-speed between-the-lens shutter that gives exposures of up to one one thousandth second and a completely redesigned aluminum body. Prices vary depending on lens equipment.

A small item but one that can provide vital protection for color slides is a recently marketed plastic solution called miracote. A slide dipped into a jar of this acquires a hard coating that is resistant to moisture and finger-smudge on both film and mount. A jar costing $1.98 coats 250 slides.

DEBT COLLECTING

'Skip Tracing' Held Not Legal

By MARGUERITE DAVIS
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The promise of a temporary job as a movie extra, or that almost-official looking document from Washington, may be bait to catch an unwary debtor, Rep. Robert W. Kastenmeier (D - Wis.) warned Saturday.

Kastenmeier said some of his correspondents complain of being tracked down by their creditors through false or misleading promises.

The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) said that method of "skip tracing" has increased in recent years despite FTC regulations, upheld by the courts, against the practice.

The FTC forbids unfair or deceptive practices in interstate commerce, including those designed to trap a swindling debtor. The agency also believes that some debtors may have just reason for not paying their obligations promptly. Sherman R. Hill, chief of the FTC's Enforcement Division, said.

The creditor turns over the debtor's last known address to a collection agent whose job it is to write a letter so interesting that, when forwarded, it will persuade the victim to disclose his current address and other pertinent details, Hill said.

The collection agent baits the hook with an offer of money, either through attractive work or "refunds," or the promise of a gift. Two methods apparently have been especially productive, Kastenmeier said.

In one, the collection agency purports to be a casting firm, securing local talent for a "major motion picture company." The victim is told he has been chosen to work as an extra, and is sent a thorough questionnaire to be filled out and returned.

Through it the gullible debtor provides his address, telephone number, friends or relatives through whom he may be reached his employer's name, and full details about his automobile. This information then is sold to his creditor who had lost track of the debtor.

In the second method, the collection agency adopts a name which sounds like a federal agency, rents office space in Washington, and claims to have money for the debtor if he will submit detailed "identification."

"View with suspicion any such exotic mail," Kastenmeier said. "if you have any doubts, see your lawyer or write to me."

Unemployed But Wealthy Just Briefly

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — On paper, Laverne D. Morris was one of the wealthiest unemployed men in Pontiac Friday. But his prosperity did not last.

Morris, a laid off auto worker went to the Michigan Employment Security Commission (MESC) office to draw his $86 semiweekly benefits.

Then, he went to Pontiac motors division, his employer, to get his supplemental unemployment benefits—those which the auto companies, by agreement with the United Auto Workers, pay their unemployed workers in addition to what the state gives them.

Morris dug out his $86 check and was amazed that it was for $9,992.59. He hurried back to the MESC office where officials found that a clerk, erred by punching 9992-59, the number of the Pontiac account with MESC.

A new check was issued quickly for Morris.

Officials said the mistake was due to a human error and no further action was planned.

Payrolls Of Senators To Be Told

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senators' payrolls, long cloaked in secrecy, will be made public Monday.

The name, job title, and salary of each employe of each senator will be published under the terms of a resolution adopted by the Senate last summer.

The resolution requires the Senate secretary to compile the information and to make it available to the public every three months, the first such report, due Monday, covers the period from July 1 through Sept. 30 of this year.

The payrolls of House members are open to public inspection, and news stories earlier this year about House members with relatives on their paryolls led to demands that similar information be made public about senators.

A petition submitted to the Senate last June by the American Society of Newspaper Editors said taxpayers are entitled to know how public funds are disbursed.

The argument most frequently used by senators opposing disclosure is that it may create dissatisfaction within an office if employes learn what their colleagues are making.

The salaries of senators' employes were included in the annual financial report of the secretary of the Senate until 1948. At that time it was decided the information was not required, and it was dropped. This coincided with an upward trend in the pay scale.

Since 1948, the secretary's annual report has listed the names of each senator's employes and the total payroll, but it has not shown how much each employe was paid.

The new reports will show the names and the pay of employes of the Senate itself and of Senate committees and subcommittees as well as of individual senators.

While senators' payrolls have not been made public by the Senate since 1948, each senator was free to disclose the information if he wished. Several have done so during the past year, particularly since adoption of the resolution providing for quarterly reports.

Senators are allowed different amounts for their office staffs, depending on the population of their states. At the bottom of the scale are states with a population of under three million; at the top are states—New York is the only one—with a population of 17 million or more.

Johnny Podres made one double for the Los Angeles Dodgers during the National League season. In the World Series he also hit a two bagger to help win the final game.

AWAY FROM DOCTRINE

Gaitskell Asks Labor To Tiptoe

BLACKPOOL, England (AP) — Hugh Gaitskell asked the British Labor party Saturday to tiptoe away from its traditional Socialist doctrine involving state ownership of means of production.

The 53-year-old party leader called for revision of the party constitution written more than 40 years ago.

"We don't aim to nationalize every private firm or to create an endless series of state monopolies," he said.

Speaking for 70 minutes at a special party conference called to assess reasons for three straight election defeats, Gaitskell recalled: "It's no use waving the banners of a bygone age."

Gaitskell said the party executive would spend the next few months working out "fundamental principles of British democratic socialism as we see them and as we feel them today—in 1959, not in 1918." He said he hoped these proposals would be forward-looking and still seem relevant in 1970.

He did not toss state ownership of industry completely overboard.

"I cannot agree that we have reached the frontier of public ownership as a whole," he said.

Gaitskell, a moderate, has been trying for years to move the Labor party away from nationalization which he called an ideological prison. But his speech Saturday was the farthest he ever has pushed his viewpoint.

There were shouts of protest from among the 3,000 delegates and alternates when he said nationalization—long the great totem of the party—should not be regarded as "the be-all and end-all of the movement."

On the whole, Gaitskell seemed to get away with it. He apparently gave the party a new orientation without endangering his own position as leader. As such, he is the man who will become prime minister if Labor wins another election.

Aneurin Bevan, onetime rebel leader but now Gaitskell's lieutenant, will wind up the conference debate Sunday afternoon. If he refrains from attacking Gaitskell's thesis, the Labor party will have turned a corner. If not, warfare between left and right-wingers undoubtedly will break out again.

Gaitskell analyzed in detail the reasons for Labor's defeat at the hands of Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's Conservatives in the Oct. 8 election.

"There seems no doubt," he said, "that the nationalization issue cost Labor votes. Present nationalized industries, such as the railways and coal mines, were not popular with the public."

Gaitskell suggested Socialist aims could be achieved by expanding the cooperative movement, using state money to buy stocks in private enterprises, an by setting up state owned businesses to compete with existing private companies.

"The public monopolies are better than the private ones—but all monopolies have their drawbacks," he said.

Mrs. Barbara Castle, the party chairman, opened the conference with an impassioned plea in support of traditional Socialist doctrines.

Economy Drive Stalls Progress Of Big Bomber

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration's economy drive will force a one-year delay in the first flight of the Air Force's new 2,000-mile-an-hour B-70 hydrogen bomber, it was learned Saturday.

Air Force sources said revised plans call for the swift 350,000-pound bombers to take to the air in 1963 instead of 1962. These sources said the delay was part of a drive to keep Air Force spending at about its present level of $18,600,000,000 a year.

The Air Force hopes eventually to build about 200 of the supersonic B-70 jet bombers. They would be used to replace about half of the nation's current force of 500 B-52 bombers, which are the backbone of this country's nuclear retaliatory power.

While ballistic missiles are expected to become increasingly important in future years, top defense officials have made clear that the manned bombers will play a vital role until this country has literally hundreds of rockets on the firing line.

There also is one school of thought which contends the ballistic missile never can completely replace bombers because of the latter's greater flexibility. These experts point out that a bomber can shift from one target to another in flight while a missile cannot.

The Air Force originally had hoped to step up spending on the B-70 to about 160-million dollars in fiscal 1961, which starts next July 1. Instead, the economy drive will force it to hold the request to about 75-million dollars.

Try To Set Walk Record

FT. DEVENS, Mass. (UPI) — Two soldiers trying to set a new world record for a 110-mile walk gave up today because of fatigue.

Lt. Wayne B. Nicoll, 27, of Bow Mills, N.H., and Sgt. Harry Goldsmith, 30, of Bridgeport, Ohio, climbed into an ambulance near Milford, N.H., after covering 72 miles in 23 hours.

They had hoped to walk into the main gate at Ft. Devens in less than 30 hours to beat a record set by Mike Desmond, 20, of the Royal Air Force in England last week. He hoofed 110 miles from Norwich to London in 30 hours.

"We had pulled muscles, sore feet and the exertion of walking into a heavy wind," Nicoll said. "I'll try again later."

Miss Joanne Genung Weds Gerald Bernard Busby

The First Presbyterian church was the scene of the wedding of Miss Joanne Arlene Genung and Gerald Bernard Busby on Friday evening. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Arthur Genung, and the groom is the son of Mrs. Ernest Earl Busby of Dallas, Texas, and the late Mr. Busby.

Dr. W. H. McFadden performed the double ring ceremony in a setting of white candles, white gladioli, chrysanthemums, and sprengerii fern. A pre-nuptial concert was given by Mrs. Eloise Stanhope at the organ. Mrs. Stanhope accompanied Garland Shell, who sang "Ice Leibe Dich" and, at the conclusion of the service, "Blest Be the Tie That Binds."

The bride given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of imported Bouquet of Peau and hand clipped Alencon lace fashioned in modified princess lines, straight in front, full at the sides, and flowing to the back in a chapel sweep. The portrait neckline was trimmed with appliques of lace. Her headpiece of Alencon lace and peau de soie, accented with pearls and sequins, was topped with a full fingertip veil of illusion. She wore an heirloom pearl necklace and carried a Bible with Phalaenopsis orchids and stephanotis.

Mrs. Randall August Frank of New Orleans served as matron of honor. Mrs. Richmond Ellison of Kenner, Mrs. Jerald Holden Womack and Miss Carol Joy Genung sister of the bride were bridesmaids. Their identical full skirted, waltz length dresses were of Mayflower pink organza and velveteen, with headpieces of matching velveteen leaves accented with seed pearls and silk tulle. They wore matching tulle mitts and carried bouquets of toast Fuji mums, wheat, and croton leaves.

Ernest Earl Busby, Jr., of Dayton, Ohio, served his brother as best man. Ushers were Billy Underhill and Jack Jenkins of Dallas, and Oland Silk, Paul Stewart, Edd Routt, Calvin McFadden, and Hershel Alvis Gentry.

RECEPTION

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlor, which was decorated for the occasion with white gladioli, chrysanthemums, and sprengerii fern. In the receiving line with the young couple were Mrs. Genung, mother of the bride, and Mrs. Busby, the groom's mother. Mrs. Genung's dress was of blue lace, worn with matching accessories, while Mrs. Busby chose rose lace. They wore white hybrid orchid corsages.

A silver epergne held white Fuji mums on the punch table. Mrs. Charles Morgan, Mrs. August Kemmig, Miss May Marston, Mrs. Carl Mittell, Mrs. Bobby Pappas, and Mrs. Marcus Mapp alternated at the punch bowl.

On the cake table were antique silver candlesticks used with white tapers, hybrid orchids and fern. Mrs. J. W. Womack and Mrs. John Scogin, Jr., served the bride's cake. Mrs. Garland Shell presided at the bride's book, and Miss Dorothy Dawson at the rice bowl. Mrs. Henry Freeman provided background organ music.

As the young couple left on their wedding trip, the bride was wearing a beige wool sheath dress with matching embroidered wool jacket and olive green accessories. Her corsage was a white orchid. On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Busby will be at home at 104 Willow street.

The bride attended Eleanor McMain High Scool and Tulane University in New Orleans. The groom is a graduate of Southern Methodist University in Dallas, Texas. He is a member of Delta Sigma Phi fraternity.

Mr. And Mrs. Rorex Host Party At Lotus Club

The Lotus club was the scene of the pre-holiday party hosted by Mr. and Mrs. George Rorex on Friday evening. Over a hundred friends called between the hours of seven and nine.

The hosts stood at the door of the main lounge to welcome their guests. Mrs. Rorex was wearing a red velvet after-five dress styled with a halter neckline and flared skirt. Rhinestones studded the bodice and encircled her throat.

A seasonal motif was carried out in the docorations. Bronze chrysanthemums were used with fall foliage on the buffet table, which was placed against one wall of the lounge. On the piano were miniature turkey figurines fashioned from pine cones. These surrounded the oversize pumpkin filled with pyracantha. Pyracantha berries were also used in the library.

MR. AND MRS. GEORGE ROREX make a last minute check of the buffet table before the arrival of their guests at the Lotus Club last Friday evening.

Green and red paper cups make perfect Christmas bells. To hang, insert a pipe cleaner through the bottom, twist it for a hook. Let the other end hang down below the mouth of the cup and attach a gum drop for a clapper.

Cups cut in half make good bells to top off a gift package.

And, of course, they are always right for serving punch.

Family Dog Only One Not Entering Fray

LONDON (UPI) —Two men bent on burglary sneaked into the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Green early Friday. They probably wished they hadn't.

Former fighter pilot Green told the story:

"My wife and I woke up and found two men in the bedroom.

"I was stark naked," said Green. "Pretty embarrassing."

"I broke the elastic on my pajamas and they fell down," said Marlene. "But I got a scarf, tied it around me and kept hitting him."

The burglar finally escaped. But all were doing their part in the Green household—all except Cindy, the family's Alsatian dog. The pet stood placidly by during the entire ruckus.

ransacking our dressing table drawers. We jumped out of bed.

"I tackled one man and my wife, Josephine, tackled the other. He dragged her down the corridor and escaped, leaving his shoes. I held onto the other man and we were fighting when my daughter, Marlene (18), joined in.

"She coshed him with a tennis racket so hard it broke."

Reinforcements came — the other Green children, Leonard, 10, and Madeleine, 13. Leonard whacked the man with a shoe tree, hard and often.

Strong-Valentine Vows Heard In Oak Ridge

On Thaksgiving day at five o'clock in the afternoon, Miss Alice Eugenia Valentine became the bride of Charles Payne Strong in a double ring ceremony at the Oak Ridge Methodist church. The Rev. Walter L. Baker officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Homer Valentine of West Monroe, and the groom's parents, also of West Monroe, are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Joseph Strong.

The church was decorated with standing bouquets of large white chrysanthemums and pompon mums accented with tall wedding tapers. An open Bible was placed on the altar.

Miss Diana Smith, organist, performed a pre-nuptial concert, and accompanied Miss Mary Sterling Rolfe, who sang "O Perfect Love" and "The Wedding Prayer."

Attending the bride were Miss Kay Conger of Oak Ridge, maid of honor, and Miss Joan Phares and Miss Roberta Jackson of Many and Miss Beverly Palmer of Shreveport, bridesmaids. They wore floorlength gowns of coquette blue silk taffeta with sweetheart neckline and brief sleeves. The bouffant panniered skirts were caught up on the sides with tiny velvet bows of a deeper shade of blue. On their hair they wore matching velvet and taffeta leaves.

The bride entered on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage. Her gown of silk peau de soie was fashioned with a sweetheart neckline outlined in imported lace and long sleeves coming to a point over the hands. The deep unpressed pleats of the full skirt created a belled effect over a chapel train. She wore a Juliet cap of imported re-embroidered silk lace and carried a bouquet of bridal roses.

RECEPTION

The church parlor was the scene of the reception immediately following the ceremony. Tall baskets of white chrysanthemums stood behind the receiving line. A silver candelabra decorated with tiny white cherubs and lace held tall white tapers on a table near the entrance. Here Miss Susan Smith presided at the bride's book.

The bride's table was covered with a cloth of lace over white satin. The centerpiece was of white carnations, Pinnochio roses, beauty berries, white grapes and flocked fern arranged in a footed silver bowl. Miss Lucile Huffman poured punch.

The bride's cake, iced with white roses and topped with a miniature bride and groom, was served by Mrs. C. B. Palmer, aunt of the bride. Others assisted were Mrs. C. N. McDuffie, Miss Queenie McDuffie, Mrs. H. J. Norris, Mrs. George W. Files, Miss Nancy Files, Miss Joy Baugh, Miss Marcia Jay Files, and Miss Sterling Elizabeth Files.

For the wedding trip to Florida, the bride changed to a cosmopolitan suit of Lesur tone on tone wool in blue. She wore a black and blue feathered cloche and an orchid corsage.

Mrs. Strong attended Oak Ridge High School and was graduated from All Saints' Episcopal School in Vicksburg and Centenary College in Shreveport. Her sorority is Chi Omega.

The groom is a graduate of West Monroe High School and attended Centenary College. He is student pastor of Union and Little Creek churches neal Alto. The young couple will make their home on White's Ferry Road in West Monroe, while Mr. Strong continues his studies at Northeast State College.

1. In 1948 voted for and supported old age pensions for our deserving old people.
2. In 1950 wrote, introduced, and fought for the passage of Acts 527 and 528 converting the junior college in Monroe to a four-year college, known as Northeast Louisiana State College. The importance of this step is demonstrated by the increase in enrollment at our college. In 1949 the enrollment was 418. In 1959 the enrollment is 2,517.
3. He took the lead working with our Police Jury in securing state aid for the initiation of the program of constructing 20 miles of blacktop roads per year in Ouachita Parish.
4. Has supported all measures beneficial to our schools and school employees.
5. Co-operated with the City Officials of Monroe, West Monroe, and the Police Jury in working up each year an over-all Parish-wide program of securing State aid for the construction of streets, roads, and bridges.

McCormick is the candidate best qualified to serve Ouachita Parish in the Legislature for the next four years.

'4-D Man' Modern Chilling Movie

Atomic age science has imparted a terrifying new dimension to the horror film.

Movie fans who remember the chilling effects of "Frankenstein" and "The Invisible Man" are in for a scared surprise when they discover that a mere home-made man or one who can make himself disappear are old hat. A fresh monster has invaded the mystery realm of the super-human. You would never know it to look at him because he is just like the man next door. This is what makes it so horrendous when you discover that the only thing different about him is that he can walk through walls, put his hand through windows without breaking them and murder people merely by touching them.

How is this accomplished? Very simply if you have the electronic brair energy, the scientific knowledge of how to use it and the massive will power necessary to apply it. In other words, you must be one of those rare individuals who lives in the fourth dimension. Thus the title of this fascinating new nine reels of the Fairview Production "4D Man," co-starring gorgeous former Miss America, Lee Meriwether, with Robert Lansing and James Congdon, starting Wednesday at the Jim Theater.

It has been inevitable, since John Barrymore, and later Fredric March, gave their impressions of "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" to the public, that one day a movie monster with no visible disfigurement would go further than deforming his own body. "4D Man" explores the almost supernatural effects on a man when he destroys time and matter as well as other human beings and, eventually, himself.

This film is a milestone in horror pictures, according to chiller experts at the releasing studio, Universal - International, where fright films from "The Incredible Shrinking Man" back to "Dracula" have made even hardened camera crew members gasp. The world of cinematic terror has fascinated audiences for more than a quarter century. "The Vampire," "Murders in the Rue Morgue," "The Werewolf of London," "The Mummy," "House of Wax" and "The Creature from the Black Lagoon" are a mere handful of scare shows which have titillated the morbid curiosity of theater-goers through the years.

THE HOME SHIFT

Early Blooms From Quince

By MILDRED SWIFT

If you'll watch your flowering quince, you can see when buds begin to form. If left in the open, these will not open until late January or later. But — if you'll cut the branches that have small buds, you can force these in the house. I did just that last year and had flowering quince blooming in my living room during Christmas week. Seems to me, though, the buds are later forming this year.

GARDEN JOBS

Soon bulb foliage will be coming out of the ground. That is the time to fertilize with a complete food such as 8-8-8.

The cold killed the chrysanthemum blooms for this year so you can cut back the tops now, and they'll make a good root growth for next year.

If you're a new home owner and can't afford many shrubs at this time, resort to vines. Clematis growing up at the corner of the house is lovely. Anybody who grew the white blooming clematis wil' have small plants coming up all around. I know they'll be glad to give you one of these.

Red honeysuckle can be bought from the nursery. It also is a fast spreader. Later in the spring when the weather is warm you can use black-eyed Susan, balloon vine, morning glory, cardinal climber and cypress vine. These can be planted from seed. Their place can be taken over by shrubs later when you can afford it.

In December, you'll plant your tulip bulbs that have been refrigerated for several weeks.

There is still time to plant spring - blooming annual seed-like cornflower, larkspur, candytuft, snapdragon, stock, etc. You can still put out calendula and pansy plants. Keep pansies picked to encourage blooming.

If you have some shade in your garden you'll want a few camellias. Watch them as they bloom and decide on the varieties you'd like best. Call our office, FA 3-2251, for a camellia bulletin. Follow instructions for planting.

Spring - blooming bulbs are on sale in some stores. This is late to plant, but after all, you're not planting for this year alone. Good bulbs will give you late blooms this spring, then you'll have the bulbs for future years.

December, January and February are our best planting months, except at times when the soil is too wet. Old gardeners say if your soil has the proper amount of humus, you can plant the day after a rain. Don't assume that your soil has reached that degree of perfection, though. Most soils are heavy and must dry out some before spading and planting.

JUST TALKING

Young gardeners — when you plant, keep upkeep in mind. Sit down and make a plan. That will save you time and money. You'd be surprised how much the plan will look like the finished landscaped plot. It's so easy to move plants on paper — such a task to move them in the garden. Not only a task, but often you lose them.

A lot of scatter - gun planting means lots of plants to mow around. Beds are easier to keep than individually planted shrubs. You can throw some leaves and straw in the bed and it's pretty well cared for.

However, sometime your plan calls for a row of trees or shrubs. If you connect these with a continuous bed, you'd lose the effect needed. The grass must be kept trimmed from around plants if they are to thrive. These then need a mulch and this area should be at least two feet wide, depending of course, on size of the plant. So you can see a row of individually - planted and mulched plants would bring on constant upkeep. This, however, goes with owning a home. The moral there is — keep your planting to the minimum unless you have plenty of help or plenty of time and the desire to work.

Notice where the family makes a beaten path. That's where you need your walk. These walks can be built as a family project using brick, asphalt, cement, cinders or gravel. If you use cinders or gravel, you'll need a row of brick on each side, laid on their side and well sunk in the ground. Else you'll have gravel all over the lawn nicking your mower.

If you think your place looks gloomy—try pruning some lower limbs. This will also help the grass to grow better. If your house is the type to be painted, try using a color. That also is a pick-up.

TOYS

Play is natural to children. They have a variety of play interests; therefore, they need toys with which to carry out these interests. A child's play changes as he grows and as his abilities develop. Toys should fit a child's interests and abilities at any given time. They should change as he changes. Try to study him; see what he likes.

Children under 18 months need some of the following: rattles, squeaky animals and toys, soft wooly animals and dolls, floating toys; strings of beads, small blocks, nested boxes, cups, books with pictures, rhymes, jingles, records with light rhythmic music, brightly - colored balloons, push - pull toys, animals on wheels, doll carriage, dolls the child can handle easily, small light wagon, simple musical toys, squeeze toys.

Many of the above toys will still be of interest. Others are: stick horse, tricycle to fit child, trucks big enough to straddle, balls, sand box and toys, play table and chairs, dishes and cooking utensils, play furniture, child-size; telephone, dress-up clothes, dolls and doll furniture, stuffed animals, take-apart, put-together toys, puzzles with few pieces, clay.

NEW

A new wool laboratory is doing research on new finishes to give wool the easy - care qualities homemakers want in modern fabric. These qualities include machine washability, improved resistance to wear and soiling, permanent creases in men's and women's slacks and pleated skirts Also being developed is a chemical process that makes wool socks and sweaters shrink - proof without harming the natural qualities of wool. Something to look for in the future.

CAMERA NEWS

IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

About this time each year, I rediscover why Walter Chandoha is the nation's top photographer of cats and dogs. The annual Cats and Dogs Calendar published by the Berkshire Press of Cambridge, Mass., has just made its appearance. During 1960 Chandoha's cats and dogs will pop up every week in new poses to remind us how appealing pet pictures can be.

Despite a file of more than 30,000 cat pictures and 10,000 dog photos, Chandoha still keeps shooting new pictures. He even has enlisted the help of his friends in Huntington, Long Island, who keep him posted on all expected litters in the area, so he will have plenty of new kitten and puppy subjects.

Here are a few Chandoha pointers for better pet pictures:

Know the animal's usual routine and take advantage of the time when it is normally playful, sleepy or eating. Each of these activities makes interesting pictures and it can be entirely natural action. Set up your camera at the spot in advance and be ready for the moment. If the particular spot is bad photographically, see if you can't arrange a more attractive or cosier spot for the pet.

For action pictures, an assistant can be very helpful while your attention is on camera handling. Your wife or child can act as handler, distracter, as a barricade to escape, or as retriever.

Take advantage of a pet's curiosity about a new toy or object or a lure tied to a string which is dragged slowly across the scene.

Make strange sounds vocally or by crumpling some cellophane in the hands and be prepared to catch the instant of alertness if the strategy is successful.

Use tid-bits of food a an inducement. Smear some on objects to get an animal's momentary attention and be ready to shoot the reaction.

Chandoha readily admits that on some occasions all forms of strategy fail to produce a good picture. Put the equipment away and try again another time, he advises.

"With patience, a few of the tricks mentioned, and lots of shooting when the animals are cooperative," he assured me, "most camera fans will wind up with pet photos they'll be proud of."

From pets, to another topic... movie cameras with zoom lenses, the latests trend in the home movie field.

There are a few points to keep in mind about the present new crop of zoom lenses as compared with turret cameras or individual lenses that give you a wide-angle, normal or telephoto view.

None of the zoom lenses can presently cover the extreme range from wide angle to telephoto that can be obtained with individual lenses. The zoom range is limited from moderate wide angle to moderate telephoto.

Some of the zoom lenses do not have a coupled viewfinder so that the eye can see visually any shift in focal length while filming. It is much harder to appreciate or to regulate the change in view when the eye sees a viewfinder with mere stationary outlines of the three different fields of view.

Zoom lenses work in different ways and what seems awkward to one person may suit another movie fan just fine. One type is operated by pushing the lens back and forth with the fingertips. Another has a lever which is turned. A third type is set in motion by pressing a button. In each case, the other hand is busy running the camera.

Zooming, like panning, can easily be overdone and prove to be a fault. To be effective, it must be done slowly, steadily and sparingly. It can be dramatic when used properly in shifting from an overall scene to concentrate attention on an important part of that scene or vice versa.

Most of the changes in viewpoint should be done by changing the zoom lens to the desired view, then shooting. In that way, the impact of zooming, when it does come, will be preserved.

THE SOUTHERN GARDENER

Slow Growing Trees, Shrubs

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

Under ordinary circumstances, most of the kinds of broadleaf evergreen shrubs we use in our foundation and garden plantings grow from six inches to a foot per year. Growth is about twice as great upward as it is laterally. When plants are young and have just been set out in rich soil, they will grow considerably more than this. When they have used up most of their extra food, they will slow down, and only extra feeding will keep them growing rapidly.

FAST GROWERS

Plants like Japanese privet that grow very fast are sometimes useful for quick effect. These, however, always require a great deal of pruning to keep them in shape as they grow. If you are willing to touch them up once a month, they will soon grow to be large shrubs. Sometimes people use fast growers for a quick screen and then remove them when their slower growing shrubs have grown tall enough to replace them.

People new at gardening usually want their shrubs to "grow fast". They soon discover that slow growth, not fast, is really a virtue. There are a very few really slow growing shrubs in cultivation. The pigmy forms of some of the coniferous evergreens which are grown in rock gardens, in trough and dish gardens and as Bonsai by the Japanese are highly attractive, but they will hardly do as foundation plants even if we could get enough of them.

CONIFERS

Perhaps the very finest slow growing conifer available to us from nurseries in America is the "dwarf" form of the Hinoki cypress. This shrub is not really dwarf at all. The first botanists who saw it in Japan used the Latin word, nana, in describing it, but they did not know that it will grow to be over six or eight feet tall eventually. Even though it does, in time grow to a large size, this cypress is one of the handsomest of all ornamental plants. The dense foliage and compact form of it long ago made the Japanese choose it for their little artificially dwarfed trees.

Perhaps you have seen a few specimens of this fine shrub, here and there. Discriminating landscape designers have used it in their plantings in the south. When you visit Biltmore House at Asheville, N. C., you will see it growing in the very large urns at the front entrance. As horticulture advances in the south, more and more gardeners will seek out the choice slow growing trees and shrubs of all kinds. They will grow here just as well as they do in Europe and in the Orient.

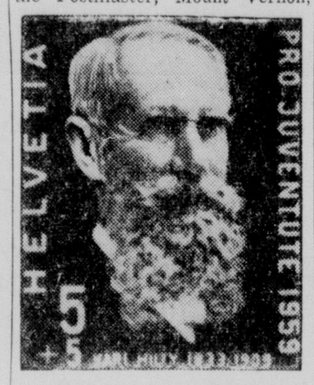
STAMPS

The first of the American Credo stamps, featuring George Washington's famous statement in his Farewell Address of 1796 ("Observe good faith and justice toward all nations"), will be placed on sale at Mount Vernon, Va., on Jan. 20, 1960.

The design for this 4-cent stamp has been given in this column previously.

Stamp collectors desiring first day cancellations may send their addressed envelopes, together with remittance to cover the cost of the stamps to be affixed, to the Postmaster, Mount Vernon, Va. The outer envelope should be endorsed "First Day Covers 4-Cent Washington Credo Stamp."



The dates and places of the other five Credo stamps will be announced soon.

Switzerland's 1959 "Pro Juventute" set will be issued on Dec. 31, containing five values, four of which are flowers. The fifth bears the portrait of a famous Swiss personage.

The flower stamps are: 10-centimes plus 10 —marsh marigold, 20-c plus 10 —field poppy, 30-c plus 10 —nasturtium, 50-c plus 10 —sweet pea.

A 5-c plus 5 honors Carl Hilty (1833-1909), noted scholar, philosopher and for many years a member of the International Court of Justice at the Hague, reports the Swiss Philatelic Agency in America.

This stamp features a three-quarter portrait of Abraham Lincoln with a quotation from his Gettysburg Address: "Of the People, By the People, For the People," around the sides and top.

Iran has issued a 6-rials brown, red and yellow stamp honoring the United Nations. The design shows a world globe and a hand holding the torch of freedom. The U.N. building appears in the background.

Nationalist China has issued a set of two new commemoratives honoring the National Taiwan Science Hall which opened this year. Each stamp depicts a different view of this museum of science and technology.

Inside Plants For Variety

By AUDREY DAWSON

Now that Ole Man Winter has made his dynamic appearance and it's too cold to garden outside a great number of homemakers are calling about flowering plants for their homes. We are forced to stay inside these cold days and a few plants can add to the appearance as well as the happiness in our homes. So let's talk about some inside plants for the home today.

HOUSE PLANTS

The geraniums are handsome flowering plants and although their flowers are small and rarely showy their scented foliage is quite interesting. These plants should be given a relatively cool temperature rather small pots to induce root crowding and a moderate but not irregular water supply.

The begonias are another popular flowering plant and there are enough species and horticultural forms to make a collector's hobby. These plants are excellent for that sunny window in the house. These plants are very showy, they have shiny leaves, succulent stems and an almost continuous succession of white, rose pink or scarlet flowers.

Although all species of cactus flower only a few are grown for their blooms. The Christmas cactus is quite popular. This plant likes uniform moisture, some shade and a mild temperature. It should have a fairly rich soil.

Spring flowering bulbs or "Dutch" bulbs are often forced into flower for window garden use. Hyacinths, tulips and various kinds of narcissus and daffodils are the most commonly grown. Success with these requires that they be started early and kept in a cool place until the root system has developed well, then they may be put in a slightly warmer place until growth starts. If kept too warm, flower stems and leaves grow tall and weak and require support.

WATCH HEAT

Some causes of unhealthy appearance in your house plants may be from several things. General defoliation may be caused to a sudden change in temperature. Changing from strong sunlight to a dark place, could be caused from gas poisoning. If after dropping the leaves the shoots remain dwarfed, branch repeatedly, and put out small leaves gas injury is indicated.

Browning of the leaf tips suggests improper watering, exposure to drafts of cold air or insect attacks.

Loss of normal color of the foliage suggests overwatering, lack of plant food, or insect attacks.

Spotted foliage suggests overwatering or burning from direct sunlight on foliage that has not been accustomed to it.

GARDENING

Be sure to keep the leaves that are falling now.. Don't burn them. Make a compost pile. If you want the leaves to decay fast sprinkle a light covering of fertilizer high in nitrogen to each layer. Don't let the leaves stay on the ground because they will smother the grass, particularly where the grass has been recently seeded.

FURNITURE

Table tops or any wood surfaces that have white spots due to dampness, spilled water or hot dishes can be restored to their original appearance. They, however, should be treated just as quickly as possible.

Generally, you can successfully remove water spots by wiping over with a cloth wrung dry from water that has a little household ammonia. Then use a dust cloth moistened with polish to restore the finish. The ammonia takes off the spot. If this method doesn't work, try the following: 1 quart of water, 3 tablespoons boiled linseed oil and 1 tablespoon turpentine. Mix the ingredients well and set to cool. Apply a small amount to the spot and leave a few seconds. Then rub the area dry and polish.

COUNCIL NOTES

Congratulations to Mrs. Tuck Taylor, president, and the 30 members of the McGuire Home Demonstration Club for placing first in the Best Club Contest this year. The club received a silver tea service as an award from the Tyner Petrus Company, presented by Mr. Morris Erskine.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Wisner Club Holds Showing

By MARY JARDINE

Wisner Garden Club members staged an all blue ribbon flower show at the Garden Center, this week.

Blue ribbons in the horticulture class were awarded as follows: Mrs. A. M. Ward, Pyracantha and Mrs. E. A. Kiper, American holly.

In the design division, Mrs. W. A. Tucker was awarded top score. A very elegant design was created in a silver compote on a black Chinese base. Yellow and green Evonymus formed the triangular pattern. Yellow Fugi mums was placed as the center of interest. Green grapes were trailed over the lip of container.

NATURAL WOOD

Mrs. E. A. Kiper is known for her original arrangements. This time she selected a natural wood base to place her design on. Placed first were China fir sprays. Loquat buds were placed as the center of interest, with the leaves of the Loquat circling the buds. A lighter green was introduced by the use of painted magnolia leaves. The Loquat buds and the base were the same shade of brown. The whole was a very pleasing rhythmic line-mass design.

Mrs. Guy Kleinpeter chose a brass watering pot for her container which she placed on a round wooden base. Chinese yew branches formed the line. A red China bird was used on the base as an accessory.

SCORING

Several have asked for the point score used in the Garden Center for the arrangements or compositions. We used this score:

Design 30 per cent, Color 30 per cent, Destination 20 per cent, Condition 10 per cent, Relation to container 10 per cent. The breakdown: Under design: Balance, solids to voids, scale, linear design, texture, and transition. Under color; Proportion, balance, relation to surroundings and relations to container. Distinction: Good taste, smartness, compelling, unusual handling of commonplace material. Relation to Container: Texture, proportion harmony of form to design.

In judging, we try to recognize the use of art principles, creativeness and craftmanship.

LITTLE THEATRE

"The Caine Mutiny Court Martial is scheduled to Open on December 11 and will run through December 16, including Sunday. Reservations may be made at the box office on Thursday December 10 from 2:00 until 7:00 and may be made every afternoon for the run of the play at the same hour. Director Ivan Uttall is in desperate need of a Stenotype machine, the type used by a court stenographer. If you have one he can use, please call him. Walter Speed, the Little Theatre hair stylist is making his first stage appearance in "Caine Mutiny Court Martial" in a non-speaking part.

Little Theatre members were very interested in the production of "Antigone" produced on Monday and Tuesday Nights by the drama students of Northeast La. State College. Director George Brian is a loyal Little Theatre member and many of the cast have appeared in Little Theatre plays. Charlene Correro, who played the lead part of Antigone was seen in Pajama Game. W. J. Haddad, who played Tiresais was seen also in "Pajama Game" and more recently in "Janus". Bobbye Strickland, who took the part of Eurydice is familiar to Little Theatre audiences for her work in "Bus Stop" and "Detective Story". Curtis Rape, Pat Medaries and Billie Sue Swanson also appeared in "Pajama Game. This play has it's setting in Ancient Greece and is one of the great pieces of literature of the Western world. Dennis Holt of Ouachita Baptist College at Arkadelphia, Arkansas has rewritten it for modern acting without losing any of Sophocles with wisdom and power. This play has recently been discussed by the Great Books Discussion groups, sponsored by the Ouachita Parish Public Library and many of the participants were seen in the audience.

Frances McHenry has just returned from New York where she had a delightful time attending plays. She says that the highlights of her trip were the Grand Opera performance of "Carmen" and the Sheakspearean production "Much Ado About Nothing." In this she saw John Gielgud and Margaret Leighton. For the fifth time she attended a performance of "My Fair Lady" and also saw "Redhead," "Destry Rides Again," "Marriage Go-round" and "The Warm Peninsula."

The big event in this part of the country is the touring production of "My Fair Lady" which has been running all this week at the municipal auditorium in Shreveport. Today is the last performance of nine which started last Monday. Playing the part of Henry Higgins is Michael Evans, while Diane Tood plays the part of the cockney girl, whom he transformed into a lady. This is a delightful play. I saw it in Chicago several years ago with Brian Ahearne in the lead and loved it. Many people from Monroe went over to see it. On Thanksgiving day Little Theatre members Anna and Sol Snyder and Violet and Warner Holland of Bastrop, Myrtle and L. H. Carter, Harriett and Joe Kern and their son Jimmie and Carrie Dee Drew were observed among the audience. Mary Gill and her daughter Judy and Julia Marx attended the opening performance and also had a visit with the H. W. McCleary's, former Monroe Little Theatre members. On Saturday B. B. Strohn and Jessica Lawn saw the play, while a congenial group attending this afternoon's matinee consists of Sue Dickard, Lallage Feazle, Julius Cahn and Mac Ward.

Don't forget the dates for "Caine Mutiny Court Martial," December 11 through the 16th. Make your plans now to attend.

The venture is "Free and Easy," a saga of blues music upon which composer Harold Arlen has been engaged for five years with director Robert Breen.

Says Stanley Chase, producer of the tour: "The blues are one American export everyone appreciates in Europe, it's one they never get enough of, and it's one they can't possibly duplicate themselves."

She will depict the role at the Stratfor, Ont., Festival which opens June 27. In addition to "Romeo and Juliet," Miss Harris will take part in another drama, possibly "A Midsummer Night's Dream" in which she would play Titania.

RYAN TRIES SHAKESPEARE

Mr. Wayne Woods, Campaign Chairman
5th District Headquarters
Penn Hotel
Monroe, Louisiana

Dear Wayne:

"In reference to the advertisement paid for by now desperate political opposition which appeared in some papers around the State:

"For the record:

"1) I do not know James Hoffa, National President of the Teamsters, have never communicated with him in any way, shape, or form, and do not now have nor do I ever intend to have any deal with him.

"2) The photo of me with Chuck Winters was taken at a large meeting two years ago. Mr. Winters was formerly Secretary-Treasurer of the Central Labor Council of New Orleans and Vicinity, AFL-CIO.

"3) The letter which was sent to Mr. Winters was sent to all groups concerned, including the Firemen's Union, AFL-CIO; the Municipal Employees' Union, AFL-CIO; and the New Orleans Municipal Employees Club.

"4) I have known Mr. Winters for years in the same way that I know all representatives of labor and management in New Orleans; namely, it's part of my job as Mayor to mediate strikes, and our local labor and management people can testify to my fairness, impartiality, and record of success in all such matters.

"5) I welcome the support of Louisiana citizens in all walks of life and am gratified at having already received endorsements from numerous business, industrial, labor, and professional groups. I pledge to them exactly what my published platform states: 'I pledge to justify the confidence of both labor and management in carrying out my duties to represent all the people.'

"As you know, whatever political success I have enjoyed has been due to the combined support of the vast majority of the people of New Orleans.

"This support has been composed of businessmen, housewives, working men and women, professional people, white collar workers, and, in fact, folks from practically every walk of life. The result has been a first primary victory on each occasion I have run for Mayor.

"There are probably many reasons why I have continued to have their confidence and combined support, buit I believe the two main reasons to be:

"1) the widespread approval of our program of progress, prosperity, and stability which has transformed the face of our city, brought countless millions of dollars of new industry and new business to New Orleans, raised the income of our people, and translated our form of government from an obsolete, inefficient maze of duplication into a modern effective instrument for good government and home rule.

"2) the fact that in my 14 years as Mayor I have worked my hardest to efficiently represent all groups with fairness and impartiality and, at the same time, helped to coordinate their individual community efforts into a single combined program to advance our city and its people."

Sincerely
"Chep"

Science Meets Soul In New Organization

By TOM HENSHAW
AP Religion Writer

Who is right? The clergyman who looks upon the psychiatrist as an interloper endagering man's soul, or the psychiatrist who views religion as something removed from the practical world?

Probably neither one, says the Academy of Religion and Mental Health in a resume of its first symposium held nearly two years ago in Harriman, N.Y. It will be published shortly by the New York University Press.

The academy, founded in 1954, states its purpose as the "betterment of man's spiritual and emotional health through integration of the moral values of religion and the scientific insights of psychiatry and the behavioral sciences."

Its first report reaches no specific conclusions—none was expected—outside of nothing that religionists and behaviorists are becoming increasingly aware that each has something unique to contribute to the fight on mental disorders.

The report, consisting of summaries of discussions among 35 clergymen and behaviorists, suggests that science and religion would do better to work as partners in the field of mental health, with science providing the tools and religion the broader values.

Both clergymen and scientists reflected this spirit.

"My own personal difficulty with psychology," said Rabbi Albert A. Goldman of Cincinnati, "is very often that it describes social movements, but it has no social philosophy.

"It has not presentedan approach to the problems of life. It may describe the tensions that are at work, but it calls man to no particular action.

In religion, whether it be Catholic, Protestant or Jewish, there is this sense of the urgent demand. We, in religion, are called to action."

Dr. Gregory Zilboorg, clinical professor of psychiatry at the New York College of Medicine said "the real issue is how to differentiate between the psychological and the spiritual and not confuse one's psychological with one's spiritual life."

Baptist Group Sets 'M' Day Meeting Here

The Ouachita Parish Baptist Association will observe annual mobilization "M" night Monday December 7, it was announced today.

According to Charles P. Wood, training union director at the Monroe First Baptist Church, the "M" night program is in accord with the 31,498 churches of the Southern Baptist Convention with headquarters in Nashville, Tennessee.

Wood said the attendance goal for the Ouachifa Parish Baptist Association was 1300. The special night in the church was begun in 1945 with the promotion of a large simultaneous Baptist Associational mass meeting on April 24. In 1946, it was decided to designate December for "M" night observance and make it the regular mass meeting for the quarter for launching the training union program for the coming year.

Attendance for the entire convention last year reached 417,517, Wood said.

MY ANSWER by Billy Graham

QUESTION: I have a great fear of death, and yet, because of life's burdens I want to die. I am in good health, but for some reason or other I feel that I am not long for this world? C. C.

ANSWER: It's sad to meet up with a young person like you who has no goal or central purpose in life. You have a chronic case of boredom brought on by thinking of youself too much.

You are the type of individual who might take his own life, because your self-inflicted punishment has made you partly dead already. I read of a girl who took her life and left this note, "Died of old age at twenty-one." I know people who are old at eighteen, and other people who are young at eighty. It's the condition of the heart that makes people old.

You say you're afraid to die. The trouble is: you're arfaid to live. Christ said, "I am come that they might have life and that they might have it more abundantly." I have never known a committed Christian who was bored with life. Commit your life to God; let Him open your blurred vision; let Him change your outlook, give you release from guilt, and then you can live with a capital L.

Delay Pruning Green Shrubs Til Holidays

CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

CHAPPAQUA, N. Y. — Christmas is deck the halls with holly time. And pruning shears on your evergreens can harvest a bumper crop of greens for holiday decorating.

Foresighted gardeners — those who remember winter when they're toiling in the summer sun — put off the jog of trimming evergreens until the holiday season.

Then for indoor greenery they clip lengths of upright or spreading yews, holly, huckleberry or laurel shrubs. You'd be surprised at how far a few boughs go.

Surplus wire coat hangers make the frame for evergreen wreaths. Bend two or three into a circle and tape them together.

A tip: it takes a little more work but looks a lot more professional if you clip your boughs into short lengths — six to 10 inches — before tacking them on the frame. You'll have a fuller wreath than one of longer lengths forced into a circle shape.

Loose boughs can be laid along a mantle with Christmas ornaments or used to outline window frames with or without tree lights. They aiso make a lovely background for holiday flower arrangemetns.

And for double duty service, use the greenery later as a light mulch on your flower beds.

Speaking of mulches, if you have an unfrozen spot in the garden, either because of mild weather or pre- frost mulching, give a thought to a live indoor Christmas tree that can be transplanted outside after the holidays.

You can buy potted fir trees—balsam or spruce are good — which should survive your home's artificial heat if kept well watered and in as cool a spot as you can find.

You might even start a neighorhood trend for indoor Christmas trees to supplement the craze for lavish outdoor decorations. It might someday come down to undecorated trees INSIDE leaving the fancy stuff for outside.

City gardeners without easy access to extra evergreens should buy their Christmas tree a little larger than will fit. Trimming it down to size will provide holiday greens.

Snow and cold make it time, if you haven't already started, to get your bird catering service under way. Don't be a fickle feeder — once you start keep it up until spring.

Wild bird seed can be purchased at garden shops and feed stores. For bird watching refinement, notice which seeds are most popular with different species — some birds go for pumpkin seed, others thrive on millet, oat, buckwheat or wheat.

You can buy small quantities of various seeds and put them out in separate containers to find which birds pick what seeds. You'll be surprised at how fast the dining table is cleaned up.

Keep your gardening friends in mind while Christmas shopping. Garden gloves, small hand tools and packets of seed for planting now or in the spring make fine stocking stuffers.

And for the gardner who has everything but a ride - around mower It might be hard to wrap but it's guaranteed to go over big.

Dr. J. Young To Report On Gaza Missions

Dr. J. M. Young, Southern Baptist Foreign Medical Missionary to Gaza, will bring first hand reports of mission work in this section of the world at both services today at the College Place Baptist Church.

Dr. Young is a native of Ruston, Louisiana, having graduated from Louisiana Tech and from L. S. U. Medical School in 1951. He and his wife were appointed by the Foreign Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention in 1954 and early in 1955 were sent to the Baptist Hospital in Gaza where they remained over four years before coming home on this present furlough. At the present time Dr. Young is taking additional surgical training at the Confederate Memorial Medical Center in Shreveport.

Dr. Young may be heard at the Sunday morning worship hour at 11:00 o'clock when he will describe the total mission enterprises of Southern Baptists in the Near East. He will also speak at the 7:30 p.m. service. His coming is a means of beginning the emphasis for the taking of the Lottie Moon Christmas Offering for Foreign Missions, a goal of which has been set by the church of $5500.00.

'Tis The Season To Be Alluring

This is open season for sirens, says Ceil Chapman, famous for formal fashions.

"After five, every woman has the right to be a femme fatale," says the knowing Ceil, who dresses many of the leading glamor girls of stage, screen and television. "Evening fashions should create a great illusion, turning every Cinderella into a princess for a night."

Pursuing her theory, the designer presents the "illusion" silhouette in formal fashions for the festive holiday season. Over a closely fitted sheath she drapes gossamer black lace, chiffon or organza, giving a veiled look to the figure. The effect is all that any siren could desire.

The new after dark "illusions" come in both short and long styles, usually strapless, always figure - revealing and strong on allure. A short dance dress with a hobble - skirt look poses a transparent barrel skirt of black lace over a strapless black sheath. A long evening gown features a spiral drape of sheerest black organza from strapless top to hemline, with a floor - length drape at one side caught up by a cabbage rose.

"I always start with the basic shape of the feminine figure," says Ceil, "and then figure ways to accentuate the positive, eliminate the negative."

DR. J. M. YOUNG

rend T. Earl Ogg, the public is cordially invited to hear this man who for the past four and one half years has lived in one of the most important centers of the world at this time. College Place Baptist Church is located on Sherrouse Avenue just past Northeast Louisiana State College.

Jaycees Open Yule Trees Sale Monday

The West Monroe Junior Chamber of Commerce yesterday announced that Monday morning will mark the opening of an annual Christmas tree sale.

Trees will be offered for sale until Christmas.

The sale lot is located at 207 Cotton street, the same address from which the trees were marketed last year.

The trees, ranging in size from two to eight feet, have already arrived and are being prepared for the opening Monday.

Proceeds from the sale will be used to finance worthwhile Jaycee community projects.

Publicity Chairman Ronald Hobbs urged that purchases be made early. "We'd like to see the buyers of our trees get the longest possible use of them before Christmas," Hobbs said.

Wayne Franks, Jaycee in charge of the sale, said that someone will be on the lot every day, until all the trees are sold.

"We sold out last year by December 11," Franks said. "I expect they'll go fast this year too," he added.

Tobaccos Take Sharp Mart Losses

NEW YORK (AP) — Tobaccos took sharp losses on the latest cancer warning while aircrafts advanced in a mixed stock market late this afternoon. Turnover was fairly active.

Volume for the day was estimated at 3,300,000 shares compared with 3,550,000 on Wednesday.

Tobaccos were off from 1 to 4 points while other leading stocks showed gains or losses ranging from fractions to around a point mostly.

In late dealings American Tobacco was off about 4 while Philip Morris and Reynolds tobacco were down about 2 apiece. Lorillard (ex dividend) was off about a point. Liggett & Myers lost well over a point.

Curtiss-Wright, under study by the Securities & Exchange Commission because of the stock's gyrations Wednesday, was undisturbed and advanced more than a point. Similar gains were made by Republic Aviation and Douglas Aircraft.

Jump In Steel Operations Is Stock Rise Aid

NEW YORK (UPI) — A jump in steel operations to near 90 per cent of capacity, return of some General Motors workers to the parts department, and some relaxation of tax selling helped stocks rise during the past week.

Railroad issues finally joined the upturn after falling in the first three of the week's four sessions. They declined 2.45 points in their average to a new intraday low up to Wednesday and came back 1.69 points on Friday to leave them 0.76 point lower on the week at 148.60.

The industrial department rose in each session of the and finished with a gain of 7.06 points at 652.52, a new high since Sept. 2. Utilities netted 0.36 to 86.40 and the 65 stocks in the three Dow - Jones averages closed the week at 211.95 up 1.39 points.

For a time the leadership lacked the caliber necessary to bring in new buying. It was dominated—in volume — by the space age group which moved up. Aircrafts were particularly strong as the week ended. Tobaccos rose on Monday when Philip Morris raised its dividend, and fell on Friday when Surgeon General Leroy Burney said smoking was a principal factor in the growing increase of lung cancer.

Curtiss - Wright furnished some fireworks. It announced a new engine with only two moveable parts and that alluring item sent the stock up sharply. Then when the market was having difficulty finding sellers for the stock, the directors cut the dividend and the reverse happened. No buyers were available. The issue rallied again on Friday and closed the week strong.

On Tuesday International Business Machines scored a rise of $16 a share and Eastman Kodak ran up $3.75 to feature the gainers.

It was a week when something of a deluge of increased or extra dividends was announced. These included Philip Morris, Anaconda, Chile Copper, Philco, International Silver, Union Pacific, Commercial Solvents, Sears Roebuck, Bendix, North American Aviation, Hercules Powder, Barrett Corp., Pepsi-Cola, Newmont Mining and American Ice.

The consumer price index rose slightly to a record high, largely because of an increase in transportation costs—higher car prices and a jump in the federal gasoline tax. Business failures increased. Paperboard output declined.

Retail trade held high with many doing their Christmas shopping early. Mercantile stocks reflected this strength. Coal production for a week ago showed a good weekly rise and was nearly 8 per cent higher than a year ago. Wholesale food prices rose slightly but were nearly 8 per cent under a year ago.

Ford ran up 5⅜ points in the autos where General Motors gained 1¼; American 2⅞ and Chrysler a half. Studebaker-Packard lost 1⅜.

In the tobaccos, Philip Morris gained 5½ on the week while the others lost fractions to 1¼ in Lorillard.

Yule Buying Gets Started On Big Scale

NEW YORK (AP)—The Christmas buying spree started this week amid predictions that it will be the biggest ever.

The National Retail Merchants Assn. estimated yule sales will exceed 1958 by six per cent.

Big department stores launched the season with spectacular parades, glittering window displays and intense promotion.

Merchants figure sales between Thanksgiving and Christmas account for 17 to 20 per cent of their annual volume.

Inventories, including major appliances which require steel, are in good shape.

Demand is heavy for luxury items such as furs, jewelry, fine apparel and higher priced toys.

Retail sales this week rose three to seven per cent over a year ago.

Volume for the four-day trading week on the New York Stock Exchange was 13,668,631 shares. The average daily turnover of 3,417,157 was a shade below last week's average. On the bond market, turnover fell to $25,993,000 par value from $35,313,600 a week and $27,709,000 a year ago.

Americans got the news that their cost of living hit a new peak in October. They were hardly surprised.

The Labor Department's consumer index climbed two-tenths of one per cent to 125.5 per cent of the 1947-49 base period. This was the sixth new record in seven months.

Food costs went down three-tenths of one per cent but all other major groups of goods and services advanced. Transportation accounted for most of the increase with higher prices for 1960 automobiles and the new one-cent-a-gallon federal gasoline tax.

The increase means a pay raise for about 1,250,000 workers whose contracts provide for cost-of-living adjustments. Most of the workers are in the automobile, farm equipment, electrical manufacturing and aircraft production industries.

Wholesale food prices climbed slightly this week. Dun & Bradstreet's food index reached $5.92, compared with $5.91 last week and $5.43 in the corresponding 1958 week. The index represents the total price you would pay at wholesale for one pound each of 31 staple foods.

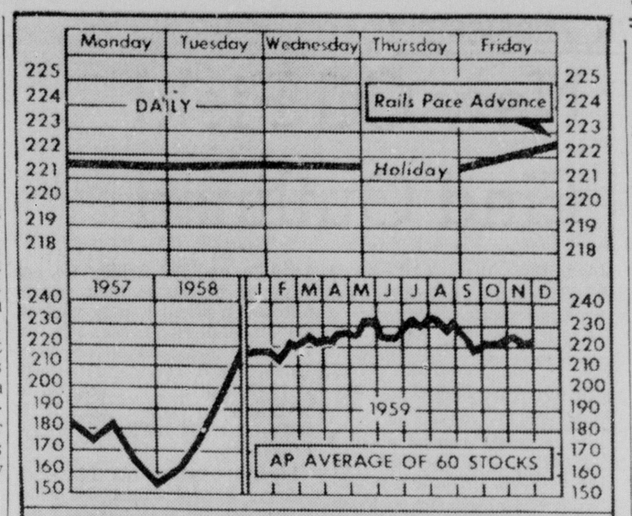
The steel industry worked its production up to an estimated 83 per cent of capacity in the third week since the Taft-Hartley injunction sent striking steelworkers back to the mills.

Finished steel was being turned out faster than had been expected but adequate supplies won't be in the hands of users for several weeks.

Because of steel shortage and the Thanksgiving holiday, the week's auto production dipped to its lowest point of the 1960 model run. November production is estimated at 255,000 cars and 46,000 trucks, compared with 507,530 cars and 93,000 trucks in October.

Chrysler Corp. said it will shut down the last of its assembly plants for one week starting Wednesday because it has run out of steel. General Motors, closed for a month, plans to resume passenger car assembly Dec. 7.

Briefly around the business scene: Small investors start more than 25,000 mutual fund purchase plans each month.... Plumbing fixture prices are being raised five per cent by major manufacturers.... The National Shoe Institute says leather shoe production this year—642 million pairs—will be the largest in history.... Chemical producers expect the industry's 1959 sales to reach a high of more than 24 million dollars.... Sylvania Electric Products, Inc., is making an incandescent lamp small enough to pass through the eye of a darning needle. It's used in transistorized circuits in missiles, computers and electronic systems.... A 30-year high for interest on short-term governmental borrowing was set when two billion dollars in 320-day notes were sold at an average rate of 4.860 per cent.... Home building starts in 1960 are estimated at 1,200,000, off 11 per cent from an expected 1,350,000 this year; tight mortgage money is blamed.



STOCKS ADVANCE — The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced last week to 222.5 from 221.7 a week earlier. Led by livestock, the commodity index moved slightly higher to 169.7 from 196.6 in the preceding period. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

TO FARM PROBLEM

Many Searching For Solution

WASHINGTON (AP)—A lot of people are on a search for a solution to the seemingly insolube farm problem.

Once more, agriculture is troubled with declining prices and income, with technological advances forcing severe rural adjustments and controversies flourishing over just what the government should do.

Often in the past, temporary solutions and answers have been provided by farmers themselves through their big national organizations.

Many have been the times when these proposals took perplexed politicians off the hook.

But the way things are going now, the farm organizations offer the solution seekers little hope for 1960. Divisions of viewpoints and conflicts over farm aid proposals, have put these groups into conflicting camps.

When Congress reconvenes in January, it will be confronted with sharply divergent recommendations from farmers' own organizations.

What most politicans would like to know is: should the government try to manage the national economy in behalf of armers, and if so, in what way and how far?

The Eisenhower administration wants to get the government out of agriculture except for providing (1) a minimum degree of price protection against market collapses, (2) research and (3) assistance in developing new markets.

The strong American Farm Bureau Federation has espoused a similar policy in recent years, although it was at one time a major proponent of strong government controls and price supports.

The federation holds its 1959 convention in Chicago Dec. 13-17. It is expected to adopt resolutions reaffiriming its stand against government - in - agriculture. However, there have been rumblings of dissent in some Midwestern corn belt states. A new federal corn program, supported by both the administration and the federation, has allowed the production of a stupendous corn crop.

The National Grange's recent convention at Long Beach, Calif., declared that "glib talk" about the government getting out of agriculture is "tantamount to inviting disaster."

The Grange re-endorsed its previous recommendations that Congress grant farmers power to set up and run "self-help" programs designed to stabilize their prices, incomes and farm supplies.

The National Farmers Union earlier this year re-affirmed its support for a sharp reverdal in federal farm policies to provide much higher prices for farmers, through use of stronger price support loans and government payments.

Pointing to government reports that farm income this year is the lowest in 17 years, the union recently described the administration-farm bureau programs as gigantic failures.

The National Milk Producers Federation, at its recent convention here, stood firm for its recommendation of a self-help program for stabilizing dairy prices. This program, which is opposed by both the administration and the Farm Bureau, would employ assessments on producers and production controls to handle surpluses and to prevent over-production.

Various other commodity, reginal and state farm groups are coming up with their own pet proposals. Many of these run counter to those advanced by the big national farm organizations or the administration.

OIL ENTERPRISE

Formalities Set For Co. Formation

HOUSTON (AP) — Formalities will be completed Tuesday for formation of the nation's largest oil company.

Standard Oil Co. (New Jersey) is placing all its domestic producing, refining, and marketing operations under one affiliate.

It will take months to complete the long series of complicated mergers but the huge new operating company becomes a reality Tuesday when Jersey Standard stockholders vote approval.

As a result, a name long familiar to Texas highways gradually will begin appearing throughout Jersey's marketing area that embraces about 30 states. Humble Oil & Refining Co. will become a nationwide operator, refiner, and marketer.

Humble stockholders approved Wednesday. The one-side votes were not surprising in that Jersey held 98.27 per cent of the common stock of the Houston-based affiliate that only recently expanded its marketing operations into New Mexico and Arizona after confining such activities since 1917 to Texas.

Jersey obtained half interest in Humble in 1919 for 17 million dollars. Humble assets at the end of 1958 exceeded 1 1-3 billion dollars.

Under the reorganization plan, Humble of Texas is being replaced by a new Humble of Delaware. The new Humble Oil & Refining Co. was incorporated in Delaware Sept. 4, two days after Jersey officials announced the reshuffling plans.

Four other affiliates will be merged into the new Humble. They are Carter Oil Co., producer-refiner-marketer in the Midwest and Rocky Mountain areas; Esso Standard Oil Co., refiner-marketer in Louisiana and along the East Coast; and Oklahoma and Pate oil companies, marketers in the Chicago-Milwaukee areas.

For the time being each of the five affiliates will operate under its present name as a division of the new Humble.

The new company will lead the nation in oil production and refining. It will own over 22,000 service stations and Jersey officials are confident the new nationwide operations will place Jersey in a stronger competitive position among other coast-to-coast marketers.

Humble and Carter last year produced over 406,000 barrels of oil daily. Texaco Inc. had a United States average of 386,000.

The refining capacity of the new Humble will be 953,000 barrels a day. Among the leading rivals, Texaco's domestic refineries last year processed 598,651 barrels a day, Gulf 485,034.

Socony Mobil Oil Co. also is in the process of merging its domestic subsidiaries. The resulting Mobil Oil Co. has a refining capacity of 737,000 barrels a day. Its oil production last year was about 250,000 barrels daily.

JONESBORO (Special) — On Tuesday Night at 6:30 all employees of Contenential Can Corporation of Hodge, La., with 25 years service and above were honored with a banquet held in the Jonesboro-Hodge high School Cafeteria. Also invited were retired "veterans."

After the invocation by Dallas Henry, safety director, a bounteous meal was served from beautifully decorated tables, by a number of prettily dressed High School Seniors.

A Veterans' Club was organized, with officers chosen according to the length of service.

Chairman, L. A. Cousins, Sr., 45 years; vice-chairman, Harold Leppich, 40 years; secretary-treasurer, A. A. Arsenault, 35 years; sentinal, V. J. Stewart, 35 years.

Stock Mart Pulls Gain Out Of Hat

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market this week pulled a modest gain out of the hat—the first advance in four weeks.

The upside edge was due entirely to a fair-to-middling rally on the session after Thanksgiving Day. The market was closed for the holiday.

Out of the welter of tax loss selling, switching and reinvestment enough confidence was born late Friday to give the backward rails and oils an advance even while tobaccos were taking it on the chin due to the government's new warning which linked smoking with cancer.

Some of the Wall Street experts were saying that today's tax loss victims were cheap enough to be likely prospects for an advance in 1960 and traders went for this theory.

Meanwhile the missile and other space age stocks did nicely, some posting big gains. A phenomenon of the week was a 30-point gain Friday by Fairchild Camera, a "glamour" issue on the American Stock Exchange which is thinly held. The stock posted a net gain on the week of 32⅛ to close at 283.

Of the 1,404 issues traded, 677 advanced and 574 declined. New highs for the year totaled 65 and new lows 135.

Volume for the four-day trading week was 13,668,631 shares. The average daily turnover of 3,417,157 was a shade below last week's average.

On the bond market, turnover fell to $25,993,000 par value on the New York Stock Exchange for the four-day week from $35,313,600 a week ago and $27,709,000 a year ago.

The Dow Jones industrial average advanced 6.96 to 652.52, putting it on the way out of a widely-heralded resistance level in the area of 650 or so. There was no particular conviction, however, about the movement this week.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks posted a small gain of 80 cents to $222.50.

The most celebrated stock of the week was Curtiss - Wright which drew upon itself an investigation by the Securities & Exchange Commission. The stock was strong Tuesday and early Wednesday on news of its new lightweight internal combustion engine; but midway through the Wednesday session came news the company had declared a drastic cut in the dividend. This wiped out a gain of more than 5 and left the issue with a fractional loss.

The SEC stepped in to see why these two pieces of news were so closely timed, leading to gyrations in the stock. Curtiss-Wright renewed its advance Friday, closing the week with a net gain of 4½ at 36½.

See Upheaval As Basis Of Delinquency

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

If churches want to do something about juvenile delinquency, they should approach the problem realistically. Sentimental and superficial programs may ease the consciences of church members, but they do more harm than good to distrubed children.

That advice comes from Dr. Edward E. Thornton, professor of pastoral care at the Institute of Religion, Houston, Tex. Dr. Thornton has made an intensive study of the failures and frustrations which churches often encounter in their attempts to help delinquent children. His findings, reported at a recent Southern Baptist youth counseling conference, are equally applicable to other denominations.

The first step toward effective church work in this field, Dr. Thornton said, is to abandon any moralistic or "punitive" approach to delinquent youth.

Social scientists have amassed abundant proof, he said, that juvenile delinquency is not willful wickedness, but is "a symptom of emotional disturbance" in children who have been starved of parental love in the earliest years of life.

Loving the unloved is supposed to be the church's specialty. But it is neither easy nor simple to "communicate love" to disturbed children who have known nothing but hate and rejection. The task calls for "creative imagination" and "the courage to face facts."

One of these facts is that "the emotion disturbance which begets delinquency is deeply set in the child's personality by the time he is eight years old." And the crucial factors in causing it are not the neighborhood, not the school, not a lack of church attendance, but the child's own immediate home environment and particularly his relationships with his parents.

This means, Dr. Thornton said, that churches must "find a way to reach pre-delinquent children between the ages of 5 to 8." And in searching out these children, they must look beyond "the little white cottages of suburbia" into the urban slums where poverty, overcrowding and broken homes vastly increase the likelihood of a child's being deprived of parental love.

When can a church do for these dispossessed children once it has established contact with them? It depends on how far they have drifted before they are found.

"All of the traditional ministries of the church" — including Sunday schools, youth activities, summer camps, recreational centers and sports programs — can be useful in giving pre-delinquent children the acceptance, love and understanding which is lacking in their home lives.

The so-called "sponsorship" plan, under which adult church members try to establish direct personal ties of friendship with individual children, can also be very helpful to pre-delinquents and even to first offenders and probationers.

But none of these measures will do any good for children who have already become "hard-core delinquents," Dr. Thornton said.

"The seriously disturbed child disrupts group activities so completely that their value is cancelled out both for the group and for the troubled child himself." And he can't be reached by an adult sponsor, because he has learned to "play along in the game of comradeship with adults," manipulating them to his advantage, but never letting them have any "real influence" on him.

What the hard-core delinquent needs, Dr. Thornton said, is not an adult pal, and not wholesome recreation, but "therapy."

"Some public and private agencies are pioneering in the creation of institutions which are truly therapeutic communities for the rehabilitation of seriously disturbed children," he said. "But churches, despite their vast outlay for orphanages and hospitals, have so far done very little in this particular field of great need."

Beyond all of these measures, Dr. Thornton concluded, church members have a responsibility as "voting citizens" to work aggressively for basic social reforms—slum clearance, housing projects, welfare services, better schools and so on — that will help to stabilize stress-torn urban families and give their children more hope for the kind of home life they need.

Son Slashes Mother In Classroom

PARIS (AP)—A young man entered the classroom of his schoolteacher mother Saturday, police said, pulled out a razor and slashed her throat before the eyes of 40 grade school pupils.

"Don't kill me, the children are here," the mother was said to have cried when she saw her son.

The youth was identified as Jacques Estudier, 22. He waited quietly for police to arrive to arrest him after the attack. The mother, Marthe Clusaz, 42, was rushed to a hospital in a serious condition.

The school's gate guardian said Estudier seemed nervous and upset when he arrived at the school and asked where his mother's room was located.

IN MISSISSIPPI

New Oil Field Find Outlined

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — A new oil field find seems assured in Hancock County.

The pool opener is Marshall R. Young's No. 1 Jordan Acres, which tested 100 barrels per day. The wildcat is in section 35, 7 south, 15 west, located about 8 miles northwest of Bay St.Louis.

The operator perforated a zone at 10,236-96 feet and the oil tested 35 degrees gravity.

The nearest producing area to the discovery is the Ansley Field of Hancock County, located about 10 miles southwest of the new well.

Gulf Coast Drilling and Exploration Co. has officially completed its Walthall County wildcat, the Magee No. 1, sec. 34, 2 north, 12 east, located three miles west of the Dexter field. The well pumped 160 barrels of oil per day from a sand in the lower Tuscaloosa at 9,780-83 feet.

California and Tidewater are below 10,300 feet in their Felder No. 1, sec. 32-4n-9e, and Larco Drilling Co. is at 10,460 feet in its Wood Guyton No. 1, sec. 15-2n-8e.

Monterey Oil, Kern County

He went to the room, entered after a warning knock, and strode straight toward his mother.

She screamed to the children to leave and then made her short plea to her son.

Some of the children—all girls 6 to 8 years old—rushed for the door but most of them watched and screamed. Help arrived quickly from adjoining rooms.

Police gave no motive for the attack. No charges were filed immediately.

Land Co. and Jett Drilling Co. are below 11,000 feet in their closely watched Walthall County wildcat, the Thornhill No. 1, sec. 5-3n-10e. The venture logged oil shows of undetermined commercial worth at 10,476 feet and is scheduled to be drilled to 13,500 feet. It is about 12 miles northwest of Tylertown.

In the Gitano area of Jones County, Nelson Gibson is below 11,200 feet in his wildcat, the Raspberry No. 1, sec. 15-9n-13w. The well logged asphaltic oil shows at 10,792-812 feet and is scheduled to go to 13,500 feet.

In the recently found McComb field of Pike County, Sun Oil is perforating and testing its Gillis No. 1, sec. 15-3n-7e, after logging oil sand. Sun is below 10,400 feet at its Sinclair No. 1, sec. 11-3n-7e, and Sun and Hughes are below 10,000 feet in the Andrews unit No. 1, sec. 14-3n-7e.

In Jeff Davis County, Gulf Coast is moving in a drilling rig at its wildcat, the J. W. Hathorn No. 1, sec. 20-6n-17w, located near Bassfield. The venture is scheduled to go to 10,000 feet.

In Yazoo County, Larco Drilling Co. is below 9,900 feet in its closely watched wildcat, the Gooch Brothers Lumber Co. No. 1, sec. 31-10n-4w, located near Satartia. The well has logged oil shows of undetermined commercial worth.

Field drilling during the past week saw one new oiler completed as a dual producer.

In the diamond field of Wayne County, Southern States Oil Co. completed its Weaver No. 1, sec. 1-9n-7e, flowing 288 barrels of oil per day from a sand at 10,278-87 feet. A second sand at 9n404 feet pumped at the rate of 182 barrels daily.

Abandoned wells were

Adams County — John Callon George Armstrong No. V-1, sec. 9-6n-4w (wildcat) dry at 7,000 feet.

Copiah County — Lone Star Producing Co. Southern Package Corp. No. 1, sec. 1-10n-7e (wildcat) dry at 12,506 feet.

Monroe County — Hyco Oil Co. J B., Snow No. 1, sec. 27-13s-7e (New Hope field) dry at 4,803 feet.

AT PARAMOUNT

Outstanding Cast In Picture Here

One of the year's most important pictures, starring Gary Cooper, Rita Hayworth, Van Heflin and Tab Hunter, the William Goetz production of "They Came to Cordura" opens today at the Paramount Theatre. In CinemaScope and Eastman Color, the time before World War I, when a U. S. expeditionary force had swept into Mexico in pursuit of Pancho Villa and his men.

Cooper plays a U. S. Army officer who, because he believes himself a coward, is obsessed with the need to learn, what makes a man or woman brave. He himself had escaped courtmartial for cowardice only because his father had been a famous general. Relieved of his combat command, Cooper in further punishment is given the assignment of selecting, and bringing to the rear base at Cordura, five potential Congressional Medal of Honor winners. With his five heroes, Cooper must also escort to Cordura the lovely Miss Hayworth, who has been accused of treason. The desperate trek bares the real nature of all seven.

The stars of "They Came to Cordura" are superbly cast, according to an enthralled Hollywood. Mr. Cooper, who won an Academy Award for his performance as the heroic "Sergeant York," reportedly appears here in sharp contrast as the major who doubts himself. Miss Hayworth is said to provide a character study far removed from her usual "glamour" roles. Van Heflin is seen as the sergeant with an eye on Rita and Tab Hunter as the young officer who cracks under pressure. The remaining stars are equally fine, with Richard Conte as the corporal who helps Heflin in his skulduggery, newcomer Michael Callan making an auspicious screen bow and Dick York as a soldier who suffers the loss of an ear.

"They Came to Cordura" was written by Ivan Moffat and Robert Rossen from Glendon Swarthout's best-selling novel. Rossen directed the Goetz-Baroda production.

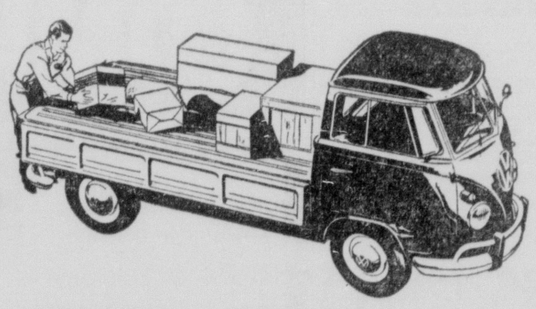
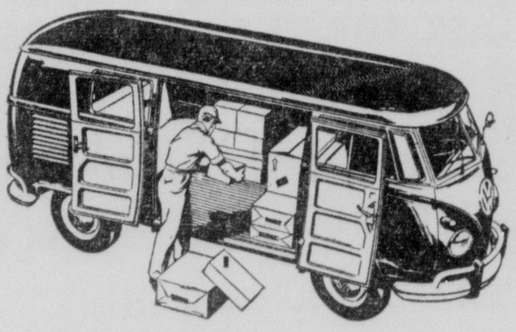
WHICH VOLKSWAGEN TRUCK CAN DELIVER THE GOODS FOR YOU?

PANEL TRUCK. Delivers 1,830 lbs. in 170 cu. ft.—80% more capacity than trucks costing $300 to $700 more. Loads through rear door and double side doors. Like all Volkswagens, it will deliver twice the gas, oil, tire mileage of usual ½-ton trucks. No other panel truck like it! Price: only $1895 P.O.E.



PICK-UP. Delivers 1,764 lbs. on a 45 sq. ft. loading floor—plus 23 cu. ft. in an inside weather-tight locker. Its hinged sides drop down to form a flat-bed. Or, with optional stakes and tarpaulin, you can convert it to a van. Loads easily at platform level. Comfortable 3-seater cab. Price: only $1885 P.O.E.



KOMBI. Delivers 9 people on 3 comfortable seats, or 1,786 lbs. of goods. (Takes only minutes to remove two rear seats.) Or 6 people plus a big load. SIX PASSENGER PICK-UP. Delivers full load of supplies, plus a crew of 6. Also, the rear seat is quickly removable to provide sheltered space for an additional 450 lbs. of cargo. Like all VWs, it has rugged unitized construction and the famous air-cooled rear engine. Price: only $2150 P.O.E.
